Head of Kitchener Firm Tells Foremen's Club What Canada Would Like to Have in 1960's

What do Canadians want in the 1960's?

Carl A. Pollock, president of Dominion Electrohome Industries Ltd., Kitchener, last night gave his opinion of what Canadians want when he addressed the semi-annual Ladies' Night banquet of the Quinte District Foremen's Club. More than 150 members and their wives attended the banquet in the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Mr. Pollock believed Canadians want higher wages, a better standard of living, steady employment, and instead of buying imported goods they really want to buy Canadian and to export more manufactured products, not chiefly raw materials.

"We want our own Canadian economy, not one owned by foreign investment," he said. "We want Canada to prosper with a free and independent nation and never become a satellite of another power. We want our children and youth to stay here, not go away to build other countries."

Canadians, he believed, have few real objectives. "There is no profusion of confusion in Canada."

Canada's basic goals should be more clearly defined, he said.

"Of one thing I am sure," said Mr. Pollock. "We have borrowed funds from the United States to finance our debts. We have many foreign-owned plants and investments and we have borrowed ingenuity from other lands in the form of immigrants.

He said James E. Coyne, governor of the Bank of Canada, believes Canadians enjoy the second highest standard of living in the world, but it's too bad they can't afford it. Mr. Coyne suggested Canadians should do more for themselves and promote progress at a slower pace.

Mr. Pollock said:

"Other well-known Canadians," he said, "say that Canada has been developed spectacularly progress and that while some problems may exist, they are minor ones to sit out and some day the country will be able to pay off its debts to the United States and will cease to finance new Canadian factories.

"These divergent views tell that we are experiencing enormous growth pains. They be said.

"We are living in a new world with no longer can we rely upon the sky' like we could after the Second World War now that competition is what it is."

He suggested that the 'pie in the sky' was being confused in the ads where workers in the automobile industry earn $2.50 an hour compared with 94 cents an hour in the U.K. and 76 cents an hour in Italy, the Germans and Italians in the textiles industry earn 60 cents an hour in the U.K. and 14 cents an hour in Japan.

In his opinion, Canada should slow its progress to a pace its economic organization can match.

"Instead of going off in all directions at once, we should concentrate our wealth and consolidate the gains we've made," he said.

During the past decade, outside interests have moved into Canada in such an extent that today 90 per cent of this country's industry is U.S. owned. Of that, the U.S. controls 50 per cent. He feared this might happen due to these industries if another depression struck before they were well established. He said that other international financial crisis in the near future, the fall of these new companies would seek to consolidate themselves, close their branches abroad and throw thousands of people out of work.

MAKE MORE DIFFICULT

"From now on," he said, "corporate entries into Canada should be made more difficult. We should be more choosy, yet we should make corporate entry easier if Canadian shareholders have a fair bulk of the company's capital."

Canada should process more of its raw materials instead of shipping to export them as raw materials of little employment value.

Quotas should be established on imports from low-wage countries, such as Japan, which threaten Canada's exports to Canada since 1954, Canada's imports have increased by 138 per cent and the U.K.'s 52 per cent.

Mr. Pollock suggested that the federal government should consider giving tax incentives to new manufacturing. If a manufacturing employs one out of four persons in the labor force, he said, more Canadians are employed in manufacturing than in primary industries in agriculture, mining, fishing, forestry and construction.

Mr. Pollock, who spoke for 45 minutes, was introduced by Bill Campbell and thanked by Jim Danjelsh.

Club president Clarence Lange's sheer chaired the banquet and Harold Knapp proposed a toast to the ladies. Mrs. Pollock responded and the ladies rose and toasted the gentlemen with "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow."

A bouquet was presented to Mrs. Pollock on behalf of the club by Stu Hill.

AWARDS GIVEN

Rev. Harry Davis of Bridge St. United Church gave a series of awards and presented the badges he hoped the Foremen's Club did not have to use for one which says every man has his price.

"This is a day of high specialization," he said, "but there is one type of person who is very specialized. He is the cynic. He thinks every man has his price. He is the type who will sell out his neighbor at the drop of a hat, did the opposite in this saying can be blown higher compared with 94 cents an hour in the U.K. and 76 cents an hour in Italy, the Germans and Italians in the textiles industry earn 60 cents an hour in the U.K. and 14 cents an hour in Japan.

School Attendance During October Was at High Level

October enrollment at Belleville public schools was an even 4,500 pupils as compared with 4,282 registration of October, members of the school board were told at their November meeting Monday evening.

School attendance during the month was at a high level of 96.26 per cent with only one school below 85 per cent. A low incidence of illness was given as the reason for the high attendance. Last year the October attendance was 96.83 per cent.

Teacher health was also good with only 32 teaching days lost during the month by more than 130 public school staff members.

The school board was in receipt of a letter from the Belleville School Trustees Council drawing attention to the fact that trustee honoraria are expected to conform to the code of ethics.

Two of the points covered in the code are not to solicit votes for candidates, teachers prior to March 11, and not to seek interviews with teachers during election periods.

PAYMENTS APPROVED

Progress payments to the Hugh Murray Construction Company for construction of school additions at Prince Edward and King George Schools were approved. The amount approved for the King George School was $9,831.94 and at Prince Edward $10,062.95.

Exterior walls and roofs are completed at both schools and interior work is now progressing.

Construction is also proceeding favorably at the new Harry J. Clarke School on the general contractors having the foundation walls completed.

Closing of an open ditch at the Prince Charles schoolgrounds and replacement of concrete steps leading to the main entrance at Queen Mary School, have also been completed.

The board approved an expenditure of $235 for reconditioning of 11 band instruments used by the school bands.

Sale of deeds for a laneway and small parcel of land north of the Bell Telephone Co. has been acquired by the board, for $1,000 and will be used for playground by the board. The site is now being fenced by Mackenzie Fencing.

A final statement for general expenditures for the Belleville public schools for this year was received by the board. The estimate for the year is $233,077.45. The figure for last year was $224,153.53.

Earlier in the year the Belleville Public School Board asserted that the legislature grant for this year would be no less than that of last year.

If Lost in Woods Don't Panic Kiwanis Club Members Told

If you become lost in the woods don't panic.

That was the advice given Thursday night by Bill Gordon of RCAF Station Trenton when he told members of the Kiwanis Club about the RCAF's search and rescue organization.

Mr. Gordon, a member of Kingfisher Lake, Sask., is on the staff of 102 Composite Unit at Station Trenton. He has been in the bush beside a plane crash near The Pas, Manitoba, and knows the ill effects.

"The lad was probably too young to know anything about panic," said Mr. Gordon.

When he heard the revelvet of word that someone is lost or that an airplane is missing, search and rescue of four RCAF rescue coordination centres in Canada immediately start work originating a scientific search. Co-ordination headquarters are located at Vancouver for the area west of the Rockies and far out on the Pacific, Winnipeg for the area east of the Lakehead to Quebec City and at Halifax for the area east and Atlantic. Each headquarters is also responsible for search operations in areas of the Canadian north.

TRANSPORT CUMMAND

At Station Trenton, as at the other co-ordination centres, the search and rescue organization comes under the jurisdiction of Air Transport Command. Planes are allowed 30 minutes during the daylight hours to get airborne and on their way to the search area, and one hour during after-dark hours.

"However, we at Trenton have always been able to get airborne in less than one hour during off-duty hours," said Sgt. Glyndon explaining that standby search crews must be ready to fly from their homes.

"Each member of a para-rescue team is specially qualified parachutist," he said. Sixteen parachutists including himself are stationed at Trenton and each has taken an intensive course in survival, first-aid, jumping, mountain climbing, Hugh Murray Construction Company for construction of school additions at Prince Edward and King George Schools were approved. The amount approved for the King George School was $9,831.94 and at Prince Edward $10,062.95.

Council Meets To Settle Right-of-Way

DESERONTO — A special meeting of the town council on November 15 was held to discuss the right-of-way over the Mareck property on the bay shore. The road gives access to the pump house and hydro substation. The road however is south of the proper road allowment and crosses the property of Mr. Mareck. He offered the town to use their own road. Mr. Mareck advised the town that the government signed the Rathbourn Co. in 1907 was for horse vehicle only and not for public use. Council are obtaining a copy of the agreement from the Registry Office.

At the court of revision on November 16, the road reflected the assessment on the property of T. F. Stevenson to $45. They also reduced the building assessment of William Higgins to $1,550 and gave a rebate of the business assessment for the Stubbs property to Miss Pelkey. They confirmed the business assessment of Ernest Hay. They moved that tax arrears to the amount of $853.80 be stricken from the roll.

At the regular meeting on Monday night council moved to the police committee, a request from James Kay for a street light on Dundas St. They filed letters from Consumers Gas Co. and the Department of Planning and Development. A request from Mr. Wm. Pelkey for gravel theread as Mr. Fingleading to his farm was likewise discussion. Councillor Lott thought the town should gravel theread as Mr. Fingland had done the grading. Councillor Spence was of the opinion that the town could not spend money on any road one side the corporation and should only gravel that portion within the town. The motion finally passed was that, when finances permit the town would apply gravel on the laneway as far as North St.

A letter from Cecil Smith asking for a street light on Park St. so he could have service in the house he is building also brought out quite a discussion. Councillor Howard asked if the public utilities and council that the utilities had been asked him to do the digging. The matter was referred to the the utilities.

Two by-laws for the sale of property were passed; one to Ellen MacKay and one to T. F. Stevenson.

Councillor Howard, reported to council that the repairs to the fire pump that the American Mach. Co. had asked $1,000 for had been done by a mechanic for less than $100.00.

As the motion passed at the last meeting did not state who was to meet with the plumbing inspector council decided that they would meet with him as committee of the whole council on Tuesday night at 7.30 to discuss the complaints received by R. Marks.

On request of councillor Howard a motion passed taking over the roadway of the so-called Water St. from Mill St. to Centre St. and from Fourth St. to Centre St.

An honorarium of $5 per meeting exclusive of committee meetings for each councillor was passed and a grant of $150 to the mayor because of his extra expenses.

Councillor Detlor voiced the complaint of some of the people regarding the curfew and asked that should the given the fact that children going or coming from an organized meeting or sport such as the show, skating rink, school meeting etc. on would not be prosecuted. The law is to be enforced to prevent the loitering, that was being done until the late hours of the night by some of the younger. Apparently some of the rougher elements had been in the habit of congregating until almost midnight and sometimes later in area where they disturbed others.

Revision Court Considers Several Appeals

TRENTON — The 1960 court of revision met last night after a week's recess. A number of cases where businesses had been closed sometime during the year were considered.

Robert Graham, representing the Imperial Oil Co., appealed the business tax on a garage and service station at 101 Dundas St. West. The court told Mr. Graham that his business was considered "retail", and the business tax was based on assessment.

Eben James, appearing for the Trenton Cold Storage Company, appealed the assessment on one building only. He said that the building was 55 or 60 years old, and that one floor of the three-story building was not used. He said that due to the age and design of this building the company's competitors could do business at one quarter the cost.

Assessor Allan Smith suggested to the court that an "obsolescence factor" could be provided in this case, as well as the "vacancy factor."

A Mr. McEwen, who lived outside the town was the property at 31 Elizabeth St., the court that his assessment bill should have been calculated from Oct. 1, 1960, instead of Sept. 1, as the new house on the property had not been ready for occupancy until Oct. 1. The court warned Mr. McEwen that if his assessment were "moved ahead" to Oct. 1, and a tax rebate given, he might have to pay the board $17.50 because his child had attended school in September and if this month were not covered by the minimum assessment, the board could charge.

Donald Sutherland, representing Ray Fox, appealed several properties. Members of the court will visit the commercial properties involved before reaching a decision.

Lyle Carr appealed the assessment on his commercial property on Front St. He said the rental factor employed by the assessor was too high compared with neighboring stores. Also, Mr. Carr said, he shared a common wall with another store, and the roof on his other had been leaking children and even a dog — play on it. The court will consider the problems involved.

Atkinson Says PUC's Books Are Available

TRENTON—Albert E. Atkinson, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, commenting on the proposed intention of former Councillor Charles Hillton to seek election to the commission this year "to find out why the hydro and water rates have risen, even this year, and to find out what can be done to check this trend," said in a statement today that Mr. Hilton did not necessarily have to become a member of the commission to learn the facts in the case.

"The commission's books are open to Mr. Hilton, or to any other town citizen," Mr. Atkinson said. "Ontario Hydro increased its power rate to the town, and recommended that we pass the increase on to the consumer. As this increase amounts to only a few cents in the case of the domestic user, it seemed more sensible to handle the increased cost to the commission in this manner than for the hydro section of the utility to go in the red. The provincial commission made an extensive survey of this area and made certain recommendations to the Trenton commission. We, in turn, tried to come up with the rate most agreeable to the consumer. Mr. Hilton, if he were handled in the same way and for the same reasons. The domestic consumer hasn't suffered undue in either case. All members of the commission agree that it was better to pass a small increase on to the domestic, industrial and commercial users than to run either department of the utilities at a deficit."

Mr. Hilton last week announced his intention of seeking election to a seat on the commission. Mr. Atkinson will be re-election this year because his term has expired.

Frankford Girl Will Lead Santa's Parade

TRENTON — Youthful horsewoman Della Post of Frankford will lead the Santa Claus Parade here, this year. She will ride her high-stepping steed in front of a long line of colorful floats to the music of three Trenton and district bands.

With just 17 days remaining until the parade date of Dec. 10, Chamber of Commerce officials continue to answer enquiries about entering the annual Christmastime procession.

Parents who make it a point to take their children to this event would be wise to get to vantage points early this year if enthusiasm among the entries is an indicator, the Chamber said.

Three more floats have been assigned space, bringing to 15 the number of displays so far listed for exhibition. The newest entries include Trenton Memorial Hospital, the Lions Club and the Public Utilities Commission.

West Scores Hard-Fought Win In Seating Premier Kasavubu

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The Western allies scored a hard-fought victory Tuesday night when the general assembly voted by a wide margin to give the crisply United Nations Congo seat to President Joseph Kasavubu.

The vote of 53 to 24 with 19 abstentions marked a bitter defeat for the Soviet bloc and many Asian-African countries who had fought Kasavubu's bid for a key every step of the way.

Opponents of Kasavubu tried repeatedly to stall a decision by demands to adjourn the debate or defer any action on the credentials committee's recommendation to seat Kasavubu. But all attempts were voted down.

The ballot climaxed two weeks of debate highlighted by bitter clashes between the United States and Russia. The two powers accused each other of making a cold war issue out of the Congo's political and economic crisis and country to promote their own interests.

Russia has firmly backed Patrice Lumumba, deposed Congo premier, who also sent a delegation to the UN.

SEEKS END OF STRIFE

Kasavubu in a statement expressed hope that the session could meet soon with Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and the UN Congo advisory committee to lay to bring the warring factions together in the new state.

The vote highlighted the widespread split in the African bloc on the Congo.

Nine African states voted to seat the Congo president. They were Liberia, Libya, Somali Republic (Brazzaville), Dahomey, Gabon, Ivory Coast, Malagasy, Niger and Senegal.

Six African states voted against. They were United Arab Republic, Ghana, Guinea, Mali, Morocco and Togo. Seven others — Central African Republic, Somalia, Sudan, Tunisia, Ethiopia, Liberia, and Libya — abstained. Nigeria and Upper Volta did not vote.

The decision to seat Kasavubu received added impact when the 15-member Asian-African conciliation mission decided just before the ballot to delay its departure for the violence-torn Congo, had been scheduled for Tuesday night.

Why Not Multi-Lingual?

We expect that many of our readers found intensely interesting a report in Monday's issue of The Ontario Intelligencer of a debate at a recent meeting of the Belleville and District Home and School Council on the teaching of oral French in elementary schools.

Ought we not perhaps to consider the advisability of our children becoming not merely bi-lingual but multi-lingual?

Impossible? So we would think, who only speak our mother tongue of English, but many of our immigrants give this belief the lie, in the most convincing manner, by their mastery of half a dozen tongues.

It used to be that there were two world languages, English and French, with Latin as one time claiming some consideration.

Today it would appear that the list of world languages will be lengthened, rather than shortened. With the multiplying populations in South American countries — which are expected to have 600,000,000 inhabitants by the end of the century, Spanish must be included. So must Russian, already regarded as useful to specialists in certain specific fields. The Orient can hardly be ignored, with Chinese the most obvious choice.

Why would any person need to speak so many tongues? Children over in our elementary schools may one day travel to other continents as we travel to other provinces—and as our parents travelled to other cities.

Rather obviously, we should not attempt to burden any child with the task of learning the formal grammar of such a number of languages. But would it be impossible to acquaint them with the accents and inflections peculiar to these languages if this were undertaken when they were young and highly imitative? The accomplishments of many of our immigrants are a great that it would not be difficult as adults, deep in the rut of one language, would imagine.

What is needed is not the ability to speak another language with technical perfection, but merely sufficient knowledge to be able to communicate the simplest ideas in that tongue. Given that basic knowledge, the rest could be acquired much more rapidly, if and when the need should arise.

Post-Mortems

U.S. News and World Report, in its latest edition, presents a series of a variety of explanations for the results of the recent U.S. elections. These include explanations from various high-ranking politicians of the result in the presidential voting—but also a series of thumbnail analyses from candidates for the House of Representatives, both winners and losers alike, of the reasons for their success or failure. Some of these explanations are highly interesting.

Some are unbelievably smug. Senator Andrew F. Schoeppel, Republican winner in Kansas—"I am confident we now have a majority in the Senate equally. I stood on my record. Emphasize on protecting the Constitution of the United States."

Stuart V. Nims, Democratic loser in New Hampshire, is factual—"The reason we lost is that there are too many Republicans in New Hampshire."

Some, both losers and winners, made an honest effort to analyze the results. Formula for success from Claiborne Pell, Democratic winner in Rhode Island—"Believe I won by going direct to people. Campaigned personally on foot and in car and had indefatigable assistance of wife. Also worked out my own program, a liberal one, early and campaigned on it, never criticising my opponent and rarely mentioning him." Explanation for defeat by Arthur O. Sharron, Republican loser in Pennsylvania—"I lost 2 to 1 because:
1. Registration 3-to 1 against me. 2. Ten per cent of voters, mostly Negro, on relief. 3. Over 10 per cent on welfare, mostly Catholic." Also Kennedyism had emotional appeal."

Jerome M. Meyers, Republican loser in Pennsylvania, is evidently disgusted—"No party organization at all in many areas, lack of adequate funds, heavy unemployment—and some jokers kept saying, 'We never had it so good'."

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THOSE WHITE FIELDS

We often hear the statement to indicate that he was referring that the fields are white unto harvest. This, of course, is a statement made by Jesus. He was talking with his disciples after the woman he had encountered at the well of Samaria had gone back into the village to spread the news of this man "who told me all things that ever I did." As the white-turbaned men, clad also in white flowing robes, streamed out of the city to see this wonderful person, Jesus pointed to them and said, "The fields are white already unto harvest."

To be sure, grain as it ripens loses its greenish color and becomes a dull white. Jesus may not have been referring to the color of grain stalks when He spoke words to His disciples. But a careful reading of this passage from the fourth chapter of John seems to

Miracles of the Universe
Life on Some Other Planets

By SON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY

ARTICLE 33

It seems possible that there may be over 100 billion billion stars in the universe, of which over 100 million may well possess planets revolving around them that support life.

We can safely assume that in the last article we have left our little earth-like might look like on these planets if it had followed the same pattern as on Earth.

But, suppose life started out as it may have on Earth as algae and then slowly developed into fish. To take advantage of the conditions which prevailed on that one planet (there is quite possible).

Now this gave a foothold it is pretty difficult to stamp out. It may be said that "kill one kill off" does not per cent of it (as man may yet try to prove) but to kill off all life from the Earth, would be very difficult. Life is a pretty tough nut. Take the seeds of Egypt that for over 4000 years lay buried deep in the sands. These have been planted and are reported to have germinated. Some animals can live under fabulous pressures at the bottom of the sea, some plant life can bloom in the snow and lichens grow at the poles.

Yes, indeed — to live appears to be natural law of the whole universe. (But we is to die). If the conditions are favorable with life, life will evolve and once it gets hold, it will cause life to almost any condition. Even man can accustom himself to a hazy existence. Army Cadet Training at BCI Will Be Suspended for Year

Due to lack of interest in the program, army cadet training at Belleville Collegiate will be suspended for one year. It has been decided by trustees of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board.

At the last meeting of the board members approved of a joint cadet corps being operated next year by Belleville Collegiate and Moira Secondary School but it has now been decided that Moira will go it alone on a smaller scale with training at the Collegiate being suspended for the one year.

With Sidney township and the village of Frankford having been admitted to the Bay of Quinte High School District, transportation for close to 218 students from the two municipalities is now being arranged by the board.

Students from both municipalities are now attending Belleville high schools with their education being purchased on a cost basis. As non-members of the high school district the two municipalities have been paying the students' transportation.

Now with their admission to the district effective January 1st, transportation will be arranged by the board. Routes have already been laid out and tenders called. The tenders will be opened at a special meeting of the board to be held Thursday evening.

BAND WILL COMPETE

Members of the Quinte Secondary School Band will go to Toronto early next year to participate in the Kiwanis Music Festival and the high school board has agreed to help defray the cost of the members' bus transportation.

An electrical re-wiring program at the Belleville Collegiate which is expected will eventually bring wiring up to standards required by hydro inspectors has been recommended by Acme Electric.

The initial phase of the work will consist of changing the electric supply panel and installation of safety breakers in the woodshop. The full program is expected to be done over a period of years. The work will be done on a time and material basis.

The idea of a Quinte District Science Fair to be held in one of the three high schools, has been approved by the board. It will be the responsibility of school officials to arrange the program and determine in which school the event will be held.

Although a fairly new thing in this part of Ontario, science fairs are quite widespread in the United States.

Next regular meeting of the high school board will be held on December 13th, instead of on the regular date which would bring it too close to the Christmas holiday period.

AID TO MUNICIPALITIES

The works minister said Parliament will be asked to set aside $100,000,000 for loans to municipalities wishing to construct sewage disposal plants or trunk sewers. They will be repayable over a period of not more than 50 years, the amount being limited to two-thirds of the cost as recognized by CMHC. The interest rate would be "close to" the federal borrowing rate of 4½ per cent.

He said the loans, to be provided for under a new part of the Housing Act, will provide assistance for "those municipal works designed to reduce or eliminate the pollution of Canada's waterways."

Less than one - sixth of Canada's urban municipalities had adequate sewage treatment plants in operation; perhaps two-thirds of Canada's urban population were living in regions where there were seriously polluted sum the waters.

CAN BE GORGIVEN

Dealing with university residences, he said they are needed "if our universities are to fulfill their national function." There would be no objection to amending NHA to provide for loans up to 100 per cent of the cost of a residence, bearing the same interest rate as limited-dividend NHA loans—3¼ per cent. The maximum term would be 50 years.

To encourage urban redevelopment projects, the government proposed to increase the statutory limit on federal contributions to $50,000,000 from $25,000,000.

University Women's Club Hears Talk on Canadian Federation

Mrs. A. S. Morton, the president of the Canadian Federation of University Women, addressed the University Women's Club of Belleville and district, on Monday evening at St. Thomas' Parish House, Belleville.

The theme for Mrs. Morton's talk was, "The Federation from the Presidents Seat," and she said that, although she was constantly in contact with all the clubs by means of correspondence, she found the personal visits most stimulating because each club had a distinct individuality.

Mrs. Morton said that the Canadian Federation of University Women had been founded in 1919 although there had been quite a number of local clubs before that time. After World War I, some university women had felt that a federation would help to promote peace and better understanding, as it could perhaps become a member of an international body. In 1926 the International University Women had been founded with the Canadian federation as one of its foundation members. Last year at the international conference in Helsinki, Finland, the national association of Uganda became the 50th member.

Mrs. Morton said that right from its initial stages the Canadian Federation of University Women has concentrated on better educational circumstances, literature and opportunities for women. Guided by the slogan that "tradition should not be a sofa, but a spring board" the Federation in the last years has tried to progress and improve upon the first resolution taken at the founding meeting in 1919. The Federation now had five standing committees, namely those for 'Education', 'International Relations', 'Libraries', 'Status of Women', and clubs worked in these fields of interest but each club had arranged its program to suit the interests of its members.

On the subject of 'Education', Mrs. Morton said that the Federation regularly awarded four scholarships in Canada and one to the International Federation, which in turn could award it to any of its members. In this way, for example, a student from France could study in America on a scholarship received from the Canadian Federation of clubs were also giving scholarships or awarding high school students in their towns. Many clubs throughout Canada, were at present urging the teaching of French in Public School.

As far as Libraries and Creative Arts were concerned, most clubs took a keen interest in the conditions of their local libraries and were often instrumental in establishing children's libraries. Together with other learned organizations, the Federation was at present urging the founding of a National Library. In various towns the University Women's Clubs tried to further interest in Canadian musical and dramatic artists.

Mrs. Morton said that on the international level, much could be done by interest shown in, and help extended to, university women coming from under developed countries.

The Tri-annual Conference of the Canadian Federation of University Women will be held next year in London, Ontario, and the theme of the conference will be "Ideas Afoot".

Plan Sunday Meeting to Form Orchestra Assoc.

BATAWA — The second meeting of people interested in forming an Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra Association will be held in the Batawa Recreation Hall on Sunday afternoon.

It is hoped that out of this meeting an executive committee will be formed and a committee set up along with a schedule for early preliminary rehearsals.

Wide interest was shown in the first meeting, which was held in Belleville a few weeks ago, when musicians gathered from Belleville, Trenton, RCAF Station Trenton, Stirling and Campbellford. Inquiries have since been received from many other centres in Central Ontario. Many musicians look forward to a place where they can regain play their instruments for their own pleasure and contribute toward a community venture that will mean a great deal to this area.

the weather with the first Tiros, but comparison of the high altitude photos with ground observations made it possible to relate certain cloud formations to cold fronts, storms and other phenomena. NASA scientists said this proves the feasibility of satellite weather forecasting.

Teams of meteorologists were stationed at two key Tiros II ground stations to receive and analyze pictures swiftly. Those considered useful for weather forecasting were to be transmitted rapidly to the national weather centre in Washington, D.C., for distribution.

If this weather eye in the sky works as planned, it could pave the way for an operational network of six or seven satellites which could quickly forecast big storms all over the world. It is believed such a system could be functioning within four or five years.

Tiros II carried seven infra-red sensors to record the temperature of the earth, clouds and oceans below, and to measure the heat balance between the earth and the sun.

Tiros II is 19 inches high and 42 inches in diameter. Its top and sides are spangled with 9,200 solar cells to draw power from the sun for its estimated useful life of three months.

The satellite was aimed to sweep over an area stretching from 56 degrees north latitude to 56 degrees south. In the western hemisphere, this extends roughly from Montreal to Santa Cruz, Argentina.

Deer Hunting in District Was Spotty, Hunters Claim

The 1960 deer season was spotty, as far as locales are concerned, as a fawn's coat.

It was gathered at the well-attended meeting of the Belleville Fish and Game Association held in the Club Casara last night.

Reports of the hunts were given from the floor at the request of President Bruce Kerr. Some said—deer, hunters overpowered. Some got their quota. Others got none. Some saw and shot wolves. Others saw none. Some saw does and fawns. Others saw none. Some got moose and bear. Others got none. Some saw rabbits. So did the rest.

Lieut.-Col. Bill Devern of Wellington told a "story" story. He said he had no luck fishing in the summer and never saw a deer while hunting. But his party, hunting near Westernport, brought home five deer and a moose.

He told of seeing his first moose, a 900-pound cow (after it was shot) and in colorful detail revealed how the party "quartered" the animal and brought it out a mile and a half on improvised sleds . . . by . . . Like other hunters, Col. Devern said the weather was too mild for good hunting.

Ken Miller, seeking deer in the Denbigh district, was brief and to the point.

"For the first time in fourteen years, I was 'skunked'" he said. He blamed pulpwood and other logging activities, bulldozing or roadways, for the lack of deer. "I did see a bear though" he said.

D. McKenna said he "got a look at fourteen deer near Hermont. One of the party shot two last Saturday. When he went to pick up the second one, somebody had helped himself. There was no sign of it. Other than that, nothing".

SHOT TWO WOLVES

Carl Thompson, Belleville Fair president said wolves predominated the scene where he and his party were hunting "You could hear them howl by night and by day too. We saw plenty of them and shot a couple".

Mr. Thompson advocated pressure being brought to bear on the Department of Lands and Forests with regard to organizing a wolf hunt or having poison set for them.

Fg said John McKechnie and Gord Davies would "substantiate" his wolf statement. McKechnie said they got two deer for four. The wolves were more numerous that last year.

Another hunter stated he had not seen a fawn or a young deer shot. "I saw blood and deer hair on the runways where the wolves had been at work".

Gord Cooper repeated the story published last week when his party shooting in the Hastings court district bagged two bears, three moose and 13 deer. He said, there were plenty of rabbits — and wolf tracks.

Shooting in the Bancroft area another hunter said his party had braved five deer, all fawns at Blue Mountains, near Havelock, hunter said his party saw lots of deer. "They were everywhere. We could see them and hear them all the time. We enjoyed.

Three fine door prizes were given. Leland Keitch, Trent Ridge took the shot-gun—snowshoe prize home.

Where does the Volkswagen go in winter?

If a car was specially designed for Canada's rough winters, it would have to be a lot like the Volkswagen. For instance, the Volkswagen has a very high ground clearance—it picks its way through the deepest snowdrifts. And with the engine in the rear, a VW's power is directly over the back wheels. You get for better traction in snow and ice.

But going when it's snowing is only part of this amazing car's story. For example, there's no radiator problem because there is no radiator. Anti-freeze is gone for good. The air-cooled engine starts in a flash even on the coldest mornings.

All vital parts of the VW are well protected: a strong undershield keeps moisture, ice and rust away, thus protecting the car—and the owner's investment.

Some day soon, take a VW for an exciting drive in the snow. You will find that in winter, a Volkswagen goes anywhere you want it to.

A quiet wedding took place in Napanee on Thursday evening, November 5th, when Dr. H. G. K. Pace, pastor of Trinity United Church, united in marriage Helen Hamla Shetler, of R.R. 6, Belleville, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Thompson, to William George McMechan, R.R. 1, Stanningley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McMechan.

The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. McMechan.

Following a motor trip to Western Ontario, the couple will reside at R.R. 6, Belleville.

MASLIN — ROBINSON

CALGARY— Miss Jane-Anne Robinson whose marriage to Ronald Maslin took place in Scarboro United Church completed her bridal gown with an heirloom pearl headpiece which was worn by her mother and her sister, on their respective wedding days.

The Rev. S. J. Wylie performed the double-ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Robinson, Calgary, and the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hicks Ketcheson, United Empire Loyalists' and the late Mr. and Mrs. P. A. C. Maslin, Hove, Sussex, England.

Baskets of white, gold and bronze chrysanthemums and white and golden snapdragons flanked by white tapers decorated the chancel of the church before which the vows were taken in candlelight only.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was preceded down the aisle by six attendants. She wore a toe-length gown of white Chantilly lace with form-fitting bodice fastened down the back to the waist with tiny self - buttons having a V-neckline and short sleeves. Her full skirt was fashioned of tiers of lace and her illusion veil was shoulder-length. Her only jewellery was an opal pendant and earrings which was the gift of the bridegroom. She carried a white Bible topped with white roses and stephanotis from which cascaded white satin streamers.

Autumn tones were carried out in the dresses and flowers of the attendants with Mrs. John Sibley, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, wearing a street-length avocado green organza over silk brocade and Mrs. W. H. S. Robinson, sister-in-law of the bride's emiron, wearing an identical gown in beige. They wore circlet floral headpieces and carried bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums.

The diminutive bridesmaids, Gail Robinson and Susan Clare Sibley, nieces of the bride, were frocked in white organza complemented by avocado green and beige sashes respectively which tied in large bows at the back. Their headpieces were the same as the senior attendants and they carried wicker baskets of golden, bronze and white baby chrysanthemums.

Little Catherine Robinson and Jeffrey Sibley were flower girl and ring bearer. The former's frock matched the gowns of the junior bridesmaids, while Master Scott wore matching green blazer and short white flannels.

Mr. William Kirkpatrick was best man and the guests were ushered by Messrs. W. H. S. Robinson, John O. Sibley, Neville Nettleton Lindsay and Dr. Hugh Gallie.

Miss Dawn Hommy was soloist and H. A. Webester, organist.

Following the ceremony, the bride and bridegroom went to the bride's home on Colborne Crescent where the Girl Guides of the 12th Company were gathered for a farewell to Jane-Anne who had been their captain. Mr. and Mrs. Maslin then proceeded to the reception at the Southern Alberta Old Timers and Pioneers Memorial building.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding

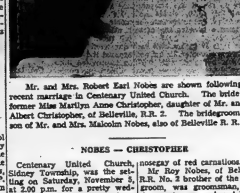
NOBES — CHRISTOPHER



Centenary United Church, Sidney Township, was the setting for the wedding at 2.00 p.m. for a pretty wedding when Marilyn Anne Christopher, of Belleville, R.R. 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Christopher, was united in marriage to Robert Earl Nobes, son of R. R. 2 Bellevile, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Nobes. The Rev. Roy Rickard performed the double-ring ceremony before a lovely background of white lilacs and carnations. The guest pews were marked with white bows.

Miss Eileen Hancock provided the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Merle Christopher, brother of the bride, in his rendition of "The Lord's Prayer" following the ceremony and "I Love You Truly," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her floor-length bridal gown of nylon net over taffeta fashioned with fitted draped bodice having a Sabrina neckline, and waistline accented by the tiny rows of Alencon lace sprinkled with seed pearls and sequins on the re-embroidered lace motifs. The long, tapering sleeves ended in lily-points over the wrists. Her finger-tip veil of nylon net was held with a seed pearl and held by a crown headdress trimmed with rhinestones and seeded pearls. She carried a bouquet of white tulips mingled with red roses.

Miss Helen Hart, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor; Miss Sharon Bush, of Frankford, and Miss Marilyn Nobes, sister of the bridegroom were bridesmaids. The three attendants wore red velvet gowns fashioned on princess lines with small band collars and fitted bodices having "V"-shaped necklines. Sprays of white carnations, Queen's and chin-length veils, held by pearl headbands completed their ensembles. All carried bouquets of white carnations.

The junior bridesmaid, Miss Gail Christopher, sister of the bride was in white organza over taffeta with cummerbund and bow, matching headdress and white gloves. She carried a

The Contact Club of Christ Church met on Monday evening and enjoyed a talk on "Camp Hyanto" given by Mrs. Mary Sharpe. Camp Hyanto is an Anglican Church camp situated at Lyndhurst, Ontario. "Hyanto" is an Indian term, meaning "He who sleeps beneath the pines, sleeps well."

Mary outlined the main aspects of the camp, past, present and future, and told of how the camp has grown over the years through generous gifts and donations. A day at Camp Hyanto is an extremely busy and enjoyable one, for both campers and counsellors. Holy Communion service is held every recess morning "in the outdoors."

There is swimming-and lifesaving instruction, handicrafts, religious instruction, games, nature hikes, campfires and other activities pertaining to which ever age group is present.

The camp was opened in 1946 and dedicated by the Lord Bishop in 1947 and it is interesting to note that the Men's Club of Christ Church were among the first contributors.

Mary told of her experience as counsellor at the boys' teenage camp, which was most interesting.

Following a brief question period Mary explained that an Executive Meeting of Contact Club would be some assistance to Camp Hyanto.

Junn Fisher expressed thanks to Mary for an enjoyable talk.

Following the meeting refreshments were served by hostesses Nadine Burns, Laura Bird and Molly Kerr.

Columnists, Writers Angry Because Indian Woman Not Allowed to Get Hubby Back

By RUKMINI DEVI
Canadian Press Correspondent

BOMBAY (CP)—A big storm is brewing in this country over the last-minute cancellation of the tickets of a woman passenger who was about to fly to the United Kingdom from Calcutta's Dum Dum airport.

Mrs. Madhuri Beriwal, 28, had valid travel documents, including a passport, but police informed her as she was about to board the Air India international plane that she could not go. The reason: Mrs. Beriwal cannot speak English.

What has angered Indian columnists and editorial writers is not the ban on an Indian ignorant of the English language travelling to the United Kingdom. They appreciated that the ban has been necessitated by the large-scale influx into Britain of unskilled Indian labourers.

The real heart of the controversy is the fact that Mrs. Beriwal was flying to London to win back her husband who is reported to be living with what newspapers describe as "a beautiful English girl friend."

"Is ignorance of a foreign language such a disqualification that a devoted housewife should be prevented from flying away her wayward husband and winning back his love and affection?" asks the turbaned Bengali-language journals have asked.

The question is being answered in Indian courts of law.

Mrs. Beriwal, son of a rich merchant and married for several years, left for London to study three years ago after getting a medical degree from Calcutta University. The Beriwal family became worried recently when they did not hear from the 31-year-old London, Ont., student for several weeks. His father then received information that his son had taken up a hospital job and an "English mistress" and planned to settle permanently in the United Kingdom.

It was decided the father and his 26-year-old daughter - in - law should fly to London to make a personal appeal to the young man to return to Calcutta and his 11-year-old son.

They were ready to take off when police informed Madhuri she would have to be dropped out because she did not know English. They said the British government does not want people who do not know English. "The father also stayed behind and the family hopes to make a petition to President Prasad and Prime Minister Nehru.

Meanwhile, the Opposition press in India is making a public issue out of the case and Communist and Peoples' Socialist members in the Calcutta legislature propose to ask questions in parliament.

A Practical Gift

Sterling Silver Forever A Treasured Possession

If you're looking for a Christmas gift that is both elegant and durable — something luxurious yet practical — you may well find yourself thinking of Sterling silver.

In buying Sterling, the facts in this article plus your careful foresight, can help you give your recipient lasting satisfaction (and make a better buy). Unless you are buying the first bit of silver for a newly married couple, for example, for this gift should make you find out what pattern of silver the family has.

In Grandma's day, it was popular to give a dozen forks or spoons as a gift. Today — in our more practical world — the appropriate thing is to give one or more place settings. This way, the gift can be put to use immediately, rather than just accumulated in the silver chest until enough pieces of the right kinds can be put to work.

The popular place setting consists of a place knife and fork, in luncheon or dinner size, teaspoon, soup spoon, salad fork and butter spreader. Each of these is an essential. But among the very useful additions to each place setting is, for example, the second tablespoon. This teaspoons are needed for fruit and coffee at breakfast, for dessert and a hot beverage at luncheon.

If the family likes to serve oysters or shrimp or seafood cocktails, a very desirable addition would be a cocktail fork. A place spoon is one of the most all-purpose pieces you can have because it is the cereal spoon, and is perfect for soups as well as desserts. Other happy supplements are a set of coffee spoons. A table or serving spoon is a desirable addition if you don't want to spend too much. All of these will last for the life of the family and probably be passed on as an heirloom.

In practically every pattern you are likely to find many other useful additions — a butter serving knife, a sugar spoon, a cold meat fork, a gravy ladle, a jelly server, a salad set consisting of a large serving spoon and fork. Be assured your solid silver gift will be very welcome whatever it may be.

LEADS DOUBLE LIFE

If you're a clever shopper and have some sentiment in your buying and dining arrangements, you'll soon uncover a very valuable piece of information. Sterling flat silver often leads a double life. The salad fork may be used as a fish fork, also for firm desserts like pie and cake. A gravy ladle can be used for spooning creamed dishes such as chicken a la king, also for serving dessert sauces.

The petite coffee spoon is useful for feeding baby, for stirring old-fashioned, for serving such things as horseradish, mustard and other condiments.

The flat server is practical for any food hard to balance on a regular tablespoon — like sliced tomatoes, fishcakes, fried eggs, waffles, jellied salads.

The butter serving knife is ideal on the chesstray, for rarebits, games, and jellies, for serving hors d'oeuvres; while the olive or pickle fork may serve lemons, butter pats and the like.

Here are a few more double-use flat silver items: The sugar tongs are at home on the candy dish; the pastry server also serves apples and frozen desserts; the soup spoon can be used for serving sauces; the cold meat fork serves chops and food served on toast, as well, and a variety of platter salads; the iced beverage spoon is fine for milk shakes, mint juleps, fruit drinks.

If you're going to spend a little more and want to buy really valuable contribution to the family silverware treasures, many pieces of hollowware also have extra usage. For example, pepper and salt double charmingly for small flower arrangements on trays or side tables; sugar bowls can serve as cigaret containers or hold violets or other small flowers; sauce boats may serve candy, nuts, olives, or relish.

Serving dishes look magnificent holding fruits and shrubs in flower arrangements. They're nice for sandwiches, ice cream and cold meats, too. Water pitchers are impressive cocktail mixers, or serve as vases for full arrangements of long-stemmed flowers.

SANDWICH TRAYS USEFUL

Sandwich trays are an ever useful addition, for serving salads gracefully, hors d'oeurves and cold cuts, too. Finally, a pepper can be a pleasant and a joy long after baby's cereal is a thing of the past. It holds salt, silver, jelly, candy.

Sterling silver "gets dating" distinguishes the pieces from coin silver, silver plate, nickel silver — which is also called "coin" or "sold" silver. All the first varies in silver content according to the composition of each country's coins. Silver plate, on the other hand, is electrolytically deposited coating of silver on a base metal. It is made in numerous grades and a light coating of silver will wear through in a short time revealing the base metal, while a heavier plating might last for many years. Nickel silver contains no real silver at all, but is used as a base for plated flat silver.

The mark of quality is especially important when purchasing silver marked "weighted". Weighted items, such as candlesticks, are filled with cement or pitch. Your best guide to the quality of the pieces and the thickness of the gauge of the metal is your confidence in the manufacturer.

Of more last importance — the matter of engraving. On patterns that are basically plain, a three-letter monogram will add to the beauty. But if the design of the silver will not permit it, one letter will do. The current practice leans toward the husband's initial. If you use two initials, both the bride's and the husband's may be used together, separated slightly by a small engraved star.

Incidentally, if you've been thinking of a Sterling gift for the members of your immediate family — or friends of the family — why not think of one if others in your home have birthdays coming up soon — and so, perhaps you'll enjoy getting some major family gift — a coffee set or six Sterling goblets, for example — rather than numerous individual gifts.

And when you select your Sterling gift, you can do so, secure in the knowledge that your present will be remembered and greatly treasured for many years to come.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Winning Headliner

By ALICE ALDEN

It's hard to imagine how any daughter of Eve could refuse to avail herself of the flattery of one of the new fall hats. And why only "one?" Shapes are so varied, materials and colors so lovely, that a whole wardrobe of hats is the winning ticket. Young and beguiling is this small, cuffed toque of beaver fabric. In an enticing shade of violet, it sports a grosgrain tab in back and boasts a violet veil. It is a perfect complement for suits and tailored dresses.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counsellors and social workers.

Mrs. P. D. — He's misguidable because he's short.

Donald B. — Don't tell me about Napoleon. Tell the girls!

Mrs. P. B. — Donald has taken to moping around the house and he has us worried. He's 19 and went right from high school into an excellent job as a window-dresser. But he quit last Saturday. He says all his associates are sic-fosters and because he's so short they treated him like a mascot.

He was doing so well at his work. He's bright and very artistic. His teachers saw a big future for him, said he could be a stage designer. But he hardly goes out any more and is terribly down in the dumps.

Short stature happened to run in our family. The sad part of it is the few tall ones we have happen to be girls who wish they were small! But Donald's father and uncles haven't found this a handicap. Neither have Billy Rose or Irving Berlin or millions of other men who are closer to five feet than six.

Donald B. — That job was the last straw. I was the odd ball there. They got so tired bending down to talk to me, they used to pull up a chair first! My mother doesn't understand the agony of a handicap there's no way of correcting.

I was philosophical about my size until the girl I invited to my Senior Prom begged off. From then on I have felt it is a terrible problem. This is a tall man's world. Look at the ads, look in the stores. Do you know that the only suits that fit me are in the children's department! When I go along with my few friends, I look like their kid brother. Maybe in the days of Napoleon, and those other world-beaters my mother talks about, it was nice to be short. Nowadays you stand out like a broken reed.

I'm trying to snap out of this frame of mind. I'll take a new job in a few days, preferably managing a midget show so I can know how it feels to sweep for a change.

The Council — Being small is no handicap to a diamond or a $10,000 bill. Donald, and it needn't be a man with a gold complex of intrinsic worth, packed solidly inside him.

Ignoring the hurts of the past and the present, Donald can muster his strengths and carve a future of dignity and achievement in view of his talents in the arts. He might consider a part-time job with intensive courses in the field which interests him most, whether it's window dressing, stagecraft, costume design or something entirely new.

As he develops his skills and increases his knowledge, Donald will forge ahead in his work and realize suddenly that his associates are oblivious to his height-weight specifications. He'll see the matter of physical attributes in proper perspective, as quite irrelevant in ordinary human dealings.

In his social life, of course, he'll encounter the usual types — those who look people over as though examining race horses and those who look at people as people and take time to look within. From this latter group will come his close friends and, no doubt, the girls he will enjoy dating. Years from now Donald may be surprised to find the guys he used to tag after eagerly tagging after him for the pleasure and distinction of his company.

None of us has anything to do about the frame Nature hands us for our journey through life — but memory itself we must concentrate on. And Donald has stalled briefly on this focus of self-pity.

And yet when we speak of "a man of stature," we're not thinking of his inches at all. We're speaking of the stature that Donald and all men can attain, the kind that rises rather than inherits.

Things even out. There is a law of compensation. Look at transitives, Donald, alongside the weekly meeting. The theme for the evening was "Home Economics."

Mrs. Allan Franks, president, opened the meeting. There were 27 members present.

The secretary, Mrs. Stout, read the reports and correspondence. It was decided to leave the bus trip to a later date as many of the men were going hunting.

In answer to the president's request for reports of standing committees, the public relations officer, Mrs. L. Trotter read a news item of a meeting held by the Department of Agriculture and the Farmers' Union.

Reports of the area convention were given by Mrs. Allan Franks and Mrs. Harry Stout. Plans were made for the school party. Mrs. Trotter was to be convener and Mrs. Wm. Bebee as co-worker. Plans were made for the banquet.

Mrs. Field Allen gave the motto, "Being a Good Homemaker." She stated that home is where a woman displays her personality in her surroundings, a wife and mother is a homemaker, not just a house-keeper.

Home Economics convener, Mrs. Z. Allair gave a short program of readings and a contest on flowers followed.

Madoc Art Class Displays Work at McCarthy Theatre

The Madoc Art Class, under the supervision of Miss Mary Moult, local artist, has for some time displayed a fine showing of 13 paintings at the McCarthy Theatre, and will continue to be on view during the next few days. These include two winter scenes; three of autumn; two of farm scenes; two tree studies, and four others, one of horses in the storm, and three of water scenes.

One of delicate execution was that of a country road in winter, depicting a gracefully curving incline deep with rutted snow and bordered by denuded maples and clusters of evergreens. Soft suggestions of pale pink, edging blue mauve, with touches of blue accent the foreground, while the leaden sky affords a fitting contrast.

The other winter scene shows a well-drawn, steep-roofed red barn backed by tall evergreens amid the snow, and young maples with fleecy pinkish tufts in the foreground, give a pleasing foil to the firmness of the red barn. The shadows are eye-catching in the dirt colouring.

RICH SCARLETS

Rich scarlets and vibrant greens catch the attention in the woodland scene, scarcely seen behind its over-hanging borders of autumne trees, but enough to show the beauteous reflections of the purple, blues, scarlets, greens and delicate pinks in the slow moving waters.

"The Country Fair" was well done, showing white display barns; colourful booths, and many people milling around. Here centre a red and gold maple tree holds the spotlight. Across the fenced-in race course, farm implements cluster on the hillside backed by touches of gold in the surrounding trees. The pale blue-green sky adds a jewel-like note.

The tree studies show a maple in autumn dress, and an elm in late summer or early fall. Both sketches are realistic, and carefully sketched, showing attention to detail, and color appreciation, as well as good composition.

QUIET LAGOON

The water scenes were quite restful; one denoting a cluster of rose pink at rest in a lagoon on a quiet afternoon in early summer. The reeds in the foreground lends added strength and interest.

A especially pretty scene was that of three silver birches, beside the blue, placid waters of a woodland stream. Touches of gold in the green of the distant trees give just the hint of autumn.

"The Coming Storm" is well depicted by the dark, grey-blue of the sky with scudding white clouds; the farmer hastening with the last four sloops of hay for the well-loaded hay-rack, the patient plodding pace of the bay and white horse team — a picture full of interest. One can almost "feel" the anxiety of the farmer as he struggles to toss the last forkfula to their resting place before the storm breaks.

APPEALING SCENE

"Braving the Elements" might be the title of this appealing scene of the mother horse and her young colt, standing with backs to the rain and sleet, with their coats sleek and splotched with wet snow; the distant trees all but hidden in the downfall. It carries one's sympathy for the faithful friend of man, and causes one to hope that the owner will be quick to come to their relief, with shelter and sustaining food. This has been shown before.

"At the Bend of the Road," stands a spacious old Colonial dwelling, quiet in its cream tones, sentineled by tall maples in autumn garb at the foot of undulating hills. The richness of the coloring, the quietness of the scene through which the road runs by," has the appearance of a copy from its lack of any motion, everything is as quiet as "a painted ship upon a painted ocean." The drawing is good, the coloring rich and luxurious.

ENERGETIC SKETCH

One of a rocky shore is a quick, energetic sketch, full of life and color, reflecting the turbulence of the moment, and shows much talent.

"A Woodland Pool" is a pretty quiet picture of almost any pond in a sheltered spot; the waters are calm, and reflections mingled by tall squared rocks of deep-set, foregrounded by tall pink tufted wildflowers. The pure white lily at the edge adds the still prettiness as it rests so peacefully on the greenish bracken waters.

All the paintings are full of interest, showing careful work-good composition, and a fine appreciation of color, and much detail.

Light Fabrics Are Keynote Of Fashions

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters) — Fashions inspired by supple feather weight fabrics are the keynote of the Paris winter collections. Every seasons new silhouettes or every bias cut and retrospective effect there may be, has already achieved with fluid fabrics, contoured close to the body and used without stiffening or lining.

This is the basic secret of today's soft new dresses, with their flowing lines and their easy flow.

Every new, tweed coatings weigh less than eight ounces a yard. Woollen dress fabrics in grain organdy and crepe weaves are seen as sheer as window curtains and are actually as easy to drape.

CROCHET DESIGN

Loosely-woven woollen fabrics for coats, with a hand-knitted or crocheted look, are in the limelight.

At Jacques Heim, there are coatings in lacy patterns with holes large enough to pass a pencil through. At times, knitted tweeds ever gale crash into the evening scene in coat and dress ensembles with gold metal threaded into the weave.

Chenilles and velvet yarn fabrics come in interesting new basket and novelty weaves, as seen in Givenchy's long black siren dinner-dress in velvet Chenille with a raised popcorn stitch. The only trimming on this willowy, unadorned gown will be a wide band of black marten fur around the hemline.

New coatings emphasize flat surfaces with a patchwork or silken shine, replacing high relief and heavy piles. Broody broadcloths, coachman's cloth and doe-skin fabrics with soft, velvety nap share the limelight with wide ribbed coatings which are worked diagonally.

Masterful cutting is seen at Balenciaga. Balenciaga fits treatments with bias checks, plaids, or diagonal stripes. Both these designers have no illusion of reversible coatings, which remain a strong trend in other leading houses. Balmain edges his slender, wrap-around coats with wide bands of diagonal checks, worked in reversible effects.

FRANKFORD W.M.S.

FRANKFORD — The November meeting of the Frankford United Church W.M.S. was held on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Walter Morrow.

The meeting was opened with the hymn, "Fairest Lord Jesus," Charlesworth, after which the president, Mrs. G. McLay, led in prayer and also welcomed both members and visitors. The secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Morrow, gave the financial report.

Mrs. Claude Moran gave a most interesting account of the bus trip to Toronto, which she and several other ladies took with those from King Street Church, Trenton. They visited the Free Victor Mission, the United Church training school and the overseas relief depot.

Mrs. Spencer reminded the ladies of the Christmas tree which is an annual affair and supplied by the ladies of the Dorcas Auxiliary and the W.M.S. to the Mission Band.

A slate of officers was brought in for the year 1961. This was in charge of the Rev. Charles Judd.

PROGRAM

Mrs. Morrow took charge of the program and gave a short meditation, after which her mother, Mrs. Casey, from Belleville, gave the Scripture reading, John 4:18-26. Mrs. Morrow gave a reading entitled "Prayer," written by Padre Sorley.

Mrs. Judd favored with a lovely solo, "You Could Open the Door." An interesting missionary talk was given by Mrs. Carscadden, and she concluded with a lovely story, "A Living Sacrifice." Mrs. Morrissey presented a chapter from the study book, "History of the Early Church." Mrs. Phyllis Rose, who has recently returned home from a trip to Australia and Tahoma, related how thankful she was to be home safely, as their boat was in the midst of a terrible typhoon, called "Hurricane Bessie," and for a while all on board feared they would be drowned.

The Rev. C. Judd closed the meeting.

Mrs. W. Morrow and Mrs. R. Casey served refreshments and all enjoyed a social half hour.

This and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

With your permission, the column today will use "I" instead of the customary "we." This is because the column is about a conference which the first reporter has ever been sent to. These first stories do not report any news item of last week, but are supplementary to the news of the appointment of Mr. Harry Quart as a senator from the Provinces of Ontario.

Many people in Belleville know Mrs. Quart since she spoke here just over five weeks ago at the Provincial Conference of Business and Professional Women's Clubs on her work as Canadian delegate to the Status of Women Commission at the United Nations. She had also been a Canadian delegate to the Geneva Grand Central Station the luggage was very slow in coming up. Maybe it was the people were waiting, among them a very handsome Italian and friendly mien.

Finally banger got the better of me and I asked the feminine half of this couple if she knew where the restaurant was. I was carrying a small overnight case and when the lady directed me to the restaurant, she evidently took me for a date. Suddenly the small town person became wary and remembering that we were people in big cities, so I went towards food, carrying the case with me.

You can imagine that I was a bit embarrassed at the opening session of the Commission to find that my lady-of the station was the Canadian delegate to the sitting. She told me afterwards with a twinkle in her eye, "I knew you would be used after your case."

One of the favorite stories Mrs. Quart tells of herself took place in New York when she was first sent as delegate to the General Assembly. At her hotel, she had been resting and had chatted with a very friendly and popular girl in the dining room. It happened that this girl was also working in the delegates' dining room and the two had lunch together when photographers were taking pictures of Mrs. Quart. The girl sent a copy of the picture for all the fuss and then said to Mrs. Quart, "I don't tell we you are a delegate? Why, honey, I thought you were just a nice woman."

Another of the new senator's quick wit was told to me by Miss Marion Boyer of the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor and who was an advisor in Mrs. Quart at the Commission sessions. The first year, the meeting was held in Geneva, Switzerland, where also was being held at the same time, the Conference of the Big Four on the Sea. This took precedence in the news report the Status of Women Commission and when asked by someone if she were in Geneva for the End of the Sea, she replied, "No, I am here for the Status of Women."

You have very likely read of the many and varied activities with which she has been connected. When I asked her how she kept up with them all she answered: "I have magnificent health. I love people and I have a wonderful husband." Mrs. Quart admits that she has loved governments and politics all her life. Everyone who knows her can immediately see a contribution her ability, her charm, her brightness and her complete personality will make to the Senate and to government circles in Ottawa.

Girls Take a Gander At Man's Tie to Find Out Character of Individual

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Listen girls, next time you see a man wearing a woolen bow tie with a small knot and squared ends, latch on to him.

And if he shows any inclination towards removing the tie, marry him. He's one in a million.

This little nugget of advice comes to you via a new book called Mini Motive and Will, a penetrating study of men's clothes. The author, A. E. Hughes, is a psychologist.

It makes first-class reading for the girl who craves instant identification of male character. All she has to do, it says, is to have a gander at a man's tie.

SHOW FANTASIES

"All the fantasies connected with sexuality can be noted in a man by his attention or lack of attention to his tie," is the author's conclusion.

But that's not all. Sex is only the beginning of necktie psychology.

Take the tieless man, for example. He avoids the neck-wear, says the author, he is showing that his "sexuality is adult." He is displaying his "self-sufficiency, confidence and independence towards life."

It goes without saying, of course, that if he removes the tie in a restaurant he is also a slob.

The next one to consider is the chap who repeatedly adjusts his tie. This, says the author, "comes from an inner compulsion to reassure the wearer that he is the complete man."

MAY LOSE HEAD

This kind of person can be charming and very kind to others but in a situation he tends to lose his head."

Girls should obviously avoid situations with the tie adjuster.

And if he is adjusting a while tie, the problem is even more acute because Hughes says a while tie indicates "moral laxity."

This judgment, incidentally, doesn't apply to a man decked out in tails. If you wear a colored tie with tails you are unmistakably an eccentric.

AVOID THESE

Here are a few other ties to avoid:

The hand-woven silk job—it indicates obstinacy, an unwillingness to part with either money or a point of view, or both.

The big, loose knot—"... Unreliability, tidiness and organization."

The bow tie—"... Worn by individualists."

The tie with a square end—"A person who is extravagant but open to ideas."

The printed silk tie—"Someone who knows the value of money."

Veal Cutlets Europear Style

By Mary Moore

Some of the regulars will recall veal dish I described, after eating it at the "Matrosen" restaurant in Bad Godesburg, when I was in Germany in January of 1950.

This is called Kalbfleisch Cordon Bleu and is a clever "sandwich" of veal with ham and cheese between, crumbed and fried or baked. Yesterday I wanted to serve veal because some cutlets looked so good at the meat counter. I also wanted to give it the rich touch French cooks so cleverly add as in Kalbfleisch Cordon Bleu. I ended up with a combination treatment of French and Italian. This is a company dish. Two pounds of veal cutlets cut 3-8" or 3-4" thick will serve 6 or 7 generously.

FRENCH-ITALIAN VEAL CUTLETS:

2 pounds veal cutlets 3-8" to 3-4" thick, 1 beaten egg, 2 tablespoons water, 1 cup fine dry bread or cornflake crumbs, 1-4 to 1-2 cup grated old Cheddar or Parmesan cheese, 1-2 cup shortening or margarine, 6 or 7 small thin slices cooked ham, 1 cup milk, 1 cup (or 1 7-1-2-oz. can) tomato sauce, 1-2 teaspoon salt, pepper.

Beat egg with water. Mix crumbs with grated cheese, salt and pepper. Cut cutlets into serving pieces to serve your guests — 6 or 7 or 8. Dip piece of meat in egg then in crumbs and brown in the hot shortening in large frying pan on both sides. Top cutlets with slices of ham and sprinkle with remaining cheese. Combine milk and tomato sauce and pour around cutlets. Cover and simmer 25 minutes or until cutlets are tender. Carefully transfer to hot platter and pour sauce in pan around and over them. If desired, garnish with a few sliced sauteed mushrooms.

I served this with eggplant souffle and creamed carrots, individual salads and a dessert called Apples Annadien.

I will give you the recipe for the eggplant souffle because my family enjoyed it so much. Tomorrow I will give you the recipe for creamed carrots — a simple dish, but ever so good — and the new apple dessert.

EGGPLANT SOUFFLE:

1 medium eggplant, 1 medium cooking onion, 2 medium mushrooms, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 eggs, salt.

Wash, slice and pare eggplant and boil in salted water with the peeled and sliced onion until both are soft. Drain very well. Mash. Saute washed and sliced mushrooms in butter until they are limp but not brown at all. Add to mashed eggplant. Beat in 2 egg yolks, then fold in 3 stiffly beaten egg whites. Taste to see if it requires more salt. Turn into buttered casserole and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 40 minutes. Serve at once.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Hagner Shaw

NEW APPROACH TO TEEN- AGE ETIQUETTE

A new idea has been put into effect in a suburb near the city in which I live. It is having such wonderful results that I think it is well worth passing on to others.

A group of parents got together and decided that teaching their teen-age youngsters the sanest approach to good manners" was something that was really needed. So they started a series of Assemblies. Two dances were planned for alternate Fridays and arrangements were made so that they could take place in the largest school auditorium in the vicinity.

Those evenings are divided into two sections: a junior assembly for 7th and 8th graders and a Senior Assembly for 9th and 10th graders. They are limited for about 150 to take part in the two categories. These sets of parents are selected for each party, to act as chaperones. The 'ten parties' are being divided into eight semi-formal affairs and two formal ones.

Dressed in their Sunday best, these young people have so far attended two of these Assemblies. At the first one — the youngsters went because they were told to — the girls were nervous and shy and the boys were afraid of being called "sissy" because they would have to dance with the girls. The second party, which I attended, presented a different picture! The young people were enjoying every minute of it and didn't want to leave when closing time came at 10:30.

The basic reason for all this is that, while they are having fun, proper conduct at a dancing party is being taught by doing — not by being told. There is a big difference.

They have learned that for the semi-formal get - togethers the girls wear soft afternoon dresses, while the boys wear a suit with white shirt and four-in-hand tie. For the two formal evenings, the girls will wear long dresses with short sleeves and a not-too-low neckline and the boys a dark suit, white shirt and black bow tie. The girls should wear short white gloves, but it is not necessary that the boys wear gloves of any kind.

Mr. Joshua T. Cockey, who is a member of the Board of Directors of The Dance Masters of America, is supervising dance direction and the social graces. He will teach the young people how to greet their chaperones and thank them at the end of the evening. The young men are being taught how to ask for a dance — the girls how to accept the invitation. Decorum on the dance floor is also an important part of the instruction.

When a light repast is served during the evening (a fruit punch and cookies), the boys are learning how to serve the young ladies.

All of this takes very little planning, and only a small amount of money, on the part of the parents. By chipping in and co-operating among themselves, these parents are giving their children priceless help towards their future social contacts with others. Pretty wonderful idea, don't you think?

QUESTION AND ANSWER

QUESTION: Please tell me the correct way to assign places for relatives in cars at the funeral of a father, who was a widower. There are three daughters, all single, and one married son, his wife and two teen-age children. This makes seven people. Since a car holds only six, how should they be divided up?

Mrs. A. K. — Chicago, Ill.

ANSWER: Most funeral homes have large limousines that hold seven people (two in front with the driver, three in the back seat and two on the small "jump seats" in the back). This would take care of your problem. If you are unable to get such a car, the solution would be to have the three daughters in the first car, and the son and his family in the second. If you feel that the children of the deceased should not be separated, the son could ride with the sisters, and his family in the other car. I would not worry too much about this criticism that might come from the way in which you finally decide to handle it. Actually, it is entirely up to the wishes of the family.

Your Watch Deserves Care And Attention

Too often the owner of a fine watch is apt to take his precious timepiece for granted — and forget to bring it to his good friend, local jeweller, for a necessary periodical check-up and clean.

A periodical cleaning of your watch is a "time" saver in two ways. The spiralman not only removes dust or dirt that might have sifted into the movement, he also removes congealed, dirty oil.

Like any machine, your precious watch movement needs oil — and the right oil — to protect its moving parts against frictional wear. The lack of proper lubrication too often results in this wear and ultimate inaccuracy or complete stoppage of the movement.

Avoid all possible shocks to your watch. Remember, many an automobile's shock absorbers have been broken when going over a deep rut in the road, and even a "shockless resistant" watch can take just so much out-of-the-ordinary jolting. Gentle handling is insurance against broken parts.

EASY DOES IT

When you wind the stem of your timepiece, the mainspring and stores energy needed to run thewatch. Wind it gently with the stem. Don't force the tension is at the maximum.

When you want to reset the hands on your watch, gently pull out the stem, and set it back in the same way.

In brief, jewellers give this advice to the owner of a quality watch who wants a well-maintained, accurate timepiece:

(1) Always take your watch to a quality watch-service department or any necessary adjustment, cleaning or repair.

(2) Insist on genuine factory replacement parts.

(3) Wind it once a day, preferably in the morning. And when you wind it, take it off your wrist.

(4) Try not to expose it to extreme hot or cold conditions.

(5) Keep it away from perfume, powder, or loose tobacco crumbs.

(6) And, above all, if the watch should lose its accuracy or stop completely, don't try fixing it yourself. Tinkering with a fine watch movement can be an expensive experiment. Your community watchmaker makes it his business to nurse sick watches back to health.

Modish Magic

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Here, a basic wool sheath goes in for a bit of modish magic. It changes its appearance entirely by the addition of a striking plaid wool overskirt, which is made like an apron. It is gathered centre front, has two giant patch pockets and comes in black and white or brown and white.

The dress itself can be dressed up or down and can be worn with or without its self-fabric contour belt.

Dr. D. Scott Addresses Women's Club

MADOC — St. Peter's Women's Club held its November meeting at the home of Mrs. Alvey, on Monday evening.

Mrs. Sinclair read the Bible lesson. Mrs. Armstrong read a poem, "Look for the Beautiful," and Mrs. McCaffrey a poem, "Betrayed."

The Rev. Sinclair introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Donald Scott, who is president of the medical staff of Belleville General Hospital. In his address he gave a history of the growth of the hospital from the year 1884. He also pointed out the problems of expansion which still exist and the hopes for the future.

Miss West voiced the appreciation of the club for the excellent address.

The business meeting followed and after the closing exercise Mrs. Alvey and helpers served refreshments.

The December meeting will be held at Mrs. Kenneth Nicol's.

The Experts Say

It's Wise to Buy Pattern Before You Pay for Fabric

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — In sewing, which comes first—the fabric or the pattern?

Pat Dwyer, a fashion co-ordinator for McCalls pattern firm, says either may be selected first but she advises buying the pattern so that the amount of material can be determined.

"Search for the fabric first but don't buy it until a suitable pattern is found."

Outfitted in clothes she makes herself, Pat tours Canada about three times a year helping women with their sewing and styling problems. Caught in Toronto between trips, she discussed some of her ideas.

To have the garment fit properly, go by the bust size, she said. "The bust size is the difficult part of a pattern to fit. The waist and hips are easily adjusted."

Patterns come with fabric suggestions on the back and it is usually wise to stick to these suggestions, she added.

WATCH THE NAP

Corduroys, velveis, velveteens and some wools have a nap and need to be placed properly on the pattern. If a pattern was not meant for the material being used, it might not—specify which way the nap should run up.

The new fabrics, such as straps and bouclés, should be treated as real fur with the pile going down. A simple design with as few seams and darts as possible is recommended.

If a pattern, plaid or stripe is chosen, two extra widths of the pattern are necessary for matching.

Buy the suggested amount of fabric instead of placing the pattern pieces on a smaller area, says Pat. This keeps the grain of the material as it should be with the garment. It lets a straight across the bust, waistline and skirt. The pieces of fabric don't always fit together properly if the pattern is not laid out properly.

LINING HELPS

Lining a garment makes it look better and it will wear better and look new longer. The lining material should be cut at the same time as the fabric for the costume. Interfacing as the garment is sewn, or a separate lining can be made and joined at the waist. The lining should never be longer than the top of the hem of the skirt.

Many fabrics are suitable for linings but don't use material heavier than the fabric in a garment.

If the bodice of the garment is to be lined, cut it with the garment's fabric and insert as the garment is made.

In picking a pattern watch for objects that might emphasize the things you want to minimize. Wide belts, boat necklines and pockets usually add width. Front or side buttons and V necklines give a long, lean look.

"To be line-wise is to be design-wise," Miss Dwyer says.

New All-Electronic Watch Never 'Ticks'—It Just Hums

Pioneered by the Bulova Watch Company, a new electronic watch called "Accutron," described as the "most significant invention in three centuries of watchmaking", will be very shortly offered for sale by local jewellers It's a new wrist watch for men, comprising a miniature tuning fork, and electronic components that replace the basic "mainspring and balance wheel" type of all conventional watches used since the 17th century.

Mr. Ronald Keel, well-known local jeweller, described "Accutron" as ten times more accurate than a conventional fine wrist watch, and "guaranteed by the Bulova Watch Company" neither to gain nor lose more than two seconds a day in actual use.

The new transistorized electronic watch called "Accutron" will run for at least a year on a tiny, inexpensive power cell, costing only $1.50, which can be inserted in the back of the case of Accutron like replacing the flint in a cigaret lighter. The tuning fork, describing the time-keeping "heart" of the new watch, emits a false "hum" instead of the ticking sound associated with timepieces ever since conventional watch movements were first devised some 300 years ago. The name "Accutron" is a coined word, from "accuracy" and "electronics". Accutron is described by its inventors as a "microscopic" timepiece, rather than a wrist watch, because of its micro-miniature components, its use of electronics, and its "new sound of time-keeping". Its guarantee of accuracy is made possible by the reliability of the transistorized electronic circuit and the tiny tuning fork that vibrates at a precise 360 cycles per second, or some 31 million times every 24 hours.

Micro-miniaturization, component refinement and engineering of the new watch, has been directed by William C. Bennett, vice-president in charge of research and engineering. Bulova executives identify the inventor of "Accutron" as Max Hetzel, chief physicist for the Bulova Watch Company. Mr. Bennett stated that "three years of field testing", has shown that the 12 month re-oiling and cleaning procedure recommended for traditional watches, is not necessary for "Accutron", also that all servicing and regulating requirements, can be handled by any competent watchmaker. It is shock protected, anti-magnetic and most models are waterproof.

The styling of the watch cases is distinctive, styles vary from conservative to new shapes such as shield, asymetrical, and offsquare. The watches are being assembled at the company's plant in Toronto, and will be on sale in Belleville Jewellery stores, about the first of December.

Club Activities

WELLINGTON C.G.I.T.

WELLINGTON — The Wellington C.G.I.T. group had a good turnout, when four car-loads of girls went to the rally held at Marmora, on Saturday, November 12th. A wonderful time was had by all.

At the meeting on November 15th, eight senior girls received their white lanyards at an impressive ceremony, when the mothers of these girls, and the presidents of the women's organizations were present.

The junior girls lined the sides of the room holding lighted candles during the ceremony.

The service was conducted by leader Mrs. John MacKenzie. The Rev. A. Poulter read the Scripture and spoke to the girls on using their talents. He stressed the fact that it is not the number of talents one has, but the way one makes use of them that counts.

Leader Mrs. Jim Dart charged the girls with their new responsibilities and presented them with their lanyards.

On Friday and Saturday the girls made the calls with the C.G.I.T. chocolates.

Fort Knox Was Once a Joke But U.S. Finds Gold Supply Is Now No Laughing Matter

The U.S. government will announce this week that the supply of gold has risen above the new $12,000,000,000 for the first time since 1949. Some of the reasons for the disclosure of this second of a series of three articles.

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — A few years ago, every comic in the country was getting laughs by poking fun at the United States' seemingly unlimited supply of gold.

Americans chuckled at every mention of the bullion vaults at Ft. Knox, Ky.

Today, gold no longer is a laughing matter.

In the last 14 months, other nations have been buying U.S. gold at the rate of more than $4,000,000,000 a year. The total American supply—$18,000,000,000—is at a 30-year low.

Foreigners are able to buy heavily because, in their dealings with the United States, they are receiving more U.S. dollars than they can spend profitably.

Some of the buying is normal. Some is abnormal and ominous.

The Western world's economic machine is running primarily on two brands of gasoline: Gold and U.S. dollars. These finance world trade, and, as the "reserves" that stand behind the paper money of most non-Communist countries.

DOLLAR SUBSTITUTES

Because there isn't enough gold in the world to back up all the money, the U.S. dollar has become a acceptable substitute. This is possible because the U.S. dollar, in turn, is backed by gold.

The U.S. stands ready at any time to sell gold to other nations in exchange for American dollars at the rate of $35 an ounce, as long as the price of gold remains pegged at that level.

Will the U.S. dollar always be as good as gold?

A few years ago, when Ft. Knox was a joke, the question wouldn't have been asked. The United States then was an island of prosperity in the postwar sea of ruin.

Today, however, a prospering Europe can afford U.S. gold and is buying heavily. Some of the buying seems to result from uncertainty about the future of the U.S. dollar.

ORDERS MEASURES

President Eisenhower last week ordered emergency measures to attack the problem — instead of waiting since January for the inauguration of President-elect John Kennedy.

Administration moves were designed to reduce the deficit in the U.S. balance of international payments. The balance of payments comprises all transactions affecting the amount of money coming into the country and the amount going out.

Interest rates here and abroad are important in these transfers. Officials will be watching to see whether this lessens the gold drain.

In any case, interest rates are only part of the problem. As long as the United States pays out more dollars than it receives, gold will continue to move into foreign hands.

Meanwhile, U.S. government plans for solving the gold problem...

Trying to Keep Defence Costs Down Next Year

OTTAWA (CP) — The treasury board, which glowers at every spending estimate submitted by government departments, is trying to keep the 1961-62 defence budget at about the 1960-61 level of $1,586,000,000.

This is not easy, because the defence department is the only cradle of expensive projects.

In the fiscal year which ends March 31, 1961, the defence department is completing expensive ventures on the $120,000,000 program for the big CC-106 transport plane for the RCA and on other less expensive projects.

The government will have to find about $150,000,000 in the new fiscal year for the CF-105 Mk. 2 reconnaissance bomber program. This is double the 1960-61 estimate. Total cost will be some $430,000,000.

TO HIT PEAK

Expenditures on the $120,000,000 program to provide two Bomarc anti-aircraft missile bases seven new heavy radars, 45 gap-filler radars and the SAGE electronic control system for air defence will probably hit their peak in the 1961-62 fiscal year. Spending in the current fiscal year is estimated at less than $200,000,000 in cold.

The U.S. stands ready at any time to sell gold to other nations in exchange for American dollars at the rate of $35 an ounce, as long as the price of gold remains pegged at that level.

Will the U.S. dollar always be as good as gold?

A few years ago, when Ft. Knox was a joke, the question wouldn't have been asked. The United States then was an island of prosperity in the postwar sea of ruin.

Today, however, a prospering Europe can afford U.S. gold and is buying heavily. Some of the buying seems to result from uncertainty about the future of the U.S. dollar.

Charge Canners Discriminate Against Critics

CHATHAM (CP) — An amendment to the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Act was urged Tuesday night, following charges of discrimination by canning companies against growers.

The charges were made by Carl Nicholson, chairman of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Marketing Board.

The annual meeting of Kent County vegetable growers was told by farmer John van Haaren that growers are afraid to speak out at public meetings for fear they will cause canning contracts for their crop.

"Every year, some and more growers are afraid to express themselves," he said in urging a grievance body be set up to "make erring processors fall in line."

Socred Chieftain Solon Low Retiring From Public Life

RAYMOND, Alta. (CP)—Solon Low, a member of the Social Credit party since its Alberta sweep in 1935 and national leader for the last 15 years, is stepping out of public life.

Mr. Low, 60, announced Tuesday night he has resigned as a teacher at the high school in this community 30 miles south of Lethbridge. The resignation, effective Jan. 1, 1961, was blamed on deteriorating health and pressure of a rigid school schedule.

Mr. Low earlier had announced plans to step out of politics but agreed to continue as party leader until the Social Credit national leadership convention, scheduled for next summer in Ottawa.

In November, 1955, he suffered a heart attack.

Rescued Miner Feeling Better In Hospital

TIMMINS (CP) — Allan Ross, 36, freed Tuesday after being trapped 99 hours underground in a gold mine, was reported today in improved condition in hospital.

Timmins Consolidated mines from the 1,700-foot level of the Hollinger Consolidated, told Miller, was reported to be out of his shock.

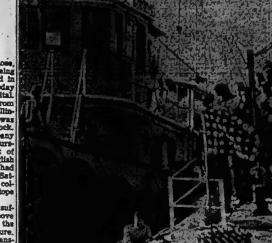
A spokesman for the company said today may be taken Thursday to determine the extent of the injuries of the English plumber turned miner. He was pinned helplessly since Saturday when timber props collapsed and a sand-filled stope poured on him.

The spokesman said Ross suffered a fractured left leg above the ankle. He said damage to the miner's feet was due to pressure. Ross was being given blood transfusions and fed intravenously and orally.

Ross was in a state of shock when rescue crews freed him from the tangled debris Tuesday afternoon.

"How long have I been down here," he asked his rescuers. He was reassured when they first reached him.

They were unable to grasp bottles of food passed to him. A plastic tube was used to feed mouth and soup poured through that.



FOUGHT TO LIVE

"His own instinct or guts, his desire to hold on and his fight to live" were the important factors, said Ralph Connor, manager A. E. Perry.

Mine officials and miners reached Mr. Rose by drilling through a 30-foot fill rather than making another avalanche of debris by going through the rubble.

Mr. Rose had been working in the mine about six weeks. He was employed by a contractor's job and was saving enough money to bring his wife and two-year-old son to Canada.

The Toronto Telegram has offered to fly the wife and two-year-old son, Mark, to Canada from Manchester.

Thirsty Man Requests Shot Of Evidence

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — A bottle given prominent display by the magistrate's bench was too much of a temptation for a persistent Sudbury police court Tuesday.

The dibbevelled figure pointed to the whisky, an exhibit in a bootlegging case, and asked proceedings.

"Can I say one word your honour?" he called in a shrill voice. "How about me? I'm thirsty . . . I would like a little shot."

Before the magistrate had time to reply, a policeman grabbed the man and hustled him out of court.

Five Sleeping Children Die As Home Burns

EDMUNDSTON, N.B. (CP)—Fire apparently touched off by an explosion roared through a three-bedroom bungalow in Edmundston's Mills Tuesday, taking the lives of five sleeping children while their mother was away at a neighbor's home.

The victims, children of Mr. and Mrs. Levite Landry, were Marcien, 5; Jean, 3; Jean Christian, 1; and two-month-old twin daughters. St. Jean is the mother of five other children, all in school when the blaze broke out.

Mr. Landry was away working in the woods and Mrs. Landry had gone to a neighbor's home about 300 yards distant to get some water.

On the way back, she stopped at another neighbor's. She told RCMP she had been there about 10 minutes when she heard an explosion and saw flames leaping from her home.

She raced back but was unable to enter the burning structure. Three neighbors also raced to the scene but were unable to enter. Volunteer firemen came from adjoining communities but they were unable to save the building or contents.

Mrs. Landry said there was no electric heater in the house and she had no idea what could have caused the explosion. A woodstove was used for heat. An inquest will be held.

RUSSIAN HAS GUIDE

Anti-Dumping Laws Against Canadian Editions of Foreign "Mags" Needed, Board Told

VANCOUVER (CP) — Invoking of anti-dumping laws against Canadian editions of foreign magazines would remove the inequitable competition that has made Canada's periodical press the most inadequate of all major world health countries, the provincial royal commission on publications was told Tuesday.

Edwin Copps of Ottawa, manager of Realm News Service, circulation agency, presented material to newspapers, magazines and city publications, made the statement in a brief presented to the commission during public hearings here.

Mr. Copps was one of several witnesses who appeared before the commission during the second day of its three-day hearings here.

The commission, with M. Grattan O'Leary, president of the Canadian Press, as chairman, will complete its Vancouver hearings today.

In his submission, Mr. Copps contended that without a single weekly magazine being published in Canada, this country's periodical press is almost the most inadequate in the civilized world.

The fundamental cause is inequitable competition from foreign publications with Canadian editions. Bona fide foreign publications were not a problem and no barriers should be raised against them.

There were eight weekly periodicals in Canada before the Canadian editions of Time and Reader's Digest showed up in 1940. Now there are none.

Mr. Copps rejected arguments that tariffs of 15 per cent would infringe freedom of the press.

"Although these publications would be required to operate in Canada on a fair and equitable basis (either by paying duty or adjusting their prices) they would be entirely free to continue their Canadian editions.

"The levying of legitimate tariffs on the commerce of publishing imposes no censorship. Rather, the Canadian government's failure to enforce the just tariff destroys the freedom of Canada's periodical press."

Bright Objects Seen in Sky Over Ontario

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bright objects flashing through the sky were reported in various sections of Southern Ontario today minutes after the launching of a United States weather satellite.

A Thor-Delta rocket carrying the 260-pound satellite blasted off the launching pad at Cape Canaveral at 6:18 a.m.

Between 6:20 and 6:37 dozens of residents near Barrie, London, Peterborough, Kitchener and Toronto reported seeing objects crossing the sky.

Radio stations at Sarnia, London, Hamilton and Toronto received calls reporting "flashing lights."

John Tomlinson, who lives outside Kitchener, said two star-shaped objects "as big as crossing the eastern sky but "tail pieces" shined like white fans" and were visible for about 15 minutes.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Mae West does not have exclusive right to the name Diamond Lil, says the California court of appeal. Miss West sued for $50,000 damages and asked an injunction to break up the act.

The Moffat Shoes Around World, Thomas Lang Moffat Is Dead

TORONTO (CP) — Thomas Lang Moffat, Scots-born designer who helped put Canada's footwold name around the world, died Tuesday. He was 88.

Mr. Moffat began his career of one of Canada's best-known companies which, circulating legend, a former chairman of the board of Moffat Limited, which grew to be company's equipment in the Commonwealth, the East and South Africa.

Known as T. L. to his first, Mr. Moffat was one of five brothers. He came to Canada at the age of six from Glasgow and lived in Dundas, Owen Sound and Markdale, where his father, a foundryman, established Moffat's business in 1882.

Young Thomas Moffat rose to master mechanic and then helped establish a family firm into an appliance company with world-wide sales.

Moffat Limited was established in suburban Weston in 1910.

After designing the first stove of the new line, a combination appliance called the Ploughboy, he set out to sell it, service it, and collect the accounts.

Mr. Moffat travelled by foot and by bicycle to rural northern Ontario communities over the roads of the 1880s. Once he set out by bicycle from Markdale to the Martimes and came back with his order book full.

Later he circled the globe four times. He was 88 when he set off on his last business tour.

When he went to New Zealand in the 1920s it was the beginning of the sale of 75,000 Moffat ranges in that country.

The Moffat philosophy in business was: Get to know the people in the country and see the farmers.

He leaves his wife, two daughters, and four sons, including Dr. Lang Moffat of Huntsville and Dr. Thomas Moffat of Oshawa. There are 34 grandchildren.

Strippers Tone Down Act After Police Appear

HALIFAX (CP)—Three striptease performers, out on bail on charges arising from Halifax's first "take-it-off" show, were back on the Gaiety Theatre stage Tuesday—but bathing suits had replaced their g-strings.

A few hours after their court appearance on charges of taking part in an immoral performance the girls came on with a toned-down version of the show that had prompted police to arrest them Monday night.

What had been a genuine striptease act Monday was hurriedly changed to a modest routine. Under orders not to take anything off the girls discarded only a few layers of flimsy veils—and finished their acts in two-piece bathing suits as packed audiences yelled for a return to Monday's routine.

Police raided the theatre Monday after matinee and early-evening performances. The girls were arrested on the spot and released on $200 bail.

'At Heart a Sensitive Man', But He Would Have Been Pig To Disobey Hitler -- Eichmann

NEW YORK (AP) — "I carried out my orders," says Adolf Otto Eichmann, the former SS officer who barded millions of Jews to their death in wartime Nazi Germany.

He says in his personal memoirs that he was merely a little cog in the machinery" that handled the mass executions.

"Will an order was an order," he says. "If I had sabotaged the order of the one-time fuehrer of the German Reich, Adolf Hitler, I would have been not only a criminal but a despicable pig."

The first installment of Eichmann's memoirs is published in the current issue of Life magazine.

The memoirs were obtained from a German journalist, William Sassen, and assembled in more than 900 pages of handwritten notes and transcriptions of tape - recorded interviews with Eichmann in Buenos-Aires's state-ing in July.

Life says it spent six months in editing and translating the material and in research confirming its "absolute authenticity."

Eichmann, abducted from Argentina last spring by secret agents, now is standing trial in an Israeli prison.

"Where I was implicated in the physical annihilation of Jews," he says, "I admit my participation freely and without pressure.

"After all, I was the one who transported Jews to the death camps. If I had not transported them, they would not have been murdered. That is undeniable.

As head of the Gestapo's department of evacuation affairs, he says his job was to round up Jews in Germany and conquered European countries and ship them by train to their final destination.

"If" would be a pointless. To blame me for the whole final solution of the Jewish problem and to blame the official in charge of the railroads.

"At heart I am a very sensitive man."

His department's activity originally was limited to tracing Jews in his countries, arresting them and confining them to ghettos and concentration camps, he says. Later, he says, Adolf Hitler in 1941 ordered their physical annihilation.

The liquidation plan was discussed by Gestapo generals at a special conference in Berlin on Jan. 20, 1942. At its close, he relates, the participants drank, sang songs and climbed on tables and chairs to offer toasts.

Eichmann tells of witnessing his first mass execution of Jews at Minsk, where 5,000 men, women and children were slain. He says they walked in groups to a pit—"they were not driven"—and jumped in.

Their lines were riddled with rifle and machine-gun fire.

The system of mass gas-chamber executions was developed soon afterward.

He says his transport trains brought in as many as 10,055 units a day for execution at the Auschwitz camp. He describes his first tour of the camp with its commander, Rudolf Hoess, saying:

"At the end he took me to a place where the gassed Jews lay piled on a strong-iron grill. Hoess's men poured some inflammable liquid on them and set them on fire. . . . I can still see that mounting of corpses in front of me."

Eichmann insists he is not anti-semitic, and had no wish to harm individual Jews personally, but fulfilling his responsibilities to Jews because they were stealing the wealth of the Reich.

In rounding up Jews for shipment to the east, he says he was under orders to avoid all unnecessary harshness. He notes that he was decorated for his part in beating a frail, old Jew with a club.

Eichmann says his department was forced to use Jewish countries setting local authorities in operation in seizing Jews.

This was almost mostly a failure in Italy, Belgium and Holland, he asserts, and ran into its greatest difficulties in Denmark where the king intervened to avert Jewish persecution.

Eichmann personally managed the Hungarian deportations, in which he estimates more than 500,000 Jews were "processed" in a period of four months with about 150,000 being shipped to Auschwitz.

U.S. Treasury Will Demand More Facts on Subsidiaries

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States treasury has decided to undertake the most detailed study ever of foreign-subsidiary operations of American parent companies, authorities disclosed Tuesday.

Canada-controlled firms operating in Canada, Britain, Panama and other parts of the world will be required to answer detailed demands for detailed information before the end of December, treasury officials.

Companies which refuse to provide this information will suffer tax penalties, amounting up to 10 per cent of income or credits they might have normally received from the home country by these subsidiaries to foreign treasuries.

Main purpose is to make sure American firms do not attempt to avoid payment of United States taxes by setting up dummy companies in other countries or seeking refuge in low tax jurisdictions.

STUDY OPERATIONS

Officials said close study also will be made of the ways in which American companies operate in countries where there may be little or no tax to collect these companies produce but where their profits will be taxed on the American-controlled operations.

These officials emphasized there is no intention to breach the sovereignty of other countries and no attempt to discourage United States investment abroad.

They said also they had not been aware of the situation government has stated in the Nov. 17 throne speech that it will ask the Canadian parliament to enact legislation demanding that foreign-controlled companies give information concerning their operations in Canada.

"The information we seek will be confidential, for use only by the treasury department," the official said. "We have no plans to share this information with Canadians."

The new regulations will come into effect with the 1961 tax year so that the information may not start flowing into the treasury until early 1962.

Toasts Liner His Only Home For 3 Decades

NEW YORK (AP)—In grimy work clothes and with traces of grease on his face and hands, Edward Dacey stood on deck of the liner Britannic's Tudor Suite and sipped champagne.

The British lifted a glass of ginger ale and toasted the elegant passenger vessel, a queen of the sea to Dacey, more than a queen to him. She has been his home, he has known for three decades.

"I can't tell you how sorry I am she is going," she's the greatest ship in the world," declared Dacey.

When the transatlantic liner sails Friday, her last port of call will be Liverpool, the wreckers's torch.

Dacey has been with the Britannic since her maiden voyage—to New York in 1930. She's the last of the old British White Stars, all of which eventually were taken over by the Cunard Line.

Dacey is a "refrigeration oiler"—a man who keeps the refrigeration machinery oiled.

Wellington Residents Vote Waterworks for Village

WELLINGTON (Special) — Sidney "Ole Smoker" Reynolds built the first house in this lakeside village. It has started on a threshold of Lake Ontario but, never utilized in a general way, its water facilities . . .

Now after 170 years villagers have taken the first step to tap their huge water resources.

At a capacity meeting in the town hall Monday night, 179 ratepayers of the village's 1100 residents voted almost unanimously to install a village waterworks.

Roughly there were about 15 dissenting votes when the final poll was taken.

Reeve Clare Platt said this morning the overall cost will be announced later. The planned service will bring water to the properties of individual and industrial concerns.

The project will go before the Ontario Municipal Board for ratification sometime in December, Reeve Platt said.

Strangely enough the water supply will not come directly from Lake Ontario proper. It will originate in two huge wells drilled on the beach near the eastern end of the village.

"The water has been tested and found pure," Reeve Platt said. "No filtration will be necessary."

CLIMAXES YEAR'S WORK

Last night's meeting climaxed a year's research and work on the project by members of the Ontario Water Resources Commission, who with a geologist addressed the ratepayers.

They were told the service would include some 23, water hydrants for village fire protection.

The two wells, it was stated, have a capacity to service a community of 2,500 population. A former report on the possibility of waterworks installation in the village revealed the cost would be estimated at $400,000. This would necessitate pumping of water directly from the lake and a filtration plant.

The project was turned down by the council and ratepayers as too expensive.

While an estimated cost was announced at the meeting Reeve Clare Platt said it was not a true figure. Actual costs will be published later.

However the figure met with the approval of the greater majority. It is expected that work on the new waterworks project will begin as soon as possible following council ratification.

More Lenient Attitude Toward Unwed Mothers

WINNIPEG (CP)—A more lenient attitude toward unmarried mothers is noted in a report by the Welfare Council of Greater Winnipeg.

The report, which could lead to better conditions for handling these women, calls for increased government support for maternity homes, recruitment of more foster homes for Roman Catholic infants and a study of the problems of adolescence.

A chilling attitude toward young unmarried mothers is reflected in the fact that an increasing number have their babies in hospital, passing up the seclusion of maternity homes. These homes now are more often places where mothers seek help before and after confinement.

At one time girls would register in hospitals as married women but today fewer are trying to hide illegitimacies.

MANY ARE YOUNG

The 18-month study carried out by a committee under chairmanship of Mrs. J. R. McDonald found 80 of 718 unmarried mothers referred to Manitoba casework agencies in 1958. They were 322 in the 15-to-19 age bracket, 234 between 20 and 24 and 30 under 15.

Recommended in the report was an arrangement to provide literally indians who bear illegitimate girls of adequate counselling service, medical care and financial aid at the reservations.

The study group also called for interprovincial agreement on uniform regulations for adoptions; full counselling service for fathers of illegitimate children, and incorporation of maternity homes by provincial statute "to provide greater stability of organization and better administrative control."

Judge N. M. Sanders of the juvenile and family court here will head an action committee to begin work immediately on implementing the report's suggestions.

Reasons Given For Refusal Of Registration

TORONTO (CP) — R. B. Whitehead, Ontario insurance superintendent, said in a report released Tuesday Toronto marriage bureau was refusing registration because its officials acted without discretion in their clients' interests.

Mr. Whitehead said Irving Wiseman, president of Vennil Investments Limited and Frank Parker, the firm's accountant manager, appeared to be more concerned with their own aggrandizement than service to their clients.

Vennil Investments was advised July 4 that registration under the Mortgage Brokers Registration Act could not be granted. The firm made an appeal but the decision to reject it was not announced until Tuesday.

Witnesses testified they were asked to put deposits to overcome appraisal and legal expenses.

Mr. Whitehead said that in many cases applicants were unable to get refunds of deposits though loans had not come through.

Loses Battle Against Working

CHESTERFIELD (AP)—Jack Cooper bade a fond farewell to the benefits of the British welfare state Monday and reported for work for the first time in 7½ years.

Cooper had lost a long battle against working for a living.

Since 1957, the former coal miner had supported his wife and seven children on £8 15s a week paid by the state. The income was made up from unemployment pay and an additional £4 11s 4d known as national assistance.

Questioned by government officials, Cooper had claimed he could make more money doing nothing than he received from his old job. The government promptly cut his weekly benefit.

Cooper's new job at the Derbyshire Coalite Company pays £9 a week. But, says Cooper, "at least I'll be independent."

U.S. Vice-President Elect Talks With Gen. de Gaulle

PARIS (AP)—Lyndon B. Johnson, United States vice-president elect, and French President Charles de Gaulle had a 45-minute conference Tuesday. Johnson said they discussed "the wide range of problems confronting the people of the world."

Johnson is in Paris attending a meeting of parliamentarians from NATO countries. He was invited to Elysee Palace by de Gaulle his first official contact with the incoming American administration.

Before the de Gaulle talk, Johnson's aides said the vice-president-elect had no intention of bringing up at this time any of the issues on which France and the United States have divergent views.

One of the big problems facing the administration is de Gaulle's attitude toward NATO and Western leadership generally. The French leader makes no secret of his desire to expand NATO's field of responsibility and to expand France's role in NATO.

Johnson indicated in a speech Monday that the new U.S. administration would be more receptive to some of de Gaulle's ideas than was the Eisenhower administration.

Smiths Falls Planners Resign

SMITHS FALLS, Ont. (CP)—For the second time this year, Smiths Falls town council is faced with wholesale resignations by members of the town's planning board.

Four of the eight board members, including Chairman Murray A. Tye and Vice-Chairman Daryl R. Thomas, submitted their resignations at a council meeting Monday night. A fifth member, Stanley Rickard, resigned "for personal reasons" last week.

The letter said the resignations were caused by the town council's inability to enforce planning bylaws.

Council refused to accept resignations.

Last January, the six members then on the board resigned in protest against what the board described as lack of co-operation from the council. The new board was appointed after the the former board under Chairman K. C. Beach rejected a council request to reconsider its decision to quit.

TORONTO (CP)—Trainer Carl Chapman's announcement Tuesday that he will take over conditioning of several horses belonging to builder Larkin Maloney has bolstered rumors of the imminent breakup of the racing partnership of Conn Smythe and Maloney.

The Maloney - Smythe partnership involves a friendship weaved over a period of nearly 20 years.

The partnership began in 1956 when Maloney's bay stallion won the 3000 running of the Queen's Plate. Smythe had been active in the thoroughbred sport since his return from active duty in the Second World War.

Chapman said the horses to come under his wing will include Wonder Where, the filly that won nearly $110,000 in three years' racing and in 1959 was named horse of the year.

Among the others are two-year-olds Cut Steel, Million Man and Shy Turn—each eligible for the 1961 Queen's Plate — Willemark Full Front and three yearlings.

Two years ago the Maloney-Smythe partnership led all Canadian stables with earnings of $252,196. But last year their earnings dropped slightly to $181,796 and the current season has been relatively dismal.

Mr. Smythe, reached at his home Tuesday night, refused to comment on Chapman's announcement. Maloney was out of town.

Propose New Baseball Expansion Plan

Nine-Team Major Leagues

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A brand-new baseball expansion plan — two nine-team majors with inter-league play — appeared a strong possibility for 1961 today with a new Washington team the ninth member in the American and Houston added to the National.

The revolutionary proposal was unanimously voted upon by the American League at its day-long meeting Tuesday and needs only the approval of the National to become a reality. Should the National reject the plan, the American definitely intends to pursue its original plan of 10 teams, including Los Angeles next year.

If the plan goes through, it will be for one year only. In 1962, each league would go to 10 teams, with Los Angeles joining the American and New York the National.

The senior circuit, already committed to 10 teams in 1962 with the Chicago Cubs in New York, will give answer to the American's plan at the annual winter meeting in St. Louis, Dec. 5. Should the reply be in the affirmative, each league will then adopt a 156-game schedule, with increase of 12 games.

This would encompass 112 inter-league games — 14 against each team in its own league, and 54 inter-league games against each team in the rival league.

FRICK IN FAVOR

Commissioner Ford Frick, who has insisted on a "fair and equitable" settlement, has expressed favor with the plan.

"It isn't the best idea in the world," he said, "but it is a solution to their problem. If the two leagues can get together on it, it will approve it."

Walter O'Malley, head of the Dodgers' entry in the American League's biggest stumbling block to enlargement over the idea. It was O'Malley's steadfast refusal to permit a rival in his territory that forced the American League to forego its decision to expand to 10 teams during 1961 at a meeting earlier this month, the American permitted Cal Griffith to move his Washington club to Minneapolis-St. Paul and voted to grant franchises to a new Washington club and Los Angeles for 1961.

"This appears to me to be a most sensible idea," he said. "I have been endorsing this idea for a long time. I proposed such a plan five years ago but couldn't get the necessary vote. Had we adopted it then, we'd never be in this mess.

"I don't know whether our league will accept it even now, but I think it would be tremendously popular with the press and the public."

SAYS SENSIBLE

Del Webb, co — owner of the New York Yankees and a prime factor in the Americans' drive for a Los Angeles franchise, acknowledged the plan's sensibility.

"We recognized we would have a problem moving this fast into Los Angeles," he said, "regarding ticket selling, playing facilities, proper promotion and getting suitable playing dates. We feel we need more time to move into an orderly situation."

American League president Joe Cronin said the sudden change — observers called it a compromise — was made out of deference to Frick.

"I wouldn't call this a compromise," he said, "but rather a willingness to cooperate with the commissioner's suggestion to work out a more suitable plan. We did it for the good of baseball."

Ceremonies, Presentations

Juniors Open Tonight

Lambert-Rollins Junior "B" vs. Belleville major hockey team, now that senior is a thing of the past, will get the ball off the OHA Junior "B" hockey schedule here tonight against the scrappy Picton Merchants.

The L and R's have won their only start in league play to date, a tough 6-5 victory in Whitby, while Picton has yet to see action in the 20-game schedule that opened last Friday.

All indications from the three games played so far are that it will be a close, hard-fought battle for the loop's top positions. The highly-rated Peterborough Canucks shaded Cobourg 6-3 while Whitby edged Kingston 5-2 in overtime.

Tonight's game here gets under way at 8.30 and Manager Mel Richards and Coach Eddie Plato hope to see a large crowd on this opener.

Besides the hockey game itself several other attractions have been lined up.

Among these will be the presentation of the Bobby Hull Trophy. The NHL star of Chicago Black Hawks donated the beautiful trophy a year ago to the most valuable player on the Belleville Junior "B" club. The trophy is in memory of the late Bill Foster and Art Colledon.

Manager Richards announced yesterday that the winner of the Hull Trophy for last season is centre Gordie Goyer. Goyer topped the club, goalwise and pointwise in both regular schedule and playoff games. Goyer will receive the trophy tonight.

Mayor A. McLean Haig of Belleville and Picton's Mayor H. McFarland will be expected to drop the puck for the opening faceoff.

The Hastings and Prince Edward's regiment bugle band will also be in attendance.

Two draws are also on tap. The Miss Boomer Club draw for a $50 cash prize will be made and a program draw for a blanket donated by a Front Street Merchant, will also be held.

Fight Tonight In Montreal

Cleroux Favored To Beat Chuvalo

MONTREAL — Bob Cleroux is a heavy favorite to retain his Canadian heavyweight title here tonight.

He meets challenger George Chuvalo of Toronto in a 12-round title match at Montreal Forum.

Cleroux drilled for three weeks to shorten his punches, but he is expected to throw many looping haymakers tonight.

CLEROUX A MAULER

The 22-year-old is a mauler who spends little time thinking in the ring. He likes to throw punches and doesn't pay much attention to how.

His manager Al Bachman of New York brought in world-famous trainer Whitey Bimstein to tutor Cleroux and eliminate the wasted energy expended in wild swings.

But Bob is the type of fighter who has difficulty putting into practice what he has learned in the gymnasium.

Cleroux's arms are strong, keen and makes up with aggressiveness what he lacks in polish. Chuvalo, 23, while a shade more scientific, is also a slugger and packs a knock-out wallop.

He's more familiar with the ash and has greater mobility.

WILL NAME REFEREE

A referee was to be named by the Montreal Athletic Commission today at the noon weigh-in but he will not score the fight. Three judges will score on the five-point must system, giving five points to the winner of each round and grading the loser from four down.

There is no direct radio or television coverage.

Bachman and Jack Deacon Allen, Chuvalo's manager, have both said they will seek a shot at Gaspert Ritola-Knight title if their boy wins.

Tickets are sealed from $3 to $10 and a capacity house at the 15,000-seat forum would provide a $100,000 gate for promoter Eddie Quinn. Twenty five per cent of the net receipts go to each fighter. For their last bout the gate was $64,000.

Cleroux has a 24-1-1 record and Chuvalo 13-5-1.

Since the August bout, Cleroux has scored two knockouts, while Chuvalo has been inactive except for training.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Tonight the old Montreal-Toronto sports rivalry renews itself when former heavyweight champion George Chuvalo of Toronto seeks to regain his crown from Ar'den Robert Cleroux of Montreal.

Cleroux decisioned the Toronto fighter in their last match but the bout was a "home-town decision"—it was that close—and a rematch was arranged after someone read the fine print in the contract.

Since then Cleroux has hoisted himself in the heavyweight ranks by blasting one Bob Turman, who was considering a bout with Archie Moore. Chuvalo figures he won the fight with the French Canadian and can repeat tonight.

But one, Whitey Bimstein of Gotham, who doesn't rate very high in Dan'l Parker's columnar books, but who Nat Fleischer, boxing authority, thinks ranks with the best of those looking after fighters, thinks Cleroux will turn the trick.

Bimstein is one of those balding people you see in a corner in practically every fight. Whitey is another Casey Stengel as far as the Queen's English is concerned, but unlike Casey, speaks it with a select Brooklynese accent.

Whitey thinks Cleroux is a promising fighter who wants to "win." Speaking with Montreal reporters the other night he said, "He can't be charged a man's basic style. Cleroux is a big, strong boy and strictly a puncher. If I tried to make a Fancy Dan out of him he'd be clutchin' so much shoot! moves I tried to teach him, he would forget to punch.

"He's shortened his punches and his balance is better. He's throwin' punches now in combinations. He's getting good leverage in his punches because he's leaned how to pivot. His defense has improved, too. He ain't as easy to hit as he used to be. He used to take a lot of punches he didn't have to take. He was so eager to bell the other guy he'd take two to land one."

"He's loined to bob and weave and fight out of a crouch," Whitey pointed out. "He's loined how to use his hands to protect his head and his arms and elbows to cover his body. Them guys who are easy to hit don't last long."

Whitey rambled on while the newsmen listened. "Cleroux trains better now than when I feist walked with him. Young fighters don't realize they can't loin everything at once. They have to be patient. Cleroux used to get hot some times, but he's settling down. He wants to loin."

Whitey figured his protege was a couple of years away from being a world title contender.. "Aw, he's young yet," he said. "He's got plenty of time."

But Whitey believes that any fighter with a punch has possibilities. "You gotta respect a puncher," he said. "A good boxer can pile up points and make a puncher look like a bum, but one bomb can end the fight. That's why you gotta respect a puncher."

"Lookit Rocky Graziano," Whitey said. "He's in with Freddie Cochrane and he's losin' the fight by decision. After the ninth I tell him he's blowin' the fight if he don't do somethin'. He says, 'I'll do somethin' and walks out for the 10th, hits Cochrane on the chin and it's all over. They make the records and the same thing happens again. Rocky's losin', then he hits Cochrane on the chin and it's all over again.

"Now he's fightin' Tony Zale for the title. Zale had been knocked flatter before he hit the solvices, but now he's out and'nuther not so good. Zale catches up with Rocky in the sixth and nails him. They re-match them again and this time it's Rocky hitz Zale in the sixth and out goes Zale.

"That's why I say you gotta respect a puncher. Of course it's better if you can both box and punch, but how many of them can do that."

Which should make good reading for Mr. Chuvalo.

Oddsmakers Rate Riders Underdogs

By TOM WAITT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — The gamblers have listed the odds; local bookies have been cleared; police are studying their plan; fans are buying their liquids; the coaches are racing their brains—the Grey Cup stage is being set. This is the situation as Vancouver prepares for its most unharried weekend since 1950, when Canada's professional football classic was last held here.

Ottawa Rough Riders, eastern representatives, arrived Tuesday and stepped off the plane on to a white carpet of snow, giving coach Frank Clair, a noted weather, another problem.

"We haven't played a bad weather game this year," he said. "I don't like wet weather and a number of unpredictable things can happen."

KEEP IT DOWN

A few miles away, at Empire Stadium, groundskeepers were also feeling. But they assured all concerned that they were in constant touch with the weather office and have yet to be caught with their tarpaulins up.

Edmonton Eskimos, picked as favorites by the oddsmaker, also arrived on the coast but chose to train in the more sedate surroundings of Victoria.

Western money has made Eskies 6½ - point favorites. Eastern odds money favor them by 9½ points.

The elements favored Riders indoors for their first practice session here and Clair says that's where they'll stay until conditions allow otherwise. This does not include Saturday at 11:30 p.m. PST (4:30 p.m. EST), when Ottawa will appear for the game come rain, sleep snow or fog.

SKIES TO BE OVERCAST

Mr. Lundquist's weather forecast predicts overcast skies and temperatures in the high 40s for the game.

Regarding Clair's problem of how to stop Eskie Fuzzier Normie Hayman by Dec. 18 whether he planned to play in 1961.

Grey Cup Briefs

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Oods-makers Tuesday established Edmonton Eskimos favorites to win by 3½ points over Ottawa Rough Riders in Saturday's Grey Cup game.

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Rider officials reported Tuesday that road of the Eastern Canadian championship team's allotment of some 2,300 Grey Cup tickets have been sold.

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos will hold final workouts for Saturday's Grey Cup game on the playing field of MacDonald Park in Victoria, General Manager Joe Ryan announced Tuesday.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders arrived here at noon Tuesday and by mid-afternoon the Big Four Championship were working out at a light indoor practice at the University of British Columbia's War Memorial Gymnasium. A steady rainfall prevented a team practice outdoors at UBC's Varsity Stadium.

EDMONTON (CP)—The Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways have added extra and sleeping cars to their regular trains serving Vancouver and scheduled special trains between Winnipeg and Edmonton to carry fans to Saturday's Grey Cup Game. Trans-Canada Air Lines will have extra flights in from Vancouver through Winnipeg Calgary and Edmonton in addition to flights from Eastern points carrying Ottawa Rough Riders fans.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders were 75 minutes late arriving here Tuesday to prepare for the Saturday Grey Cup football final against Edmonton Eskimos. Heavy rain prevented the Eastern Big Four football champions from leaving Toronto on schedule.

Oct Oct

OTTAWA (CP) — Five Ottawa Rough Riders hope to top a Grey Cup victory in Vancouver Saturday with a swim in English Bay. The swimmers — win or lose — will be Bobbie Simpson, Ronnie Stewart, Marv Bergen, George Brancato and Gilles Archambeault.

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton manager Joe Ryan will be taking his third club into the Grey Cup Saturday. Ryan was manager of the Winnipegs when they won the cup in 1935. He was a director of the Montreal Alouettes when they won in 1949. He took over Eskimos in mid-season after a seven-year absence from the game.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police photographers will film every aspect of their Grey Cup "master plan" to handle crowds and traffic and curb rowdyism Friday and Saturday. The film will be edited into a documentary to be used in training police in crowd control. The master plan is a 32-page booklet prepared by Deputy - Chief Gordon Ambrose, Inspector F.J. Errington and Sergeant Stan Laycock.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders and Edmonton Eskimos will play on a "soft" but well-conditioned turf at Empire Stadium here Saturday in the annual Grey Cup football classic. Stadium manager Dave Griffiths said Tuesday the turf will not be "As soft as fields in Eastern Canada."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators of professional football in United States professional boxing said Tuesday they are keeping 25 secret documents under wraps for their protection.

The Senate anti-monopoly subcommittee said the names of the 25 will be kept secret until the start of public hearings Dec. 5.

The subcommittee announced previously that the same approximately 50 witnesses would include James D. Norris, Chicago boxing promoter; Charles (Sonny) Liston, one of the top contenders for the world heavyweight boxing championship; and the shrewd boxing racketeer Frank (Blinky) Palermo of New York and Philadelphia.

Cullen Out 8 Weeks

Bruins, Rangers On Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If New York Rangers and Boston Bruins are to make a challenge for a playoff spot in the National Hockey League this season, they'll have to start winning.

The two teams clash in a home-and-home series, starting tonight in Boston and Thursday in Boston Thursday.

A double victory for either club would give it a spill would still leave the teams way out of contention. Bruins now occupy fifth place in the league standings with 14 points — one less than fourth-place Chicago Black Hawks. Rangers have only 11 points.

The Black Hawks are engaged with Montreal Canadiens, Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings in a torrid battle for first place. Only one point separates the four teams. Montreal, Toronto and Detroit have 24 points each and Chicago 23.

The top four teams are idle tonight.

CULLEN SIDELINED

The Rangers' cause was dealt a crushing blow Tuesday when they lost the services of centre Brian Cullen for six to eight weeks through injury.

He had arranged a point a game this season, scoring six goals and collecting 13 assists for 179 points in 21 games. Cullen came to New York last season after playing three years with the Leafs.

In an effort to bolster a woefully weak defence the Rangers recalled defenceman John Junkin from Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League for tonight's game.

The Rangers have allowed 78 goals in 19 games. "We're not going to win any All Star awards," they say.

HAVE DOUBLE PROBLEM

The Bruins are currently plagued with a goaltending problem but it's the offence that has been letting them down. Boston has won only four games so far — all on home ice. They have scored 45 goals in 20 games, compared with 67 for this year's last season.

The goalies' problem became more acute Tuesday when Don Simmons reaffirmed a decision to quit the Bruins rather than accept a demotion to Providence Reds of the AHL.

Boston called up young Bruce Gamble from Providence to replace him in the nets.

Gamble, 23, has played only four league games, two with the Bruins last weekend. He allowed seven goals as the Bruins won and lost contests, each won once.

The fight was a voluntary defense of the title by Spinks on a winner - take-all basis. He collected about $16,000 and a chance of moving further toward a title crack-a gainst world featherweight champion Davey Moore.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bruce MacGregor, 19, was a one-man wrecking gang for the Western Hockey League Edmonton Flyers Tuesday night as they downed Vancouver Canucks 4-2. He scored two goals and assisted on the others.

Meanwhile, the high-flying Calgary Stampeders watched last-place Spokane Comets 8-2 to take over second place, two points ahead of Seattle Totems and two behind Edmonton. Victory moved Calgary into a fourth-place tie with Canucks by downing Portland Buckaroos 5-2 in Victoria.

In Vancouver Lou Marcon and Ken Hale were Edmonton's other marksmen. Orland Kurtenbach and Dave Dale scored for Vancouver.

Sid Finney and Lou Jankowski each scored twice for the Stampeders in Calgary. Wally Hergesheimer, Cliff Bristown, Gord Velpvaas and George McAvoy added one each.

Earl Johnson and Bev Bell scored for Spokane.

Victoria scorers were George Ford, who counted twice, Jim Morn, Doug Mansell and Jerry Geyer.

Hardie Fashoway and Bill McCulley were Portland's marksmen.

Briton Wins Over American In London

LONDON (AP) — Chic Calderwood, unbeaten British light heavyweight champion, outpointed Sonny Boy Chicoy Tuesday night in a 10-round bout before 11,500 at Wembley Arena stadium.

It was Calderwood's 29th straight victory and a decisive one although he bled heavily from his nose from the first round on.

Calderwood, top - ranked contender in the world ratings of Ring magazine and listed No. 3 by the U.K. Boxing Association, weighed 173½ pounds to 173½ for Ray, who no longer is ranked.

The Associated Press gave Calderwood, a 23-year-old Scotsman, six rounds, Ray three and called out four even. There were no knockdowns.

SPINKS RETAINED TITLE

Terry Spinks retained his British featherweight title by knocking out Bobby Neill of Scotland after two minutes, 20 seconds of the 14th round.

The knockout followed a slashing attack by Spinks that had the challenger on the canvas three times.

Spinks, ninth ranked in the world standings, weighed 126 pounds and so did the 27-year-old Neill. It was their third meeting. In the previous two

Rote Certain To Return To Argonauts

TORONTO (CP) — Quarterback Tobin Rote, who sparked Toronto Argonauts to the 1950 Big Four title, said Tuesday it is almost certain he'll return to the squad next season.

The former National Football League pivot who threw 36 touchdown passes for the Argos this year said he was disturbed about speculation that he might not come back.

He said he wants to return to the team and there is "a 95-per-cent chance" of doing so.

Last January he signed contracts for the 1960 and 1961 seasons with the condition that he form management director Lew Hayman by Dec. 15 whether he planned to play in 1961.

How They Compare!

Ottawa played 14 games, won nine, lost five. Edmonton played 16 games, won 10, lost six.

FOOTBALL WEATHER — Temperatures will be near the seasonal average for the November 26 Grey Cup football game in Vancouver, according to the 30-day outlook of the United States weather bureau. Most of Canada east of British Columbia will have above-normal readings from mid-November to mid-December.

Maps show predicted temperatures and precipitation across the country for the month. Tables give normal readings for various centres.

These maps are based on predictions of the weather office which says its monthly outlook is not a specific forecast and that a change in weather pattern may produce major errors. (CP Newsmap.)

Diana Dors Back to Take Another Swing at Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Diana Dors is back for another swing at Hollywood, and this time she might stay.

Last time it was murder. She fell into a swimming pool, an ocean of scrapt publicity and two bad pictures. It was enough to drown any career.

But the swinging Dors has rebounded and is back playing not in cesspools but two top-flight movies at once. She's Danny Kaye's love interest in the Doubleday and plays Diana Dors in Ladies' Man with Jerry Lewis. The latter characterization is one she plays well.

She and husband Richard Dawson are shopping for a house to buy so they can settle here.

"I don't say I'll stay here forever," she says. "Forever is a long time. But my husband and I are planning to stay as long as we can for several reasons.

LIKES AMERICA

"Mainly it's for our son, who is seven months old. I want him to grow up in America, where there is so much more opportunity. Here, a boy can be anything—shopkeeper's son can be president.

There isn't much opportunity in England. It's a closed shop, really. And England is not a very healthy place to raise children. Since my son has been in California, he has grown strong and brown as a berry."

Such remarks aren't calculated to enthral the folks back home, but Diana is prone to speak her mind. She had some rather pointed things to say about her Hollywood career No. 1.

WE'RE NOT ARINE

"The publicity was terrible," she said. "It was run by a man who didn't know what he was doing. And from the moment I stepped off the boat, I was compared to Marilyn Monroe. It was ridiculous; we're not the least bit alike."

Last summer she played the Nevada night-club circuit, doing three shows nightly for a hot two-month stand at The Dunes in Las Vegas. Now Hollywood again.

"I had other offers to do films here, dozens of them," she said. "But they all wanted me to play the sexpot. I wouldn't do it. I'm tired of that, and I think the public is, too."

Nip of Scotch Getting Smaller Says Peer

LONDON (Reuters)—A Scotsman ordering a wee nip of whisky in an English pub these days finds—alas — that is exactly what he gets, the House of Lords was told Tuesday night.

The complaint was made by a Scottish peer, the Earl of Dundee, who was speaking on a bill before the House that would legally fix the size of a shot of whisky.

Dundee, who is the hereditary royal standard bearer for Scotland, said that in London before the Second World War a small scotch was "just visible" in the glass. A double whisky on the other hand "might perhaps have afforded some momentary satisfaction to an Englishman in a hurry."

But since the war, he told the laughing lords, the double scotch has become the size of the pre-war small scotch and a single is now "nothing more than a dirty glass."

"I don't know how much the restaurants pay a scullery maid for cleaning the glass," he said, "but they charge 4s 6d for looking at it."

WILL COMMENT

OTTAWA (CP) — Veterans Affairs Minister Churchill said Tuesday he is ready to make a lengthy statement in the Commons on proposals to cut the minimum site of Veterans Land Act holdings to half an acre.

"I never get to play. All they use me for is to hook the line to get hot dogs at half time!"

AT THE PARK — Academy Award Winner Charlton Heston and Gary Cooper bear condemning evidence at a Court of Inquiry as witnesses refute Cooper's explanation of the mysterious abandonment and wrecking of a ship at sea. The scene is from MGM's thrill-packed "The Wreck of the Mary Deare" opening Thursday, film version of Hammond Innes' best-selling novel. Much of the CinemaScope and color film was shot on location in the English Channel. Guest stars in an impressive cast include Michael Redgrave, Emlyn Williams, Cecil Parker, Alexander Knox and Virginia McKenna. On the same program in Technicolor "Tarzan the Ape Man" starring Danny Miller as the new Tarzan, Cesare Danova and Joanna Barnes.

AT THE McCARTHY — Franz Liszt,' the musical genius whose love was as tempestuous as his music, is portrayed by Dirk Bogarde in the William Goetz production for Columbia Pictures, "Song Without End," the story of Franz Liszt, in Eastman Color and CinemaScope. Genevieve plays the Russian princess who inspired Liszt's greatest music, opens today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

Bulldogs Fire Coach

No Riches, No 'Rags'!

WINDSOR (CP) — The executive of Windsor Bulldogs Tuesday night announced that the team will continue its operations in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior League.

The management which withdrew financial support Sunday, said it has received its decision and that "we'll be in there from now on."

An 11th-hour meeting between club executives and players reached a solution to the financial problem surrounding the Windsor club. No details were available.

The executive also announced the release of playing-coach Clare (Rags) Raglan. "It is believed the job will be offered to veteran player and former NHL star Joe Klukay.

Late Sunday co-owner Les Butcher announced that financial support of the team would no longer be available but at the same time, offered a proposition to the team players to take over the financial operation themselves.

A meeting Monday of the players rejected this idea and a last-ditch stand was to be made Tuesday night in a joint gathering which proved successful.

Regarding Raglan's release, a joint statement from vife-president Bill Howe and general manager John Sutherland said it was "an economy measure."

"The main thing was to keep the franchise alive by cutting operations," the statement said.

"Raglan had done a good job up to now but the management felt that his services were expendable in view of the present financial situation."

Sport in Brief

WILL HONOR GOMEZ

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian racing season's closing ceremonies Thursday will include a special presentation to jockey Avelino Gomez. Gomez set a Canadian record by riding 270 winners on Ontario tracks this year before he retired in October. Gomez has been Canada's leading rider in 1955, 1956, 1957, 1959 and again this year. He didn't ride in Canada in 1958.

TWO PLAYERS LEAVE

WINNIPEG (CP) — Veteran tackle Bud Tinsley and rookie quarterback Vernon Cole of Winnipeg Blue Bombers will not be in a rebloe next year, it was learned Monday. Tinsley, 37, who has completed his 15th year as a Blue Bomber lineman, says he is retiring. Cole, 22, will start a three - year hitch with the United States Air Force next March.

FANS RIOTED

BERLIN (AP) — East Germany's Communist leaders Tuesday called for severe punishment to curb rioting at major soccer games. Trouble broke out at Leipzig Sunday, East Germany's official Communist daily, reported. Several hundred spectators started a fight, tried to attack the referee and burned the flag of one of the clubs.

WINS BOUT

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Billy Stephan, 180½, of St. Louis, won a unanimous decision over Charlie Pavils of Toronto Tuesday night in 10 rounds. There were no knockdowns.

At One Time They Were Baby Beef

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—The program for this year's Army-Navy game has a unique twist: Baby pictures of the football players.

The program editors were able to get baby pictures of all the gridders except Navy's quarterback Joe Bellino. A cartoon of a diapered Bellino playing with a football is substituted along with a note: "When Joe was born, the family was in the process of moving—hence, no baby pictures."

An interesting sidelight: Six Navy players are pictured in sailor suits as youngsters.

Two army players are pictured in soldier suits.

None of the cadets wear a gob uniform.

Soccer

LONDON (Reuters) — Brentford drew 1-1 at home against Burnley, Tuesday night in the third round of the English Football League cup competition.

LAST DAY AT THE BELLE — Raymond Burr, TV's Perry Mason, Martha Hyer and Ken Scott, are co-starred in "Desire in the Dust", showing tonight for the last times, with Richard Basehart and Joan Collins in "Sea Wife", the 2nd action feature in Color and CinemaScope.

WILL QUIT BRUINS

BOSTON (AP)—Boston goalie Don Simmons Tuesday reaffirmed his decision to quit Boston Bruins and said he will return to his Springfield, Mass., home. Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Thursday, November 21, 1950

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—If you are tempted to argue with good friends or relatives, recall to mind the kind things done for you in the past and then cement better relations. Be appreciative, also, with anyone you confer with in the outside world.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Though someone may say unkind or untrue things about you now, just remember that your prestige is high and that vital persons in your life are staunch by behind you. Do whatever will restore respect and increase it.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—Cautious from afar may not be lively as you would like them, nor does your present psychology bring the results you desire at home, but if you hold steady to modest methods, you will still be victorious, as well as advance.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — This is no day to follow that erroneous intuition that you think will bring you greater success and happiness. Take it easy and permit matters to work out as they should. Take no risks and do not be jealous of anyone.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — A good day to contemplate upon how to ameliorate conditions with associates in the immediate future. The fault may not be entirely theirs. Consider and give credit for whatever good they have evinced. Have a happy day.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Make this a day for sitting back and enjoying yourself. Work should be put aside since there is an element of danger connected with it, anyway. Take time to show gratitude to fellow - workers for their loyalty in the past.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Take it easy and permit the day's events to work out for themselves, since if you try to force anyone in order to have a good time, you may get into trouble. Avoid worrying or fussing.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Not only must you be kind to family today, but no matter what the provocation from others, see that you do not get into unfortunate arguments. Be careful you do not use caustic words. Keep a cheerful mien and you make this a blessed day.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Important you are careful in motion anywhere today, going to and from dinner parties, etc., or P.M. be understanding with good friend who is unhappy and needs advice and encouragement, no matter what the problem may be.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) While you feel that money talks best, even on a day like this, remember that others consider the personal little things of life more highly, so permit them to express themselves accordingly and fall in with this philosophy.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) —Stop getting so involved with personalities that you cannot see objective in going after your goals. This is a good day to change your philosophy of life and soon you can enjoy far greater success and more happiness.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Try not to be so domineering today so that you save any relationships with others who are vital to your well-being. Then you have the opportunity to privately make important plans with the right people. Be a go-getter. Be happy.

If your child is born today — there will be much ability as a peacemaker or enforcer. So, be sure you early give your progeny the chance to express himself or herself along these lines. However, early curb and tenderly to over-sensitiveness, which genius is connected with hiring and firing.

DESERONTO

Theatre Donated to Board For Holding of Exercises

DESERONTO — On Thursday evening last the annual Concentrated Exercise of the Deseronto High School attracted a fairly good attendance of parents and others interested in the students and the work of the high school. The exercises were held in the Bayview theatre through the benevolence of the proprietor, Stan Mareck. The seating accommodation was good, the program, while lengthy was interesting, and the purpose or reason for the exercises should have brought out a crowd of well over two hundred instead of the hundred or so who were there. The commencement is a good time for the ratepayers to judge if the expenditures for the school are worth the cost. They can see what progress the pupils are making and those who attend every other year can judge quality of the teaching staff by the improvements of the pupils.

This year was no exception to the rule for the local school. Miss Yvonne Stone, who handled the job as mistress of ceremonies did so with the verve and aplomb of a veteran. The various musical and instrumental numbers by the pupils showed of practice and ability and was a tribute to their instructress.

Those receiving awards and certificates displayed a grace and polish that must have been a surprise to many a parent, and the one-act play that concluded the programme left a real interest in the crowd from the opening line to the conclusion.

TOLD OF ORIGIN

At the presentation of the Memorial Scholarship Dr. D. A. McVicker told of the reason and the origin of the award and explained to the audience the efforts that were being made by a very few to raise the amount of the award so that it would be of some benefit to the student receiving it.

The valedictory was given by Miss Joan Hawley who compared the graduation of a student to a ship preparing to leave a coastal port. In a very interesting way she dealt with all the lifesaver on the cruise from school to the voyage of life.

Mayor Sweetnam introduced the guest speaker, Prof. R. D. Phillips, Director of Vocational Teacher Training for the Ontario College of Education. In the main his remarks were directed to the pupils. He stated that often small town students feel their education is not as good as that received in a large centre, where the pupils have the chance of vocational and varied courses. He advised them that education is not from the building but from within, and said that we are tending to expect the government to supply too many of our wants. We want subsidies on this and that, we want wages and compensations in accordance with our desires and not our abilities. He told the students that there is no stop light in education and gave as an example a now famous railroader who began as a student fireman and now occupies an extremely high office. A good rule is to learn something new every day. He also told the people that he would like to see the area around the town join with Deseronto to introduce Home Economics and Industrial Arts to the curriculum of the school.

Miss Helen Bernhardt expressed the appreciation of the students in having such a distinguished and proficient speaker address them.

One School Board For New St. Kitts

TORONTO (CP) — One board will administer both primary and secondary schools in the new, enlarged city of St. Catharines, officials of the merging municipalities were told Monday.

J. A. Kennedy, of the Ontario Municipal Board, told representatives of St. Catharines, Merriton, Port Dalhousie and Grantham township at a meeting here the single board will be responsible for all St. Thomas Catholic schools when St. Catharines is enlarged on Jan. 1.

Only Lincoln High School trustees were opposed to the plan, suggesting their board be left as it is with the addition of representatives from the new city and Thorold.

All four municipalities favor the proposal.

Order Canadians To Shoot To Kill If Attacked

Guard Doubled Around Their School Quarters

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—Angry Congolese troops erected road blocks and seized between 50 and 80 United Nations vehicles today as tension in this Congo capital mounted forward the explosion point.

All UN forces were on this alert. Canadian signalmen and other UN troops were under orders to shoot to kill if attacked by unruly Congolese UN soldiers dug in around the residences of senior UN officials.

They feared reprisals for Monday night's battle in which several Congolese soldiers were killed.

A Congolese Army spokesman said today another body has been found, bringing the casualties from the battle to five dead, three missing and three severely wounded.

The Congolese roamed the streets and set up roadblocks in the residential area where many UN personnel have houses. UN patrols were ordered to spend the night in the city.

The 130 Canadians stationed here were ordered to remain in their school quarters. They doubled the guard around the school and were reinforced by a platoon of tough Malayan jungle fighters.

The Canadians are solidly set up in the school buildings. They were described by Col. Paul Smith of Edmonton and Vancouver, the signal unit commander, as "easy to defend and difficult to take."

Orders to shoot to kill are to take effect only if Congolese soldiers attack the school area only when given by an officer.

Col. Smith said there is no possibility the defence setup may have to be maintained for very long. The company of Tunisians may later be brought in to defend the perimeter of the school grounds.

OFFICERS MOVE BACK

Officers living in apartments near the school have moved back to school quarters—two wings of a former hotel linked by a central headquarters building by long, dark corridors. There are many trees on the school grounds.

Canadians are allowed to leave the school only for shift changes at the UN headquarters command centre, located half mile away.

"Everybody knew it would come to this some time, but nobody knew when or how," one officer commenting on the defence preparations.

The Congolese were angered by the death of one of their senior officers during a battle with UN Tunisian troops Monday. Col. Joseph Lundula, commander of the Leopoldville gendarmerie, and three other Congolese soldiers were killed.

THREATS VOICED

Today 1,000 Congolese watched a state funeral for the four Congolese soldiers in services from the crowd of "death to the United Nations."

Colonel Lundula's body was flown to Coquilhatville, capital of Equateur province, for burial.

SESSION ERUPTS IN NOISY DEBATE ABOUT JOBLESS

Opposition Blocks Seating of Member

TORONTO (CP)—What was to have been a brief, routine session of the Ontario legislature erupted instead Wednesday into a heated, noisy debate on unemployment and the seating of a new Progressive Conservative member.

The legislature voted along party lines in supporting a Speaker's ruling that Liberal and CCF motions to adjourn proceedings for an emergency debate on unemployment were both out of order. The vote was 59 to 25.

In his ruling the Speaker, Hon. William Murdoch, agreed unemployment is an urgent matter of public importance, but said the two motions were not sufficiently specific.

He said adjournment to permit discussion of the subject would limit each speaker to 10 minutes. He said the question is worth more time.

CONSIDER SUTTON MOTION

Premier Frost said the legislature next week will get a chance to discuss the subject when it considers a motion by Richard Sutton (PC—York Scarborough), that the government do all it can in Ontario's economy to co-operate with government and business to create more goods at home and abroad . . . to increase employment opportunities in Ontario."

Liberal Leader Wintermeyer blocked the seating of Phillip Hoffman (PC — Timiskaming) one of two new members elected at recent byelections, when Mr. Frost said the legislature the new member is owed money by the government.

The Legislative Assembly Act prohibits a member from entering into any contract with a government department or agency. However, a special act can be passed granting individual exemptions.

Mr. Wintermeyer said the legislation should be clarified in such matters, adding that the

Stock-Car Racer With Companion Killed in Crash

TORONTO (CP) — Dragging was to resume in Lake Ontario at dawn today for the wreckage of a light plane believed to hold the bodies of two men, one of them a well-known Toronto stock car racer.

Ted Hogan, 38, survivor of 12 serious stock car accidents, is believed to have been the pilot of the plane two suburban Scarborough boys saw explode and crash into the lake Wednesday, 400 yards from shore.

With Hogan aboard the missing Ercoupe craft was Bruce Tranter, 25, a Toronto stock car builder.

The two men flew to Oshawa in an attempt to sell the plane. On the return trip the plane plunged into the lake about 15 miles short of Toronto's Island Airport, Hogan's destination.

FOUND WRECKAGE

Toronto harbor police found wreckage near the crash scene in 15 feet of water.

The two boys, Lew Reilly and Murray McAllister, both 12, told police they saw a plane in trouble. They said one wing appeared to be either crumpled or half off.

An Oshawa couple, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Puckett, said a demonstration ride in the aircraft, Mrs. Puckett said the smell of gas fumes in the plane made her ill. She said Hogan told her the plane had a gasoline and oil leak.

Hogan, married with six children, operated a service station and race car component shop in north Toronto. He had been a private pilot for about three years.

Body of Pilot From Toronto Found in Lake

BEAVERTON (CP)—The body of pilot Donald Johnson, 25, of Toronto was found in Lake Simcoe today a half-mile from the wreckage of a light plane which crashed late Wednesday on a flight from Peterborough to Orillia.

The single-engined Aeronca Champion was upside down in the water a few yards south of this village on the east side of the lake.

Police said Johnson's body was found by a ground party in shallow water after he was given a life preserver and it appeared that he had attempted to swim ashore in the icy water after the crash.

Johnson had been taking flying instructions since February from Orillia Air Services, which owned the light plane, and left Lake Chemong, eight miles north of Peterborough, at 4 p.m. Wednesday on a cross-country solo.

The solo flight was to have been the last he needed for his private pilot's licence.

Johnson had moved to Toronto just recently from Barrie.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis:

Now well into the second week, Indian summer continues throughout all areas adjoining the Great Lakes. This very fine weather strikes a contrast with the weather in Western Canada. For days succession of Pacific storms has pelted the west coast with rain, and through the foothills has laid a carpet of snow. But the current valid spell will continue through Friday in Southern and Central Ontario.

The award was in recognition for his quick thinking and presence of mind in rescuing Robert Mitchell from drowning in the icy waters of the Bay of Quinte.

Compromise Solution May Avert Rail Workers' Strike

OTTAWA (CP)—A part-now, part-later compromise solution to the railway wage crisis—fast approaching a Dec. 3 strike deadline — is reported to be under consideration in cabinet circles.

The plan, as it stands now, is said to involve payment of the first seven-cents of a proposed seven-and-a-quarter-cents an hour for some 111,000 railway "non-ops" workers.

The money — about $9,000,000 for the 12 months of this year — would come from special grants to the railways.

Mr. Wintermeyer said the legislation should be clarified in such matters, adding that the

Argo Player Facing Charge Of Assault

TORONTO (CP) — Don Carraway, 25-pound linebacker with the Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football League, was arrested and charged with assault today after the early morning beating of a 63-year-old parking lot attendant.

The attendant, Herbert Jevens, was in serious condition for broken ribs. Police said he had argued with Carraway about charges just before he was attacked.

Carraway, 22, was charged with assault causing bodily harm

Canada Will Take Over All Pinetree Radar Stations

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada plans to take over gradually the manning of the 20 Pinetree radar stations in Canada now operated by the United States Air Force, reliable informants say.

In exchange for assuming this expensive job — expensive in money and manpower alike—the U.S. will give Canada a reduced price on 66 Voodoo CF-101 interceptors to replace the aging RCAF CF-100 in the air defence system.

Canadian purchase of the Voodoo, however, is contingent on the U.S. buying 32 CL-44 transport planes from Canadair Limited, Montreal. This deal can't be completed until agreement of President-elect John Kennedy's defence secretary and information officers is known, it is understood.

But even without this phase swap, the Canadian government wants and intends to take over manning of all Pinetree stations in this country. The RCAF now mans only 14 of the 24.

The Pinetree chain, still not completed, went into operation in late 1954. It extends now from the west coast of Newfoundland to Dawson Creek, B.C., and from Beausejour, Man., to the east coast of Newfoundland and up the Labrador shore to Frobisher on Baffin Island.

The Prairie gap will be filled in the next few years by five radars, three of which will have gap-filler radars are also being installed to spot low-flying aircraft.

Pinetree's primary purpose is to control the operations of North American jet interceptors and the flights of Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles.

Because of costs and manpower requirements it is unlikely that all 20 American-run stations would be taken over at once, it is said.

The U.S. Air Force now spends about $25,000,000 a year to maintain its 20 Pinetree stations in Canada while Canada spends about $28,000,000 a year on its 14.

MARKS 11TH BIRTHDAY

DALLAS (AP)—To a fellow who lived 111 years before taking his first airplane hop, Thomas Crimmins of Hamilton Township is impressive to view the bustle of city traffic from aloft. "First time I realized anybody could be so safe up above all these dangerous automobiles," observed Ireson, whose short flight Wednesday was a birthday present. "I wish I could learn to fly one of these things." Ireson was a cowboy, farmer and sawmill hand in his younger days.

CONTENDS PLAN WILL NOT MEET 'THE EMERGENCY'

Housing Bill Under Fire in Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — CCF Leader Hazen Argue contended Wednesday that the government's plan to ease unemployment by stimulating house building and bolstering municipal improvement projects fails to meet the "emergency situation."

He demanded an assurance from Works Minister Fulton in the Commons that the proposed measure is not just a "fireside."

He then continued in a vein that indicated he considered it just that, declaring:

"From any evidence I have seen that the government can seriously expect that the measures and others that have been announced are in fact going to deal effectively with the extremely grave unemployment situation in Canada at this time."

The CCF leader wanted to know just how many jobs can be created by the proposed major revamping of the National Housing Act announced in the House Tuesday night by Mr. Walker.

Replying later, Mr. Walker said he was a cabinet minister and not a prophet, and could not say how many jobs would be created, however, his statement to the House said the new program offered tremendous scope for employment.

There is no greater way of creating employment than by building houses, the minister said. Every unit kept a total of five men occupied for six months —"therefore you can see there are great possibilities for employment."

The debate took place on a resolution — subsequently approved—paving the way for introduction of a bill to give Mr. Walker's proposals effect.

Only one Liberal speaker, J. Garland (Antigonish), took part in the debate.

Mr. Walker said he was "shocked" at what he called the Liberals' lack of interest.

"We want to see the bill," shouted J. W. Pickersgill (L.

Coroner's Jury Says Hunter's Death Accident

PARRY SOUND (CP)—Huntsmen should be penalized if they should be penalized if they should lose their hunting privileges or cancelled for life, a coroner's jury recommended today.

The jury said it was "about time the government took drastic action to regulate by law proper wearing apparel, such as red and yellow clothing, for hunters in the woods to hunt."

The jury said the death of Edward Roe, 33, of Lakeview, shot at Star Lake Nov. 5 by a man who was mistaken for a bear, was accidental.

Roe, wearing dark blue clothing, was shot in the chest at 100 yards by Ernest Hill, 30, also of Victor Hall, 36, of Holstein. Hall said he thought Roe was a bear when he shot, "just like a shot bear."

Before last night's nomination meeting had ended Mayor A. M. Haig, W. Harry Rollins, public utilities commissioner; and nine aldermanic candidates had qualified.

Included in the qualifications were seven of the eight retiring members of council who are seeking re-election. They are Aldermen Ross Bailey, Eugene Harrison, Jack Ireland, William E. Eighteen Named For Seven Seats On City Council

Nomination Meeting Quietest in Many Years

Avoid Vote Suggestion Of Nominee

To hold an election or not?

That is the question being debated today by Mrs. Hedley Fenton, one of last evening's nominees for alderman, who feels that with so divided lack of interest and the possibility of few more candidates qualifying than necessary to fill vacant positions, an election may just be a waste of the taxpayers' money.

This morning Mrs. Fenton volunteered to withdraw from the election race if certain other nominees would do the same and thus avoid the expense of an election.

As of noon today with nine aldermanic qualifications completed, the only definite election as of now would be for the seven aldermanic seats in the civic poll, and in one ward for Public school trustee.

If there were no further qualifications there would be no election for mayor or for public utilities. In fact another nomination meeting will be scheduled to name a Ward Six candidate for separate school.

With nine out of eighteen nominees qualifying to run for the seven open positions as aldermen an election for city council seemed indicated today following last night's quiet nomination meeting at city hall.

Four aspirants were nominated for mayor, 18 for city council, and three for the one seat for the public utilities commission.

For public school board there will be a contest in one ward, while there will have to be a new nomination for separate school board as sufficient candidates were not nominated to represent all seven wards.

Of the four nominees for the position of first magistrate, incumbent Mayor A. McLean Haig qualified to run last night. Other nominees for the position included two former mayors, Albert Hepburn and Frank S. Frank S. Follwell, and Jack Hagerman later. Mr. Walker's name was also put forward by the nominating committee.

Harry Rollins has qualified to run for re-election for the one seat on the utilities board. Other nominees were ex-Mayor Jack Hagerman, retired railroadman Joseph Hunter.

In contrast to last year's spirited nomination night's meeting at city hall was a quiet affair. When nominations were opened by Acting City Clerk, Adam Stalker, there were just 13 taxpayers seated in the council chambers with another dozen or so in the lobby outside the council chamber doors.

24 HOURS TO QUALIFY

After nominations were officially opened it was ten minutes before the first nomination was received by the city clerk.

Nominees for the various positions have until nine o'clock this evening to qualify to run at the December 5th election.

Nominations in alphabetical order were as follows:

Mayor — Albert Edward Hepburn, 45 Dufferin Ave., Frank S. Follwell, A. McLean Haig, Arthur Keegan.

Public Utilities Commission — H. Jack Allin, Joseph Hunter and Harry W. Rollins.

City council — seven to be elected — Ross Bailey, Dr. Hedley Fenton, Joseph Burke, Fred Chamberlain; Leslie Wm. Dafoe; Clarence Hyde, Evelyn Hunter, Eugene Harrison, Jack Ireland, William E. Jarvis, Robert Temple, Alexander W. Lewis, Gerald O. Tice, George Wishart and Donald Wilson.

Public School Board — Ward 1, McDonald "Mac" Smith; Ward 2, George Lewis; Ward 3, Mrs. Bruce Bishop; Ward 4, Francis P. Clarke and Donald Harvey; Ward 5, Mrs. Ernest Bowerman and Mrs. Lawrence Thompson; Ward 6, Mrs. Ken Bell and Mrs. Eric Ponton.

Separate School — Ward 1, Gordon W. Conway; Ward 2, Paul Mercier; Ward 3, Paul E. Flemming; Ward 4, Gerry C. Griffin; Ward 5, Raymond Wheeler; Ward 6, ——; Ward 7, Jack Barrett.

ELECTION NOT CONTESTED

Before last night's nomination meeting had ended Mayor A. M. Haig, W. Harry Rollins, public utilities commissioner; and nine aldermanic candidates had qualified.

Included in the qualifications were seven of the eight retiring members of council who are seeking re-election. They are Aldermen Ross Bailey, Eugene Harrison, Jack Ireland, William E. Public School Board—Ward 4: Francis P. Clarke and Donald Harvey; Ward 6: Dr. Clyde Lapsley beer. Ward 6: William Town-Ward 7: Jack Sproule.

'Sell Canadian,' Not 'Buy Canadian,' Should Be Our Slogan Is Claim

TORONTO (CP) — Canadians should adopt a slogan of "Sell Canadian" instead of the old "buy Canadian," R. D. L. Kinsman, president of the Canadian Exporters' Association, said today in an address to the Empire Club.

Urging that Canada make sure that the United States, but her total trading position is moving in the right direction.

Expressing apprehension that Canada's economic future may discriminate against other trading countries, he stated that such action would almost certainly evoke retaliation elsewhere which would not only retard might suffer, but also exports of tropical foods, semi-tropical countries of Central and South America and of Africa.

"Once the south," Mr. Kinsman said, "we lose the world."

"The United Nations estimates that the merchantable imports of the southern countries from the north, over the next 10 years, could total $440,000,000,000."

Mr. Kinsman's comments were contained in a text made available to the press in advance of delivery.

Windsor Bus Drivers Strike

WINDSOR (CP)—Some $3,000 daily passengers of the Windsor bus lines were left to their own devices today as bus drivers went on strike.

The strike went into effect at 2 a.m. when the last bus drove into the garage.

Car pools were organized to get people to work.

The drivers, members of Local 616, Street Railwaymen's Union (CLC), struck to support demands for a wage increase of 15 cents an hour. Basic hourly pay is $1.82.

The company maintains no increase can be granted and has asked employees to accept a salary reduction of 10 per cent to cover loss of revenue.

Buses still continued to serve Amherstburg and Sandwich West. These are not operated by the same company.

Halloway Man Has Own System With Baby Beef

Seventy - year - old Leonard Prest of Halloway has been raising baby beef cattle for city consumption for the past 25 years.

But Mr. Prest is a specialist. His prize production is baby beef.

Like any other specialist he has his own modus operandi.

He believes in a slightly supplemented production on a consumer market level. He says it pays.

The latest of a long line of experiments proved to be his best.

Seven months ago, April to be exact, he took a Shorthorn calf, put it in a stable with its mother and said, "Go to it, son, it's all yours."

Occasionally he fed it whole oats and a little hay as a chaser.

The calf lived and thrived on the "producer-to-consumer" milk method. It never left the stable.

The other day he brought the "calf," now a steer and big, over to the butcher.

He live weight was 800 pounds. Dressed, it tipped the scales at 478 pounds.

A veteran cattleman of the city said the "calf" would be a fine major uranium component.

Mr. Jack Clark of Clark and Miles, said it was the best baby beef carcass he had seen in many years in the butcher business.

Research Plan Aim to Revive Uranium Industry

TORONTO (CP)—A $1,250,000 research program aimed at reviving Canada's sagging uranium industry was announced today.

The program—bankrolled by six major uranium companies—will be headed by Frank Forward, University of British Columbia metallurgist who developed the ammonia leach process for recovery of nickel.

"This is a united effort by the mines to keep our industry alive," said Gilbert LaBine, founder of Gunnar Mines.

Canada's uranium industry is facing the prospect of complete collapse by 1963 because of mine over-production and the loss of United States contracts.

Mr. LaBine said six mines have organized to set up the Canadian Uranium Research Foundation to finance the program.

UNIQUE STUDY

Such a co-operative move, he said, is "first" in the country's mining industry.

Mines involved are Gunnar, Rio Algom, Denison, Faraday, Rirroft and the governments-owned Eldorado.

The foundation will spend $250,000 a year, Mr. LaBine said, with $1,250,000 already pledged by the mines.

Prof. Forward hopes to initiate the program started after the First World War by the International Nickel Company. At that time, nickel demand was falling because of the lack of salt to accompany plate production.

Mr. Forward developed a new way to use for nickel and found it to be an enormous world market.

"Uranium is a very versatile metal," said Prof. Forward. "We will try anything to get new ideas for its use."

Added Mr. LaBine:

"Unless we are doing this we can perpetuate the mines, give employment, make money—and pay taxes."

OPPOSES PAYMENT

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec trucking industry Wednesday declared itself as opposed to payment of a federal subsidy to avert an approaching rail strike. A delegation is to present its views to Transport Minister Leon Balcer in Ottawa today.

11,000 Health Dept. Employees Are Underpaid

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's civil servants were told Wednesday that about 11,000 employees of the provincial health department are being underpaid an average of some 26 per cent.

A 200-page report prepared by a private research firm detailed the results of a survey of 964 representative employees of the health department across Ontario.

Representatives of the Civil Service Association of Ontario-in annual meeting here—said the results indicate that more than 50 per cent of health department employees are underpaid. The figure was said to be 11,000 employees.

Basis for the estimate was an elaborate system of job evaluation, an association official said. This showed that a majority of employees were not paid enough for the work they were doing.

Rescued Miner Will Be Taken To Toronto

TIMMINS (CP)—Miner Alan Rose, fighting for his life in hospital here, was to be flown to Toronto today for specialist treatment.

Rose, 26, was trapped underground for 48 hours in a tunnel collapsed at the Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mine here. He was rescued by rescuers shortly before noon Tuesday.

Mrs. Rose, expecting a baby, and their two-year-old son Mark, were travelling to Timmins by train. She was expected to arrive at 4:30 p.m. Rose was due to leave Timmins about noon.

Mrs. Rose arrived in Toronto from Manchester, England, Wednesday night.

LEG FRACTURED

Rose was trapped in a cave-in at the 1,700-foot level of the mine. He suffered a fractured left leg and his feet were damaged by exposure. He was in serious condition in the mine's emergency hospital Tuesday, but later reports said he was improving.

Reports today, however, indicate the miner is fighting for his life.

A Beaver aircraft, chartered from Central Airways to take Rose to Toronto, was due to leave here at 12:30 p.m.

Meanwhile, Rose's fellow workers have started a fund to help his family. It is in the name of Ron Phail, who was working with Rose when the timbers gave way and loosed tons of broken rock and gravel into the blind-end tunnel.

Garth Brillinger of the Timmins Press, Ltd., a friend of Mrs. Rose today, said he "is a very sick man, but he's survived."

THOUGHT OF PRAYER

He quoted Rose as saying:

"When the first timber fell praying was my very first thought. Then I remembered I had to be in a place like that before I started praying."

"Next I thought of Rose (Shirley) and Mark."

Told about the fund, he said it was "wonderful that people want to help a comparative stranger. I want to thank everyone.

"Fantastic," he said when asked about his wife's arrival in Canada. "It's wonderful that she could get here so soon."

Brillinger said Roses voice is barely audible.

In Toronto, Wednesday Mrs. Rose said she just "went numb" when she heard of the tunnel collapse.

"I couldn't think, I couldn't do anything, I just felt I wasn't living for the three days until the London Herald phoned the . . . message at 4 p.m. that he had been brought out of the mine.

The Toronto newspaper, The Telegram, said the cost of flying Mrs. Rose to Canada,

Rose, a miner, was working in the mine to earn enough money to bring his family to Canada.

Canada Will Keep Troops In the Congo

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Green said Wednesday Canada will keep its troops in the Congo.

He also told the Commons that Canada did not mean to imply any lack of confidence in Secretary-General Hammarskjold when Canada abstained Wednesday in a United Nations General Assembly vote.

He said Canada resisted the pressure of countries who did not name them—which Canada is a member by the Brazzaville countries, including UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold on the U.N. Congo operation.

Harold Winch (CCF — Vancouver East) asked Mr. Green to comment on a statement by Mr. Hammarskjold that UN troops might have to be withdrawn because of the lack of finances. Mr. Green said he had not seen such a statement.

"I don't think there is any prospect of that in the immediate future," Mr. Green said. "There may have been talk from time to time that the UN will not be able to finance it, but that point has not been reached yet."

"The UN is doing an excellent job," he added.

He said the UN estimated the cost of administration in the Congo to amount to $135,000,000 or more, and Canada has pledged $11,000,000, subject to approval of Parliament. In addition, Canada was paying the pay and allowances of the Canadian troops there. The UN was to pay the bill for rations and quarters.

least 40 UN vehicles, forcing the occupants out at gunpoint. A dozen UN officials were taken into custody and released hours later.

Among them was Lt.-Col. Jean Berthiaume of St. Hyacinthe, Quebec, military assistant to UN Gen. Carl Von Horn of Sweden, who was released with fanfare by the Congolese army late Tuesday after being held for more than 12 hours.

Berthiaume, who is said to be the only UN officer army Congolese Col. Joseph Mobutu trusts, entered the Congolese capital Wednesday after surviving the fighting and asked for reinforcements.

After a lengthy conference, during which time there was a violent outburst, Berthiaume was released by Mobutu along with all UN officials. All were taken to UN headquarters unharmed.

RCAF Air Commodore G. C. W. Chipman, the new UN air coordinator, was roughed up a bit by Congolese soldiers Monday night but was not badly hurt.

Meantime, Canadians continue to wear side arms at all times.

Malayan UN scout cars patrolled through the night in the area around the bullet-scarred Ghanaian Embassy, where Monday night's battle occurred. They also patrolled the homes of top senior UN officials, Gen. Indadji Rikhye of India, military adviser to the UN secretariat, and Rajeshwar Dayal, also of India, the UN civilian chief.

WEAPONS READY

The Tunisian UN guard around the houses also was increased. In other parts of the city, Malayan troops dug in around the communications centre and Ghanaian officers spent the night in a nearby mess, with submachine-guns and rifles never out through blackcdout windows.

Meanwhile, a UN spokesman announced Wednesday that a contingent of Ghanaian UN troops will withdraw from Leopoldville in an attempt to placate Congolese leader Joseph Mobutu because the Ghanaians of firing first in Monday's gun battle at the embassy.

There were reports today that the Congolese soldiers might make an attempt to arrest deposed premier Patrice Lumumba, who has been holed up in his official residence under UN guard for several weeks.

Around the giant Congolese army camp, Leopoldville remained Camp Kokolo Wednesday after Col. Mobutu and 3,000 Moundji Congolese soldiers also were digging in.

Wives and children were evacuated from the camp Wednesday.

The UN stopped its radio broadcasts to the Congolese population.

Nothing New Turned up as Letters Tabled

OTTAWA (CP) — The government tabled in the Commons Wednesday its description of the two letters that gave Prime Minister Diefenbaker and CCF leader Hazen Argue, the first word of developments in the case. Mr. Argue said earlier he would seek the information so the public could judge to what extent the power of the RCMP may have been used to give a political advantage to the Conservative party."

The object of the opposition ire was a film clip broadcast by station CHEX - TV Peterborough, showing a day in the life of the Conservative candidate in the Oct. 31 federal byelection in suburban Peterborough riding. Byelection winner was New Party candidate Walter Pitman.

At the time, Liberal candidate Donald Munro contended that the campaign material was dramatized and thus violated the 1958 Broadcasting Act.

CLAIMS TURNED DOWN

He also charged that the station previously had turned down both Liberal and Conservative proposals to use similar material, and that the Conservative Association in Peterborough had the material confirmed by the Bell solicitor before board chairman Dr. Andrew Stewart reversed the ruling at the instigation of Allister Grosart, national director of the Progressive Conservative party.

The charges were denied by both Mr. Grosart and Dr. Stewart. The latter issued an outright denial that political pressure had been applied to the governors. He also refused to heed Mr. Munro's demand for his resignation.

Grand Master Yager Urges IOOF Membership Campaign

TRENTON — Ralph Yager, Grand Master of the Ontario Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, was the guest speaker at a lodge banquet here last night. The banquet was attended by 200 Oddfellows and their wives from Trenton, Belleville, Brighton and Picton, comprising the Bay of Quinte District 47, Members of the Rebekah Lodge were also present.

Chairman for the evening was J. Gould.

Mayor James MacDonald brought civic greetings. He said that he had a great respect for the Oddfellows and their sister lodge. He especially praised the Trenton lodges for their cancer, polio-tuberculosis work, and also mentioned the beautification of Mount Evergreen Cemetery carried out by the Oddfellows. He said that members of both Trenton lodges recently were concerned with matters of civic pride.

Grand Master Yager spoke on Oddfellowship in Ontario. He said that in 1921 there were 30,000 Oddfellows in the province. Today there are 31,000. He said the real reason for this drop in membership was that Oddfellows and Rebekahs had failed to advertise their lodges adequately and had failed to keep members active, alert and interested in the work of the lodge.

The Grand Master outlined the various benevolent facets of the Oddfellow order, such as educational foundation whereby a fund is set aside from which all this money is made available in loans to students for university training.

He said that from the inception of this program more than 1,000 students had been assisted and more than $500,000 had been loaned at 4 per cent interest. The student had more than four years to pay back the loan at the rate of $15 a month. As much as $1,500 may be loaned to a student.

In the United Nations Pilgrimage for Youth, the IOOF arranged for delegates to be sent to United Nations and meet with committee heads. Some 1,000 delegates have been sent to visit the UN since the inception of the project.

HELP ANYONE

The IOOF, said the Grand Master, also supplies hospital beds, wheel chairs and crutches to those needing them. They are not necessarily confined to patients suffering from cancer, polio or tuberculosis. The Oddfellow lodge will also help the community struck by disaster.

The Oddfellows and the Rebekahs also sponsor a home for elderly members of their lodges at Bristol.

Mr. Yager asked the lodge members to step up interest in the International Peace Garden near Brandon, Man. This beauty spot is partly in Canada and partly in the U.S. He said that the IOOF lodge had helped beautify the open area at the border and he advised that more work be done to show the world that Oddfellows were interested in international peace.

The Grand Master said that there must be an increase in membership in the Oddfellow and Rebekah lodges in order to make them more effective in the country. He said he would like to see an increase of 10,000 in the Ontario lodges this year.

Entertainment was supplied by dancers from the Barbara Thurber School of the Dance. Bill Wilson led lodge members in a sing-song, with Mrs. Lew Phinney supplying piano accompaniment.

The banquet was attended by the deputy grand master, noble grands and vice-grands of district 47.

A Fine Start

Speaking generally, we have almost as much faith in disarmament conferences as we have in the programs of governments pledged to cure economic ills.

Almost — but not quite. For while disarmament conferences have so far failed to produce any real disarmament, economic ills have been cured after governments have brought down their legislation and there is just a chance that the, in some cases, may have been affected by the remedy, or at least speeded by it, and that it has not been solely the result of the passage of time.

We have to admit, though, that we may have to revise our pessimism about legislative cures for economic ills if the House of Commons at Ottawa continues to act in the manner it has done so far in the present session.

Chopping seven days off a scheduled eight-day debate on the reply to the speech from the throne indicates that the members, of all shades of political opinion, are determined to make a real effort to improve the state of the nation. Liberal Leader Lester Pearson deserves plaudits for suggesting such a move and to Prime Minister Diefenbaker and CCF Leader Hazen Argue must go equal applause for accepting and concurring in Mr. Pearson's proposal. They may have incurred the enmity of some back-benchers, who often use the debate as an opportunity to harass their constituents by outlining in detail to a bored House the extent and importance of the riding they represent. They have, however, earned the gratitude of the nation as a whole, if this unprecedented determination to get down to business results in measures becoming law in time to meet the situation which they are designed to remedy.

It is noteworthy, too, that the speech from the throne in the Ontario Legislature on Tuesday was primarily concerned with economic conditions. On the whole, the Ontario program would appear to be more concerned with long-range problems than with seeking an immediate alleviation of current conditions — but it would be doubly encouraging if the legislators at Queen's Park could see their way clear to copy their colleagues at Ottawa in coming to grip with these problems at once.

If this orderly co-operation between the two levels of government should spread to the municipal field, to which we referred earlier, that governments never get around to the task of curing a recession until the fever has passed and the patient has started along the road to recovery.

Pen Pals

Yesterday we suggested our children ought, perhaps, to be taught several languages.

The day after that editorial was written, there arrived on our desk a magazine from Poland. In it were the names of some three-score people, mostly young, seeking pen pals. Of this three-score, none was from Canada. Some were from Britain; four offered to write in English, one in English and French. Six were from the U.S.; three listed no language, one gave only English. The others who listed only one language were from Nigeria, Ghana, India, Yugoslavia and Hungary, who all wished to write in English, presumably not the native tongue of any of them.

One of the six U.S. would-be pen pals, just 15, listed "English, a bit of German, studying Italian, Russian and Spanish." But this list, such a sharp contrast from the others from English-speaking countries, was common-place for most of those from other lands. A Hungarian girl, 17, proposed to carry on correspondence in English, German, Polish, Russian, Japanese or Hungarian. A Russian boy, also 17, will write in English, French, German, Polish, Russian and Swedish. An eighteen-year-old Israeli girl offers a choice of seven languages, English, French, Hebrew, Yiddish, Polish and Russian. From China a language student is prepared to write in English, Esperanto, the "world language," and, "less fluently" he shame-facedly confesses, in French and German.

Is there need for any comment?

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHAT OF OUR FAITH?

It is well for us sometimes to ask ourselves what we think and feel the Christian religion actually is.

Quite obviously it is a set of moral teachings. Everywhere, it is a revelation of the nature of God and a statement of His will for men. It involves a massive institution called the church, existing in a number of branches and extending throughout the world. Its followers number hundreds of millions. It reflects in its creeds a wide variety of beliefs.

Yet on the whole, Christian believers throughout the world are united. They disagree on certain issues, of course. They are in quite fundamental disagreement as to what constitutes valid authority in matters of the faith. Yet they are united in their acceptance of Jesus Christ as Lord and Saviour. They are united against the unbelieving world and its spiritual evil. They recourse to expediency as a basis of right and wrong.

We can say in general that Christian discipleship involves the acceptance of Christ and a sincere attempt to put His teachings into practice in everyday living. Christianity is at one and the same time very profound and very simple. It involves the will as well as the mind. It is a unity of beliefs and a matter of action also. It is a hope and as ever-present reality.

Miracles of the Universe
How Will the Earth Die?

BY HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY

ARTICLE 34

One does not here ask whether the Earth will die, for we have discussed that in another article. One does not even ask when the Earth will die, for that surely come. "When" it dies will depend upon "how" it dies.

It occurs to me that there might be a number of ways in which the Earth may end. The following are a few possibilities:

1) By a comet, asteroid or meteor colliding with the Earth;

2) By another planet colliding with either the Sun or the Earth;

3) By fire from inside the Earth;

4) By a change in the orbit of either the Earth or the Sun;

5) By explosion of the Sun;

6) By famine or overpopulation on Earth;

7) By disease;

8) By mag himself;

9) By the burn out of the Sun;

10) By the end of the universe.

Who should answer what lies before us? The philosopher, the theologian, the humanist, the cosmologist, the chemist or who? Perhaps all generals. The generals apparently can have almost the last word over the evolution of man and the future. Perhaps the President of the United States).

The beginning of the end that our Earth is a very tiny thing indeed. We live, in our ordinary star we call the Sun. There are likely millions of stars just like the Sun on which there may be life. Much of that life might be of a type completely alien to that of man and some may be quite superior.

MAN NOTHING SPECIAL

So, in this sense, neither man nor his Earth is anything special. They are subject to the laws of the universe and they will be destroyed by those laws, unless man gives inevitability an eager assist.

By a comet, asteroid, or meteor — No. Such a comet, asteroid or meteor might cause some disturbance on Earth. It might even create diamonds. But it would not Earth will end this way.

By another planet — No. The odds are very poor here. Most planets or stars are in their gravitational places but even so the distances in space are so immense (millions, if not billions) as is possible, is most unlikely.

By fire inside the Earth—No. The volcano activity of Earth goes on quietly, but that's all. The Earth may also have been red hot, in which case it won't become so now. It may have once been molten, but it will not likely be so again from within (internal). (As hot as its nickel iron core is believed to be. This is nothing compared to the heat of a star).

By a change in orbit of the Sun or Earth No. No! likely. The Earth has a set path almost circular around the Sun. The Sun has a set path which it follows. (Many Bells have been doing it for billions of years and will likely go on doing it for billions after the Sun has died as a shining star). Then, both will exist in frozen darkness 460 degrees below zero!! If the orbit did change and we came close to the Sun the ice caps would melt and the world would drown. (average depth of underwater seven inches.) Then the water would evaporate and we would perish to death, the atmosphere would change and likely become unbreathable we might still perish in the Earth might drift further away from the Sun to become a cinder like other planets in the Solar System.

SUN COULD EXPLODE

By Explosion of the Sun — Yes. The Sun could explode some day. There are a number of Suns in space that we see with the telescope, that have exploded. They are called "Novae". They usually happens to the old stars in the centre of a galaxy. Our Sun is a middle-aged, but, ultimately, may well explode, perhaps ten to fifty billion years from now after using up sufficient of its hydrogen gas. Our Sun is quite a big boiler, as is Earth, of bit (atoms) of exploded stars.

By famine or overpopulation — The Earth will not die for this means, nor are all men likely to die for this reason. But, clearly, at the present rates of population growth, the world in its great cities which it will inevitably may not be able to meet.

By disease — not likely, but possible, with overpopulation it is possible. Man has learned to live with most diseases. Kill off 95 per cent even, but 100 per cent? No. It's pretty difficult to kill out all the roots of life. If all plant life was to die, man would also die whether the disease struck him or not. Man breathes what the plants exhale — no plants, no oxygen (no lickee — no laundlee).

By man himself — Man may destroy life but he'll not likely destroy the Earth, and maybe not even life, for all time. Life began and could like to do it again. Although it would differently because the conditions will differ. Man is fooling around with the very basis of the laws of the universe and he doesn't know enough about it himself to handle man much less the universe. He's going out to conquer space and he hasn't even conquered himself. Armies are for "the" great battle against himself like the dinosaurs which devoured armor plates, spikes in their skulls and tails, immense teeth and fantastic bodies — (all the better to eat you with my dear' said the wolf). There was, too, disease battled, and loud was the racket of the beast, which raged through the land, and in the end he died, all of him died, everything but his bones. Fred Hoyle and the flowers survived, for they are purpose and beauty on this Earth.

COULD BURN OUT

By burn out of the Sun — Definitely yes. The Sun will either explode or burn out, or both. When that happens the lights will dim and finally go out and when they do the whole performance will be completed and Earth but not necessarily elsewhere in the Universe. Man may never flee from the Earth but when the Sun, Stars and all will be rolled up like a scroll from which the universe will emerge again like a ray to start out all over. If this theory is correct, and it seems to be logical, this has likely already happened a number of times. There may be billions, millions of earths, or in any event, the universe is made of the stuff that formed other universes, and so are we.

This is quite incomprehensible an ever ending expansion — which will leave space a cold, dark, empty place, with all life gone from it.

Our Enemies Grow to Look Like Us

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

We do most of our confidence to take the second paper from the top of a newsstand, push an elevator button just after someone else has pushed it, and honk at automobile horns before the car ahead of us has had a chance to move.

Why do passersby give us false and misleading directions instead of frankly answering, "I don't know," or "I'm not sure"?

Why are the parents with the poorest manners the quickest to punish their children for being rude to them?

Why is it the invariable mark of a poor speller or writer to use the word "commence" instead of "start" or "begin"?

Why do we keep buying cheap ballpoint pens every week when it would be cheaper (in the long run) and handier to buy an old-fashioned fountain pen, as a writes with character and is usable for many years?

Why do we have a sense of smell more effective in arousing memories than any other sense?

Why are the people who are most fanatical against any form of censorship those who are also lacking in personal charm? And, conversely, those most filled with charm, so often lacking in character?

Why do enemies — both individual and national — get to resemble each other more and more as their enmity increases with time?

Why do travellers journey a thousand miles to see a large lake in the country and then sit by the water falling over rocks, when most of them have never studied the mineral or plant life growing in their own front yards?

Why is silence, after a while, a palpable presence that you can actually "hear" in a room by yourself?

Why do we say that "life is complex" when the fact is that life is simple, but we are complex — and then, when a person does not satisfy the warring contradictories in our nature?

Why do some women look overdressed even in a simple black gown without adornment?

Why are the people who are inordinately proud of always telling you that you are a victim of spiritual fact that swollen pride is as great a sin as lying?

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

PNEUMONIA IS JUST ONE FORM OF PNEUMONITIS

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain pneumonitis. — A. P. R."

Pneumonitis is a term you hear much more frequently now, and will continue to, I'm sure.

It is not necessarily pneumonia, although it may be. Pneumonitis is a general term for inflammation of the lung. Hence pneumonitis is a form of pneumonitis, but not its only form.

A few years ago, before antibiotics, when pneumonia was "captain of the men of death", it was usually caused by the pneumococcus germ.

Since this is a germ, and a virulent one that spreads rapidly, it usually involved a whole lobe or more of the lung. This was "lobar pneumonia". If involved both lungs, it was "double pneumonia".

Before antibiotics, pneumonia ran a typical course, and about all you could do for the patient was make him comfortable and try to maintain what strength he had. There wasn't much that you could do to help the germ's progress. Either the patient's body resources developed enough strength to overcome the germ, or he didn't have it and died.

If the patient had the stamina to outlast the germ's inroads, sometimes on the 7th day after which, if the patient survived, temperature dipped rapidly down toward normal, his cough became looser and breathing easier, and the crisis of her, but a urinalysis by your doctor would give you more positive reflection anything else is wrong.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Our young grandson has been wearing canvas shoes, and the skin of his feet is peeling off. Do you think it could be caused by the shoes or something else? — Mrs. T. H."

The shoes could be too loose. Possibly he gets sand in his shoes. It is also possible that he sensitive to rubber in the shoes especially if he doesn't wear socks.

Antibiotics have changed all of this. Pneumonia is still around, and perhaps always will be. But when true pneumonia develops, antibiotics usually attack the germ's inroads. That is why so many thousands of people live today who otherwise would have died.

It is more common now to encounter infections of the lung caused by viruses, which do not respond to antibiotics the way bacterial infections do.

However, such infections are to be given over to those which are new.

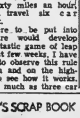
THE PACKSACK

BY GREGORY CLARK



Highway authorities have stated that the "reasonable and prudent" distance referred to in most highway traffic acts as the distance to be kept between motor vehicles on the highway is the length for each ten miles per hour of speed. In other words, a sixty miles an hour cars should travel six car lengths apart.

If they were to be put into practice, there would develop the most fantastic game of leapfrog. The past few weeks, I have been trying to observe this rule on the town and on the highways, just to see how it works. If I leave so much as three car lengths at fifty, the entire motoring world seems to be outraged.

A car with a United States license plate once overtook me at passenger. It was a nervous philosopher. "He's one of those Canadians who have moved to the States," he said. "He's one who like to put us stay-at-home, Canadians in our place."

Reporters Walk Out on Doctor In Conference

LONDON (Reuters) — A group of British reporters walked out on a Canadian doctor Wednesday at a press conference called to announce a project for treating sufferers from arthritis, skin diseases and nervous disorders by bee-venom therapy in Canada.

Dr. Joseph Saine, director of a Montreal clinic, has decided to set up clinics throughout Canada where bee-venom therapy developed by Dr. Englehaman Mrs. Owen will be given.

The walkout took place when Saine was being questioned about the constituent parts of bee-venom.

When he said that one constituent was "formalic acid," a reporter insisted that no such acid existed.

Another reporter suggested that it was proposed to put into patients something which so far had resisted analysis and added "I think that is disgraceful."

Several reporters asserted that it was not known what the bee-venom contained and they walked out.

ENVY DOGMA

Later Dr. Saine said: "I am not an expert on the analysis of bee venom nor am I a specialist in chemistry. I have read that formalic acid is a constituent of bee venom but don't take that as dogma."

He added it was more important to know what the bee-venom did than what it was.

Dr. Saine also was closely questioned on how he would raise the equivalent of $3,000,000 which a printed statement at the conference said he was expecting to invest in the project in Canada.

He said he would have no difficulty in raising that money or even more, from his own resources and those of friends.

PAID $1

Asked how much he had paid for sharing Mrs. Owen's knowledge, he replied: "I paid just $1."

Earlier the doctor read testimonials from medical men vouching for the effectiveness of Mrs Owen's bee-venom therapy and other similar treatments, he said $1 lay in the fact the bee differs in such a way as to vary the quality of their venom to suit different patients and conditions.

Dr. Saine said that he had seen dozens of Mrs. Owen's case histories and patients. Every patient had either been cured or much improved.

The printed statement said the first two clinics in Canada would be opened in Montreal and Toronto and others would follow.

Mrs. Owen attended the press conference.

FOR MORE RECREATION — Belleville Kiwanis Club officials and local parks and playground officials inspect new softball backstop erected by Kiwanis Club at Belleville fairgrounds. Left to right are: Lloyd Doran, recreational director; Gordon Nicholson, parks superintendent, and Kiwanians Don Finkle, Fred Bradley and club president George Tripp.

Kiwanis Provides Recreation Facilities at Fair Grounds

Thanks to the Belleville Kiwanis Club, through two of its special committees, additional recreational facilities will be available at the Belleville Fair Grounds next year.

During this autumn close to $2,000 has been expended by the local service club in setting up a new softball diamond and football field on the infield inside the racetrack at the fair grounds.

The previously rough terrain on the west end of the infield has been graded and levelled, stones and dead stumps have been removed. The entire area has been seeded.

At the extreme west end of the infield a new football field has been laid out and goal posts will be moved from their present location in the outfield of the ball diamond.

A new steel mesh softball backstop has been erected and a softball diamond laid out.

WILL INCREASE USE

Recreational Director Lloyd "Red" Doran notes that the work will greatly increase the use of the fair grounds infield as a sports and recreational site, as previously only one ball game could be held at a time.

Now with the new facilities a baseball game, softball game as well as a football game could be played all at the same time.

Plans for the expanded facilities at the fair grounds were first entertained by the Kiwanis Club during 1959, but due to unavoidable delay the work could not be started until this autumn.

The work has been under the direction of Kiwanis president George Tripp, with Don Finkle as chairman of the boys' and girls' work committee, and Fred Bradley, head of the parks and recreational committee.

Recreational director Lloyd Doran assisted in laying out the new playing fields, while Parks Superintendent Gordon Nicholson supervised the grading and erection of the softball backstop.

Sewer Extension On Wilson Ave. Now Completed

City works personnel recently completed a new sewer extension along Wilson Avenue, this week. A water main was also installed at the same time.

A project to widen Sidney St. at No. 2 Highway has been underway during the past few days. Brush has been cleared from the areas affected and a bulldozer fill has been put in. The work should reach completion shortly.

Drainage facilities have been installed along property lines between North Front and North Park Streets to allow for adequate drainage of a low-lying area during the coming spring thaws.

Elsewhere throughout the city the various department crews have been busy with routine maintenance chores, such as rodding sewers, leaf removal and general clean-up.

Ditching along roads in the annexed areas and brush removal have also been going on.

Chief Organizer Of Opposition Wants Inquiry

QUEBEC (CP)—The chief organizer of the opposition Union Nationale party, J. D Begin, urged the Liberal government Wednesday to investigate him, and the department he headed when his party was in power before anybody and anything else.

Speaking in the legislative assembly he said he was "disgusted and fed up" with Liberal tactics of past years which consisted of insinuations without proof and urged the government to call its royal commission of inquiry into the administration of the former Union Nationale government to commence hearings immediately.

The government has not yet named the date the inquiry will begin but the commission has been formed. It is to investigate the sale of the Montreal gas facilities of the publicly-owned Quebec Hydro-Electric Commission to private interests and the purchases made by the department of Mr. Begin, who was colonization minister under the late premier Maurice Duplessis.

"I have nothing to fear from an inquiry," Mr. Begin, the man who ran the powerful electioneering machine of Premier Duplessis through its 16-year administration.

If anyone in his Dorchester riding could say they paid him a single cent in connection with government business he would resign immediately from the legislature.

VISIT CITY

MONTREAL (CP)—Governor-General and Mme. Vanier arrived Wednesday for a three-day visit.

CNR Postpones Trial of New Fast Freights

MONTREAL (CP) — The CNR announced Wednesday it has postponed a trial of a new fast freight service between Toronto and Winnipeg, scheduled for today.

Douglas Fisher, CCF member of Parliament for Port Arthur, had warned in the Commons Tuesday that the CNR crew members — engineer, fireman, brakemen and conductors—might take an illegal walkout in Northern Ontario if the trial run was made.

The CNR said the experiment is being postponed because conditions are not right, but it was understood that the non-operating unions' nation-wide strike scheduled for Dec. 3 also influenced the railways decision.

The trial will be made at a later date.

Transport Minister Leon Balcer consulted representatives of the three unions involved and was understood he was to take up the matter with CNR President Donald Gordon.

The unions claim that doubling the runs to about 300 miles covered in 10 to 11 hours would tire the crews too much and endanger safe operation.

About 175 of the railway workers met in Capreol in a closed meeting Wednesday night and decided to take no further action until the CNR decides to make the trial run.

French Language Not Used As Much in House Debates

OTTAWA (CP) — The use of French in Commons debates dropped slightly during the last session.

A check of Hansard—the verbatim report of debates—shows that speeches in French filled about nine per cent of the space compared with 10 per cent in 1959.

During the 148 days the Commons sat, there were 21 days when English was used exclusively. In the 1959 session, the Commons sat 127 days and there were 16 days when no French was used.

The proportion of nine per cent is considered reasonably high, however, because before a simultaneous translation system was installed in 1959 only about three per cent of speeches were in French. The 1958 session, with six per cent, was an exception.

A spokesman for the bureau of translators said the slight drop in the use of French in the 1960 session could be explained by the fact that the novelty of the simultaneous translation system had worn off after one year.

DELAY FOR SENATE

Meanwhile, the Senate has resumed but it will not be possible to have its simultaneous translation system in operation this year, The system would have been ready if the session which began Nov. 17, had opened in late December or early January.

In view of the impossibility of getting the work done sooner the government has decided to delay the project until next session.

When the system comes into use, it is expected use of French in the Senate will increase as it did in the Commons.

In the 102 - member Senate, there are about 20 French-speaking senators.

The proportion of French in the Senate Hansard of the last session was about 2½ per cent.

The constitution recognizes both French and English as official languages in parliamentary debates.

Immediately after Confederation in 1867, French was most commonly used in Parliament, because French-speaking members from Quebec outnumbered members from other provinces.

However, the use of French began to decline after Prince Edward Island and the western provinces joined Confederation, making French-speaking members a minority.

Wedding

FURMIDGE - McCAFFREY

Baskets of yellow and white chrysanthemums, interspersed with ferns, formed a lovely setting in Canniffon United Church for a recent very pretty wedding when Wilma Madeline McCaffrey of Corbyville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. McCaffrey, was united in marriage to Frederick William Furmidge, also of Corbyville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick William Furmidge, by the Reverend J. A. Macaulay of Canniffon. The guest pews were designated by white satin bows.

The wedding music was rendered by the church organist, Mrs. Olive Farham, who accompanied the soloist, Miss Carolyn Brenton, in her rendition of "O Perfect Love" before the ceremony, and "Because" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the lovely bride was charming in her floor-length bridal gown of French peau de soie fashioned with portrait neckline and knotted bodice having long sheath-like sleeves ending in "V" points over their wrists. The full skirt was enhanced with floral applique. Her fingertip illusion tulle veil was held by a bow type headdress with lace insert forming scalloped edges. She carried a white Bible crested with red roses and cascading streamers knotted with tiny rosebuds.

Miss Marjorie Colden of Belleville attended the bride as maid of honor, wearing a street-length gown of turquoise silk organza over taffeta, with satin sheath fitted bodice having portrait neckline. A matching hat with tiny veil, white gloves and turquoise shoes completed her ensemble.

Miss Joan McCaffrey of Corbyville, sister of the bride, and Mrs. June McCaffrey, of Corbyville, sister-in-law of the bride, were bridesmaids. Both were gowned identically to the maid of honor in turquoise with matching picture hats and veils, shoes and gloves, and the attendants were matching pearls and earrings, the gifts of the bride and carried bouquets of yellow and white 'mums.

Little Miss Karen McCaffrey of Port Hope and niece of the bride, as flower girl, was demure and sweet in her white nylon dress with turquoise cummerband, turquoise hat with tiny veil, shoes and gloves. She wore a tiny gold locket, the gift of the bride and carried a basket of yellow and white 'mums.

Mac-Ray Furmidge, of Port Hope, attended his brother as groomsman.

Ushers were Messrs. George MacDonald, of Belleville, R.R. 5, and Arthur McCaffrey, of Corbyville, brother of the bride, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the church parlors, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, attired in dusty rose nylon lace over taffeta, with matching accessories and corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by the bride's groom's mother, who was gowned in aegean blue lace over taffeta with matching accessories and corsage of red roses.

The bridal table was appointed with white* damask linen and centered by a three-tier wedding cake adorned with pink and white icing and misted about the base with pink and white tulle. The bridal bouquet added a pretty nuptial accent, as did the pink and white candles.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Cleveland, Detroit, and London, Ontario, the bride travelled in a printed silk sheath in blue and green with winter-white background; black and white accessories and corsage of red Sweetheart roses.

The guests attended from Port Hope; Roslin; Tyrrell; Monmore; London, Ontario; Frankford; Carrollton; Niagara Falls, N.Y. and Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Furmidge are residing in Corbyville, Ontario.

A Bloomfield couple this week celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Fever were at home to relatives and friends and were recipients of many gifts and congratulatory messages. Mr. Fever, 83, is chief engineer with the Baxter Canning Co. at Bloomfield. His wife, 81, does all her own housework. Both are in excellent health, a condition they attribute to keeping active and not worrying. They are members of Bloomfield United Church. Born at Bond Head, in the Newmarket district, they resided at Barrie, Lindsay and Cornwall before moving to Bloomfield eight years ago. The four members of their family attended the anniversary celebration. They are: Lorne of Belleville; Alvin of Montreal; Hazelle of Cornwall and Mrs. Florence Gunther, Cornwall. (Hodgson, Picton).

Holy Trinity Church Holds Fine Dinner

SHANNONVILLE — The Women's Guild of Holy Trinity Church, Shannonville, held a successful dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. McKenzie, on Tuesday.

The guests were graciously received at the door by the president, Mrs. S. Fitzgerald, with Mrs. A. McBride receiving the admission fee.

The dining room decorations were carried out in the Christmas theme with the white linen covered table being prettily set with white 'mums, poinsettias and red candles. Traditional Christmas recordings were quietly played in the background, adding to the enjoyment of the waiting guests.

The bountifully laden tables of turkey, vegetables, cranberries and garnishes were presided over by the ladies.

The Rev. J. C. Riesberry said grace before the seating of the guests.

Those serving were Mrs. B. Hamilton, Mrs. R. Cook, Mrs. A. Ryckman, Mrs. J. Williams, Mrs. J. Kent and Mrs. G. Johnstone.

Mrs. T. Whittle saw to the replenishing of the turkey; Mrs. V. Kilpatrick the pie; Mrs. A. Hagerman the buns, pickles and garnishes; Mrs. A. McKenzie, the tea, coffee and vegetables.

Those in the kitchen were Mrs. A. Spencer, Mrs. M. Bradshaw and Mrs. G. Cox.

The ladies are to be congratulated on a well convened dinner and a successful project. A goodly sum was realized.

Mr. and Mrs. William George Foster are shown signing the register following their wedding at St. Patrick's Church, Toronto on Saturday, November 19th. The bride is the former Miss Dorothea Elaine Ehmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred J. Ehmann of Toronto. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wellwood Foster of Frankford, Ontario. Numerically, Alcohol Is Most Important of Addicting Drugs' States Dr. Harris Isbell, P.H.S.

The November meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held at the home of Mrs. D. Bertrand with opening with a study under the Department of "Sabbath Observance," conducted by Mrs. Bertrand.

The problem of commercialization of the Lord's Day gives concern to Christian women from time to time. They are alarmed at the increasing pressure for relaxation of laws, having to do with the Sabbath. It is suspected that a motive of self-interest and greed, underly many of the pressures that passed, as excuses for man's need of recreation and should scrap the danger. One should observe the Lord's Day because the Lord blessed and hallowed the one day in seven.

The meaning of the Sabbath in its fullest sense is "re-creating". To rest from labor and to gain strength for the week ahead. It also seems the duty and privilege of public leaders to expand opportunity for healthful re-creation on Sunday. But to put the dollar sign over the Sabbath and to let commercialism dictate to us, to sell its wares from stadium, arenas and places of entertainment is not to further re-creation but to deny the need. One thing to which one can hold fast is this worship God In His House on His day.

The clip-sheet was "The Drug Menace," pancilled by Mrs. Way, Mrs. F. Clark, Mrs. Bertrand and Miss Barnum.

Drug addiction is a world problem, recognized as such by 70 governments under NATO, adopting international control. Following World War II, world health organizations became deeply concerned over the rising incidence of drug addiction in Western Hemisphere. The unrelieved and mounting tensions of the age are driving large numbers of leading citizens to seek surcease from stress in sleeping pills.

Unfortunately, many who start the habit of taking normal doses, for temporary periods of insomnia or jangled nerves, pass gradually into full blown addiction.

Canada has over three times as many drug addicts as Great Britain. Three provinces have serious trouble, British Columbia is first, Ontario is second, and Quebec is third.

Canada receives most of her drugs from China. The United States' particular problem is Mexico. It has been stated that heroin addiction is like a cancer, ruinicable disease, therefore a danger exists and knowledge of the facts is necessary.

A narcotic is a drug that produces sleep or stupor, relieves pain. Medical men recognize narcotic drugs as among the most useful weapons against suffering and, if wisely administered, are a boon to mankind.

Narcotics may be divided into two main groups: stimulants, which tend to excite the nervous system and keep the user awake; depressants, which produce drowsiness and sleep.

Most dangerous among the stimulants is cocaine, a white powder obtained from coca leaves; often called "snow" by addicts, sometimes used as an anaesthetic (local). Addicts snuff through the nose or inject into the veins with a hypodermic needle. The feeling of pleasure it produces lasts only a short time and leads to depression and depression which is only relieved by a "shot". Thus the habit is formed of the unpleasant drug.

Dr. Harris Isbell, chief of the Narcotic Hospital of the United States Public Health Service, has stated that "numerically, alcohol is the most important of all addicting depressant drugs", referring to the western civilization's chief addictions, alcohol, opium and its derivatives.

American addicts seldom use opium, but there is a good sized illicit trade in its main derivatives, morphine and heroin. Both are powders and sold by dope peddlers in capsules (caps) or flat packets (deck). Both are powerfully addicting drugs. Heroin is considered worse than morphine; its manufacture and sale were prohibited by federal law many years ago.

Marijuana is another drug that is smoked in the form of a cigaret.

Dr. Maclean's Magazine, Sept. 15th, an article by Dr. Gordon Bell, states that new drugs are making new addicts.

"Lines on Life"

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

A prominent and successful man in his community, he had placed this description of his philosophy on his desk. On it he had printed said: "Success is a ladder of 10 rungs. Some scale it in one fell scoop. Others, slowly but surely, but some get caught in mid-air they never reach the top." Beneath this introduction, there was a picture of a ladder; the lowest rung was valued at 10 per cent while the highest was equal to 100 per cent: 10 per cent — I can't know; 20 per cent — I wish I could; 40 per cent — I could; 50 per cent — I think I might; 60 per cent — I might; 70 per cent — I think I can; 80 per cent — I can; 90 per cent — I will; 100 per cent — I did."

Very few can reach the 100 per cent rung, because we've become lost on the way and never get much the 90 per cent mark. There is very little that stands in the way of a man's will, when a man wills. The distance between "I can" and "I did" is a long one, indeed. Only those know the "inner ring" in there a few possibility of "doing."

Self-discipline is the key to making our will work for us. In the past, traditional moral codes grew out of self-discipline. Today the "modern" theme is self expression — "do what you please, when you please, how you please." No inhibitions, please; no slavishness to silly morals or foolish, high-minded goals.

The ancient world used the chastisement as a most illuminating example. Locking up the slaves, they called the ideal, they called inhibition. Setting them loose, to run wild and trample on pronle menacingly, was called self-expression. Harnessing them to a chariot — yoking them to some useful, fruitful task — they knew as self-discipline. But "self-discipline" is a hard thing to do. Most people are satisfied to hitch their star to a wagon and so they never get there. They do not start "They can't" because "they won't".

"May Thy will become my own" is the most prevalent inebriprew prayer. But learning God's will cannot help the man who has none of his own!

Chippewayan Princess Known To Be Over 100 Years Old Gives up Predicting Weather

By GARTH SEELINGER of The Timmins Press

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP)—Princess Maggie Leclair has given up predicting the weather. The full-blooded Chippewayan princess, known to be more than 100 years old, says she will leave that sort of thing to the white men who make forecasting their jobs.

In years gone by Maggie would give an annual prediction and it nearly always proved to be accurate. How she did it was never explained although she once hinted that it had something to do with trees and the fur on various wild animals she used to trap.

Age is the chief reason for giving up forecasting, she said. She was getting too old to start looking for the tell-tale signs of what the coming winter would be like.

Sitting in the warmth of her tiny cabin, she said she would still like to go out and see what she can catch in her traps but that others were best to take it away. They've taken the traps away from her.

VALENTINE HER HOME

Three years ago, when Maggie completed one of a little rheumatism, friends arranged for her to into moving to a home here known as Indian Valley. But she didn't like it and left after a short time.

People at the home thought she was heading for downtown Timmins. They were surprised when they found she had walked the 30 miles back to her cabin at Kamiskotia Lake northwest of the city. Further attempts to get her to return were fruitless.

The princess with the broad smile and steely-hard eyes still displays the independence of spirit that came to her when she had to fend for herself after the death of her husband and children.

When unannounced callers arrived at the cabin, she made hasty attempts to straighten up the place and find a place for them to sit.

Outside, her cat Smokey was sitting on top of a pile of cabin. It was the refusal of the manor to let her keep the cat with her that prompted her to leave the home.

What is Maggie's chief worry now? She says it's that her age is showing her down so much and that now she can't walk into Timmins for shopping.

Women's Activities

MINTO W.A.

MINTO — Salem United Church was filled recently when the ladies of Salem, W.A., entertained ten branches of the W.A., namely, St. Paul's, Purling; St. Thomas' Anglican, Bethesda, Beulah, Zion, Springbrook, Fuller, Carmel Wellmans and Mount Pleasant.

The president, Mrs. Wickens, called the gathering to order and opened the meeting. She extended a warm and cordial welcome to all, trusting the time of fellowship spent together would be most profitable and enjoyable.

DEVOTIONAL

Mr. Paul's, Stirling, took charge of the devotional. Those taking part were Mrs. Volney Richardson, Mrs. J. B. Thompson and Mrs. Bob Patterson, and chose as their theme, "Armistice." Mrs. Richardson gave a timely narration on the meaning and observance and sacrifice of Armistice Day. Mrs. J. B. Thompson led the hymns of devotion with Mrs. Patterson offering prayers. Both most impressive devotional periods ended with a duet by Mrs. Roy Eggleton and Mrs. Harry Philip, which was most appropriate.

Mrs. Carman Sine and Mrs. K. Thompson from Springbrook sang a duet with Mrs. Ralph Wellman playing the accompaniment.

Mrs. L. Tanner gave a reading, "A Woman in Verse." Mrs. A. Pyear of Carmel played the piano.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Lorne Hagerman introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. G. Dobbs, of Belleville, who gave a most interesting and timely talk on General Council, which she had the honor to attend in Toronto.

Mrs. Goldie McInroy and Mrs. Roy Dulmage of Beulah sang a duet with Mrs. Ralph Haggerty playing the accompaniment. Mrs. Everett Sine gave a reading.

The president, Mrs. Wickens, expressed thanks on behalf of the W.A. to everyone who had helped in any way with the program, making special mention of Mrs. Dobbs.

The meeting closed and lunch was served by the hostess branch followed by a bake sale in the church hall.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Olive N. — Home isn't home if my friends can't come over.

Mr. G. N.— They're rowdies, wild and disrespectful.

Olive N. — Ever since what happened last Sunday, my parents will see precious little of me. My friends mean everything to me and my father insulted them.

I'm 17 and a freshman in college. Since we have a piano and a tape-recorder at home, I invited a few friends over for a jazz workout. Some of the boys in our crowd grow beards but they're not beatniks. They're artists, creative people. Two of them just happen to be between jobs.

Well, you should have heard my father! It was still early when he said, "All out! I must get my sleep. I have to get up early tomorrow. I'm no college boy. I have nobody supporting me. I can't stay up like you till all hours singing sick stuff like a jackass!"

I was mortified. We'll find other places to get together for our fun. And my father and mother will just have to guess where!

Mr. G. N. — How much can a man take? Shouldn't young people, especially a grown daughter, support, have some consideration for older people?

Would you believe it? Ollie brought [illegible] around 10 o'clock. They'd probably been kicking [illegible] where? There were [illegible] girls and about five fellows, the rudest bunch of kids you ever saw — hair wild, no [illegible] manners at all.

They couldn't have been so bad. But the [illegible] and the language! Man, this, and cool that and [illegible] words! I won't repeat. I was afraid the neighbors would start ringing our bell. And bad as the noise was, the music was worse. Someone just kept banging out notes that were out of tune and out of time, and someone else hit a drum to make sure there wasn't a moment of quiet.

When I walked in around 11:30, one of those young squirts said, "Ollie, here's your old man." Old man! I got them all out fast, demand respect up to a point. But it's better for both parents and children to earn it, step by step, through courteous and responsible regard for each other. Olive should certainly clear things with her parents before plunking a hotsehi in their midst. She'd do as much with her roommate before inviting guests into shared quarters.

And given another opportunity, Mr. N. may bite his tongue before destroying the "big shot" image of herself Olive tries to build for her friends. He can hash out the matter of his rights later, in private. He can address her friends reasonably, in her presence.

Two final pointers, Mr. N.: Be glad Olive's friends are brought home. Patch things up so that this is resumed.

And, don't pre-judge the young people. Some of them may be a potent force for good, hence allies of Olive's parents. If you have definite proof of bad companions you can enlist the help of others — teachers, police, your pastor — in protecting Olive. Antagonistic forbidding us usually fulfils. Sometimes all it does is solidify friendships which might otherwise dissolve.

Club Activities

DESERONTO — The Deseronto Cub and Scout Committee at its regular monthly meeting on November 18th decided to again try to arouse some parental interest in scouting. They are calling an open meeting for parents of boys of the town and anyone interested in scouting, at the Elora Hall on November 28, at 8.00 p.m.

The previous attempt had only two interested persons other than the committee in attendance; as a consequence nothing was accomplished in regard to finding leadership for the scouts. After several attempts to secure a scout leader and assistant the situation has reached the critical stage. Without the support and interest of the parents and citizens generally it could mean the end of scouting in Deseronto.

It is hoped that all who are interested in this worthwhile work with the young lads will plan to attend this meeting.

MODERN MANNERS

— by Ginger Shaw —

QUESTION BOX

...ove I have been married a little over a year. Next month I'm ... to be wed ... My mother insists that I ... dress to ... this occasion. The dress is ordinary a bridal gown. Its ankle-length, full-skirted, but has no train. I think wearing this dress is wrong. She reads your column every day, so, if you agree with me, please give your answer.—Mrs. P. T. R., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: Your mother is absolutely wrong! To begin with, a guest should never wear a ankle-length dress, wedding or otherwise, to a noontime ceremony. It would only make you appear conspicuous and ridiculous. Your wedding gown could be worn to an evening dancing part, but it would have to be a formal one. Actually, the tradition is that once wedding dress is carefully put away and is not to be worn until your own daughter wears it on her wedding day. Talk mother out of this completely wrong idea. Wear a street-length gown, with hat and gloves, and you will be properly dressed.

Question: I am having a battle with my teen-age daughter. Whenever we have gravy, she mops up her plate with a piece of bread. I tell her this is very bad manners. She replies that since she is dishwasher, she has the right to make it easier for herself, at least with one dish! What can I do to make her see how wrong she is?—Mrs. D.B.A., Detroit, Mich.

Answer: Try to impress her with the fact that she is acting like a small child. If she refuses to act her age, treat her as a child. Every time she mops up her plate, send her from the table. Disregard the resultant tantrum and stick to your guns about it. Sooner or later, if you hold out, she will realize that she is being childish and that her manners are deplorable.

Question: I am an unmarried girl and am often asked to cocktail parties or small evening gatherings. I am never asked to bring an escort. Is it correct to take one along anyhow? I hate going alone.—Miss P.A.M., Passaic, N.J.

Answer: For the daytime parties I would definitely suggest that you do not ask an escort to take you. For evening get-togethers, I think it is permissible to call your hostess and ask if you may bring an escort. Do not take him without her permission, however. Too many hostesses make this mistake, I think. When asking an unattached woman to an after-dark party, I think she should indicate that you are to bring an escort, or she should supply one for you herself!

Question: I have a bet with a friend. Please give me the answer! How are vegetables served in a nice dining place, for instance one in which meals run from $3.50 up? I say they are always served in a separate vegetable dish. She says they should be served on the dinner plate. Whose right in this argument?—Mr. E. S., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: In a way, you both are! Actually, vegetables are usually served on the dinner plate with the meat. However, there are times when a small vegetable side dish is used. For example, a large baked potato, stuffed with sour cream, etc., is usually presented in this manner. But, except in special cases like this one, the vegetables should be on the dinner plate.

FEWER MARRIAGES

VANCOUVER (CP)—Although 1960 is a leap year, this city reports a drop in the number of marriages. There were 40 fewer marriages in October than in the same month in 1959. For the year the total was down by 360.

Carrots and Apples – Dressed Up

By Mary Moore

Yesterday I gave you a recipe for a veal cutlet dish for guests and an eggplant souffle and promised to give you the other items I served at the same meal. Carrots are such a dependable and inexpensive vegetable we should make a business of knowing several ways to serve them. Here is one of the simplest variations and I like it particularly because the liquid in which they were cooked is included. Sue liked them too.

CARROTS IN PARSLEY SAUCE:

To serve 6, scrub 6 large carrots, cut off tops and tips and boil, whole in 1 cup boiling water, with 1-2 teaspoon salt, covered, until tender. Drain but reserve liquid. To liquid add enough milk to make it up to 1 1-2 cups. Chop carrots coarsely. Add to liquid along with 1-2 cup chopped parsley. Heat. Stir 3 tablespoons flour into 1-4 cup cold water until smooth, and stir this flour paste into the carrots until thick. Stir over low heat for another couple of minutes.

NOTE:

You will see that this carrot dish does not call for butter. But if you want to make it richer substitute 3 tablespoons of melted butter for the 1-4 cup water in the flour paste.

In March of this year I gave you a recipe for Applesauce Amandine. I wanted to eliminate the applesauce-making step last night, so using the same ideas I sliced raw apples into the casserole and liked it. This is a glorified apple crumb type of thing, but without butter.

APPLES AMANDINE:

(Serves 4).

Stir Gravenstein or other medium-large cooking apples, 1-3 cup chopped blanched almonds, 1-2 to 2-3 cup dark brown sugar (see below), 1-4 teaspoon almond extract, 2-4 or 1 cup macaroon crumbs (or finely chopped coconut macaroons), unsweetened whipped cream for topping.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY

Veal Curry; Rice with a little Crushed Pineapple; Buttered Green Peas; Sliced Tomatoes and Cucumbers; Fresh Fruit Sundae; Simple Fruit Cake; Tea.

SUNDAY (Guests)

French-Italian Veal Cutlets (see Wednesday); Eggplant Souffle (see Wednesday); Carrots in Parsley Sauce (see Thursday); Individual Salads; Apples Amandine (see Thursday); Coffee.

Wash, pare and cut apples in eighths and spread into shallow baking dish or deep glass pie plate. Sprinkle the almond extract over the sugar in cup and mix in. Sprinkle flavored sugar evenly over apples (amount of brown sugar depends on your sweet tooth. Peaty and Doris and I thought it was exactly right with 1-2 cup. Pete wanted it a little sweeter.) Mix together the chopped blanched almonds and macaroon crumbs and sprinkle evenly over top. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 40 or 45 minutes. Serve with unsweetened whipped cream. I baked it along with the Eggplant Souffle, recipe for which I gave you yesterday.

Try the recipes I have given you today and yesterday for your next company meal.

FIGHT TOOTH DECAY

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Experiments to determine the effectiveness of fluorine in drinking water as a tooth-decay deterrent have been carried out in Norrkoeping, Sweden, since 1952. A report expected soon is expected to show a 50-per-cent reduction in dental caries.

Eisenhower Administration Getting Down to Brass Tacks In Stopping Flow of U.S. Gold

This is the last of a series on the heavy drain on the U.S. gold stockpile and steps being taken to solve a worrisome international problem.

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — For more than a year the Eisenhower administration has been fussing around the edges of the gold problem. Now it is getting down to brass tacks.

Why the sudden emphasis on emergency action when the U.S. still owns $18,000,000,000 of gold —about half of the free world's total supply?

It's largely a matter of arithmetic.

First of all, $11,500,000,000 of it is tied up by law. It can't leave the country because it backs up part of the U.S. money supply. That leaves $6,500,000,000 of gold to meet foreign demands—the demand that the United States must satisfy at all times if the U.S dollar is to remain "as good as gold."

Since 1957, foreign countries have been buying gold at an annual rate of more than $5,000,000,000.

Obviously, the U.S. gold stockpile would run dry in a little more than a year if buying on that scale continued.

REMOVE UNCERTAINTY

To guard against such a development, the Eisenhower administration has invoked controversial new policies which have two primary objectives:

1. To dispel any foreign uncertainty about the U.S. dollar by demonstrating that the United States will do whatever is necessary to make sure the gold stockpile doesn't run out.

2. To reduce the deficit in the U.S. balance of payments. It is this deficit — $5,800,000,000 last year—which gives foreigners the money with which to buy American gold. If there were no deficit, there would be no gold problem.

The deficit can be pared either by spending fewer U.S. dollars abroad or by collecting more U.S. dollars from foreigners.

The best way to collect more U.S. dollars is to sell more goods and services in foreign trade. Exports in 1959 brought in $22,000,000,000. Exports have advanced sharply since then but they still fall far short of eliminating the deficit.

Many people doubt that a similar export increase can be achieved next year, particularly if Europe's boom levels off.

On the deficit side, the biggest item in 1959 was the $18,800,000,000 which Americans spent to import civilian goods and services. One way to reduce the deficit would be to restrict imports through quota s or higher tariffs But, that would inspire retaliation against US. exports.

The next largest item last year was $3,300,000,000 in government loans and non-military foreign aid. Here there are at least three possible courses of action:

1. Eliminate or reduce the aid and loan programs.

2. Insist that those who receive said or loan funds spend them in the United States whenever possible.

3. Urge other countries to bear part of the aid burden.

President Eisenhower has decided "that the second and third alternatives are necessary.

Quebec Liberals Gain Two Seats In Byelections

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec Liberal party overwhelmed all opposition to win two provincial byelections Wednesday, picking up two new seats.

Premier Jean Lesage immediately called the victories proof of growing Liberal popularity.

Both Liberal wins took seats away from the Union Nationale party. The byelections were the first electoral tests since the Liberals ousted the former Union Nationale government in Quebec's general election last June 22.

Winning in Joliette riding was Gaston Lambert, a 40-year-old industrialist, Victor in Rouville riding was Francois Boulais.

So decisive were the Liberal wins that all opponents—Claude-Edouard Hetu, Union Nationale, and Marcel Ostiguy, Independent, in Joliette and L. Paul Frechette, Union Nationale, in Rouville—forfeited their $200 deposits for failing to get at least half as many votes as the winners.

In Joliette the Union Nationale's total vote was less than the majority by which the seat was won in June by Antonio Barrette, former Union Nationale leader who resigned last September in a dispute with other party officials.

The vote in Joliette, with all 160 polls reported, was: Mr. Lambert, 10,435; Mr. Hetu, 5,136; and Mr. Ostiguy, 1,295. In Rouville Mr. Boulais had 7,237 votes to 3,480 for Mr. Frechette with only one of the 81 polls unreported.

Mr. Barrette won Joliette last June with a majority of almost 6 000 for the Union Nationale.

The byelections were looked on as essential by the Liberal party to consolidate their position in the legislature. The new standings are Liberal 53; Union Nationale 41; Independent 1; total 95.

An unusually heavy turnout was recorded in both ridings. In Joliette, 77.6 per cent of the 21,722 voters cast ballots. In Rouville 81 per cent of 12,983 eligible voted.

Whites Replace 17 Negro Porters

TORONTO (CP) — I. M. (Casey) Dodds, Canadian director of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, (Ind.) Wednesday urged Transport Minister Balcer and Labor Minister Starr to intervene in the recent discharge of 17 Negro porters from a Murray Hill Transport concession at Montreal Airport.

Mr. Dodds sent the cabinet ministers a telegram stating that the men were replaced with 17 white porters. He added he had also asked Liberal Leader Lester Pearson and CCF Leader Hazen Argue to intervene.

German Rejection of Plea By U.S. Worries Newspapers

PARIS (Reuters)—Two senior U.S. officials continued their financial mission here today as newspapers debated their failure to talk West Germany into making direct cash payments for the upkeep of American forces stationed there.

U.S. Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson and the undersecretary of state, Douglas Dillon, who came here Wednesday from the West German talks, met French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville today.

The American concerned that American gold reserves have hit their lowest level in 25 years, are due to go to London Friday for more talks. Anderson met Wednesday with French Finance Minister Wilfred Baumgartner.

The Times of London says in an editorial that it would be a mistake to underrate the psychological impact there may be in America at the sight of their negotiators coming away from Bonn empty-handed.

MUST FACE DANGER

"As (U.S.) service families are withdrawn from Europe" under President Eisenhower's announcement last week "there will be voices heard asking why the number of servicemen themselves should not be reduced also. This is the danger that has to be urgently faced by NATO as a whole."

Henri Benazet, foreign affairs commentator of the Paris newspaper Aurore, says that in the talks West Germany "shows itself ungrateful and a bad ally."

He says West Germany made a "serious blunder" in turning down the reported U.S. offer for cash payment to cover most of the $800,000,000 spent annually for stationing about 500,000 servicemen and their dependents in West Germany.

West Germany refused to budge from its stand that US upkeep costs must be arranged through NATO.

West German Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard said Wednesday slight he believed further talks would lead to a narrowing of views except on the stationing costs issue

One British newspaper, Lord Beaverbrook's London Daily Express, declares: "It is a bitter day for the, Americans. Surely now they will learn that the German cannot be trusted."

SELL NECKLACE

LONDON (Reuters) — A diamond and sapphire necklace was sold at Christie's saleroom on Wednesday for $78,400 to Levi Cohen, acting on behalf of a New York jewel merchant Harry Winston. The necklace had been in the family of the Earl of Harewood, a cousin of the Queen for two generations. It formerly belonged to the Grand Duke Michael of Russia.

Two Cruisers Sold for Scrap

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Navy's last two cruisers, the Ontario and Quebec, have been sold for scrap to a Japanese company. Each brought more than $300,000.

The Ontario was taken out of service Oct. 15, 1958, and the Quebec June 13, 1956.

Cross-Canada Survey

Traditional Quiet of Sunday Is Gradually Giving Way To Many Sports Events

By JACK VAN DUSEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The traditional quiet of Sunday is gradually giving way across Canada to the roar of spectators at sports events.

Sunday is no longer a day set aside only for worship. Many civic fathers, as well as some clergymen, indicate they think this is as it should be. But many others are dead set against the trend.

Opinions for and against are numerous but a cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows Sunday is nevertheless becoming a day of sport, theatre and commerce as well as one of worship. More and more communities are pushing aside the blue laws.

Sunday should be as open as people want, says Rev. Shaun Herron, Toronto United Church minister.

The day should be "available to all men for worship and rest," says the Montreal and Ottawa synod of the Presbyterian Church of Canada.

At Wallaceburg, Ont., where a vote will be taken Dec. 5 on whether to allow baseball, hockey and lacrosse on Sunday, Councillor Dr. M. C. Brown stormed at a meeting: "My boys could be doing things worse than watching hockey games on Sunday."

CHURCH CONCERNED

The Roman Catholic hierarchy in Canada, "in a statement expressing 'grave concern'" over the growing tendency of commerce and industry to consider Sunday an ordinary day, urged governments to "uphold the sanctity of the Lord's day".

In Ontario alone, where through the years 58 municipalities have voted in favor of Sunday sport and 32 against, there will be at least 13 municipal votes on the issue in December. Others are being considered.

Toronto, which for years had the reputation of rolling up its sidewalks on Sunday, will vote on whether it should have Sunday movies. It already has Sunday sport. Other Ontario centres including Cornwall, Kitchener, Windsor, Brantford, Hamilton, North Bay, St. Thomas and Oakville will also vote on movies.

In Ottawa, where Sunday sport was voted down in 1958, another plebiscite will be held in December. The Sunday sport backers, who had to get just more than 13,000 signatures of eligible voters to get the new vote, submitted a petition with 24,770 names, of which 13,023 were declared valid. The neighboring town of Eastview also plans a vote.

Winnipeg and neighboring St. James voted for Sunday sport in October. The score in Winnipeg was a clear-cut 37,245 for and 27,632 against; in St. James it was 4,725 for and 3,332 against.

ACT HAS LOOPHOLES

Most provinces allow Sunday sport either through their own legislation or through loopholes in the federal Lord's Day Act.

Quebec is the least restrictive. It not only allows sport but movies and other entertainment as well—and has for decades. You can drop into a tavern for a pint of beer on the way home from mass in some Quebec communities.

In Alberta sport is allowed if admission isn't charged, but a "silver collection" may be taken up. Sport is allowed under similar conditions in New Brunswick, Manitoba, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland. Only Sunday sport in British Columbia is at Vancouver. Blue laws dominate Saskatchewan where no sport is allowed on Sunday — and where there has been no demand for it.

Most of the provinces operate under the federal act, which prohibits most forms of work, amusement, entertainment, sport and almost all commerce, from midnight Saturday to midnight Sunday. It was passed in 1906 after the Lord's Day Alliance, a national church-sponsored body still dedicated to keeping Sunday a day of worship, petitioned Parliament with more than 100,000 signatures.

If it were strictly enforced, hundreds of thousands of Canadians would face fines or jail terms every week. Under the act, for example, it's against the law to buy a house on Sunday or to purchase a magazine or newspaper or hire a gardener.

But Sunday is one of the busiest days in the real estate business in many of the larger communities. Many people buy magazines or cigarets—also illegal—on the first day of the week.

The act has been bypassed almost throughout its 54-year history—by authorities ignoring it, taking advantage of the loopholes, or passing over-riding provincial laws.

The main opening is a section leaving responsibility for enforcing the law in the hands of provincial attorneys-general. Ontario took advantage of this after the Second World War when the then Attorney - General Dana Porter said he would no longer permit the prosecution of souvenir stands, ice cream booths, bowling and refreshment stands, the sale of cigarets and other tobacco, rental of boats and horses and the backers of Sunday excursions.

QUEBEC LAW FIRST

Another provision of the act was that it would not affect provincial laws "now or hereafter in force"—in effect saying that the provinces could decide through their own legislation what sort of Sunday they wanted.

Quebec quickly acted to keep its own Sunday. It passed its own Lord's Day Act and proclaimed it one day before the proclamation of the federal act which came into effect March 1, 1907.

The Quebec act protected "all such liberties as are recognized by the customs of this province."

Toronto and Windsor started the Sunday sport ball rolling in Ontario, voting at their municipal elections in 1950 to seek permissive legislation.

The province's legislature followed with a bill to allow Sunday sport in municipalities that vote for it. It barred one sport—horse racing—and set Sunday sports hours as 1:30 to 6 p.m.

Since then Ontario has been the most active province on the issue and 58 other municipalities have followed the Toronto and Windsor lead.

DAY FOR CONCERTS

This year the Ontario legislature amended its law to allow Sunday musical performances of a cultural and artistic nature when produced by a non-profit organization.

The picture in the other provinces:

Baseball is the only commercial sport played in Newfoundland. Under a provincial law, still in effect from before the 1949 Confederation, it is not permitted. But there has been no public objection and games are allowed.

New Brunswick operates under the federal act with no provincial law. The act here too is sometimes disregarded with sports being played, but not on a large scale.

Only sport with no admission charge is allowed in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. There has been no demand for change.

The Manitoba legislature passed legislation at the last session allowing municipalities to hold Sunday sport votes. The law requires only "amateurs" take part and bans movies, racing, boxing, wrestling and judo.

Winnipeg and St. James were the first to take advantage of the new provincial law. Others to follow are Brandon, Flin Flon, Dauphin and Virden.

OPPOSED BY MAYOR

Brandon Mayor James Creighton, one-time star with the old Detroit Falcons of the National Hockey League, is against Sunday sport—especially hockey.

"Hockey brings up the pressure with all that shouting and yelling," he says. "Besides, people have enough today with bowling, curling, golf . . .

Saskatchewan and Alberta operate under the federal act. Sport is allowed in Alberta if no admission is charged, but backers can take up "silver" collection.

Signs at Sgt. Dudgett Junior football and hockey games are strategically posted, saying: "We think this game is worth a dollar . . . don't you?" But the "take" is usually between 25 and 25 cents.

Leo LeClerc, manager of the Junior Edmonton Oil Kings and were Memorial Cup finalists last season, says he's against Sunday professional sport: "It would just be another day for the pros, and then where would the line be?"

Vancouver is the only B.C. city with sport on the holy day. A special bylaw permits baseball, softball, hockey, football and other sports on a commercial basis. The bylaw required an amendment to the city charter and this was passed by the legislature only after it was upheld 3 to 2 by the B.C. Court of Appeal.

Provincial bodies, including the Union of B.C. Municipalities and the amateur hockey association, have asked for provincial legislation allowing Sudgey sport.

Half of Pub Opens Sunday It's in England

LLANYMYNECH, Wales (CP)—Innkeeper Bill Dawson opens half his pub on Sundays—the half that is in England.

In pop the "regulars" from Wales. They order a pint in England and walk to the other side of the pub—back to Wales—to drink it.

Under Britain's drinking laws, pubs must remain closed on Sundays in Wales, although they may remain open in England. The back half of Dawson's pub is in England.

Dawson, whose inn has an England - Wales signpost in the middle of the foyer, said "it's about time the laws were changed to allow Sunday opening in Wales."

And Stan Worthington, keeper of a nearby inn, agreed. He can't open on Sunday—his pub is 25 yards from England.

SUNDAY RACES — Bettors at Montreal's Richelieu harness race track are interrupted as this unidentified woman poses to draw attention to the fact it is Sunday. Quebec has the least restrictive laws concerning sport and entertainment events on Sundays. Other provinces, governed by the federal Lord's Day Act, have a variety of restrictions on Sunday activities. Inset shows scene from a race at the Richelieu track. (CP Photo).

Chance Remark Led to Life Terms for Two

BONN (Reuters) — A chance remark at a funeral has led to life sentences for two lovers in the death of a hard-to-kill wife.

Ilse Bornstedt, 32, mother of three children, was killed by her husband, Heinrich, 38, and his girl friend, Paula Kockeis, 32.

Paula, termed "a real little beast" by a court psychiatrist, joined Bornstedt in this series of attempts on his wife's life:

1. They gave Mrs. Bornstedt sleeping pills on New Year's Eve, 1958, as a prelude to pumping air into her veins. The pills made her sick.

2. Paula two nights later hit Mrs. Bornstedt over the head with a beer bottle, as she slept. Mrs. Bornstedt merely woke up and thought her concussion was an accident.

3. Paula administered injections of gasoline into Mrs. Bornstedt, claiming they were medical injections ordered for her concussion. Mrs. Bornstedt complained of heart pains.

4. Bornstedt sent his daughter, Brigitte, 11, to a drugstore for medicine and after an overdose Mrs. Bornstedt died.

Bornstedt and Paula, who had been staying with the Bornstedts, were tripped up when the family's woman dentist mentioned at the funeral that the Bornstedts had been having marital trouble.

The remark to Mrs. Bornstedt's brother sent him to the police, who on exhumation of the body, discovered she had died of gasoline injections hastened by an overdose of medicine.

Both Bornstedt, a former West German army sergeant, and Paula, who were arrested in January, 1959, wore engagement rings at their trial here.

PRESENTED A REPORT

Coincidentally, the legislatures select committee on house rules in a report presented to the sitting recommended that members be permitted to accept public money other than that received assembly resolution.

assembly resolut ion.

In effect, the recommended rule change would remove the need for a special act of the legislature.

The committee also recommended that no member except the premier, opposition leader, a minister moving a government order or the member speaking in reply, be allowed to speak for more than 40 minutes at a time.

Arthur Evans, who retained Simcoe Centre constituency for the Conservatives, was presented to the legislature and took his seat.

A striking committee was named to choose membership for 19 standing committees—on agriculture, conservation, education, forestry, game and fish, government commissions, health, highways and highway safety, labor, lands and forests, legal bills, mining, municipal law, printing, private bills, privileges and elections, public accounts, standing orders, and travel and publicity.

CONTENDS PLAN

Hoodless Twillingate) and George McIlraith (L — Ottawa West) almost in unison.

Mr. Walker said it was at resolution stage that a minister would get information, assistance and suggestions from the House on proposed legislation.

It seemed odd that "his senior cabinet ministers of yesteryear should sit quietly by, out of sight, out of countenance and somewhat disconsolate. . . I have never seen this attitude before."

LIBERAL COMMENTS

When a little later, Mr. Walker returned to his question of the Liberals' attitude, Lionel Chevrier (L — Montreal Laurier) stopped him with: "Let us get on with the matter. Stop filibustering yourself."

In his summation, the works minister announced a change in regulations by which loans have been available to urban home owner applicants where septic tanks were approved.

Effective Jan. 1, loans will be approved only where a municipality provides evidence that pipe service will be available within a reasonable period of time; where lots remaining in subdivisions previously accepted for septic tanks are to be used; or where it is established that installation of pipe service is not practicable in the foreseeable future and that septic tanks are the only means of servicing the land.

Septic tanks will continue to be accepted for home owner applicants in rural areas.

Bigger Catches of Whitefish, Lake Trout With Fewer Men Made on Great Slave Lake

By JIM WHELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HAY RIVER, N.W.T. (CP)—Fewer men and fewer boats than last year netted a 300,000-pound bigger catch of whitefish and lake trout from Great Slave Lake this summer in one of the world's toughest commercial operations.

Six nets lost their lives in slakings and shipboard fire to bring in an estimated 1,300,500 pounds of fish which was trucked out of the territories as fresh fish and later graced tables in New York, Chicago and Detroit. Five companies employed 56 boats and 178 men during the May 16-Sept. 25 stretch.

Last year, 77 boats and 213 men caught 2,800,000 pounds.

Despite violent storms on the lake which is almost 200 miles long and 100 miles wide at one point, present the greatest threat for the fishermen and their nets. Atmospheric conditions often create mirages on the water which challenge their navigational skill.

J. H. Hitchcock, superintendent of fisheries in the Mackenzie district, said the fishermen this summer were in the proportion of one nation to seven Americans.

Many of the men are in debt to fishing companies for nets and equipment and would not risk their lives for a big catch and tragically independence.

Mr. Hitchcock's staff of four protecting and inspecting operations are kept busy watching for fishermen who might take the lesser risk of using undersize nets. Regulation size is a 5½-inch mesh and even a quarter-inch less will net many undersize fish.

Both summer and winter fisheries each have been declining for the last few years with fewer companies represented on the lake each year. The total catch during the past summer and winter was 1,906,000 pounds compared with the 3,259,345 total of 7,253,788 pounds.

Mr. Hitchcock said one reason is the slowly declining market. The whole bulk of fish in the United States as consumers switch to the frozen product and even fish substitutes. Another was the lack of refrigeration facilities in Hay River, which means that fresh fish must be loaded and shipped daily during summer.

The fish are packed in wooden boxes containing six pounds of fish to 60 pounds of ice to be freighted overland by tractor-train to Edmonton, reloaded and shipped to the U.S.

The whole fish and the department of fisheries has launched a broad program of examining the potentials of lakes in the Northwest Territories with commercial and sport fishing in mind.

Besides Great Slave Lake, Mackenzie River, Great Bear, Kakisa, Tathlina and Thuban Lakes were fished commercially this summer.

Mr. Hitchcock said sports fishing in the territories is increasing rapidly and it may evolve as how many Americans tried their luck at fishing in the territories compared to 1959. One Great Slave Lake fishing lodge reported a take of $125,000 from Americans this summer.

Besides whitefish and trout, the northern lakes contain inconnu, ling, pickerel, pickerel, arctic grayling, and char.

Three Remanded On Separate Murder Counts

TORONTO (CP) — Two men and a woman were remanded in court Wednesday on separate charges of murder.

Mary Hamilton, 36, was remanded to Dec. 1 for preliminary hearing on a charge that she murdered her husband, Raymond, 47, three weeks ago.

Reginald Bell, 29, was remanded Nov. 29, was charged with Deceb. Bakonyi, 21, charged in the death of Eve Blumberger, 21, whose body was found in a shallow trench in Toronto Sept. 20.

Clifford Beckett, 36, was remanded to Nov. 30 in connection with the death Wednesday of Leslie McMullen,* 35, beaten to death in an east-end flat.

Seriousness of Pollution Not Realized Says Member

OTTAWA (CP) — A Progressive Conservative MP who lives not far from the industrial city of Sarnia said Wednesday Canadians will have to spend a lot of effort just to stay ahead of the problem of pollution.

They will have to expend even more effort if they are to bring about any improvement in the situation, J. W. Murphy (PC—Lambton West) told the Commons.

Speaking on a government resolution calling for federal loans to help municipalities construct sewage disposal plants and trunk sewers, he said very few Canadians realize the seriousness of the pollution problem.

The resolution was later approved and a bill embodying its proposals given first reading.

"Our method of dumping sewage into our water is not only unsightly but unsafe," Mr. Murphy said.

Ontario's Hamilton Bay and Lake Erie are "two of the world's most beautiful septic tanks."

HEADS COMMITTEE

Mr. Murphy is chairman of a parliamentary committee formed last September to stop the pollution of Hamilton Bay and cogan in Lake Huron.

The committee, representing a large number of communities on both the Michigan and Ontario sides of the lake, was instrumental in getting an Ontario government commitment to examine the whole question of oil-gas drilling on the Great Lakes. In the meantime, there is to be no drilling off the Ontario shore in the lake.

Mr. Murphy lives 10 miles east of Sarnia at Lake Huron. He said tribute to the industries of Sarnia which in the last seven or eight years had spent more than $7,000,000 to curb air pollution, and pollution of the St. Clair River.

Under the legislation proposed, sewage disposal and treatment plants will be built "right across the country," Mr. Murphy said. Parliament is being asked to set aside $100,000,000 for the purpose.

DUMP IN NEAREST AREA

At present, many municipalities dumped raw sewage in the nearest available area. "They are fortunate if it happens to be a river or a lake—and I'm glad of it as far as they are concerned."

It was time the government put researchers and scientists to work on pollution, Mr. Murphy said. Pure water was more important to Canada than any other industrial resource.

John Smith (PC — Lincoln) recommended the government's plan to provide loans to build sewers in a tri-city conference. But he asked consideration for a similar scheme to provide loans for student nurses, interns and hospital technicians.

Fist-Waving Crowd of Jobless Demands Action

TORONTO (CP) — A shouting, fist - waving crowd of unemployed Wednesday night demanded federal and provincial action to provide jobs for them.

One of the 200 men at the meeting was elected when he shouted that the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (Ind.) which sponsored the meeting was run by "a bunch of Communists."

Another man jumped to his feet repeatedly to demand a motorcade leave for Ottawa today "to shame Diefenbaker into action." He was shouted down by others who said they must organize first.

The meeting agreed to establish an organization calling itself the Metro Association of Unemployed Workers. They voted to send a delegation to Premier Frost Dec. 15.

Bail Raised On Govt.' Clerk

TORONTO (CP)—John W. McMurren, 33, originally charged with defrauding the province of Ontario of $7,000 but later $37,000 by his bail raised to $20,000 from $10,000 Wednesday in the light of new evidence.

The crown charges that McMurren, a clerk in the treasury department, gained a gasoline tax branch, made out cheques to fictitious names for farmers' gasoline tax rebates, deposited them in Southern Ontario banks, and then collected the money. He was remanded to Nov. 30.

Bill to Amend LCA Given First Reading

TORONTO (CP) — A bill to amend the section of the liquor Control Act dealing with drunkenness was given first reading Wednesday in the Ontario Legislature.

Introduced by Attorney - General Roberts, the amendment provides for the detention of an intoxicated person in a government institution established for the reclamation of alcoholics.

The amendments will provide:

A fine of not more than $50 or 30 days in jail or both; a forced term of not more than 30 days in an institution for treatment, and indeterminate term of not more than 90 days in an institution for treatment on a voluntary basis.

The penalties are for being drunk in a public place.

The amending act is in line with the attorney-general's new policy of treatment in place of imprisonment for chronic drunkenness offenders.

The plan is to select alcoholics from magistrates' courts and give them, in surroundings more conducive to treatment. One project is the establishment of a farm near Toronto, where alcoholics can be rehabilitated.

Collapse and Disappearance Of Periodical Press Would Be National Disaster Inquiry Told

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — The importance of the periodical press to the welfare of Canada as a nation was stressed by a newspaper editor Wednesday as the royal commission on publications wound up a three-day session of public hearings here.

Collapse and disappearance of the periodical press in Canada would be a national disaster, Bruce Hutchison, editor of the Victoria Times, told the commission.

The commission, under chairman Grattan O'Leary, president of the Ottawa Journal, left later for Regina.

Mr. Hutchison told the commission that periodical publications are the best means of circulating ideas nationally in Canada. Daily newspapers could not do so because of geographic barriers which prevented fully national distribution.

The periodicals had some other advantages, too, he said. They did not face the same deadlines as newspapers and therefore had more time in which to think, explore, analyse and interpret. They were able also to print longer articles than newspapers and could examine ideas more thoroughly.

To Canadian writers, they were a valuable industry not only because they nourished writers of all sorts, but because they provided a source of income of sorts and encouraged newspaper men to write better copy.

There was a desperate need for magazines cheaply printed yet filled with rich ideas, fine writing and exploration of ideas.

Speaking of fears that United States pressures may overwhelm Canadians so that they lose their identity as Canadians, Mr. Hutchison said:

"The Canadian people are not getting softer but if anything harder in their distinct identity. The best proof of this fact is the present general state of alarm about the nation's future — an alarm which I consider the most healthy sign in Canada today."

Mr. Hutchison said that any suggestion to curb the flow of foreign publications into Canada "is so mad that I'm sure no one is seriously considering it."

But in reply to Mr. O'Leary, he said he would agree to some government control over this influx if it was proved that it threatened the existence of the industry in Canada. There would have to be complete safeguards, however, to maintain freedom of the press.

UNDER CONTROL

DORCHESTER, N.B. (CP)—A series of disturbances apparently caused by complaints about inmates at the Dorchester penitentiary during the week-end but Warden David MacLean said Wednesday night they now are under control. He added there was no violence beyond the breaking of a few windows and some plumbing.

4,728 Working At First of Year Now Jobless

HAMILTON (CP)—The National Employment Service Wednesday said that 4,728 industrial workers, who were employed in the beginning of the year now are seeking work in the Hamilton area.

Earlier Wednesday the Steel Company of Canada Limited announced it will lay off another 250 workers, bringing the total to 1,500. Dominion Foundaries and Steel Limited, which laid off 1,000 men, said it plans to lay off another 100 next Monday.

In the Hamilton area, including Burlington, Grimsby, Dundas, Ancaster, Caledonia and Stoney Creek, 14,025 people are seeking work out of a total working force of 165,000, the NES said. At this time last year, 9,809 were unemployed of a working force of 152,000.

E. C. Fortier, NES manager in Hamilton, said the major factor in the increase in unemployed is a slump in manufacturing, but he added "it must also be remembered that our working force has increased by 2,000 in the past year."

House Briefs

CALLS IT GRAB BAG

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator W. Ross Macdonald said Wednesday in the Progressive Conservative government tossed the Canadian people a "grab bag" wrapped in mystery in its throne speech declarations. The Senate opposition leader said in the upper chamber that the speech was not received with great enthusiasm by any group in Canada.

NOT TIME YET

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said it would be a "little premature" to ask President-elect Kennedy now to visit Canada. In the Commons reply the prime minister said that in the last few years Mr. Kennedy has told him he hopes that amicable Canadian-U.S. relations will continue in the years ahead.

CAN CONTINUE

Prime Minister Diefenbaker told the Commons Canada has received no representations from the United States to modify or restrict its trade relations with Cuba. He made the statement in reply to CCF Leader Argue, after Trade Minister Hees had earlier reiterated the government's policy of maintaining normal trade ties with Cuba. Mr. Hees said Canadian importers and exporters are at liberty to continue dealing with Cuba.

STRIKE GOES ON

Labor Minister Starr told the Commons he has "nothing additional" to report on efforts to settle the west coast grain handlers' strike. He said the government's commissioner of inquiry is conducting meetings with the union and the elevator companies involved.

REFUSES TO SAY

Prime Minister Diefenbaker declined to say whether the government has decided to acquire nuclear weapons for Canada's armed forces. Replying in the Commons to Opposition Leader Pearson, he merely referred to previous Commons statements on the subject by cabinet ministers.

HEADS COMMITTEE

Senator Leon Methot (PC—Quebec) was re - elected chairman of the Senate Committee on manpower and employment at its organization meeting.

Judge Reduces Expenses by Half

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Mr. Justice E. K. Thompson of the Supreme Court of Ontario ruled partly in favor Tuesday of Mrs. Florence Stacey, Princess Street, Sherbrooke, Ont., questioning the $15,250 legacy left by the executors of the estate at Maple Hill Wood Road.

Mrs. Stewart, who inherited the bulk of the $250,000 estate, claimed that executors Elsie Reid of London, Ont., and Mrs. Ruth Cameron Sutton of Woodstock for the money.

Mrs. Stewart, a niece of Mr. Reid, claimed that cheques were signed by the two women and Mr. Reid after Mr. Reid's death.

However, Mr. Justice Thompson ruled that part of the expenses was legitimate and awarded Mrs. Stewart part of the $25,290 in volved. No figures were announced, but it was reported that the amount was reduced by half.

Trucker Convicted

TORONTO (CP)—Truck driver Edward Bigelli, 24, was convicted Wednesday of attempting to murder Mrs. Jean former fiancee Denise Morey. He will be sentenced Dec. 19.

Compulsory Retirement At 65 Opposed

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's civil servants were told Wednesday it is economically unsound to require compulsory retirement of government employees at 65 years.

Albert Cowan, pension plan authority of the William Mercer company doing research for Civil Service Association of Ontario, told 200 delegates at the Royal York association's annual meeting that employment of older persons should continue on a year-by-year basis for persons physically and mentally fit.

The delegates earlier received a 200-page report on job evaluation in the department of health prepared by Thomas Torkia of the Mercer Company. Mr. Torkia said health department employees were 16% per cent underpaid.

D. J. Collins, recently appointed chairman of the Ontario Civil Service Commission, spoke in favor of collective bargaining which the employees' association had been considering.

The meeting continues to Friday.

Rome Has Become Pleasanter Port of Call for British PM's

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Rome has become a pleasanter port of call for British prime ministers since Neville Chamberlain went there in 1939 to be harangued by Benito Mussolini.

Invective has not disappeared from the diplomatic arsenal of the 1960s and Harold Macmillan has been subjected to more than his other leaders pounded by other statesmen today.

Today, Italy stands as Britain's partner in the Western alliance and Macmillan's visit is symbolic of significance to divide them.

Economically, Rome is a lesmore important port of call than it was there that Italy and five other continental powers signed the agreement that produced the European Common Market, the six-nation bloc that threatens to leave Britain isolated from her traditional markets.

In his television talk to the Italian people, Macmillan admitted that economic division between the six Common Market powers and the seven - nation European Free Trade Area which Britain helped could breed political difficulties.

But it was clear from the communique that followed Macmillan's talks with Premier Amintore Fanfani that both countries are equally anxious to heal the breach and that unofficial talks will be conducted between them.

The forthcoming talks, coupled with recent discussions between British and West German trade experts, are viewed by Britain as a useful preliminary for an agreement that may evolve.

The communique stressed the desirability of resuming East-West disarmament negotiations and indicated that the two prime ministers see eye to eye in supporting the United Nations in the Congo and elsewhere.

$15,275 Award Made by Court

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Margaret Jan Strickland and her four children Wednesday were awarded a total of $15,275 damages in a Supreme Court suit resulting from the death in May of Albert Strickland.

Mrs. Strickland, 31 - year - old husband was killed when struck by a car driven by John William Murphy, 30, formerly of London.

The suit was brought against Mr. Murphy and Earlown Chevrolet - Oldsmobile Limited, owners of the car, but the plaintiffs proceeded with the case against the auto firm only.

Effort to Avert Metro Walkout Ends in Failure

TORONTO (CP) — A last ditch effort to avoid a strike by 4,300 Metropolitan Toronto civic workers on outside jobs broke up Wednesday without an agreement.

The strike next Monday would halt garbage collections in Toronto and Scarborough Township as well as street cleaning, road maintenance and other outside work throughout the Metro area.

Union members stormed out of a two-hour session with the board of control. Wage increases are the issue.

Ask Your Jeweller's Advice When Buying a New Watch

Are you one of the several million Canadians who is a prospective watch buyer this year? If you are, be sure to consult your community jeweller.

The Watchmakers of Switzerland point out that a fine timepiece is like a fine automobile — only an expert can really tell its performance possibilities. And the quality jeweller, who has been selling and servicing fine watches for many years, is the only qualified person in your community to rely upon when it comes to the purchase of a watch.

When selecting a watch, personal preference in style, together with pocketbook considerations must first be considered. At that point, however, your jeweller is in a position to help you to select a fine watch which is known is built to give you accurate, dependable service over the coming years.

For example, his experience has given him practical knowledge of the workmanship that has gone into the various brands of watches on the market. And since his store and reputation are the guarantee behind the product he sells, his first desire is to sell watches that will keep his customers satisfied.

There are various grades of watch movements manufactured and offered for public sale; it's the business of your jeweller to know and recognize the difference. He might offer you two different watches — one that sells for $40, the other for $100. And he'll be the first to tell you there is a difference between the two, although he has made it his business to make certain that the $40 watch he sells is the best value he has been able to find for customers who can afford a watch in that price category.

A number of features in the makeup of a watch can be reflected in its retail selling price. Certain watches have had practically every part in the movement finished by hand and, naturally, this painstaking checking and rechecking must bring the price up. In addition, there are different metals used for different parts of the mechanism and, here again, the cost differential will be reflected in the price you pay.

And, just as there is a difference in movements, there is also a difference in watch cases. It might be chrome, stainless steel, gold plate, gold filled, or 14-karat gold. And, even if marked gold, it might well be paper-thin, so that it does not give the movement the protection it needs against everyday wear.

Too often a prospective watch buyer will be lulled into the purchase of a so-called "watch bargain," only to find later that he usually gets just about what he pays for. An established jeweller generally carries only standard brands of fine watches — timepieces that give good value for the money you spend.

Remember, a fine watch is only as good as the firm that stands behind it, and your local community jeweller has a reputation for reliability upon which you can depend.

Keep Jewellery Shining Bright By Proper Cleaning Methods

One thing that costs hardly a penny to keep "tighted up" day and night is your jewellery. You can do it with a little systematic attention like that you give to your linens in your wardrobe. Think of your diamond ring and wedding band — what else do you wear as continuously? Yet your small pink fingernails get much more care and polish!

Diamonds actually look biggest when they are flashing clean. You just have to pull some of the "covers" off.

What are these "covers"? Some pretty thick ones are all the foundation and lotion and make-up that women wear today. These film the stones and prevent light from entering. So do the natural oil of the skin and the grease and dust in the air. The backs of rings get caked with dried soap, and the chemicals in dirt also color the metal parts — even of precious jewellery.

The secret of keeping jewellery just as shining-bright as when you bought it is to clean it before it gets really dull and then to protect it from air and moisture when not in use.

Grandmother's trinkets were mostly 24-karat gold. This was soft and scratched easily, but contained relatively little alloy or base metal to tarnish. Today's standard is 14-karat gold, which is fourteen parts of pure gold to ten parts of other metal elements. While gold today is often eighteen parts of gold alloyed with six parts of white metal. Green, pink and rose gold contain varied kinds of other metals which produce the color and give durability. It is not pure gold which changes color from the atmosphere but these alloys.

In the more expensive jewellery, platinum and palladium stay bright the longest, especially if they are rhodium finished. This finish, by the way, is also given to white gold engagement rings and surrounds the diamond with super brilliance. A hard rhodium finish protects metal from scratching and tarnishing but can be rubbed off in time. Always ask exactly what metal you are buying, including the finish. Then you can learn how to take care of it.

Here are four separate and effective cleaning methods for precious jewellery and one of them is pretty sure to fit the time, the place and the job:

The Soap-Bubble Bath: Whisk up a hot suds with two cups of water, a tablespoonful of household ammonia and a few soap flakes. Let the pieces soak a few moments until the suds are cool enough so that you can touch the jewellery. Then tap and brush the stones on back and front of the mounting using a fresh, unused toothbrush with soft nylon bristles or a little eyebrow brush. Never scrub vigorously back and forth. It's apt to loosen stones, and fine gold can be scratched. Rinse in hot water to which another spoonful of ammonia has been added. If you have alcohol handy, omit the ammonia; rinse in clear hot water, dip in alcohol, and drain on tissue paper. After a hot bath, always rinse in hot water; never go from hot to cold or vice versa with any jewels.

The Detergent Bath: You may be surprised how much brighter your rings look just from washing dishes with one of the new detergents. But don't depend on this forever! The undersides of open back of real jewellery needs special attention so light can reach the gems and make them sparkle. This is the purpose of the open back in precious jewellery, to let in light. Prepare a small bowl of hot suds with any of the granular or liquid detergents used in the home. No ammonia is needed unless the water is hard. Tap and brush the pieces while they are in the suds. Then transfer to a wire tea strainer and rinse under hot running water. Pat dry with a soft, lintless cloth. Always handle jewellery by the edge of the mounting, ever touch diamonds with your bare fingers; the oils in your skin re-coat the stone and this attracts another film of dust.

The Cold Water Soak: This method is recommended exclusively by one of the most famous jewellery houses in Canada. It is easy but takes time for soaking. Of course, only jewellery with stones set in metal, not glued or cemented in place, may be soaked. Make a half-and-half solution of cold water and household ammonia in a cup. Soak the pieces 30 minutes. The ammonia emulsifies any grease on the jewellery and forms its own "soap." Lift out once and tap gently around the crevices on the back and front of the mounting with a little brush. Switch in the solution once more and drain on tissue paper, no rinse is needed.

The Quick-Dip Method: Sometimes you want to give certain pieces a quick shine-up on your way to a party. For this, keep one of the prepared jewellery cleaners in a wide-mouth jar in your dresser. Some of the preparations can be used on all jewellery, including pearls and antiques, but not all. Others cannot be used on certain materials. Read the label on the jar and choose the kind most useful to you. Dangle the articles in the liquid on a long bobby pin. For rigid bracelets, pour some of it over them in a saucer. It can be re-used. Rinse in clear water and dry with a cloth.

After your treasures are all twinkling again, wear and enjoy them. But when you take them off each time, roll them in tissue paper or put them between layers of velveteen in a tightly closed box. It is the moisture and the chemicals in the air that dull and discolor metals. Fingermarks may be wiped off with a bit of silk or a small oil-fashioned chamois skin.

A wrist watch must not be "dunked" in any liquid, and pastes and powders have a way of working inside the movements where one gritty speck could change tee whole face of time! So the best cleaning method for diamond watches is a treated light-weight flannel which you can buy in any department store. Some jewellers sell the kind they themselves use. Dress are perfect. Polish all metal parts of the watch or bracelet, but lightly on the diamonds. When you take your watch at least once a year to be regulated the watch-maker will lift the sealed movement out of the case and clean the diamonds thoroughly.

Figures Down

OTTAWA (CP) — Net railway operating income fell sharply in August to $1,975,700 from $5,402,500 in the corresponding month last year, the bureau of statistics reported.

Railway operating revenues declined 6.9 per cent to $100,230,200 from $105,367,800 while operating expenses slipped 1.7 per cent to $98,254,400 from $99,964,900.

Buys Bee Venom Formula From English Woman

LONDON (CP) — A Montreal doctor Wednesday purchased Mrs. Fulla Owen's formula for treating arthritis and other ailments with bee venom.

The 72-year-old woman developed the formula at her home in Bromley, Kent. She breeds a special type of bees and feeds them with herbal poisons, varying the ingredients in accordance with the disease to be treated.

Dr. Joseph Salne, director of a Montreal clinic, who gave Mrs. Owen the cheque, said his organization plans to spend more than $1,000,000 developing the formula for use in clinics in Canada.

EARLY SAFEGUARD

Name New OWRC Secretary

TORONTO (CP)—W. S. (Bill) Macdonnell has been appointed secretary of the Ontario water resources commission, succeeding Brian Lafrmour, who resigned some months ago to enter private business.

Mr. Macdonnell has been the commission's executive officer since June, 1957. Prior to that he had served as manager and secretary-treasurer of the Ontario branch of the Canadian Forestry Association.

He was born in Fort William.

CARRY EXPLOSIVES

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Two 15-year-old boys have been charged with possession of explosives. Police detained them in connection with three bombing incidents in the city. A week before their arrest two other youths were charged for the same offence. All will appear in Juvenile court.

Paderewski's Concert Piano Graces Hall in Wee Village

WALHACHIN, B.C. (CP) — A black piano of concert-grand dimensions sits in the community hall here.

Once the property of the Polish pianist and composer Ignace Paderewski, the piano will be given, under certain conditions, to the University of British Columbia's music school.

Dr. W. C. Gibson said UBC will receive the grand on an indefinited loan. It must be returned, say the citizens of this community near Kamloops, if Walhachin ever becomes the lively community it once was. In the meantime, the university will give the village an upright piano to fill the gap at local dances and concerts.

Vancouver's Polish community had heard the Paderewski piano was still somewhere in B.C. and hoped to have it in Vancouver for the commemoration of the pianist's birth, 100 years ago and the 1,000th anniversary of the founding of the Polish state.

Paderewski died in New York in 1941 at the age of 80.

His piano's history is intricately connected with the history of this central B.C. community.

Walhachin was established in 1912 by the late Marquis of Anglesey as a 5,000-acre fruit-growing, ranching centre. He irrigated with a wooden flume 20 miles long and built a "castle" overlooking the Thompson River.

It was on Anglesey's orders that Paderewski's piano was purchased in Vancouver in 1910, at the end of one of the pianist's North American tours.

Acquired for the hotel here, it was too big. The community hall became home for the old Weber. In the First World War, 97 of the town's 107 males enlisted and all were killed. The town, once a seat of gracious living, slumped and never revived.

The Marquis had died earlier and a drought that came on the heels of the war killed his extensive orchards.

Now it is a village of 18 families.

Last Cruisers Sold for Scrap

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Navy's last two cruisers, the Ontario and Quebec, have been sold for scrap to a Japanese company. Each brought more than $300,000.

The Ontario was taken out of service Oct. 15, 1958, and the Quebec June 13, 1956.

Stewart Best Canadian

OUTSTANDING PLAYER — Jackie Parker, quarterback with Grey Cup finalist Edmonton Eskimos, Wednesday night was named outstanding football player in Canada for unprecedented third time. Parker, winner in 1957 and 1958, was chosen in a (Scherpley) poll of football writers and broadcasters. (CP Wirephoto).

Moose Versus Lobsters

HALIFAX (CP) — Six Nova Scotia lobsters and a husky Ontario moose—along with the pride of two mayors—will be riding on the outcome of Saturday's Little Grey Cup game here between unbeaten Ottawa University Gee - Gees and unbeaten St. Francis Xavier University X-men.

Mayor John E. Lloyd of Halifax put up the six lobsters—they'll be shipped alive—and Mayor George H. Nelms of Ottawa countered with the moose, too, would be alive and probably would be placed in a wildlife park. Both mayors promised shipment by air.

The wager was the latest development in what is shaping up to be Halifax's biggest sports party — the second annual Atlantic Bowl game between the winners of the Atlantic Football Conference and the Ontario Intercollegiate League. A sell-out crowd is expected at 5,000 - seat Wanderers Grounds.

If rival coaches Matt Anthony of the Gee-Gees and Don Loney of the X-men were hesitant about offering predictions, the two mayors were making up for it. Mayor Nelms said in Ottawa he was "looking forward to a good feed of lobster". Mayor Lloyd said he's confident — "we will get the moose."

Anthony, who played with Loney in the late 1940s for Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four, said in Ottawa Wednesday "it will be a little Grey Cup for the Maritimes and you can be assured we will both be out to win it." He said he expected a tough game.

The X-men's booking and boarding was too much for Ontario Agricultural College of Guelph in last year's game.

Klukay Named 'Dogs' Coach

WINDSOR (CP) — Windsor Bulldogs Wednesday night announced the appointment of Joe Klukay as the new playing coach of the Ontario Hockey Association senior entry.

Clare "Rags" Raglan was released as playing coach Tuesday night in a move typical of management as "a financial measure." At the time the team seemed headed for oblivion before management — player meeting solved the financial situation.

Klukay, 38, is in his fifth season with Bulldogs following a 12-year pro career, most of which was spent in the National Hockey League with Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins.

Meissner Gets Four in Kingston Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Inexperience kept brawny Dick Meissner on the bench for most of last season, so Boston Bruins sent him to Kingston Frontenacs of the Eastern Professional Hockey League. He responded four goals Monday night as the Frontenacs defeated Montreal Royals 7-4 in Kingston.

During the 1959-60 season with the National Hockey League Bruins, Meissner scored five goals and posted six assists. The previous year he scored 16 goals in his last season with the Estevan Bruins, a Saskatchewan junior team.

Fourth-place Kingston hit Montreal goaltender Charlie Hodge with 50 shots, Singles were scored by George Gosselin, Bob Attersley and Tom Williams.

The last kept the Royals in last place. Guy Black scored two for the losers as Gary Monk and Lalo Lamoureux scored one each.

"Iron Lung" Fan Will See Game

EDMONTON (CP) — One of Edmonton Eskimos' most ardent fans will leave here Saturday morning for the Grey Cup game in Vancouver. Jean Mark, 20, will be accompanied by a nursing aide and a physiotherapist.

Jean has been paralyzed for seven years with after effects of polio.

She suffered only three of Eskimos' home games this season and made her first trip out of her home in April when she went to Calgary Nov. 3 to see Eskimos play the Western Interprovincial Football Union game — final against the Stampeders.

She watches the games from the wheelchair, paralyzed from the neck down. Jean can breathe without help for several hours at a time, but requires the help of an iron or plastic lung at least part of each day. She sleeps in an iron lung.

Toronto Chances Revived

NEW YORK (CP) — The chances of Toronto getting a major league baseball franchise were revived today in the complicated hassle between the big leagues over how far expansion should go.

Jack Kent Cooke, the wealthy owner of the Toronto International League championship club and Los Angeles, baseball writer John Drebinger of the New York Times reports today.

"If Toronto gets the call, the plans to establish Los Angeles as an American League entry probably will be dropped. In that event, the coast city would get an American League team only if there were further expansion of a transfer of an existing franchise."

That Toronto might move into the American League had been rumored a week ago, but the rumor faded in the belief that under baseball law no minor league territory could be "acquired by a major league after Oct. 31, for a compromise in the expansion dispute, complicated as it is.

Baseball Meetings

The All proposed that both major leagues expand to nine teams in 1961, with interleague competition throughout the 1954 - game season. If the NL votes against the plan—and there are indications it will—there is a strong possibility that the AL will revive its original plan to operate with 10 teams next season.

The ninth team will be Minneapolis-St. Paul, if the NL turns down the compromise plan, the AL May well turn to Toronto as a 10th - team substitute for Los Angeles, baseball writer John Drebinger of the New York Times reports today.

That Toronto might move into the American League had been rumored a week ago, but the rumor faded in the belief that under baseball law no minor league territory could be "acquired by a major league after Oct. 31, for a compromise in the expansion dispute, complicated as it is.

However, baseball commissioner Ford Frick clarified this rule Wednesday. It doesn't affect Toronto.

He told a press conference that the rule applies only when an outside group wants to step in and acquire minor league territory already claimed by a major league club.

"In this case Cooke, who owns the International League franchise, simply would be transferring it to a major league."

Cooke himself was quoted as saying in an interview that his joining the AL "would depend entirely on the conditions offered, with these conditions applying particularly to players."

Money Accepted

He said he wouldn't accept the provisions set up for stocking the new Washington franchise with players. This calls for the new franchise owner, Cooke said, to purchase 28 players from the rosters of the present eight AL clubs at $75,000 a player.

Cooke said he would consider such an arrangement "wholly unsatisfactory" since the Maple Leafs have 16 players that helped them win the IL title and he claimed "quite a few of them are better than anything we'd have to pick off those American League lists."

However, if the American League asks us to come in under fair and proper conditions, we certainly would be interested. We'd want to look at ourselves ready, although of course work would have to be started at once on improving and enlarging o ball park."

Illness Stalks Players

Eskimos Have Troubles

By GRAHAM COX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VICTORIA (CP) — Halback Billie Mitchell was in bed with a strep throat.

So was end Jim Letcavits, and star tackle Roger Nelson.

It was a bleak moment Wednesday for Edmonton Eskimos priming for Saturday's Grey Cup game in Vancouver against Saskatchewan Rough Riders.

But there was a bright spot. Fullback Johnny Bright arrived by plane from Edmonton. He was walking.

Despite what might be considered a disturbing situation, Eskimo coach Eagle Keys has not pressed the panic button. He expects all the sick people save Bright, recuperating from a chairleyhorse, to be in action for the opening kickoff at 1:30 p.m. PST (4:30 p.m. EST) at Empire Stadium.

Miles, Letcavits and Nelson are first-stringers on the Eskimos' offensive team. Keys' biggest worry was that the ailment, which makes it difficult for players to eat and breathe hard during practice, could spread to other men.

The Eskimos worked out Wednesday but Keys was far from happy.

"How can you run through plays with three of your first-stringers lying in bed?" he asked.

Miles picked up the charleyhorse in the final game of the Western Interprovincial Football Union schedule against Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Eskimos captured the best-of-three set 2-1.

It is Miles' second bout with a strep throat in two weeks. Letcavits and Nelson were hit for the first time.

Assistant coach Bob Kellogg took a more philosophical view of the Eskimos woes.

"Take a look at our season," he said. "It's been like this all year.

"With 34 players on our roster, there are only seven who have been fit to play in every game. It's getting to be a natural state to have someone on the list.

"First off it was up front we were hurting. We get them boys all set and, bang. The backs are shot full of boles.

"We've got this far and we know we have to play Saturday, we'll just have to make the best of it."

Meanwhile, the drills go on. One was scheduled this morning and another Friday morning before the Eskimos leave for Vancouver Friday afternoon.

Keys says his players the afternoon off today so they could try their luck fishing for salmon at Shawnigan Lake, about 34 miles north of here.

SCANLON SOLD

LONDON (AP) — Albert Scanlon, a survivor of the 1958 Munich air crash that killed eight Manchester United soccer stars, was sold to a new club Wednesday. Newcastle United paid a reported $50,000 for the left winger. Scanlon was injured in the Munich disaster. He resumed playing the next season but this season he has not been able to hold a place in the Manchester lineup.

Name Parker Top Player

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jackie Parker, quarterback with the Grey Cup finalist Edmonton Eskimos, Wednesday night was named the outstanding football player in Canada for an unprecedented third time.

Football writers and broadcasters of the Big Four and Western Interprovincial Football Union made their choice in a poll conducted by a distillery. They also named halfback Ron Stewart of Ottawa Rough Riders as the outstanding Canadian player of the year and guard Herb Gray of Winnipeg Blue Bombers as lineman of the year.

Parker, who powered Eskimos to Grey Cup victories over Montreal Alouettes in 1954-55-56, beat out Toronto Argonauts' Cookie Gilchrist, Big Four scoring champion in 1959 and 1960.

The 29-year-old Parker, who joined Eskimos in 1954 from Mississippi State, will receive a $1,000 gold trophy, a $1,000 Canada savings bond and diamond football tie clip.

WEST'S FIFTH WIN

The West now has won the outstanding award five times since it first was made in 1953, and each time an Edmonton player has taken it. Billy Vessels was the first winner, Parker in 1956-58 and fullback Johnny Bright last year. Montreal Alouette players have won it the other years — quarterback Sam Etcheverry in 1954, fullback Pat Abbruzzi in 1955 and end Hal Patterson in 1956.

Parker earlier this week won the Jeff Nicklin Memorial Trophy as the most valuable player in the WIFU for the sixth time. He also has been named to The Canadian Press WIFU all-star team every year since 1954.

Parker, who over guard Tony Pajaczkowski of Calgary Stampeders to give Ottawa its second straight award in the homebrew category, succeeding Rider quarterback Russ Jackson. The West also leads in this bracket, 4-3. George James of Winnipeg won in 1955 and Gene Kwong of Edmonton in 1956-58 and Ron Howell of Hamilton Tiger-Cats in 1959.

Gray's lineman of the year award made it an even 3-3 East-West split. Tex Coulter of Montreal was the first winner in 1955 and Kaye Vaughan of Ottawa followed in 1956-57. Don Luzzi of Calgary Stampeders won it in 1958 and Roger Nelson of the Eskimos last year.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

That old sports "warhorse", Mike Weichel, is at it again!

In parliamentary circles in Ottawa he is known as O. W. Weichel, M.P., North Waterloo.

Down around Elmira way, where he makes his home, to his intimate friends in the noisy circles in which he moves and to the legion of sports buddies, he is known as plain "Mike".

"Mike" was, so to speak, weaned in a sports nursery. He teethed on a hockey puck and waggled miniature sticks and baseball bats before he graduated to the toddling age.

They must have spiked his pablum with a sports virus for it has been in his system since infancy and shows no signs of clearing up.

This old charger of World War One doesn't go around breathing fire and smoke. Instead he exudes a philosophy that could well be taken and followed by those both inside and outside the perimeter of his beloved sport.

When the gods of sport and talent were sprinkling their gifts, "Mike" was caught in a shower. And he absorbed and developed every drop of it.

Want an evening's entertainment? Call Mike! He'll waggle a magic finger and in a jiffy the family will rally round and you've got it. Vocal, instrumental, comedy, and whatnot.

Want an after-dinner speaker? Call Mike. He will keep you on seat-edge for ten, fifteen, thirty minutes or an hour. He is specially gifted along oratorical lines. He is clever, witty, sincere and ear-pleasing.

When a young man, Mike was headed for the big sports thrills. Then Kaiser Bill heaved a monkey-wrench into the peace machinery of the world, and "Mike" figuring this was no spectator sport, joined Canada's "big team."

While Mike was in France winning a Distinguished Conduct Medal, he received offers from the Hamilton club of the old Michigan-Ontario League to play shortstop and from Frank Selke, who then was assistant manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs hockey club.

Two weeks after the offers came and Mike was looking forward to a fine sports career, he went "over the top" and during an act of distinguished gallantry suffered wounds that cost him a leg.

The physical loss may have curbed Mike's active sports life, but the old spirit and fire burned brighter than ever. Coming home he gave his time to organizational effort and organizations.

For 30 years he has been an executive member of the Ontario Hockey Association. He headed the Ontario Minor Hockey Association for two years, a grand effort, and is an honorary vice-president of the Toronto Hockey League.

The good folk of North Waterloo made no mistake in the last federal election when they sent Mike to Ottawa as their member of parliament.

Even in that select gathering the old warhorse never forgot his beloved sport, and what—in his opinion—it means to the country.

You probably read in the papers the other day where the federal cabinet proposed what it called "means of encouraging the youth of Canada in athletics."

Indirectly the government was tipping its collective hoonbery to one Mike Weichel. For the idea of some federal incentive to sport was in his maiden speech in the Commons back in 1935, Mike called for a "Department of Sport and Physical Fitness."

This was followed by a proposal of a National Sport Council by John Taylor, Vancouver-Burrards, with Hamilton's Bobby MacDonald putting his shoulder to the wheel.

Occasionally one hears people asking "what's wrong with the country?" We cannot answer that question, but we do know that a few more Mike Weichels would help it considerably.

More power to his sports-lovin' elbow!

Americans Flaunt Agreement

Might Draw Suspension

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association applied Wednesday to the International Ice Hockey Federation for action to enforce immediately the provisions of the agreement between the CAHA and the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States.

Gordon Juckes of Melville, CAHA secretary-manager, made the official application for endorsement of the agreement with Bob Lebel of Chambley, Que., president of the IIHF.

If the situation is not cleared the CAHA would ask for IIHF suspension of the American Association in all respects, Juckes said.

The request was in connection with Canadian players who have been playing hockey in the U.S. without transfer or release and who have been suspended by the CAHA but allowed to play with U.S. clubs.

Juckes said players involved are Gordon Haidy with Milwaukee of the International League, and Erwin Grosse with Clinton and Ron Mulc with Greensboro of the Eastern League.

Juckes paid the American Amateur Hockey Association is not recognizing CAHA suspensions placed on these players, as provided for in the agreement between the two hockey bodies.

BACKS THE ESKS

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett says Edmonton Eskimos will win the Grey Cup Saturday in the annual football classic here. What's more, the premier said the Esks will defeat Ottawa Rough Riders "by at least six points." He added that he'll be there to see the Eskimos do it.

New York Rangers are not winning many games this season, but it's hardly because veteran players like Andy Bathgate, Andy Hebenton and Camille Henry have lost their scoring touch.

The trio counted for five goals Wednesday night as the last-place Rangers dumped Boston 6-3 at New York to move within one point of the fifth-place Bruins in the NHL standings.

Bathgate, 28, became the eighth player to score at least three goals in one game this season. His total is 12 for the season.

Henry, 147-pound left - winger scored the winning goal and added three assists. The goal was Henry's 10th in 17 games.

Hebenton also scored his 10th goal and collected two assists. Dean Prentice got Bathgate's sixth marker while Leo Labine, Charlie Burau and Jerry Toppazzini scored for Boston.

Rangers now have 13 points while the Bruins, who have yet to win one game on the road this season, have 14.

The two teams will battle it out for last-place tonight when they meet again in Boston. Other games tonight pit Montreal Canadiens against the Red Wings in Detroit and Toronto Maple Leafs against the Black Hawks in Chicago.

Montreal, Toronto and Detroit are all tied for first place, each with 24 points. The Hawks are just one point back, with 23.

Bathgate, who already own, to the New York all-time scoring records and threatens to set more, scored in each of the three periods Wednesday night.

He was the first Ranger to get three goals in one game this season.

Rookie goalie Bruce Gamble, playing only his fifth NHL game, made 31 saves for the Bruins.

Lorne (Gump) Worsley stopped 26 shots in the Rangers' nets.

They Were Shown Before Mr. Power!

LONDON (Reuters) — Chatham Maroons, Canada's Allan Cup hockey champions, arrived in Moscow by air Wednesday bent on showing the Russians some "real Canadian hockey."

The team was met at the airport by Moscow hockey players and a crowd of sports fans, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

Coach Ted Power told Tass in an interview:

"I do not doubt taht the teams we are going to play in Moscow are strong and therefore the games should be interesting."

He said the club was glad of the honor of visiting Russia and had chosen the seven-game series here over representing Canada in world championship play.

"We will try to show them real Canadian hockey."

Tass said the first game of the series Friday will be the 200th contest between the two countries. It is scheduled for Moscow's Palace of Sports.

WHOOPS!—Toronto's George Chuvalo (dark trunks) misses a punch at Montreal's Bob Cleroux in last night's heavyweight championship fight. Chuvalo didn't miss many more and won back his Canadian title with a 12-round unanimous decision. (CP Wirephoto).

Decision Was Clean-Cut

By MARVEN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Toronto's George Chuvalo cuffed and cut Bob Cleroux with snap-punching Wednesday night and regained the Canadian heavyweight boxing championship with a unanimous 12-round decision over the Montrealer.

The Torontonian — stripped of the title by Cleroux last summer — spliced his shots sharply to outpoint hisman on the cards of all three judges.

The next step, said a hardly-marked Chuvalo in the dressing room after the bout, will be to seek a shot at the British Empire crown held by England's Henry Cooper.

The fight drew a crowd of 9,372 to the Montreal Forum for a gross gate of $52,728, eguogh to give Eddie Quinn an even break on the promotion.

Twenty-five per cent of the net receipts went to each fighter. No direct radio or television coverage was carried.

THROWN DOWN TWICE

Although there were no official knockdowns, Chuvalo hit the deck twice in the 11th round. Cleroux, frustrated and tired, clamped a hold around his waist and hurled him to the canvas each time.

Referee Jack Sharkey, the former world heavyweight champ, warned the Montrealer but took no points away. Sharkey did not score the fight.

On the five-point must system, judges Bobby Leitham and Leo Germain gave it to Chuvalo 57-53 and judge Harry Shulman scored it 55-53. The Canadian Press had Chuvalo the winner 58-56.

At 209½, Chuvalo had a 3½-pound weight advantage.

Chuvalo, 23, first won the title Sept. 15, 1958, in Toronto by knocking out James-J. Parker in one round.

He lost it on a split decision to Cleroux, 32, here last Aug. 17, a 15-rounder.

CUT CLEROUX'S EYES

Chuvalo cut Cleroux over the right eye in the opening round Wednesday night and over the left eye in the ninth round, but there was no heavy bleeding.

In the dressing room afterward, Cleroux's shoulders and chest were plainly bruised and welted.

He lacked "his usual zip," said his manager, Al Buchman of New York. "He never seemed to get started. Maybe he was overtrained."

Tickets were scaled from $3 to $10. There was no return match agreement.

Both Buchman and Cleroux had nothing to say about the future.

SCORED WITH HOOKS

Chuvalo, laying back to counter-punch against the plodding Cleroux, scored most effectively in the middle rounds with hooks and crosses. He also had a left jab in Cleroux's face for the better part of the fight.

Chuvalo's best round was the seventh. His stiff crosses slowed Cleroux's mauling attack and had him holding off at the bell.

Cleroux's top effort came in the fourth round. He landed a good combination but lost the edge when Chuvalo connected with two hard rights under the heart.

Chuvalo left the ring with a 14-5-1 record to Cleroux's 25-2-2. Cleroux was ranked 10th among world heavyweights by the National Boxing Association and seventh by Ring magazine, honors that Chuvalo likely will inherit.

Juniors Defeat Picton

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Belleville Lumber-Rollins completely dominated play and outscored Picton Merchants in every period on their way to a 13-2 victory here last night for their second win in the young OHA Eastern Junior "B" schedule.

Mayor McLean Haig and sponsor Charles Lambert officially opened the season here with centre-ice ceremonies. Mayor Haig dropped the first puck and called for sportsmanship and the hope "Belleville would win and Picton finish second."

During the intermission between the first and second periods, Mr. Robert Hull Sr. presented the Bobby Hull trophy to centre Gary Goyer of the Lambert-Rollins.

The beautiful trophy was donated by Bobby Hull to be awarded annually to the Most Valuable Player for the Belleville Junior "B" hockey team. Goyer was named the winner for the 1959-60 season after leading the club in scoring in both schedule and playoff games.

The trophy is in memory of two former Belleville Junior players, Bill Fraser and Al Culbert, who died in a car accident two years ago.

Eddy Pista's well - balanced young squad handled a short-handed Picton crew with ease for a clean first two periods, outscoring the visitors 5-1 in both frames, then added the only two goals in a penalty-riddled third beat. The winner outshot Picton 52-31 overall, although the Merchants held a 14-11 edge in the third when Bill Moxon stood out in the Lo net.

Referees Vern Goyer and Tim Williams called it strictly by the book and stood for no nonsense when the boys started playing it rough in the third. They dished out 17 of the game's 25 penalties in the final twenty minutes and at one time Belleville served five and Picton two at the same time. All penalties were minors with Belleville drawing 15 of the total.

The rookie line of Weston-McGill-Smith again stood out on the Belleville attacking unit. Paul McGill scored three goals and had two assists while Pete Weston had a goal and three assists and Roger Smith a goal and two helpers.

The only other double scorer was another first-year man, "Pug" Keller, who Larry Pecoskie scored once and drew three assists. Gary Goyer scored one goal and helped on a pair while Asselstine and Moe Hunter each had one and one and Ron Hull had the other goal. Gary Reid and Garry "Whitey" Hull earned a pair of assists each.

Larry "Pucker" Pero, pick of the losers, and Gary Hamilton were the Picton marksmen. Bill Waddling, Brian Beatty and Ron Hess drew single assists.

Kellar, Weston and McGill built a 3-0 Belleville lead before Pero scored for Picton while his club enjoyed a two-man advantage. Asselstine finished off a beautiful passing attack as his club was a man up and Hunter repeated out of the penalty box in time to make it 5-1 late in the period.

Hull, Keller and McGill added three quickies early in the second before Smith made it 9-1. McGill and Kennedy exchanged goals later in the frame.

Goyer got his goal before the penalty parade started in the third and Mavety finished the scoring between sentences at the 11-minute mark.

Jerry Wing of Marysville was the winner of the Booster Club prize.

Hockey Hints

By Lloyd Percival

"JOHNNY ON THE SPOT"

Dickie Moore, the left wing star of Montreal Canadiens, over the past few years has been one of the most effective players in the N.H.L. — especially inside the opposing blue line. One of the reasons Moore has scored so many goals is that he is nearly always in position to take a pass in the goal scoring area.

The reason why Moore is free so often is simply because he is hard to cover. Not a big player, Moore has to depend on deception and agility to get free. One of his best tricks is a "stop and start". Moore will come in, stop quickly and then start again to move into the clear. Rarely will you see Moore standing around when Montreal has possession inside the opposing blue line. He knows if he stands still he is easy to cover and some backer defenceman will lean all over him.

The "stop and start" maneuver is just as effective in hockey as it is in basketball or football because the man who uses it can get free, at least for a moment or two, because he knows he is going to start again and when he does, his check is left behind before he can react. Some well, the "stop and start" will always get you free long enough to take a pass. Remember, don't stand around, make your check work for more hits and send it stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10c to Hockey Hints, 80 King St. W. Toronto, for my bulletin, "Heart Richard, He Smiles Like the Wind".

Canny Clair Again Singing Blues

By WILF GRUBON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — "It's a dilemma," sighed Frank Clair.

That really isn't a new approach, because of the Ottawa Rough Rider coach is probably the most pessimistic coach in Canadian professional football. He just can't help looking on the gloomy side.

"You know," he confided in the privacy of his hotel room Wednesday night, "this is one of the strangest games I've run up against since I came to Canada 10 years ago."

He referred in Saturday's Grey Cup clash against the western champion Edmonton Eskimos.

"It's an unusual situation. The kind of football they play in the East and West is quite a bit different. We haven't been up against a team like Edmonton and we've got to introduce a new look to our defence."

The Ottawa defence has been geared to stopping the passing of quarterbacks Tobin Rote of Toronto Argonauts and Sam Etcheverry of Montreal Alouettes. It was successful during the regular Big Four Union's regular schedule and playoffs as Ottawa knocked off the Alouettes in their sudden-death semi-final and the powerful Argos in the two-game, total-points final.

The Riders' didn't have to worry much about the running game of any Big Four club. But now they're up against Edmonton's smashing twin fullbacks, Johnny Bright and Normie Kwong, and the great option pass-run-play operated by quarterback Jackie Parker.

The scholarly-looking Clair describes the problem as "being like in a tiger's den."

"Parker is so elusive you never can tell whether he is going to run or pass . . . If we can contain their running game, we have a pretty good chance of winning. But, if they run over us, we're dead. I don't think they can do it."

The Bisons ran their string to six Wednesday night by beating Rochester Americans 6-5. The Indians remained six points in front as they downed Cleveland 7-3.

Larry Wilson, the league's leading scorer, and Dick Bemble each scored two goals and two assists as Buffalo broke a tie with the idle Quebec Aces. Wayne Hicks and Chico Maki scored the other Buffalo goals. John MacMullan, Hank Ciesla and Guy Rousseau scored for the Americans.

Harry Pidhirny picked up two goals for Springfield. The others came from Bob McCord, Floyd Smith, Bill McCreary, Jim Anderson and Bruce Cline. John Ferguson, Ron Atwell and Ted Mazur scored for the Barons.

Bisons Take Six in Row, Indians Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A six - game winning streak has carried Buffalo Bisons into undisputed possession of second place in the American Hockey League race. But the pace-setting Springfield Indians have refused to give ground.

Clair, who coached Argos to Grey Cup victories in 1950 and 1952, expressed confidence in his defensive team, then added that the Eskimos will have trouble with Ottawa's attack.

"We feel we've enough running-to give them trouble and our passing will give them a few problems."

The problems will appear with the opening kickoff at 1:30 p.m. PST (4:30 p.m. EST). The classic will be televised nationally by the CBC.

Analyzing Edmonton's offence, the 49-year-old Clair said the Riders ran into something similar against Montreal. However, the Als ran their twin fullbacks of George Dixon and Don Clark differently than Edmonton does with Bright and Kwong. Clair also said Dixon and Clark don't have the running power or blocking ability of the two Eskimo blockbusters.

EDMONTON DANGEROUS

"Montreal's attack also had a lot more razzle - dazzle, Etcheverry is a great passer, but he's not the rollout runner that Parker is and the starter Edmonton so much more dangerous."

Clair expressed satisfaction with the way the Riders went through Wednesday despite an all-day rain. The team drilled indoors for two hours at the University of British Columbia field house, then practised for a half-hour in the rain.

Bobby Simpson, veteran end who was the hero of the Riders' 22-20 win over Argos in the second game of the Big Four final that they took 56-41 on the round, missed the workout. He was confined to his hotel room with the flu and a high fever.

However, he and the other Riders on the injury list, fullback Dave Thelen and guard Kaye Vaughan, are all expected to be ready by Saturday, Thelen has an injured knee and Vaughan a broken toe but neither injury is expected to handicap them greatly.

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—The mad-cap festival that surrounds the Grey Cup football final here Saturday will be just as big, bold and brassy as that of two years ago.

At least, that's the premise on which Vancouver police are basing their plans for the East-West game—plans that include establishment of a central downtown striking force with six police dogs and Civil Defence volunteers on call through walkie-talkie radio hookup.

The intention, says Deputy Chief Constable Gordon Ambrose, is not to put a damper on festivities, but to avoid any violence among the thousands expected to fill the streets on Grey Cup eve and night and to prevent any property damage that has marked the first two stagings of the national championship here.

"We're making all the preparations to cover as much as last time," Deputy Chief Ambrose said. "We expect the crowds to be just as large and just as boisterous and we're planning accordingly."

NOT LIKE 1955

Last time was 1955 when crowds of 30,000 jammed the central Georgia Street hotel area where official functions were being staged on Grey Cup eve and again for post-game celebrations on Grey Cup night.

No one expects anything like the 1955 display when the curious, seeing their first Grey Cup festival in the West, turned out en masse as early as Thursday. There were 40,000 persons in the downtown area two nights before the game.

On Grey Cup eve, 50,000 crammed the hotel area and a full-blown riot was threatened for several hours as trouble-seeking hoodlums circulated widely, starting fistfights and odd, destructive property damage. Store windows were smashed, trees uprooted and flags and signs torn down. Police were assaulted and smoke and stink bombs let off.

In 1958, the novelty had worn off and the crowds were of more controllable size. Property damage was much less extensive and fist fights fewer. One near-tragedy occurred, however, when a young woman suffered a broken back when struck by a bed mattress thrown from a fifth-floor window of a downtown hotel.

CLOSE TO SCENE

City police this time are establishing a downtown headquarters near the courthouse on Georgia Street, right next door to the two major hotels in which celebrities stay and official functions are held and in the centre of the area where the crowds usually gather.

Most weekend leaves have been cancelled in order to make the necessary manpower available and Chief George Archer has estimated that it will cost the city $10,000 to $14,000 in extra-time payments to handle the task.

The busiest periods will be on Friday night, during the Grey Cup parade Saturday morning when an estimated 150,000 to 200,000 persons are expected to line the streets, and in the post-game period prior to departure of special trains and planes carrying the bulk of the out-of-town visitors—80,000 of whom are expected.

Deputy Chief Ambrose said that a walkie-talkie system has been successfully tested. Police spotted strategically throughout the hotel district will be in constant touch with the courthouse headquarters.

"We will be able to respond quickly to trouble calls."

At the same time there will be a policeman stationed at the Vancouver General Hospital emergency ward to take reports from any casualties. This will save policemen on downtown patrol the necessity of leaving their stations to travel back and forth making reports.

Two justices of the peace will be on duty to set bail in cases such as those involving broken noses and creating disturbances.

Bay of Quinte Basketball

Picton Prospects evened the score for a defeat at the hands of Northern Electric earlier this week when they downed the Belleville squad 36-26 in Picton last night in a Jr. of Q. basketball league tilt.

Picton led 20-13 at half time in the low-scoring affair and maintained the 10-point spread during the second half.

Zingmast was the winners' top point man with eight points as the Prospects' scoring was evenly distributed throughout the lineup.

Facing Northern Electric was Lou Orazietti with ten points while Doug Soule hit for nine.

NORTHERN ELECTRIC (28): Green 4, D. Soule 9, Kingston 2, Orazietti 10, T. Soule, J. Clancy, Cornell.

PICTON (36): Vanaltrine, Fawcett 6, Scott, Elson 6, Bryant 5, Hopkins 3, Strait 2, Dingman 8, Laundy 4, Smith Kingma.

Here Bogarde as Liszt conducts the orchestra in the famed Cuvillier Theatre in Munich, Germany. Capucine, the French actress, co-stars with Bogarde, as the Russian princess who inspired Liszt's greatest music. Others in the important cast are Genevieve Page, Patricia Morison, Ivan Desny, Martita Hunt and Lou Jacobi. "Song Without End" is currently playing the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE PARK — A scene from MGM's "Tarzan the Ape-man" in Technicolor, Denny Miller and Joanna Barnes as "Jane" opening tonight at the Park Theatre. On the same program "The Wreck of the Mary Deare", MGM's men's picture that women love, in Technicolor.

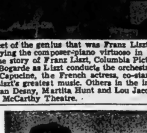
Ferrers Required to Explain Home Not Really for Sale

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—When Rosemary Clooney and her husband, Jose Ferrer, were rehearsing a comedy sketch for tonight's NBC variety show, No Place like Home, the two youngest of their five children came to the studio with their nurse. The sketch was about a couple (the Ferrers) who were selling their house to another couple, played by Carol Burnett and Dick Van Dyke.

The youngsters, Gabrielle and Monella, aged 3 and 4, listened quietly for a time and then both became visibly upset. Finally, Gabrielle turned to her nurse and announced tragically: "Mommy and daddy are selling our house."



The Ferrers took a rehearsal break and had a hard time explaining that it was just pretend selling.

Producer David Susskind started his own interview program last season on New York's independent station WNTA and called it Open End because it came at the end of the station's Sunday night schedule and could continue until Susskind and his guests felt they had exhausted the subject under consideration.

This was a pretty revolutionary idea because since for 40 years of commercial broadcasting, the half-hour and quarter-hour mark have been sacrosanct break-off points.

Now NBC plans to make a "special" of a Susskind interview. It is set for Dec. 6 and will consist of five comedians seated around a table where, led by the producer, they will talk about anything that comes up. The guests include Groucho Marx, Jimmy Durante and George Burns.

But the taped program will be confined to 60 minutes, 10 to 11 p.m.

AT THE BELLE — Terrific twosome of Hal Wallis' "G.I. Blues", shapely dancer Juliet Prowse, and the more-sensational than ever Elvis Presley, who join forces in the Paramount musical romance which arrives today at the Belle Theatre. Film boasts 10 new tunes, with Elvis singing and Juliet swinging 'em.

Dana Andrews Gets Break In Madison Ave. Production

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Notes and comment on the Hollywood scene:

Persistence pays, agrees Dana Andrews, who has more than the usual reason to be thankful today. Several years ago, he was signed to a movie deal advertising jungle, The Bulldup Boys. He had the idea of producing it for films, but could get no one interested in it.

"No one knows about Madison Avenue?" he was told. Dana even had a script written by Norman Corwin, but there were no takers.

Time went by, and Madison Avenue became part of the national folklore. When 20th Century-Fox decided to make more movies in a hurry, it bought The Bulldup Boys and Dana with it. The film now is being completed with a new title, Madison Avenue.

REJECTED ROLES

Dana's co-stars are Eleanor Parker and Jeanne Crain, who don't seem the least bit perturbed that their roles were turned down by Joan Collins and Dolores Parker.

"I didn't know about it, but it wouldn't have made any difference," said Jeanne, "It's an excellent role."

It's a pleasure to recommend two new films you can see and should be seen by the whole family. The first is The Unsinkables, named for Australia's sheep hands whose home, is where the sun goes down. The film shows how one family tries to keep together and get ahead. The cast includes Deborah Kerr, Robert Mitchum, Peter Ustinov and Glynis Johns.

The Swiss Family Robinson is a story at a family's struggle against the more primitive forces of nature. It is on a less realistic basis, but is equally endearing. John Mills and Dorothy McGuire head the performers.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

AT THE BELLE — Elvis Presley, Juliet Prowse in the new Technicolor musical romance, "G.I. Blues", 2.28-5.26-8.25.

AT THE McCARTHY — "Song Without End", Color, Cinemascope by Dirk Bogarde, Genevieve Page, 2.35-5.56-8.15.

AT THE PARK — All Color Show "Tarzan the Ape-man", Denny Miller, Joanna Barnes, 1.00-3.30 — "The Wreck of the Mary Deare", Gary Cooper, Charlton Heston, 5.45.

Astrological Forecast

BY CARROLL RICHTER

Friday, November 25

General tendencies: After an early and apparently disappointing start to this day, there suddenly breaks through a chance to greatly add to your fame or the good will in which you are held by these in powerful position or the general public. Therefore, tonight you can recognize what to do to please attachment and have a happy evening.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — During A. M. a higher - up will note your particular capabilities and give you the boost you need at this time. Be certain to P. M. that you arrive early in or go out socially and meet the right people. Expand.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Express yourself clearly and honestly with good confidence who can assist you to advance and help you to improve career and will add so much to its beauty and comfort.

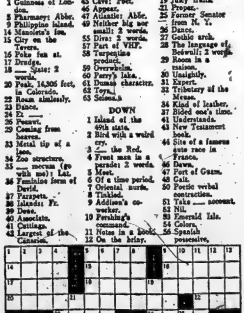
Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 23) — If you get out to some charming place with those with whom you add to you, or vice versa, you can come to a very fine understanding for the future. Tonight is ideal for having a good time as best suits your mood.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — During day hours you will want just how to increase income, as well as to lay basis to property. Take it easy this evening at own fireside. Be kind and generous with loved ones.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Surely the best day for spending up at tomercial or beauty shop, perfecting hobbies, planning trips, etc. P. M. be out and about with good friends for an enjoyable time. Forget problems — be gay!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — It would be to your benefit, to follow the advice of merchants with great experience who can give you practical ideas for advancement and expression. Think and act positively. P. M. fine for enjoying prime hospitality.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Make out itineraries, plan appointments, set ideas in motion—whatever will give you greater abundance in the future. Then get important shopping done. P. M. cast aside any worries and be one with congenials for good time.



Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Many an opportunity is open to you now for improving your well in business and getting the advanced ideas of successful persons which will aid you in attaining your goals. P. M. be with congenials for a carefree evening.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — You have a far better chance to attain your hopes and desire if you take along a good friend or first consult with him, or her. Follow the excellent advice given and you can make quick strides forward. Be alert, generous, kind.

A 27 year child is born today — the mentality will be such that big ideas and projects are easily understood, but it is important that you early teach to whittle them down to a practical size. A formal education is a must here, one that includes the ethical, spiritual, commercial and the arts, a combination of which makes for the greatest success in life, otherwise the potential genius here will be lost.

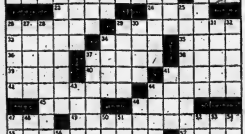
"FOOD I ATE GAVE ME AWFUL GAS, INDIGESTION"

Clamed Heartburn, Sour, Upset Stomach. Lauds Syntona for Grand Relief.

"I surely can recommend Syntona after the way it helped my digestion", said Mrs. T. W. Barnard, 28 Aberdeen Ave., Brantford, Ontario.

"Before I began taking Syntona I suffered so with gas, awful heartburn, sour and acid risings and upset stomach that even a drink of water gave me gas. I was nervous, tired, dreamy, had headaches and sometimes and was unable to get my proper rest at night. I felt tired and rundown.

"But what a relief since I've been taking Syntona. I can eat my meals and enjoy them—sometimes after eating, I've even enjoyed a piece of pie. I'm relieved and rested. I sleep soundly at night and I am just always tired as I was before."



If you suffer from fruity digestion you may need something more than mere medicine to help you feel better. Syntona has helped so many people by correcting the cause of the trouble, not merely relieving the symptoms. All these good things in it are in a Tonic to rundown conditions.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Delan The Druggist.

'60 MAYOR, ALDERMEN ARE RE-ELECTED

Four Convicted Of $960,000 Theft From Gold Mines

2 Days of Deliberation Before Verdict Given

TORONTO (CP) — A millionaire Toronto hotel owner, a North Bay lumber deal and two New York lawyers were found guilty Thursday night of stealing $960,000 in money and securities from Briland Mines Limited in 1957.

An astute crown counsel referred the guilty verdict after being out for more than two days and two nights—one of the longest deliberations in Ontario history.

Mr. Justice G. A. Gale charged the jury Tuesday after the 38-day trial of Ben Smith, 46-year-old co-owner of the Prince George Hotel in Toronto; Charles Stuart, 34, of North Bay; Stanley I. Schonbrun, 38, a New York lawyer; Saul R. Rauch, 45, a member of the New York state bar, and his brother-in-law, a manufacturers' agent, Harold Rauch (no relation).

The convicted men were remanded for sentence to Dec. 7 by Mr. Justice Gale said he would hear character witnesses and receive evidence before passing sentence.

DATE BACK TO 1957

The trial arose out of charges dating back to the transfer of securities, money or property valued at $960,000 from Briland, declared bankrupt in January, and benefitted $900,000 through the sale to the U.S. interests of 600,000 shares of Briland, "when no so open market they would have sold for considerably less."

During the trial 21 Crown witnesses were called and 47 exhibits filed.

One jury was empanelled only three days before a juror was unable to continue and was discharged. Defence counsel refused to allow the case to continue with six jurors, and a second jury was sworn.

Last July Mr. Justice W. F. Spence of the Ontario Supreme Court refused an application for a writ of prohibition against the Rauch brothers. They were arrested in New York state in 1958 and after a series of extradition hearings were brought to Canada to face charges of theft and fraud. Rauch was listed as a director of Briland and Smith as vice-president and treasurer.

Late June, 1960, Smith and his twin brother Harry received reformatory terms of two years less a day and were fined $10,000 and $40,000 shares of New Chamberlain Petroleum owned by Briland mines. They pledged their wife with a bank as security for an overdraft.

The Smith brothers were freed on $5,000 of $20,000 bail pending hearing of an appeal against the reformatory terms imposed by the New Chamberlain transaction.

On December 1, 1950, the Hazelrod Smith brothers were acquitted of theft and fraud charges arising from a stock promotion transaction, involving shares of two other mining and oil companies.

MISS HUSBAND AND FATHER — Mrs. Alan Rose and her son, Mark, 2, left Toronto for Montreal where they will be at the bedside of their husband, father Alan Rose who was trapped underground at Timmins, Ont., for 69 hours. However, after she left for Timmins, doctors decided to fly the injured 26-year-old miner to Toronto for treatment. He is fighting for his life and has a fractured leg. Mrs. Rose arrived in Toronto from Manchester, England, Tuesday night. — (CP Photo).

MUNICIPALITIES TOO COMPLAINING SAYS MEMBER

MacDonald Ruled Out of Order

TORONTO (CP) — A Progressive Conservative member of the legislature Thursday criticized municipalities which go "weeping to Ottawa . . . crying to Queen's Park" when they lose a local industry.

George Gomme (PC—Lanark) said that residents of Smith Falls in his riding "put their shoulders to the wheel" when they lost a big industry and thus found another, a chocolate industry employing 300 men and women.

CCF leader MacDonald was stopped by house rules from asking questions on the recent disparities in municipal affairs investigation of the Ottawa suburb of Eastview.

Mr. MacDonald rose before the orders of the day and was ruled out of order by Speaker William Murdoch on the grounds that his question may not contain arguments, allegations or statements of fact.

TRIED TO ASK

The CCF leader tried to ask Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender to deny or affirm allegations that a report on Eastview was re-written before release "to soften some of its criticism."

Mr. MacDonald said the report revealed lots of theft of town revenues, alleged payments to councillors before building permits were issued, and sworn testimony by a departmental official that the mayor and engineer sought to have him "not re-

Haiti Banishes R.C. Archbishop

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Roman Catholic Archbishop Francois Poirier, long an opponent of President Francois Duvalier, was secretly hustled out of Haiti Thursday night with no baggage and no money except a borrowed $20 bill.

The highest church official of this Roman Catholic republic was accused of giving $7,000 to aid striking students accused by the government of being tools of the Communist plotting. To deal with the crisis the government declared martial law last Tuesday. Thursday it closed all schools for Christmas vacations a month ahead of time.

The deposed 62-year-old archbishop said on arriving in Miami Thursday that the charges against him were "entirely false." He is going back to his native Brittany in France.

BLAMES DEAD MAN

PEMBROKE (CP)—A coroner's jury Thursday night ruled that Douglas Gould, 25, of Pembroke was responsible for an accident on Oct. 19 which took his life and that of William Jordon, 20, of Deep River. The jury found that Gould had been driving before the accident.

Rescued Miner Suffers From Kidney Ailment

TORONTO (CP) — Novice miner Alan Rose, 26, who survived a 69 - hour ordeal in a Northern Ontario gold mine, was in stated resting comfortably in hospital today.

Doctors held consultations over the Manchester - born Rose who turned miner on his arrival here from Timmins by air Thursday night. They made no immediate decision on an operation.

He was reported suffering from a kidney complication called "renal insufficiency" and the Workmen's Compensation Board described as "a very serious condition."

He also suffered a fractured left leg and exposure to both feet when timber props in the Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines-Limited shaft collapsed Saturday. He was pinned without food or water at the 1,700-foot level while rescue crews worked frantically to reach him.

Rose had taken work in the mines six weeks ago when he failed to find plumbers' work. He was trying to raise the fare of his wife and two-year-old son to join him from England.

WIFE ARRIVES

Thursday night he was reunited with his wife who was flown here, then driven to Timmins. She missed the Timmins visit by only a few minutes. Doctors there decided the miner's condition was serious and chartered a plane to send him to Toronto.

Police Chief Requests Parliament Act to Protect Loch Ness Monster

INVERNESS, Scotland (AP) — A police chief whose beat is the Scottish highlands called today for a special act of Parliament to protect the Loch Ness monster against unlicensed killing.

"At the moment we don't know whether the monster can be properly protected under the law," said J. R. Johnstone, chief constable of the shire county of Inverness.

"Everybody accepts that something strange lives in the loch, but nobody knows whether it's an animal or a fish or something completely outside our experience."

Johnstone, county police chief for ten years, said that without new legislation his men might not be able to stop adventurers trying to kill or catch the creature in dangerous experiments.

There have been reports that a band of young men from England intend to drop home-made depth charges into the loch, with the aim of forcing the monster to the surface where it can be captured.

"Any such nonsense will be stopped before it ever begins," Johnstone said. "I would welcome real scientific investigations but bombing the monster is out of the question."

LIBERALS BLAST AMENDMENTS TO HOUSING ACTS

Debate May Have Set Tone for Session

OTTAWA (CP) — For nearly two days the Liberals sat strangely quiet in the Commons, keeping their powder dry and watching passively while two dozen Conservative backbenchers rose to praise the government's new Housing Act amendments.

Thursday they opened fire. They ripped into the government with charges that it had delayed the measures long to use them to help in cutting winter unemployment — that the delay had caused many men to join the jobless ranks this year.

But when it came time to vote on second reading of the legislation—or approval in principle of the bill—only a few, joining the CCF in supporting the government proposals. The government ranks demanded a roll-call vote. It was 159 to 4.

The bitterness of debate in the four hours prior to the vote, which sent the bill to committee, may have set the tone for the session. Not since 1956 has it been so unified.

NEW POLICIES

Liberal speakers accused the government of failing to heed a warning from Economic Council of Canada in 1958 of a big jump in unemployment a sounding board.

At issue were Works Minister Walker's proposed amendments to raise house mortgages—and thus lower down payments—and to provide Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation funds for municipal sewage projects and for university residences.

J. R. Garland (Bow Riv/Calgary) main opposition housing critic, said the government showed little concern earlier this year when it became apparent jobless were developing. He said recession started last March and the government did not anticipate it and did not recognize it when it came.

"The government must take full responsibility for its policy of less delay and for the fact that the proposed legislation will not have its full effect before the unemployment is most acute," he said.

Now Mr. Walker was trying to stimulate housing demand by "quick-silver" measures.

WILL PAY TWICE

Mr. Garland said the result of the higher mortgages and the year repayment period will be that "the man who buys a house for a $15,000 house will end up paying $27,734 for it, including $12,-676 in interest at the current rate of 6¼ per cent.

Interest rates were at a record level, one which could be justified in the boom period but not during recession as at present, Mr. Garland added.

"This is the worst approach, the wrong policy. If we admit—as I think we must—that the house—that we now have a recession, or even if we admit as the prime minister said the other day—that we now are experiencing serious economic difficulties."

Many proposals submitted by Mr. Garland:

Tax decrease to 75 per cent from 50 per cent in the federal

Govt. and Chartered Banks Combine to Provide Credit For Export of Capital Goods

OTTAWA (CP) — A major new joint program by the government and chartered banks to provide credit for Canadian exports of capital goods was unveiled in the Commons today by Trade Minister Hees.

Aimed at meeting credit competition in world markets by foreign suppliers, the plan will see establishment of a new financing company by Canada's nine chartered banks, backed by government cash and credit.

Officials said it could ultimately provide as much as $500,000,000 in medium- and long-term credit for exporters. Of this, $200 000,000 would be available from federal funds with the rest being raised by the new company.

Mr. Hees, in his announcement, described the plan as establishing "new and fully adequate export financing facilities" and said Canadian exporters of capital goods "will thus be enabled to meet credit competition from foreign suppliers."

Government sources said no new legislation will be required. In effect, the scheme will pull the present powers of the government's export credits insurance corporation in new uses.

The new credit facilities will not cover exports of consumer goods. It is aimed at meeting the

P.M. Opposes Suggestion 3-Country Board Run NATO

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Thursday Canada is unequivocally opposed to French President Charles de Gaulle's suggestion of a three-country directorate to lead NATO.

On the contrary, he told the Canadian Club of Ottawa, Canada believes that the machinery for consultation among all NATO members must be improved.

Mr. Diefenbaker outlined Canada's position in a foreign policy address during which he also:

1. Indicated a decision on equipping Canadian forces with nuclear weapons is not likely to be taken in the immediate future.

2. Firmly rejected any suggestion that NATO's usefulness has come to an end—in fact, NATO must be "revitalized" — at the same time emphasizing that Canada sees no need to increase its contribution.

3. Called for a "realistic review" of Western policies toward Communist China, and recognition of the importance of bringing it into any major political settlement. "So vast and almost numberless a people cannot be ignored."

Mr. Diefenbaker did not mention President de Gaulle by name in criticizing the plan for an Al-

Kennedy Clan Grows Bigger, Jacky Well After Caesarean

WASHINGTON (AP)—A six-pound, three-ounce son with a shock of black hair was born today to President-elect and Mrs. John F. Kennedy. Radio flashed the news dramatically to the father as he was speeding from Florida to his wife's bedside.

The word changed the grim look on the president-elect's face to a happy smile. All he knew earlier was that his 31-year-old wife, Jacqueline, had been rushed by ambulance to a Washington hospital and was undergoing a Caesarean section.

Dr. John A. Walsh, the attending physician, said "both mother and son are doing beautifully." The baby was delivered at 12:22 a.m. EST.

Mrs. Gladys Uhl, who has served as secretary for Mrs. Kennedy, described Kennedy boy: "He's adorable. . . . He's wiggling. . . . He has a shock of black hair."

Only Vote To Be For P.S. Trustee In East-End Ward

New Nomination Needed For Ward 6 S.S. Trustee

For the first time in approximately 35 years, this city will not have an election for mayor or for city council.

Last night when the time for nominations had run out, Mayor A. McLean Haig; public Utilities Commissioner W. Harry Rollins and all seven of this year's councillors seeking re-election were accorded acclamations when two other nominees withdrew their qualifications at the last minute.

The reason given for their withdrawal was to save the city the expense of a full scale election.

But there will be an election for school trustee in Ward 4 between incumbent Francis F. Clarke, and Donald Harvey. Both qualified the night of nomination and Mother had withdrawn at the deadline for qualifications last night. Mr. Harvey inquired at the City Hall Friday morning about the possibility of withdrawing but was told it was too late.

In winning an acclamation for the mayor's chair, Mayor Haig has made a bid of six consecutive acclamation.

Nominated Wednesday evening for the first time by Belleville Mayor Haig were Ex-Mayors Frank S. Follwell and Jack Roth along with former councillor Arthur Keegan.

Councillors to win acclamation are Alderman Ross Bailey, Thomas Harden, Jack Ireland, William R. Jarvah, Robert Mitchell, George Wishart and Donald J. Whalen. The above aldermen are now elected for a two-year term.

Public Utilities Commissioner Harry Rollins was accorded acclamation for the utilities post at the last minute when Joseph U. Hunter, retired railroad employee, withdrew from the race after being previously qualified.

Applications received acclamation when Joseph Yome withdrew at the last minute. One nominee, James Keenan, had withdrawn earlier.

Belleville Municipal Planning Engineer Charles Mott, retired city engineer for nomination for council during his long association with city hall.

Mr. Mott came back in 1925 when the late W. C. Mikel was mayor. He served "the man" who was elected acclamation for council without the formality of an election.

But there still has to be another nomination meeting called to name a candidate or candidates for a separate school trustee in Ward 6 At Wednesday night's nomination meeting Mr. Harvey was nominated for separate school trustee in the above ward.

New Swings in New York City Parks Have Been Ape-Tested for Safety

NEW YORK (AP) — It's monkey business about the new swings in Central Park. They're gorilla-tested and safe for kids.

The park department view it that if two burly, 350-pound girl gorillas can't break the swing, then neither can the young.

The story came to light in a letter on Central Park Zoo stationery dated December issue of the National Geographic Magazine.

John Galm, Central Park zoo director, is quoted as saying the park department found that playground swings fell apart after a few months of use.

"We decided to try new swing," Galm relates, "made of reinforced steel. We hung two of them in the cage with Carolyn and Jo-Ann. The theory was that if a gorilla couldn't break the swing, it could not be broken."

The gorillas fell to their test-piloting with gusto.

"Finally the girls grew tired of swinging on the swing, and then started to tear it to pieces. They twisted them on their chains . . . so tight that the eyebolts pulled out of the seats. We installed stronger fittings.

"Finally the girls grew up. They couldn't do any more damage."

As a result, the two apes were allowed to keep a swing in their cage for their very own.

They're as happy about it as a couple of kids.

PM to Summon Rail and Union Heads to Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced in the Commons today that he will still go on a new round of big-level talks to be held here Saturday in an effort to avert the "catastrophic result" of a country-wide railway strike.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he will attend the meetings along with Labor Minister Starr, Transport Minister Balcer and Postmaster-General William Hamilton.

The first conference is set for 1 p.m. between the government team and representatives of the 13 unions that have called the strike for Dec. 3.

The second conference, with presidents Donald Gordon of the CPR and N. R. Crump of the CNR, is to take place at 7 p.m., the prime minister said.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he did not disclose what the government plans are about the impending strike threat.

REVENUES FROZEN

He said that when the three-minister cabinet team met with the union negotiators last week the government they pointed out that railway revenues are frozen by a government order until the Macpherson royal commission on transportation makes its report "on or before" March 31, 1961.

He indicated it was on this basis that the government asked the unions to postpone the strike — a move turned down officially Monday by the chief union negotiator, Frank H. Hall of Montreal.

The prime minister said Saturday's meetings were called in view of the catastrophic results that would follow a national interruption of railway services.

Although the government is hopeful it possible plans to avert a strike a closely-guarded secret, there are indications it may propose a compromise

Four Convicted Of $960,000 Theft From Gold Mines

2 Days of Deliberation Before Verdict Given

TORONTO (CP) — A millionaire Toronto hotel owner, a North Bay banker dead and two New York jawyers were found guilty Thursday night at stock fraud trial involving $960,000 in money and securities from Brilund Mines Limited in 1957.

An assize court jury returned the guilty verdict after being out for more than two days and two nights—one of the longest deliberations in Ontario history.

Mr. Justice J. C. Bigg charged the jury Tuesday after the 38-day trial of Ben Smith, 46-year-old co-owner of the Prince George Hotel in Toronto; Dr. Charles Stuart, 34, of North Bay; Stanley I. Schonbrun, 38, a New York lawyer; Saul R. Harsch, 45, a member of the New York state bar; and his brother Harold, a manufacturers' agent. Harold Harsch was acquitted.

The convicted men were remanded for sentence to Dec. 7. Mr. Justice Bigg said he would hear character witnesses and other evidence before passing sentence.

DATE BACK TO 1957

The trial arose out of charges dating back to the transfer of control of Brilund Mines Limited to U.S. interests in 1957. The five men were accused of stealing, converting and fraudulently valued at $960,000 from Brilund, defrauding the company, and conspiring to steal and defraud.

The charges were originally brought in connection with an investigation of Brilund by the Ontario Securities Commission. Brilund Mines was suspended from trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange Nov. 30, 1957.

In a preliminary hearing in June, 1958, the Crown stated that from the transaction Dr. Smith was under $900,000. Through the sale to the U.S. interests of 600,000 shares of Brilund, "when on no open market they would have sold for considerably less."

During the trial 21 Crown witnesses were called and 78 exhibits filed.

One jury was empanelled only three days after the trial judge unable to continue and was discharged. Defence counsel refused to allow the case to continue with an 11-man jury, and a second jury was formed.

Last July Mr. Justice W. F. Spence of the Ontario Supreme Court refused an application for a writ of prohibition to stop the Rauch brothers. They were arrested in New York in Oct. 1958 and the start of extradition hearings were brought to Canada by the Crown attorney. Harold Rauch was listed as a director of Brilund and both a secretary and treasurer.

In June, 1960, Smith and his lawyer Harry received reformatory terms of two years less a day after each pleading 240,000 shares of New Chamberlain Petroleum Ltd., owned by Brilund mines. They pledged them with a bank as security for a personal overdraft.

The Smith brothers were fined a total of $50,000 each pending hearing of an appeal against the conviction on charges of defrauding New Chamberlain transaction.

In December, 1959, the whitehaired Toronto hotelman was acquitted of theft and fraud charges arising from a $900,000 transaction, involving shares of Brilund mining and oil companies.

However, after she left for Timmins, doctors decided to fly the injured 26-year-old miner to Toronto for treatment. He is fighting for his life and has a fractured leg. MUNICIPALITIES TOO COMPLAINING SAYS MEMBER

MacDonald Ruled Out of Order

TORONTO (CP) — A Progressive Conservative member of the legislature Thursday criticized municipalities which go "weeping to Ottawa . . . crying to Queen's Park" when they lose a local industry.

George Gomme (PC—Lanark) said that residents of Smith Falls in his riding "put their shoulders to the wheel" when they lost a big industry and thus found another, a chocolate industry employing 300 men and women.

CCF leader MacDonald was stopped by house rules from asking questions on the recent department of municipal affairs investigation of the Ottawa suburb of Eastview.

Mr. MacDonald rose before the orders of the day and was ruled out of order by Speaker William Murdoch on the grounds that a question may not contain arguments, allegations or statements of fact.

TRIES TO ASK

The CCF leader tried to ask Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender to deny or affirm allegations that a report on Eastview was rewritten before release "to soften up some of its criticism."

Mr. MacDonald said the report revealed loss or theft of money, illegal payments to councillors before building permits were issued, and sworn testimony by a departmental official that the mayor and treasurer sought to have him "not re-

Haiti Banishes R.C. Archbishop

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)— Roman Catholic Archbishop Francois Poirier, long an opponent of President Francois Duvalier, was secretly hustled out of Haiti Thursday night with no baggage and no money except a borrowed dollar.

The highest church official of this Negro Catholic republic was accused of giving $7,000 to the striking students accused by the government of plotting with the Communist plotting. To deal with the accused priest, Duvalier declared martial law last Tuesday. Thursday it closed all schools for the remainder of a month ahead of time.

The archbishop's 92-year-old archbishop said on arriving in Miami Thursday that the charges against him were "entirely false." He is going back to his native Brittany in France.

Rescued Miner Suffers From Kidney Ailment

TORONTO (CP) — Novice miner Alan Rose, 26, who survived a 69 - hour ordeal in a Northern Ontario gold mine, was reported resting comfortably in hospital today.

Doctors held consultations over Mr. Manchester - born Rose after he turned miner on his arrival here from Timmins by air Thursday night. They made no immediate decision on an operation.

He was reported suffering from a kidney complication called "renal shutdown" which the Workmen's Compensation Board described as "a very serious matter."

He also suffered a fractured left leg and exposure to both feet when timber props in the Holinger Consolidated gold Mines Limited shaft collapsed Saturday. He was pinned, without food or water at the 1,700-foot level while rescue crews worked frantically to reach him.

Rose had taken work in the mine six weeks ago when he failed to find plumbers' work. He was trying to raise the fare of his wife and two-year-old son to join him from England.

WIFE ARRIVES

Thursday night he was reunited with his wife who was flown here from Timmins by Timmins. She missed the Timmins flight by a few minutes. Doctors there decided the miner's condition was serious and chartered a plane to send him to Toronto.

Govt. and Chartered Banks Combine to Provide Credit For Export of Capital Goods

OTTAWA (CP) — A major new joint program by the government and chartered banks to provide credit for Canadian exports of capital goods was unveiled in the Commons today by Trade Minister Hees.

Aimed at meeting credit competition in world markets by foreign suppliers, the plan will see establishment of a new financing company by Canada's nine chartered banks, backed by government cash and credit.

Officials said it could ultimately provide as much as $100,000,000 in medium—and long-term credit for exporters. Of this, $200 000,000 would be available from federal funds with the rest being raised by the new company.

Mr. Hees, in his announcement, described the plan as "establishing "new and fully adequate export financing facilities" and said Canadian exporters of capital goods "will thus be enabled to meet credit competition from foreign suppliers."

Government sources said no new legislation will be required. In effect, the scheme will put the present powers of the government's export credits insurance corporation to new use.

The new credit facilities will not cover exports of consumer goods. It is aimed at meeting the

P.M. Opposes Suggestion 3-Country Board Run NATO

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Thursday Canada is unequivocally opposed to French President Charles de Gaulle's suggestion of a three-country directorate to lead NATO.

On the contrary, he told the Canadian Club of Ottawa, Canada believes that the machinery for consultation among all NATO members must be improved.

Mr. Diefenbaker outlined Canada's position in a foreign policy address during which he also:

1. Indicated a decision on equipping Canadian forces with nuclear weapons is not likely to be taken in the immediate future.

2. Firmly rejected any suggestion that NATO's usefulness has come to an end—in fact, NATO must be "revitalized" — at the same time emphasizing that Canada sees no need to increase its contribution.

3. Called for a "realistic review" of Western policies toward Communist China and recognition of the importance of bringing it into any major political settlement. "So vast and almost numberless a people cannot be ignored."

Mr. Diefenbaker did not mention President de Gaulle by name in criticizing the plan for an At-

Police Chief Requests Parliament Act to Protect Loch Ness Monster

INVERNESS, Scotland (AP) —A police chief whose beat is the Scottish highlands called today for a special act of Parliament to protect the Loch Ness monster against a flood of publicity.

"At the moment we don't know whether the monster can be protected under existing law," said J. R. Johnstone, chief constable of the shire county of Inverness.

"Everybody accepts that something strange lives in the loch, but nobody knows whether it's an animal or a fish or something completely outside our experience."

Johnstone, county police chief for ten years, said that without new legislation his men might not be able to stop adventurers trying to kill or catch the creature in dangerous experiments.

There have been reports that bands of young men from England intend to drop home-made depth charges into the loch, with the help of Royal Air Force planes to the surface where it can be captured.

"Any such nonsense will be stopped before it ever begins," Johnstone said. "I would welcome real scientific investigations but bombing the monster is out of the question."

LIBERALS BLAST AMENDMENTS TO HOUSING ACTS

Debate May Have Set Tone for Session

OTTAWA (CP) — For nearly two days the Liberals satstrangely quiet in the Commons, keeping their powder dry and watching passively while two Eastern Conservative backbenchers rose to praise the government's new Housing Act amendments.

Thursday they opened fire. They ripped into the government with charges that it had delayed the measures too long to be effective in heading off the winter unemployment that the delay had caused 150,000 men to join the jobless ranks this year.

But when it came time to vote on second reading of the legislation—or approval in principle of the bill—only 11 Liberals joined the CCF in supporting the government proposals. The government ranks demanded a roll-call vote. It was 155 to 11.

The bitterness of debate in the few hours prior to the vote, while the bill went to the committee, may have set the tone for the new session. The House was conjured up by both sides as they argued who had done the most for him in terms of housing.

NEW POLICIES

Liberal speakers accused the government of failing to heed a Liberal "warning" in the face of unjustified tight-money, high-interest policies. They also made unemployment a sounding board.

At issue were Works Minister Walker's proposed amendments to "raise" house mortgages—and thus lower down payments—and to provide Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation loans for municipal sewage projects and for university residences.

J. R. Garland (Bow Riv'splaining) main opposition housing critic, said the government should handle its concern earlier this year when "depressed conditions" were developing. He said recession started last March and the government did not anticipate it and did not recognize it when it came.

"The government must take full responsibility for what was less delay and for the fact that the proposed legislation will not have its full effect when the unemployment is most acute," he said.

Now Mr. Walker was trying to stimulate housing demand by calls and payments.

WILL PAY TRICE

Mr. Garland said the result of the higher interest rate and 50 year repayment period will be that little more than half the cost a $15,000 house will end up paying $37,750 in principal including $22,-610 in interest at the current rate of 6¼ per cent.

Interest rates were at a record level, one which could be justified in times of full employment, but not during recession as at present, Mr. Garland added:

This is the wrong approach, the wrong policy, if we admit—as I think we must admit in this House—that we now have a recession, or even if we admit—as the prime minister said the other day—that we now are experiencing serious unemployment difficulties."

Further proposals submitted by Mr. Garland:

1. Interest to 75 per cent from 50 per cent in the federal

Only Vote To Be For P.S. Trustee In East-End Ward

New Nomination Needed For Ward 6 S.S. Trustee

For the first time in approximately 35 years, this city will not have an election for mayor or for city council.

Last night when the time for qualifications had run out, Mayor A. McLees Haig; public Utilities Commissioner W. Harry Rollins and all seven of this year's councillors seeking re-election were accorded acclamations when two other nominees withdrew their qualifications at the last minute.

The reason given for their withdrawal was to save the city the expense of a full scale election.

But there will be an election for school trustee in Ward 6 between incumbent Francis F. Clarke, and Donald Harvey. Both qualified the night of nomination and neither had withdrawn at the deadline for qualifications 11th night. Mr. Harvey inquired at the City Hall Friday morning about the possibility of withdrawing but was told it was too late.

In winning an acclamation for the mayor's chair, Mayor Haig has served his second consecutive acclamation.

Nominated Wednesday evening for the fourth year besides Mayor Haig were Ex-Mayors Frank S. Follwell and Jack Booth along with former councillor Arthur Keegan.

Councillors to win acclamation are Alderman Ross Bailey, Harold Harmon, Jack Ireland, William E. Jarvah, Robert (Bob) Lowery, George Wishart and Donald J. Whalen. The above aldermen are now elected for a two-year term.

Public Utilities Commissioner Harry Rollins was accorded acclamation for the utilities post at the last minute when Joseph U. Hunter, retired railroad employee, withdrew from the race after having previously qualified.

Councillors received acclamation when Joseph Yome withdrew at the last minute. One other nominee, James Gordon had withdrawn earlier.

Western city hall official Planning Engineer Charles Mott, retained his name for nomination for council during his long association with city hall.

There was no nomination for separate school trustee in the above ward.

MORE OUTSIDE

Kennedy Clan Grows Bigger, Jacky Well After Caesarean

WASHINGTON (AP)—A six-pound, three-ounce son with a shock of black hair was born today to President-elect and Mrs. John F. Kennedy. Radio flashed the news dramatically to the father as he was speeding from Florida to his wife's bedside.

The word changed the grim look on the president-elect's face to a happy smile. All he knew earlier was that his 31-year-old wife, Jacqueline, had been rushed by ambulance to a Washington hospital and was undergoing a Caesarean section.

Dr. John A. Walsh, the attending physician, said "both mother and son are doing beautifully." The baby was delivered at 12:22 p.m. EST.

Mrs. Gladys Uhl, who has served as secretary for Mrs. Kennedy, described the Kennedy boy' "He's adorable. . . . He's wiggling. . . . He has a shock of black hair."

Sam F. McGuire Dies in Hospital, Ill Long Time

Samuel Francis McGuire of Madoc and formerly of this city, an employe of the old Ritchie Company and the T. Eaton Department Store for many years, died at the Belleville General Hospital late Thursday afternoon. Mr. McGuire suffered a fall in his home about six months ago and sustained a broken neck and has has been in failing health for some time.

He was born in Madoc, 76 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius McGuire and until he moved to Madoc a year ago he had been a resident of Belleville for 50 years. As a young man he entered the employment of the Ritchie Company and when the Store was sold to the T. Eaton Company he remained as a department head and assistant until his retirement some years ago. Mr. McGuire was a popular clerk with a wide clientele in the Quinte district. On his retirement he was honored by the management and staff for his many years of excellent service.

In the life of the community he took an active part. While a resident of this city he was a member of Talmerian Presbyterian Church and served on the official board and was also prominently active in the Men's Club of the congregation. In Madoc he was a member of Eureka Lodge No. 283, A.F. and A.M. and was a Past Master of the lodge, a position he held with distinction to himself and the organization. Since moving to Madoc he was a member of Trinity United Church.

Mr. McGuire was a kindly and genial personality, quick to make and hold friends. He was always ready and willing to assist in worthwhile projects for the good of the community. He was a kind father and loving husband. For many years he maintained a summer cottage at Moira Lake and the door was always open to his family and friends.

Surviving are his wife, the former Carrie McDonald, one son, Harry McGuire of Toronto; two sisters, Stella Bloomer and Mrs. G. (Fern) Stephenson, both of Belleville; a brother, Jack McGuire, of Toronto. Also surviving are three grandchildren, Harry, Carol and Sandra McGuire.

The funeral will be held on Saturday in Madoc.

Around The Tee

A novel invention will be attempted at the Quinte Curling Club on Saturday night, there will be a mixed bonspiel and a social evening will follow but how the draw will be arranged will be a secret. As the members enter they will immediately dress for the ice and out they go on a rink. As soon as that game is finished they will be split up and each one will go to a different rink to play the next game. This is called the greatest curling and should add up to a lot of fun. The games are under the control for Gowsell are trying a number of new wrinkles to keep the interest of the members at while heat all winter.

Three weeks from Saturday night the women will take up the men in a curling match and there are a few wagers being made that the ladies will have the best score when the shooting is over but the men are taking the challenge as a huge joke.

One week from Saturday another one-day spiel for the men will be held and the prizes for it will be lucky ones which will be lesser goods. The board has now been filled and the members are asked to sign in. This spiel is with the exception of the last one held in that the committee will draw the rinks from the names placed on the board. There is room for sixteen rinks which is 64 men. The rinks will be drawn next Thursday evening and everyone is invited to sign up. Remember this committee for activities of the club and the more assisted the club and the co-operatio of the members is solicited.

serve shortage of revenues if they were replaced."

Mr. Gomme was joined by Arthur Evans (PC—Simcoe Centre) in pointing to the need for better tax-sharing arrangements with federal government. He criticized the plan for urging more corporation tax on industry to pay for future provincial needs.

"Already about 52 cents of every profit dollar of our large corporations goes to the federal treasury to say nothing of provincial and municipal taxes," Mr. Gomme said.

He said Ontario is "almost impoverished" by federal treasury demands. Ontario taxpayers pay about half or every six dollar to the federal treasury and give $345,000,000 in grants to municipalities each year, he added.

Mr. Gomme—moved and Mr. Evans seconded adoption of the speech from the throne. The latter, 45-year-old mayor of Bradford called for the attorney-general to build a proposed $7,000,000 police training college at Barrie in his constituency.

In his maiden legislative speech, Mr. Evans said it was absurd Ontario should pay the bill for federal government to give equalization to provinces such as Alberta and British Columbia, both of which are classified as "have-nots," but neither of which pay equalization.

He called for a more general application of Canada's $9,000,000,000 defence budget to provide "as educated people, as a younger generation skilled in the sciences," besides cannon and missiles.

Mr. MacDonald later released the question he could not ask in the house on Oct. 31 over three months after the enquiry, or was delayed so that the citizens would have "a very limited time to study the election to consider its content and take whatever action they desired."

Speaker Murdoch said he tried to get in touch with Mr. MacDonald before the House sat to remove the objectionable phrasing, but could not. He invited the CCF leader to meet with him to shorten and rephrase the question.

lantic alliance directorate. It was clear, however, that he referred to Gen. de Gaulle's proposal that France, Britain and the United States should have primary responsibility for framing NATO policy.

It has been advocated that a kind of triumvirate should be established," the prime minister said. "Canada is opposed to that course definitely and unequivocally. We take our NATO commitments seriously and will not accept a subsidiary or secondary position. We believe that the consultative machinery of NATO is to be improved."

There had been some question that members would be asked to increase their contributions to NATO. Canada had at all times maintained its contribution—"to a degree not exceeded by any of the member countries."

"I see no reason that in the sharing of the insurance premium for peace which NATO requires of its participants, Canada can or should contribute more than she has this year and in years past."

The problem of equipping Canadian forces with nuclear weapons is not an immediate one.

Canada would not consider acquiring them until it had "reality of control — a joint control over them." Any decision would depend on the course of international disarmament talks.

Paul Hellyer (L—Toronto) in the Commons, External Affairs Minister Green declined comment on reports that Arthur Maloney (PC —Toronto Parkdale), a member of the Canadian delegation of the NATO parliamentary conference in Paris, had spoken publicly in favor of equipping the Canadian NATO brigade with nuclear weapons.

Replying to CCF Leader Argue, Mr. Green said the government cannot be held responsible for policy statements by private MPs.

The film illustrated the need for farmers to preserve cover for small game, particularly rabbits, along fences and hedge-rows. In addition to providing cover, the rabbits provide food for predators, which might otherwise prey on the farmers' stock.

Audrey Davies Gets Deer

Wife Shows Hubby' How'!

Deer-hunting to Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Davies, 238 William Street means more than the thrill of the kill and the delight of a succulent venison dinner.

There's a friendly family feud been going on these many years. Both Gordon and Audrey Davies are good hunters.

Audrey learned to hunt in her early teens with her father, Dave Baudet of Harrington.

She has missed two seasons in the past 23 years, one when she was married, the second when daughter Beverley was born.

Audrey always goes along with husband Gordon and two or more male hunters. This year the party consisted of the Davies, John Hickford and Ole city, Russell Bruder of Collins Bay and Tom McGuire of Tamworth.

For shooting ability and accuracy Audrey can match most men hunters. She has proved it on the target range and in the woods. Her record, over a period of 21 years is Gordon, 14; Audrey 12.

Of course the "loser" has to take a certain amount of ribbing until the next season happens along.

This year it is Audrey's turn to — well — perhaps do a little feminine "crowing."

For her well-aimed shot through down the first of the two-deer party bog. It was a nice doe.

Said Audrey, "I just happened to be in the right place at the right time and did the right thing".

Gordon drew a blank.

So this season he will eat the tasty venison steaks served by wife Audrey, an excellent cook, garnished with the usual good-natured ribbing.

complaints of capital goods manufacturers that they have lost many export sales because they can't meet the financing terms offered by other countries.

The United States provides long-term credit terms under its export-import bank, and officials said all of the European Common Market countries have government-sponsored financing facilities of one type or another.

The program will operate this year.

The new company to be set up by the banks will provide credit for terms up to five years, getting its funds by borrowing on the market. Its security will be the promissory notes of the import buyers, insured by the export credits insurance corporation.

CABINET HAS SAY

Where financing of capital exports for longer than five years is needed, the new company will act as agent for the export credits insurance corporation which, in effect, will be providing the funds itself. Cabinet approval will be required for such deals.

Mr. Bell said Canadian exporting firms "now can seek orders for capital equipment, confident that the necessary arrangements re financing impediments that may have existed in them in the past from seeking or obtaining orders abroad."

"The remaining challenge to Canadian exporters of capital equipment is aggressive selling and to find credit - worthy buyers."

Officials said the new company will be set up by the banks in the near future, probably before the end of the year.

CAN BORROW MORE

It would have a capital of some $50,000,000, and officials said it can be expected that the company would be able to borrow up to 10 times the amount of its capital. Funds would also be made available for export loans of up to five years.

For long-term loans, the export credits insurance corporation has a ceiling lead of a new $200,000,000 by means of purchasing the promissory notes which cover the export sale.

Corporation officials said $36,000,000 of this is immediately available. Another $50,000,000 is committed, with repayments due over the next few years. When this money comes in it can be loaned again.

The export credits insurance corporation was originally set up in 1944. Its purpose was to finance export sales but to insure exporters against credit risks and non-payments by foreign buyers. With this guarantee, banks and other financial houses have been more willing to finance an export sale and thus provide the Canadian exporter with immediate cash.

In the last year the corporation has insured $100,000,000 worth of exports—$73,000,000 in capital goods and the rest capital goods on medium-term credit.

settlement with the 111,000 "non-op" workers getting half of the 12½ cent hourly wage boost recommended by the federal conciliation board.

The other seven - cent hourly boost would be left to an impartial arbiter to consider on the basis of wage trends in the durable goods industry which the union wants as the yardstick to go on the railways.

The conciliation report, written by Mr. Justice J. V. H. Milvain of Calgary and supported by union nominee David Lewis of Montreal, proposed a 14-cent hourly increase to be paid in three steps. It called for two cents an hour retroactive to Jan. 1, five cents an hour on Sept. 1, plus four-per-cent next May 1.

Mr. Justice Milvain said the award was based on an "assumption" that wage rates in the durable goods industry would rise at the same rate as they had in the two years up to December, 1956.

This assumption apparently has not been borne out by actual wage trends in the durable goods industry.

Dozen Candidates Nominated For Three Seats on Council

Laying Aside Debenture Fund Working Well

TRENTON — The Trenton Public Utilities Commission met last night in the board room at the utilities office, Elgin St.

Albert E. Atkinson, chairman, was in charge of the meeting. Commissioners Clifford Baker and Mayor James MacDonald, secretary, James Page and two members of the press were present.

Mr. Page reported that the new method of laying aside a certain sum each month towards the debenture payments was working out very well. To date, $30,000 has been placed in the fund. This will enable the commission to pay the December debenture payment of $18,200 and with the addition of a few hundred of dollars in the balance, the January 3 debenture payment of $3,000 will be met with ease.

The Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission had written to notify the Trenton Commission that they would be no increase in the interim charge of $34.75 per kilowatt in 1959.

Town engineer Walter Murray had written to ask that the utilities set them up water services, to more than one building on property owned by Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Sharpe at the corner of West and Keveral Sts. The engineer said that Mr. Sharpe had been living in a smaller building while he erected a large home. He had promised to move the small building into a garage when the larger building was completed. Now that the larger house is ready for occupancy, Mr. Sharpe has booked up water pipes to both buildings and it is believed that he means to rent the smaller building to a relative. The commissioners decided water facilities would not be installed in either or both buildings until the building inspector gives "no afraid" sign...and if the two buildings are to be serviced, a separate meter will be required for each.

TRENTON — Nominations for seats on town council, the Board of Education and the Public Utilities Commission were held in the town hall at Trenton last night between six and seven o'clock. The hall was packed with spectators. Town clerk O. W. Larry announced the time limits for the nominations to be accepted. Mr. Larry and Trenton's tax collector, Alan Weaver, examined the nominations forms and passed them on to the town assessor, Allan Smith, who recorded the nominations as they read them. Electors craned their necks as each name was written on the board.

Twelve names were proposed to fill the three seats open on town council this year. Councillors D. R. Fraser, R. J. (Dick) Whitley and Howard Aziz were nominated for re-election. Ex-mayor Ross Burtt's name was proposed, and ex-councillor Lloyd Worrall also received a nomination.

Others nominated were: Ed. Todd, railway employee; J. Ray Brown, decorating contractor; William Ireland, Jr., merchant; Gordon Jeffery, insurance agent; James F. Day, realtor; and Joe Gould, retired jeweller. Reddy Whitley, realtor.

Mayor James MacDonald was elected last year for a two-year term.

Fifteen names were proposed to fill the eight seats open on the Trenton Board of Education. Seven there are the retiring members who resigned their seats recently. Nominated were: Paul Tripp, George Greer, L. G. Phinney, Frank Fillen, F. J. (Pete) Aziz, Robert Barlow and the 1960 chairman T. S. Ketcheson were all nominated. Others nominated were: Mrs. Gabrielle Griffith, Mrs. Viola O'Keefe, Louis Khack, James Dobby, Rev. Ronald Reid, Gerald Farwell, Donald Sutherland and Douglas Whitley.

With one vacancy on the Trenton Public Utilities Commission, two names were proposed, incumbent Albert E. Atkinson, who was the 1960 chairman of the commission, and Charles Hilton.

Nominees will have until 9 p.m. tonight to qualify.

Postal Dept. Can Put Boxes On Hydro Poles

TRENTON — About a year-and-a-half ago, the Trenton Public Utilities Commission, members would phone a discernible damage being done to the town's hydro poles by advertising bills, political signs and numerous other extraneous articles tacked in some way to these poles, wrote to the federal post office department asking if the commission be given some control over the attachment of neighborhood postal boxes to the poles. The commission is also responsible for the safety factor to hydro workers, who must wend their way up the poles through a pathway of metal boxes, metal signs, nails, tacks, etc.

As no answer was forthcoming from the postal authorities, the manager of the Trenton utilities, James Page, was directed that such boxes would be removed by the commission and placed beside the poles. This letter at last, drew an answer, if not action.

At last night's meeting of the Trenton commission, Mr. Page read a letter from the Deputy Attorney General of Canada, quoting from the British North American Act, as it applies to the mail. The letter stated that the post master general has the right to place any boxes where he deems approoriate and that no rental is ever paid for this convenience, and that there is an advance to interfere with the action.

At one time the postal boxes were attached to short poles of their own. When these poles rotted, the hydro poles were pressed into service. The commission would like to have control over their own hydro poles and the method employed to attach them to the poles.

However, it would seem that further correspondence will have to be carried on with the postal department authorities before a solution can be reached.

SCHEDULES DEBATE

OTTAWA (CP)—Veterans Affairs Minister Churchill's government leader in the Commons, told the House Thursday night that a foreign affairs debate is tentatively scheduled for next Tuesday.

Hospital Addition May Open Six Months Ahead of Time

TRENTON — In the coming year the date June 6 may hold twofold significance for the people of Trenton and district.

In 1944 it was the day Canadians with the Allied liberation forces stormed the beaches of Normandy to open the long awaited Second Front. It is an anniversary remembered especially by World War II veterans.

In 1961 there is a strong possibility the official opening of the extension to the Trenton Memorial Hospital will fall on that date. The H. J. McFarland Construction Company of Picton, General Contractors for the jobs aims to have the project completed about that time. Progress to date is slightly ahead of schedule.

Originally the soonest of the three wings being added would be available for occupancy appeared to be in 18 months. But because of the urgency for need of extra accommodations the contractor was able to advance the construction schedule six months. Accordingly the directors intended that date to be met and provide financing.

Overcrowding was a problem the trustees and staff of the hospital had to contend with for a long time before finally deciding to proceed with the extension, a spokesman observed. Actually there was no other alternative since the population growth of the municipality and surrounding area continued to multiply, he said.

Since June this year construction of the new parts has created a new need for between 45 and 50 tradesmen and labourers. Approximately, it will increase at the same level throughout the winter months according to Hastings Gallagher, superintendent of McFarlands. Outside construction has progressed so that work can be done on inside installations and finishing, he revealed. Another month or so there would be little or no interference with the daily routine of effectiveness of the hospital, he explained.

In the meantime many people and organizations have pitched in to encourage the project.

Recently Trenton's fire banks banded together to lend a hand in collection of contributions for the building fund. All of them are receiving donations and assisting the donors with interim receipts. Later on the hospital board will issue official receipts.

PUC Decides Not to Intervene Over Insurance

TRENTON — At last night's meeting of the Trenton Public Utilities Commission a letter from the Whitley Insurance Company was read to the commissioners by the secretary, James Page.

Mr. Douglas Whitley stated that he wished to clarify his position in the percentage distribution of the commission's insurance premium among himself and four other local insurance agents. Mr. Whitley said that at a meeting in May 1960 between himself, four other agents and members of the commission, it had been verbally agreed that since his company would carry the insurance, attended to clerical work in this connection and other sundry details, it should collect 60 per cent of the 5 per cent commission and 40 per cent among the other four companies, for a one-year period, when a new insurance be awarded.

Fraser and Fraser, insurance agents, had written to the commission, sending a copy of this letter to Mr. Whitley, stating that they did not understand such agreement this way. Messrs. Fraser thought that the commissioners members should attempt to clarify the matter. They said that commissioners had agreed and that the premium was to be divided equally.

The commissioners were agreed that the agreement should have been in writing, rather than verbal, but could not see how they could interfere with the agents in the matter. They decided that in the future all like agreements should be in writing signed and that the commission would signify the "split" of the premium to forestall future arguments among the agents.

Cpl. Fitzpatrick Killed Instantly, Car Hits Culvert

TRENTON — Cpl. Francis Richard Fitzpatrick, 24, of No. 5 Repair Depot met his death instantly when the car he was driving hit a culvert at the side of the road on the north shoulder of the bridge between Trenton and Brighton, rolled over several times and finally came to rest wheels in the air at the side of the road. Provincial police officials called the Brighton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police, who in turn called the doctors to the scene. The body had been thrown from the wreckage of the car and Cpl. Fitzpatrick was pronounced dead by Dr. Ian Ross of the Presquile. An inquest will be held.

Cpl. Fitzpatrick was married and the father of three children. He was on his way to his home in Brighton when the accident occurred about 10 p.m.

On September 2nd, five persons were killed at almost the same spot in a double accident. The Webb family of Trenton and Stephen McCoy of Bloomfield, were the victims in that case.

Socialism In Africa

A Reuters despatch says Ghana "is marching towards a socialist pattern of society."

This may shock some people in the free democracies of the West, but it is a situation to which they will have to reconcile themselves, not only in Ghana but in many other under-developed lands, in Asia as well as in Africa.

There is not enough capital available to permit any conscientious government to allow it to follow its natural flow, into those industries which promise the greatest profits. For the most profitable industries are not necessarily the ones which will do most to meet the many urgent needs of these lands.

Once these urgent needs are met, greater economic freedom will be possible. Meanwhile observers in the West should not be overly alarmed if these under-developed lands turn for advice to the nations which have the greatest experience in operating controlled industries, the lands of the Communist bloc. What needs to be watched closely is any trend towards imposing Communist forms of control which are not essential to the task at hand—any restriction of natural rights under which goes beyond that made inevitable by economic conditions. That there exists a grave danger of the new nations embracing the Communist system in toto is self evident; that such a development is unavoidable is at least open to doubt. These struggling young nations can be best assisted in preventing this undesirable development if their forced embracement of socialistic practices is received in the West with understanding and restraint, rather than met with criticism and a refusal to provide urgently needed help.

It is just possible that they will never be able to afford a free-economy after the style of that enjoyed in this continent—like the historian Arnold Toynbee, writing in Maclean's, recently declared the world-wide affluent society on the U.S. pattern would rapidly exhaust the world supply of essential commodities and that even the U.S. will be forced, at some future date, to lower its rate of consumption.

But many of these lands, although they have known discriminations which were sometimes harsh, have enjoyed at least a taste of that system of rule by law which is the common heritage of the West and, unless unnecessarily alienated, can be hopefully expected to cling to these principles no matter what path economic necessity forces them to travel, for the present at least.

Stormy Weather Ahead?

The world's first robot weatherman, Tiros II, may mean some stormy days are ahead.

It is a little difficult for the average layman to believe that increased accuracy in predicting the weather is so important that Tiros II would have been launched into the sky, for a three-month stint of cloud picture-taking, if there were not another, and more important, possible use for such a satellite.

Rather obviously Tiros II has important spy-in-the-sky possibilities.

It will be interesting to see what is Russia's reaction. Will she send up her own camera-armed satellites? Or will she attempt to blast Tiros II or any of its successors out of orbit if they start peeking behind the Iron Curtain?

In the long run, satellites of this nature may provide a means by which a future disarmament agreement can be policed, by making aerial inspection simple and virtually automatic.

Until that day comes, though, one would expect that the Russians would be as reluctant to pose for Tiros II or its mates as for U-2 planes. The former, though, would be much more difficult to stop than the latter.

It would appear as if the time is overdue for the United Nations to attempt to reach some agreement on an international code governing satellites.

Meanwhile, if Tiros II is confining its activities to taking cloud pictures, perhaps the U.S. could do worse than permit the scientists of other lands to confirm this fact by actual inspection.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THIS MARVELOUS ERA

My mind often reverts to a relatives from the country came day in the summer of 1895 when into town, we entertained them by riding on my father's office a few blocks away and letting them talk with him.

Then the radio. Then television. Then the planes we are moving, the Sun is moving, all the stars are moving, the Milky Way is moving (astronomers tell us), all galaxies are moving, even the universe is enlarging every hour by up to 320,000,000 or more miles.

To understand Einstein's theories one must grasp some sense of the constant motion in the universe.

Also one must have some concept of the phenomenon of light and the speed at which it travels.

Miracles of the Universe Movement and Light

By HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Ontario Minister of Energy Resources

ARTICLE XI

The theory of relativity has had a great influence upon man's concept of the universe in which he lives.

How long ago the universe began, what the universe is composed; man's place—past, present and future; man himself, and the society by which things happen, are all part of a composite picture—and this picture has been partially framed by Einstein's Theories of Relativity.

Relativity was talked of long before Einstein. Then, Einstein produced three theories in relation to it:

(1) Einstein's Special Theory of 1906; (2) Einstein's Theory of Gravitation of 1911 and (3) Einstein's General Theory of Relativity of 1916.

These theories of relativity are not as difficult to understand, in a general way as they are to believe. Einstein's theories of relativity, as important as they have proved to be in advancing scientific problems, have been, in a sense, overrated as scientific problems, have been more startling for the things they predict.

What scientific problems were solved by Einstein? Problems of motion, time, space, atoms, sequence, and light.

Many startling predictions arise out of Einstein's theory of relativity and there are a number of other facts or predictions which are entirely consistent with relativity.

HARD TO BELIEVE

What predictions are so hard to believe? Based upon some hidden assumption, predictions such as:

1. The faster man travels the thinner he gets.

2. The faster man travels, the heavier he gets, which will be? He will grow old more slowly.

3. Theoretically you might be able to look out through a telescope into space and see the back of your own head.

4. "Other People" on other planets might have advanced to events that have not yet "happened" to us here on earth, or even on earth they are not yet seen.

5. That space is "curved".

6. That "other people" on other planets might be in the universe may, at this very moment, be watching Rome burn.

7. That if a man went on a fast rocket trip for a number of years he would come home and find while he was gone that his son was older than himself.

8. The maximum speed that light can travel is 670,000,000 miles an hour.

9. That a clock on a moving space ship will not keep time with a clock on earth and when the space ship returns the passengers will maintain they have been away 10 days and the residents of earth will say that they took not 10, but 20 days.

UNANSWERED QUESTIONS

Man since man could, has wondered where he came from, how he got here and how long he will be here. All of these problems deal with relativity, but it must be said that Einstein's theories, however, relate them together in these articles as if they did.

Every Christian must understand a little more about man, his environment and his history. Whether man will ever know the answers to all the questions he asks of himself, is questionable. But, certainly, man will have a better concept of himself because Albert Einstein lived and worked. I believe that that man will know all the answers some day. But even on this, Christian faith is sure.

Einstein is considered by most outside the world of science as the most outstanding scientist ever born.

Because of an impelling need to simplify Einstein's Theory of Relativity, I have set down briefly it in a very general way. For those wishing more detail, space is open to and will no doubt receive criticism. My sole purpose is to give a general overall impression, in a number of articles of the Theory of Relativity and the predictions it presented as well as what I, as a layman feel, are related matters.

At the heart of the Theory of Relativity are questions concerning matter, motion and the velocity of light.

NOTHING STANDING STILL

Everything everywhere is made of atoms. You are made of atoms, your clothes, your furniture, your house, car, food, highways, golf clubs, aeroplanes, the air you breathe, the water you drink, the earth you stand on.

The earth is spinning at 1,000 miles at the equator. It is wobbling, too. The earth is also racing in its orbit around the Sun at 66,000 mph. The moon is moving, the planets are moving, the

From time to time definitions of light have always met for the moment we will not try to define light, but rather will simply note its chief characteristics:

1. Light carries energy. The form of the energy or its description is not important here.

2. Light travels out from a star or from a source at the fantastic speed of 670,000,000 miles an hour (in a vacuum).

3. Some solids such as glass, or liquids, such as water, it will change.

Thus, at this stage, it is sufficient to note that at the heart of Einstein's Theory of Relativity, its two important facts:

(a) everything in the universe is in constant motion, nothing is standing still.

(b) light travels out from its sources at 670,000,000 miles an hour.

Letter To The Editor

No Evidence Given To Support Charge

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Your paper carried a C.P. report of Mr. Stevenson's brief, headed "Adjusters Put on Hot Seat".

It is sincerely hoped that you will also report the Globe and Mail's enclosed article entitled "Adjusters Praised for Reports of Payoffs", which appeared November 19.

The public may not realize adjusters are licensed by the Ontario Department of Insurance and are carefully supervised.

Their licenses and their private matters were brought up.

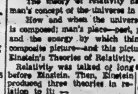
The first deals with insurance companies paying a 10% discount from garages on parts. This arises out of the volume of insurance business. Garages give discounts to the fleet operators and in some cases to insurance companies. This 10% does not go to the adjusters.

The second issue accuses the adjusters of giving "kickbacks" to garages for placing repair work with them would not necessarily take any action. The Insurance Department of Insurance.

Mr. Stevenson, Mr. H. Hawthorn, executive officer of the Insurance Department, in the discussion between Mr. Hawthorn and Cecil West, manager of the Canadian Underwriters Association of Toronto, who first brought the matter up at a recent meeting of the provincial association.

The discussion took place in the meeting room while the meeting was being conducted, and after Mr. West and other members had left, in an attempt to see a delegation of adjusters who considered their views should be supported by evidence before the end of the annual meeting.

Mr. West agreed to see the adjusters and left the department only and told him in substance that he would not concern adjusters in the Toronto area. He added, according to Mr. Hawthorn, that he would immediately investigate reports of kickbacks by adjusters elsewhere in the province. Mr. West failed to give any factual evidence. Mr. Hawthorn said.



Mr. West made his charge without any attempt to provide a resolution to the effect that the association should take action should eliminate discounts to insurance companies.

Referring to this resolution, a spokesman for the adjusters said it did not "condone unfair practice in the industry to give 10% discount to insurance companies in repair work. This discount, he acknowledged, was not go to the adjusters but to insurance companies.

Mr. Hawthorn confirming the practice, said that it was common knowledge that the car repair industry would often allow the insurance companies a discount on parts. He added however, that in the absence of unanimity among the garages concerning the discount, a price investigation could readily be made.

Speaking before two hundred Belleville, Ivan Sherry and Mrs. Bellford Rotarians and their guests at an inter-club meeting in the Sterling Community Hall on Monday night, Hon. Gordon Conant, Attorney-General of Ontario, paid tribute to the Belleville Rotary Club which he said "was one of the finest in Ontario." It would be a sad day for the world, he added, if Rotary were abolished as it is in some countries. The distinguished speaker pointed out that the British North America Act provides that the provinces 'shall have jurisdiction over the administration of justice, but there has never been any definite agreement as to what this means and how far it extends.

Quoting examples, the speaker stated that "we have ample and elaborate laws in Canada against lotteries. But the Attorney-General of this province owes to the decency of all service club ear lotteries, bingo games and other similar activities, 'what the use purpose would be blamed? Would it be Dominion Parliament or the King Red Cross through Mr. J. C. Reilly, president of the Belleville Red Cross Society, etc.

Finds Logic Will Not Reach Unconvincibles

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

It isn't until late in life — if ever — that most of us learn not to argue with the Unconvincibles. In Grandma's generation, we might as well save our breath to cool our porridge.

The Unconvincibles are the people who are not amenable to reason of any sort. Their minds are not only closed, but bolted and hermetically sealed.

In most cases, their beliefs originated at such early age that the time they left their teens, they were encased in a rigid framework of thought and feeling, which no evidence or argument can penetrate.

"It is impossible," observed Dean Swift a long time ago, "to reason a man out of something he has not been reasoned into." A succinct and admirable statement about the Unconvincibles; for, having no belief in reason on emotional level, they cannot be persuaded out of them on a rational level.

And it only makes matters worse to argue with them. They become more and more passionately partisan, more extremist, more defensive about their positions. In the end, you are just exchanging invectives.

Does not this realize that I am engaged in a controversial discussion with an Unconvincible, it shift the subject to the weather, to the crops, the Schmeling-Louis, the relative merits of the new automobiles. It has kept my blood pressure down, but it has never lowered it.

How can we deal with an Unconvincible before the discussion has even begun? Is there any hope for cure? There are several gambits they all use, which should alert us to the nature of the unreasonable Object.

They use, for instance, fond of quoting texts, which they have learned by heart, from the most memorized portions of the Bible — roughly torn out of context — to fortify their position. Or they may cite historical statistics, which they have at their finger tips. Or they tell you some startling personal experience they have undergone — and then generalize outrageously from this one instance.

Logic, of course, is utterly useless against them. They will not define their terms, and, they commit every fallacy in the book. If pushed to the wall, they will bitterly reproach you by impugning your ancestry, your mental character, your very motives themselves.

And the surest sign of an Unconvincible is the dogmatism with immediately uses about himself. He thinks of himself as Broad-Minded.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G Molner, M.D.

PERNICIOUS ANEMIA CURBED BY VITAMIN B12

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please give me some information on pernicious anemia. Is there a cure? And what is the cause? — Mrs. D., Ont."

This disease, a progressive (and hence pernicious) loss of blood cells, was formerly always only a little over a century ago, in 1849.

Until only 24 years ago, there was not any known treatment for it. However, in 1926 it was found that if the patient ate a half-pound of liver a day, not overly cooked, the anemia and all whatever was missing from the system, and the pernicious anemia was thus kept under control.

This discovery parallels, in some ways, that of insulin, which came at about the same time. Here was a disease which was incurable, and by the use of the discovery of a way to replace what the body was lacking patients suddenly were enabled to live with the means to live out their normal life span, in a normal fashion. Already millions of people have benefitted by these two discoveries.

The liver — and the medication developed from it — the patient doesn't have to eat $1.25 worth of liver a day. It is not "cure" pernicious anemia, which is the disease what is missing, and the disease disappears, as long as the treatment continues. And the treatment is good.

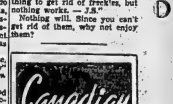
As to what causes the disease I guess I can say we "know" what it is, but we don't know the cause. (The cause is ...)

That is, formation of red blood cells requires an intrinsic factor coming from within the body and an "extrinsic" factor coming from outside.

The "intrinsic" factor remains something of a mystery, except that we know it is contained in liver — and since then we have narrowed things down until Vitamin B12 seems to be the important part.

Anyway, giving B12 by mouth is not wholly satisfactory because nerve complications can develop. Giving B12 by injection appears to avoid such complications.

Pernicious anemia, unless treated, causes three principle types of symptoms: those of the blood deficiency itself, and the anemic conditions which result; second, intestinal tract disturbances, ranging from a smooth, too-red tongue to lack of hydrochloric acid in the stomach, and diarrhea; third, problems in the nervous system, such as numbness and weakness in the legs, lack of vibration sense, etc.



Because B12 controls this disease, what if people who already take vitamins which include a little of B12 still take such vitamins (as, as you might suspect, interfere. With diagnosis, nervous stomach disorders, and such things as sprue, give similar symptoms in some ways, and B12 in moderate quantities can "mask" a case of pernicious anemia for a time. This means that doctors have to be on their toes, and that ask some questions about what vitamin preparations a patient has been taking.

However, the net important facts are these: Pernicious anemia above difficulty, we can identify their trouble; and after that, we can control it so the patient can live a normal life of full duration.

Nothing will. Since you can't get rid of them, why not enjoy them?

HESPELER

This town in Waterloo county began its existence in 1816 when Abram Clemsen purchased 315 hectares of Indian lands and incorporated it into a township. It was first named Bergeyville to honor the first settler, then changed to New Hope, for no established reason. Then in 1845 Jacob Hespeler came to the district, built a sawmill, a grist mill, a distillery, drained swamps and built roads at his own expense and the place was named to honor him.

TODAY'S TALK

THE URGE TO DO

Beyond all the desire we have to do, is the purpose with which we endow ourselves. We need encouragement to take hold, to go through life, enlarging our desires, and pursuing the right side the heart of all the purpose we can own. If we know the direction we are going the battle is won right there!

Continuing into greater efforts we soon can harness ourselves to carry any mental load. The task that our nervous system cannot perform is rare. We cannot dispense with that will to do, however. Nature is one of our great allies, but we must take the driver's seat.

Interests are what keep us active. Interest to take hold, enthusiasm as we plan each day and week move. Remember that the will to do must ever be wed with the purpose to achieve. We need to want success to be a ruling factor in our plan of life, and desire for constructive efforts.

My friend, the late Ben Hur Lampman, once wrote this interesting statement. The truth is that it takes all our time!"

Historic Hastings

Letters From the Northwest

CONTINUED

(Article 140 is the series sponsored by the Hastings County Historical Society.)

Editor's note: These letters were made available to the column by Professor George F. G. Stanley of the Royal Military College, Kingston, who gratefully acknowledges the permission of J. A. Smith of Trenton to make copies of these letters from the originals in his possession.

William Thomas Wrighton of Belleville served with distinction in the Northwest campaign of 1885. As color sergeant with the Midland Battalion, he took part in the battle of Batoche on May 12, 1885, when the Metis rebels of Louis Riel were routed. During the fighting he was slightly wounded in the left arm.

While in the Northwest, he wrote several letters to his friends in Belleville telling them of his experiences. These letters reveal the normal reaction of the man in the ranks to a military operation which, small as it may appear to those who have taken part in the World Wars, was important both in the history of the Canadian Militia and in the history of the Canadian West.

The first letter is dated "Saskatchewan Landing, 13th April, 1885," and, like the other two, was addressed to "My dear Newton." The letter reads:

"I dare say you have been expecting a letter from me before this, but I have not had any chance to write before.

"We have now been 8 days on the march since leaving Kingston and most days have been very severe, there have been such high winds blowing and blinding snow storms when marching across Lake Superior, as we have had to march some times, other times in sleighs, well packed and again riding in open cars, until we reached this station at 1 o'clock this morning then took rail, which goes right through to Winnipeg, where we will arrive at or about 2 o'clock tomorrow morning. Our further journey I will let you know of in my next.

"I am pleased to let you know that we have been very well fed on the journey and the Transport (after making every allowance for the unfinished state of the Railway) has been carried out in a splendid way for which the Government deserves the greatest praise for, in fact, there is no fault to be found anywhere.

"I am getting on nicely with the Company and the Captain is greatly pleased with my work. It was whispered to me ear yesterday the Colonel intends making me Sergeant Major of the Battalion, as the one he has got is not able to do his duty, but the fact is I know nothing about his work at all. Captain (T.C.) Lazier says he will be very sorry to part with me, but he will not stand in my way, as it will be a benefit to me.

"Give my very best respects to Dan Coyle. I very often think about him, and I hope he has got a man to suit him in my place, also give my respects to your Inspector and all the constables, also Bill Raine, Dave-Lockerby, Vesey, and in fact all the other enquiring friends, and let them know that I am in very best of health, hoping that this will find both yourself and family in the enjoyment of the very best of health. I will conclude with my very best wishes, hoping to hear from you soon. I remain yours sincerely and fraternally, W. T. Wrighton.

"P.S.: The Belleville boys are all well."

One week later, on April 20, 1885, a second letter followed, this time from Swift Current, Manitoba.

"I dare say you have been thinking about how I have been getting on. I could have written you before, but I have been so very busy that I have hardly had a minute to myself since leaving, as the work of a Color Sergeant is a very arduous one, appears to be continually wanting of him, and I have been according to all accounts I have given satisfaction.

"We had a terrible hard march of it to Swift Current, some parts of the way on sledges and others by marches and then on open flat cars and the result is I have been extremely cold with storms of sleet and snow and a strong cutting wind blowing nearly blinded us, in fact on some occasions we barely could see two yards in front of us, but I tried the men severely, and I am very glad to say they all bore the journey splendidly, and there was no one single fell out in our company, although we had to march one night in the open with the thermometer standing 20 below zero, which was not very comfortable I assure you, also it was a pleasure to find no one grumbling amongst the Belleville boys.

"We are now walking orders here to proceed on relief of the garrison at Battleford. Our first march will be a distance of 30 miles and from there we have to go up the Saskatchewan River by boats with a large supply of stores. I am told it will be a very dangerous journey as the banks of the river are very high and in some parts narrow, also the whole country along its banks is occupied by the rebels, so there is every chance of having some sharp work.

"The men all appear very anxious to proceed.

"We are, in a manner, almost out of the world here. We get no news of anything that is going on at all; we received a few Belleville papers yesterday dated the 11th inst., and they were eagerly read by the boys, although the news is very old.

"My dear Newton give my very best wishes to Dan Coyle and Mrs. Coyle, and that I sincerely hope he has got a man to suit him in my place and that I hope they are in the best of health. Also give my respects to Davis, Bill Raine, Mr. McKinnon and all the constables, Mr. Vesallyes, Lt.-Lockerby and all enquiring friends, and my dear friend not forgetting you and family I give my very best wishes in hoping this will find you all in the very best of health, as this leaves me.

"I will now conclude hoping to hear from you soon and often and as soon as I have an opportunity I will write you again, so believe me to remain, yours sincerely and fraternally, W. T. Wrighton."

And so color Sergeant Wrighton and his Belleville comrades in the Midland Battalion prepared for the encounter with Riel's forces. In next week's column we see, through Wrighton's eyes, the Battle of Batoche.

KENNEDY

in Washington, was driven to the Georgetown University Medical Clinic.

He beamed happily as he looked at his son through a heavy glass window. The baby lay in an incubator in the premature baby room. He'll be there a day or two —normal procedure for Caesarean cases.

After watching his son, Kennedy spent eight or nine minutes with his wife and then left the hospital. He planned to get some sleep at his Georgetown home and return to the hospital by noon.

As he left, he told reporters the boy would be named John Fitzgerald Kennedy, Jr.

The baby is the first son for the 43-year-old president-elect and his wife. Their daughter, Caroline, arrived three years ago.

Kennedy told reporters he had talked with his wife. "She is fine," he said. Asked about his son, Kennedy said: "He is fine, too."

The president-elect had spent U.S. Thanksgiving Day with his family in their home. The baby had not been expected until mid-December, and Kennedy flew to Washington Thursday night for Palm Beach, Fla., to continue his post-election vacation.

RUSHED TO HOSPITAL

But, just a few hours after Kennedy left, Dr. Walsh called an ambulance to rush Mrs. Kennedy to the medical centre, a Roman Catholic hospital. The Kennedys are Roman Catholics.

Mrs. Kennedy was taken to a maternity floor operating room in the hospital. The baby was delivered less than an hour later.

Kennedy's plane landed at Palm Beach at 12:32 a.m. His wife was a minute old. Kennedy was told that his wife had been taken to the hospital to have a baby.

Kennedy left his plane, boarded the bigger and faster press plane that accompanies him on trips, and flew back to Washington. His plane left Palm Beach at 12:52 a.m. and arrived in the capital at 4:0b a.m.

Superwomen May Rule Manless World

LONDON (AP)—The British Medical Association's magazine says the time may come when a race of superwomen will rule a manless world.

"It could happen," warns the Family Doctor, a monthly magazine published and edited by physicians.

Biologically speaking, there is no real need for such a large proportion of males in the population as we have today."

Dr. Burton, a biology researcher,

He quotes a 1946 Nobel Prize winner, Dr. Hermann J. Muller, as saying that sperm obtained from prisoners frozen for 20 years and then artificially inseminated to carefully selected females could start a race of supermen. Dr. Muller is a geneticist on the faculty of Indiana University.

Parties pointed to honey bees, saying a hive contains many thousands of them, but only a few are males.

He took this a step further, citing green flies or aphids.

The green flies banish males from their population for all but a short season of the year.

First Time in History, OSD Pupil Awarded Safety Flag

For the first time in the history of any school for the deaf in Canada an "Elmer" safety pennant was presented to the students of the Ontario School for the Deaf yesterday afternoon. The presentation is the climax of a month's hard work on the part of Sgt. R. W. Latchford of the Belleville City Police and the staff of the OSD, in developing and presenting a course in safety to the students of OSD.

The project required some study and observation prior to its introduction to the students due to the difficulties in the way of presenting material which was necessary. Sgt. Latchford had to spend some time observing instruction procedure in classes before his safety program was promulgated.

To assist in the work a special portable, table-top model illustrating the different types of lights and intersections was built by OSD students to aid their own workshops under staff guidance. The instructional aid allows for practical demonstrations of the proper way of walking or driving at intersections and so forth and is complete with flashing lights and operating traffic lights.

Most of the school's 800 pupils have received the safety instruction course and the presentation of the "Elmer" pennant by the safety committee of the local Kiwanis Club is to remind the students daily to obey and observe safety rules.

The highlight of the presentation was a "full dress" affair. The students and staff of the intermediate and senior schools were drawn up before the flagpole in front of the main building en masse. A color party from the school's Girl Guide and Boy Scout troops was on parade. Numerous school and local dignitaries were present.

PRESENTED FLAG

The initial ceremony took place with Mr. George Hume, vice-president of the Belleville Kiwanis presenting the Elmer flag to Sgt. Latchford. Sgt. Latchford in turn, presented the flag to Mr. Joe Deneza, superintendent of O.S.D. The flag—was then turned over to two members of the color party to hoist aloft below the Union Jack on the school flag pole.

Senior student Jean Shaw thanked the Kiwanis for their presentation and pledged, on behalf of the students, that they would endeavor to try to observe the safety rules. If any pupil is found breaking one of the rules, if a student is involved in an accident, the "Elmer" pennant will not be flown for 30 days.

Mr. Leo McKee, chairman of the safety committee of the Kiwanis, spoke briefly, emphasizing that the pennant was to remind the boys and girls to obey the safety rules.

Following the ceremony outside the pennant was locked in the junior school, when another pennant was presented to them. This pennant is to be flown in the junior school dining room. Student Steven Bradshaw expressed the thanks of the junior students and gave the pledge on their behalf.

RESCUED MINER

Rose seemed in good spirits when the rescue crews reached him—he joked with them — but was unable to hold bottles of food passed to him. He was fed through a gastric tube while shattered timbers trapping him were removed.

Fellow miners started a fund to aid Rose and his family. It was headed by John McPhail, a veteran of the mines for 30 years who was prominent in rescue operations and who was with Rose when the cave-in occurred.

McPhail leaped to safety but Rose, inexperienced, jumped the wrong way and was trapped as tons of sand and debris poured down from the mine roof.

in Inverness Castle, Loch Ness brooded under a thick fog. A few lights winked through the mist but they came from fishing trawlers. If the monster was around no one could see him from the shore.

This has been a poor year for the brute. Only about a dozen sightings have been recorded in the 24-mile stretch of water which goes as deep as 900 feet in parts.

Most descriptions roughly coincide on the essentials.

The monster is about 300 feet long, with three or more humps on its scaley back, has a behind tail and a little fist head with bulging eyes. He is capable of great speed through the water.

Vota Vita WMS Hears Talk on 'Congress Meet'

The October meeting of Victoria Baptist Vota Vita W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Meeg Lott in Deseronto with a goodly number in attendance.

Marg Lushi led in the devotional period taking her text from Luke 8:1-3. She spoke about "Ministering Women".

"There were 1,450,000 Baptists there with a 2,000 voice choir all made up of Brazilian Baptists. Billy Graham was there for a week and held conferences with the pastors.

"Rio is made up of century old slums on the hills and on the other hand extremely beautiful buildings. It is a country the size of 3,000,000 people 80 per cent of whom are under 20, 10 per cent poor, and 10 per cent paupers.

"Here the Baptists have their own schools universities, orphanages and other social reforms and are able to support, by themselves, their own institutions.

"At the closing ceremony of the congress, held in the biggest stadium holding 200,000 people. There were 30,000 communicants and 12,000 decisions made for Christ."

Miss Stewart visited Bolivia where the Baptists have a mission centre. "Here the Aymara Indians received their freedom from the Spanish through Baptist influence. The missionary work here, was divinely started and is divinely administered."

All together Miss Stewart travelled 16,000 miles by aeroplane never having flown before.

Everyone appreciated first hand hearing about the Congress.

The November meeting was held in the church parlor. Mrs. Nellie Burn led the devotional using as her Scripture St. John 10 which was read by Mrs. Alice Fitzgerald. Her topic was "The Abundant Life". Ruth Mary Wood gave the Lighthouse Flashes and left the thought "Of all the things you wear, your expression is the most important."

GUEST SPEAKER

The speaker for the evening was Mrs. McMullin who, along with her husband, spent 15 years in Korea as missionaries. She told about the people of Korea before and after the war, showed some native costumes, and articles of brass and lacquer. "The people there are in great desolation, but are trying and determined to recover from their tragedy. That Romans 12:10-13 describes the Christian Korean. Generosity and hospitality are the two great virtues of the Korean People."

Woman Cuts Grass at 93

NORTHWEST BROOK, Nfld. (CP) — Mrs. Mary Brown has managed to save enough money from her old age pension to buy a casket. She keeps it in her bedroom.

But though she is 93, she doesn't expect to have to use it for some time, intending to live for many more years.

James R. Tucker, Liberal MP for Trinity - Conception, visited the lifelong resident of this Trinity Bay community.

"An amazing woman," he said. "The vitality of a woman 20 years old. She's active, alert and has a wonderful sense of humor."

Last summer Mrs. Brown cut grass with a scythe. She does all the housework, tends her own garden and last winter knitted and sold 130 pair of men's socks.

She told Mr. Tucker that when she dies, she wants a photograph of Premier Smallwood placed in the casket beside her.

Mr. H. D. — She fails for his nonsense. He needs a few good whacks.

Mrs. H. D. — Can you imagine being called to school because your child is too quiet? The school psychologist says Leonard was reported by his teacher because he never opens his mouth in class not even when she calls the roll!

I know the boy is upset because we've just moved to town here from the farm we used to live on with my parents. They sold the place and my husband has a job here with a florist. Leonard hasn't made any friends yet. He misses his pets and when he started to tell a neighborhood boy about them, the kid laughed and told him to go to the zoo.

Leonard's quiet around the house, too. He figure he'll perk up once I get the apartment in shape and can take him around the city more. Maybe we'll get him a puppy as the school suggests.

But I can't see where it's anything to be alarmed about. Still they want me to bring my husband along, too, to discuss Leonard's "problem"!

Mr. H. D. — A fine state of affairs when a man must take time out of his job and explain why his son won't open his mouth in school!

In my day you opened your mouth when you were spoken to or you felt the flogers across it fast. At 10, my son has then all bulldozed. Not me, but my wife won't be in touch him. She says let's ask the teacher first.

I don't see where I need a teacher to tell me about my own boy. He's just acting up because he's sore about our moving. Well, I was sore too, at first. Life on the farm was more friendly and pleasant. But I made the best of it. There was nothing else to do.

The sooner Leonard learns that letting around won't get him anywhere, the better. But all those sob-sisters, from his mother down, are playing up to him and doing him a lot of harm.

Out in the world, you play ball or you're knocked out of the game.

The Council: Mr. D. is wrong. Out in the world, we want as many good players as possible, so if you're not playing ball we ask "Why" and try to bring you into the game.

Try to now, however, the child who got the attention and help was the noisy, troublesome one. Guidance people find however, that the meek goody-goody, the child they never hear a peep from, may be in even more desperate straits. And parents must be grateful for these unexpected "alerts" to danger. Leonard has employed a powerful attention-getting mechanism: Silence. A study was made a few months ago of 37 elementary school children labelled "shy," all of whom would not speak in class. One or two were found to be retarded, but the rest were using non-speaking to express their anger, to frustrate those about them. Leonard is using speech that way, too, as an "ego function to control his environment," in terms of the mechanism.

Strong-arm methods aren't the answer. Mr. and Mrs. D. together with the school advisers, can lighten Leonard's depression by reducing his fears about life in this new setting. He is displaced person and his reaction is one of panic. With his heart in his throat, it's no wonder he can't talk! All is gone from his comfortable niche among friends, intimate classmates, pets and growing things. With overanxious hands they root yet.

One idea would be for Leonard to organize a Nature Club in school. With his knowledge of flora and fauna, he'd shine among his peers. Also Mr. D. might take him on frequent hikes through the woods near the city, to bring back a few of the treasures of the old life.

When Leonard finds that he is among friends, that his pets, teachers and classmates are his allies, he will have the right team with the only weapon he has — silence.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

FRIDAY

Fillet of Sole or Flounder, Thermidor; Broiled Paprika Potatoes; Tomato and Onion Casserole with Crump Topping; Iceberg Lettuce with Blue Cheese Dressing; Lemon Jelligstroll; Coffee.

BAVARIAN CREAM:

1 oz. (2 tablespoons) plain gelatine, 1-3 cup cold water, 2 cups scalded milk, 4 egg yolks, ½ cup sugar, shake of salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups heavy cream.

Soak the gelatine in cold water until soft. Make a soft custard of the milk, egg yolks, sugar by stirring over boiling water until thickened. Custard will coat spoon thinly. Remove from heat and stir in softened gelatine and vanilla. Cool. When mixture begins to congeal fold in stiffly beaten cream. Pour in mould or individual moulds and chill. (Egg whites may be used for almond or coconut macaroons.)

ROASTED PIGS' TAILS.

In a pan 10 x 14" place a layer of clean raw pigs' tails. For each 3 pounds, sprinkle with a mixture of 1-16 teaspoon each cayenne pepper and chili powder and curry powder and garlic powder; 1-4 teaspoon each marjoram and thyme and black pepper; and 1 1-2 teaspoons salt. Now pour over enough beef broth (or diluted canned consomme) to barely cover. Roast at 300 deg. Fahr. for 4 hours, turning occasionally. Most of the liquid has evaporated by this time, leaving the tails a delicious golden brown. Often served with tiny pickled corn cobs.

NOTE:

If consomme is used, reduce salt in recipe.

QUESTION:

Please give the recipe for pickled whole green tomatoes — Mrs. A. A.

ANSWER:

WHOLE GREEN TOMATO PICKLE:

Three and one-quarter quarts small, whole green tomatoes, about 2 tablespoons salt, water to cover, whole cloves, 4 cups vinegar, 3 1-2 cups granulated sugar, 3 1-2 cups brown sugar, 2 or 3 sticks cinnamon. Peel the tomatoes. Put them in a kettle with the water and salt, and boil until barely tender but still whole. Drain. Stick 2 or 3 cloves in each tomato. Combine vinegar, sugar, and cinnamon in a saucepan, heat to boiling point and boil until a thick syrup forms. Pour hot over the tomatoes and let stand overnight. In the morning reheat to boiling and pack in sterilized jars. Seal immediately. Make 3 to 4 quarts.

St. Michael's CWL Yuletide Tea, Bazaar Pleasingly Successful

Wednesday afternoon St. Michael's Academy was a hive of activity for the annual Yuletide tea and bazaar under the sponsorship of the Catholic Women's League, with Mrs. Herbert Brown as president.

Window boxes and window ledges were decked with evergreen boughs and white baskets of fragrant balsam, and red poinsettias, with gradation of red and green entwined beneath; and, criss-crossing the ceiling from pyramidic chandelier to chandelier were cascading garlands of green and white. Every booth also bore out the Christmas motif with its own individual idea of the theme, and, as an extra accent, a tall, white Christmas tree held sway on the platform.

The tea room was prettily appointed with the long white covered tea table centred by a red bowl of red and white chrysanthemums, and flanked by tri-branched candelabra bearing red and white candles. Sparkling silver service completed the attractive setting. Tall brass standards with white baskets of evergreen sprays and silvered poinsettias guarded the entrance and at pleasing intervals, the white-covered guest tables each bore a little green candle tied with a red bow.

HOMECOOKING

One of the attractive booths was that of the homecooking situated in the form of a rectangle in the centre of the assembly room, with the others following the general contours of the room. Here were all kinds of delicious confections: pies of many kinds; oodles of tasty cookies; delicious homemade bread fresh from the oven; buns; tarts; loaf and layer cakes both white and dark; potato salads; coffee rolls rich with walnut meats and maraschino cherries; apple cake; date nut breads; and a Swedish tea ring; cup cakes, and climaxing all, a "Queen" of Angel cakes with pale pink icing, and topped with an artistic arrangement of real little African violet flowers in pink, reserve and white. She would become the possession of the lucky ticket holder.

BINGO PRIZES

A display of bingo prizes, which would go to the players during the evening, included a pair of blue-bordered flannelette blankets; men's fine dress shirts; a red flannel shirt; TV lamp; ladies' hair net; ottoman; barbecue tongs and roaster; chrome smoker stand; various occasion cards, and a 12-inch flower frame.

At the north side the "Novelty Table" held sway with its collection of costume jewellery, which included earrings, necklaces, strings of beads of all shades, fancy pottery, perfumes, pinkeens, mesh, embroidered pillow slips, fancy heart-shaped cushions, wall flower holder in pale green etched with gold, knitted dishcloths, framed silhouettes, foliage plant and a "Wandering Jew." A lovely Dresden-plate full-size quilt would become the possession of the lucky ticket holder.

The country store held jams, jellies, marmalades, pickles, relishes and conglomerate of mincemeat, all of which found ready buyers.

ATTRACTIVE CANDLES

The candy booth was most attractive with its canopy of entwined streamers of red and white. Here, daintily packed boxes of maple creams, chocolate fudge, divinity fudge, meringues, little cups filled to the brim with sweets, and bunches of fruit-flavored suckers, made an alluring spot for those with the "sweet tooth."

The aprons included fancy types and several materials, as well as many colors, plain, and in combinations. There was one, long enveloping ones, all-over style and half styles; some in floral prints, and others in organdies and nylons, clothespin aprons, butcher aprons with useful pockets, and a cosmetic apron with wide neck frill to catch stray specks of powder; and there was a shirt with pockets for cosmetic articles and another eyebrow pencils and nail polish.

CHILDREN'S WEAR

The children's wear displayed pretty warm nighties, knit sets in white with pink trim, bedsocks, pullovers, caps and mitts, bootees, plaid skirts and waistcoats, little organdy dresses in pink and white, lace trimmed, milks of all shades and many other articles.

The toys included dolls, dressed, a whole row of plaid doll bassinettes, a mechanical (electric) robot and autos, dolls' quilts and chesterfield sets, stuffed animals, and a stuffed "Humpty-Dumpty."

A booth near the entrance door was devoted to cups and saucers, of many types and shapes, plain and flowered, some with bone china and others of more heavy duty kinds. One cup and saucer was of fine lace weight and made in Japan over 100 years ago, with baby pictures and so in the reddish-gold-black art of the Japanese.

There were also two fish ponds, one downstairs and one on the platform. Both were well patronized by the young fry who were always successful in fishing. An extra catch-basin was also located in a lower classroom and it, too, met with many purchasers.

The following assisted at the tea and bazaar:

African Customs and Life Told To W.M.S. by Word, Films

By MRS. PERCY MACMULLEN

RAWDON — Last Sunday evening Mount Pleasant-Rawdon United Church was filled to capacity for a special church service, sponsored by the Women's Missionary Society.

The church was adorned with baskets of chrysanthemums and other blooms. Guests were in attendance from Belleville; Cannifton; Stirling; West Huntingdon; Hoards; River Valley; Eggleton; Carnel; Wellman; Bethel Grace Chapel and St. Andrew's Presbyterian, Stirling.

Mrs. John Milhenn and Mrs. Percy MacMullen welcomed the guests, as they arrived.

Mrs. Mae Sharp, pianist and Mrs. Kenneth Weaver, organist, provided appropriate music.

The pastor, the Rev. W. G. Fletcher B.A., opened the service with the hymn, "Christ for the World We Sing." The junior choir of 12 girls under the direction of Mrs. Carleton Pette, sang "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring."

The guest soloist was Miss Linda Wellman of Springbrook, who rendered "Lord, God Omnipotent," with Miss Doreen Broadworth as accompanist.

The ushers and plate collectors were Messrs. Bert Sharp, Roger Smith and Allen Fletcher.

The special theme song of the W.M.S. study for this year was sung "Lord we Thank Thee for our Brothers Keeping Faith With Us and Thee."

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. John Mulhenn, president of the W.M.S. introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Harvey Putman of Canniffon, who spent several weeks this summer in Africa.

Mr. Putman told of his visit to High House, at Kenchi and of his decision later to journey to Africa and assist with world problems. One hundred and 50 persons were accepted in this town and he represented Canada. Africa is the second largest continent and the Bible message "Go ye and teach all nations" is most appropriate; for this land greatly needs more messengers to show them the Christian way of life. Africa sent they are bound down with superstition and communism making inroads.

Two movie reels of scenic views were shown and explained and the speaker gave a graphic description of life, based on his own amateur photography, which began in the United States and thus travelled to Africa. They visited eleven different countries and the scenes depicted; the vegetation; abundance of rain; preparation of food; life in the village; the meagre water supply and the special celebration in Ghana when that country received its independence. The three main exports are cocoa, magnesium and mahogany.

The groups were shown at home in their project, and many had adopted a few of the African customs. The speaker was assisted with a variety of groups, where he tried to further the Christian way of life. Doctors are greatly needed in Africa as there is only one for approximately 183,000 people; thus many small diseases are neglected due to lack of care. Folks in Canada, who wished to do so, could provide an African student with a year's tutorage for $130. There is no religious freedom in Africa but the Moslems are dedicated to their belief.

TRIBUTE TO MISSIONARIES

The speaker paid tribute to all that had been accomplished throughout the years by the various missionaries who have given their life for that far land. The movies depicted churches; schools; chefs; groups of Boy Scouts; interested visitors and above all African children, teenagers and adults.

In closing Mr. Putman said Canada has a wonderful challenge to send dedicated sons and daughters to Africa. He gave several methods why folk, who live in this bountiful Canada, should be concerned that the gospel message be sent to Africa. If one cannot go oneself, then one can help send some one else to take one's place.

Following his excellent address Mrs. Herbert Smith voiced appreciative thanks to all.

The service closed with "In Christ There is no East nor West."

AFRICAN CLOTHING SHOWN

Following the benediction, Mr. Putman exhibited a most interesting array of clothing and other articles that he had brought to Canada from Africa.

The offering taken between the two movie films was generous and this will be applied to the W.M.S. allocation of $468.

Mount Pleasant W.M.S. has been functioning since June, 1901, and during the past 59 years much has been accomplished. The first president was Mrs. Agnes Wellman for ten years; and Mrs. Robert Pounder was leader of the mission circle in former Methodist days, during the years that organization functioned from 1912 to 1917.

W.I. Sponsors Euchre Party

STIRLING — On Friday evening, November 18th, River Valley Women's Institute held its second euchre party at the school. The convenors were Mrs. Verna Harry and Mrs. Harry Morrow. Several guests were in attendance from Trenton, Stirling and Mount Pleasant Rawdon.

Forty were in the tables in play and the proceeds were $13.

The awards were: ladies' high, Mrs. J. Donohoe; consolation, Miss Jean Donohoe; men's high, John Kane; consolation, Miles McDonall.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of euchre and all enjoyed a social half hour.

CUT DOWN ALCOHOL

PARIS (Reuters) — Drinkers will not be allowed to imbibe on credit and many workers will no longer receive part of their salary in wine under new anti-alcoholism measures approved by the cabinet Wednesday. The measures are aimed at curbing French consumption of alcohol and at reducing the amount of alcoholism in this traditionally free-drinking nation.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Harper Shaw

INTERRUPTING IS A BAD HABIT

A few days ago I went to the home of friends for an informal evening supper. Among the other guests was my little friend, Mrs. Inexperienced. I'm hoping that she is unaware of a very unpleasant habit that she has cultivated, one made obvious by her actions like the other evening. If she is doing it deliberately, she shouldn't be in society for very much longer. Her fault is interrupting and correcting what other people are saying to make an issue of it? Was it more important to have the story told over to the last minute detail, or to preserve the self-respect of Mr. Inexperienced in and, above all, save him embarrassment? She succeeded in making all the others present mighty uncomfortable and the point of the story was completely lost.

I'm afraid that Mrs. Inexperienced has lost sight of the fact that politeness, plus kindness, equals courtesy and is more important in a family relationship than it is when dealing with friends and acquaintances.

After this unpleasant episode, when a bridge game was started, she insisted that she was too tired to play and would rather watch the players. Needless to say, she did not watch in silence. She wandered around, stopped behind the different players but resisting to herself, but loud enough for all to hear, "I wouldn't have played it that way! She was particularly critical of her husband's efforts. Finally his patience gave out, and he curtly asked her to please sit down and leave them alone. He did it politely, and politely, and I must say I admired his control.

Unfortunately, people who act in this manner seem to be completely oblivious of the fact that they are making themselves very unpopular. It just goes to show that those of us who cultivate bad habits fail to realize the effect we are having on other people.

How to correct such a situation? Hope seeing their friend will be honest enough to tell you the truth, and that you will be big enough to take it the way it is meant, and do something to correct it!

MORE ...SPACE! ...SPUNK! ...SAVING! NEW '61 CHEVY ★ Corvair

Throw away your ideas about small cars! Corvair has outdated them with an entirely new concept for '61. For a start there's new spaciousness in the up-front trunk ... there's more liveliness to Corvair's Turbo-Air Six ... and there's savings, too. Big savings that begin with lower prices on sedans and coupes and follow through with gas-miserly thrift and the economy of an engine that never needs anti-freeze, never has cooling problems.

GENERAL MOTORS VALUES

Corvair 700 4-Door Sedan. Couldn't be better for a budget—and wait'll you see the new space! Seats six passengers comfortably—including the folks in the middle because of Corvair's practically flat floor.

Corvair 700 Club Coupe. Drive it and feel the sportscar nimbleness—the road-hugging traction—of Corvair's spunky rear-engine design.

Lakewood 500 4-Door Station Wagon. Brand new for '61 and the most useable wagon for its size you've ever seen. Lots of room both fore and aft plus fun-in-a-dime handling. Available in both Lakewood Station Wagons and the cargo-king Greenbrier Sports Wagons.

All told there are nine Chevy Corvairs for '61! A Corvair for practically everybody—and every model just as thoroughly thrifty as Chevrolet can make it! But thrifty savings is only one of the Corvair benefits—there's the new spunk of the 145-cubic-inch air cooled six cylinder engine—the proven-by-a-year-on-the-road performance of Corvair's rear-engine design—and the extra space that's built into the '61 models.

Whitewall tires optional at extra cost.

THE QUINTEEN REVIEW

Belleville and District

Torque Talk

by DOUG PHIPPEN

Although the snow hasn't hit the ground yet the temperature has been giving us a good hint that winter is on its way. People have been reminded, on numerous occasions by the commercially interested, that they should prepare their car for winter conditions. "Winterizing" is the name usually used for this.

Such items as antifreeze, snow tires, checking muffler systems, and use of lighter lubricants are the most commonly mentioned factors in "winterizing" one's car. There are a few other items which might be well worth following up if one is interested in taking the best possible care of his vehicle.

Salt damage to cars during a winter season's use can be considerable. No part of an automobile's undercarriage, finish or bright work is really safe from the harmful effects of this chemical unless careful and adequate precaution is given. It's STOPPING RUST

For non-undercoated cars the best system of preserving the underside of the body is to have it steam-cleaned and then paint every metal surface with a heavy red lead paint, sometimes known as barn paint. About three coats will ensure that there are no pores through which the salt can reach the metal. The exhaust system is the only item which should be excluded from this process. This method, done twice a year, spring and fall, is perhaps the most effective means of preserving a car's body-work outside of chemically rust-proofing the body during construction.

CLEARING GLASS

To maintain clear vision during the winter is a problem which can be easily solved with a little bit of effort. Windows can be effectively "insulated" against freezing and condensation by the application of a plastic or cellophane product especially adapted for this service, to the interior of the glass.

The use of rubber-sheathed windshield wiper blades is another method by anyone who will be doing a lot of winter driving. They might not look as glamorous as the original, but in an ice storm they really prove their worth by refusing to load up with ice. They operate on the same principle as the rubber bool type of de-icer on aircraft wings.

GOOD LIGHTS IMPORTANT

One accessory which we find invaluable for winter driving is snow or sleet storms at night is the flat-top beam fog-light. These are so designed that they will not throw any part of their beam upward, thus doing away with effect off the snow or ice particles thus causing glare to bother the driver's eyes. Under adverse conditions these lamps can give a driver anywhere up to five times better visibility.

There are both good and bad models of these on the market and it is quite important that a good one be obtained if it is to be of any help when called upon. The models produced by either Lucas or Bosch are the only satisfactory, readily available units that I am currently aware of on the Canadian market.

Incidentally, there is little or no argument as to whether amber or white foglamps are satisfactive. Careful tests have determined that amber light has no advantage over white light for fog lamp or driving lamp use. If anything, there is slightly less eyestrain from the amber-lensed units.

A point to consider if using foglamps. Use them in pairs so that you can turn out your headlamps to get the greatest benefit of your fog units without violating the provincial lighting requirements. Because of the design of these lamps you need not worry about blinding other drivers if the lamps have been properly lined up.

WAX BODY

Waxing a car body before the winter is another very worthwhile measure which will protect it from the road salt. This cannot be applied too heavily and the long winter months ahead (although such would not be recommended for the summer) and it may be applied to the chrome, aluminum and stainless steel trim as well. There is also a spray on preparation which can be applied to the later parts of the car which has proven quite effective.

TIRES ON ICE

For travelling on ice there are two types of tires which are effective. First there is the tire tread which has been "de-skidded" by making many small cuts across its face at right angles to the tire's direction of travel. This is an operation which usually can be done by a local tire shop.

More recently a special tye of tire capable of giving a number of hardened-steel cleats or teeth in its tread has been developed. The Firelli was the first to develop this feature for production. No only does the tire concerned "wear" these cleats but it also features interchangeable treads for either summer or winter use. Tests to demonstrate the effectiveness of this tire over snow tires or tires with chains on have been overwhelmingly convincing, especially when conducted on an ice rink surface.

The Dunlop rubber people have also developed a tire with features ice cleats.

To eliminate frozen locks in the winterime the best thing is to make sure the lock is free of oil by washing it with an alcohol or carbon tetrachloride and then blowing some graphite into it. If water should get in and freeze, if water should get in and freeze by heating the key with a flame before putting it in the lock.

Then, of course, don't forget to come back to the old bullets and sand in the rear end in order to have better traction on icy streets. Volkswagen, Renault and Corvair owners may find this a bit difficult, then, they really don't have to worry in the first place.

What's Going On?

BCIVS is host at a dance in the school gym tonight. (It's at Moira, next week.)

Teen Town and the Quinte Young Timers meet as usual tonight. Teen Town is at the Recreation Centre and the executive officers say new members are welcome. The Young Timers meet at Queen Victoria and Queen Alexandra public schools and they, too, welcome new members.

Hi-Fi Club meets tomorrow afternoon at the Recreation Centre.

Young Timers Want Crest, Hold Contest

It was announced at the regular weekly Quinte Young Timers dance last Friday that a prize of $25 would be awarded to the member who submitted the best design for a Young Timers crest. Here is a chance for all Quinte Young Timers to get in the act and use their artistic talents and be rewarded as well. Let's be sure to get the design in early.

Bob Quarry Alexandra and Queen Victoria schools were crowded to capacity again last Friday evening and, as usual, fun was the order of the evening. Contests were held at both schools and it appears that at Queen Alexandra School Linda Hammett and Jerry Wright walked, or should we say jived off with the dance Contests. Rumor has it that some of the kids are putting in time at practice and Linda and Jerry should have a contest on their hands next week.

In contrast, at Queen Victoria a Pirate Dance was one of the highlights and Linda Grant, 377 Dufferin and her partner Doug Fraser, 61 Southview proved that some dukes can remain still when they want to. Linda and Doug certainly know how to jive with the dance. Runners-up were Theresa Lumsden and Nancy Marsh-many proved that two girls can show the boys up when it comes to dancing.

A second feature at Queen Alexandra was a slow dance contest and Anne Tulloch, with her partner Barry Campbell, proved they were the slowest of the slow. Mrs. Poste tells us that some dukes can remain still when they want to. Queen Victoria's regular feature at Queen Victoria where Bonnie Hibbard and Jim Ketchenson have been having a real stomping time with a good group of squares.

Another popular contest at both schools is a Bridge Dance and at Queen Alexandra Mary Burrowes and David Martin got the honors last week.

Interested parents were on hand at both schools as chaperones and sneaked up on the kids to see how they were getting on with their kids and friends during the evening of the evening. Why don't you come along with your Quinte Young Timer and have an evening of fun.

See you all tonight for another evening of fun and dancing at Queen Victoria or Queen Alexandra School — that's 7 o'clock tonight. — Jim Ketchenson.

High School Activities

By SANDY BROWN (Trenton H.S.)

With the coming of Commencement Exercises this week, home economics classes have turned their attentions from the coming exams to preparing "refreshments" to be held after the exercises. Students of grade 12B and C will serve the food, usually members of alumni and their parents. An informal dance will be held after the tea.

Trenton "Teenaires" held their annual "Sadie Hawkins" dance last Friday. Students and guests danced to music provided by the "Wildwoods." who play for weekly dances at the Community Gardens. The Breadner gym was decorated with streamers, balloons and a very colorful "outhouse" built and decorated by the executive. Many unsuspecting members were surprised to find their initials carved on the walls. The highlight of the evening was the appearance of Marryin' Sam, who performed mock marriage ceremonies for all interested, complete with license. The turnout was over the 200 mark, and a good time was had by all.

It is rumored that many of our senior students will be making a trip to Belleville soon to view the grade 13 play, "The Heiress". That is, if we survive the ordeal of next week's exams.

Plans will soon be underway for the annual Christmas semi-formal. Dates have not been decided yet, but Student Council president, Paul Lenherr, hopes to make this dance the best one ever.

The Camera Club has begun instructing new members in the art of developing and printing their own films. Bill Evans, an avid photographer, Tuesday afternoon gave the first of what we hope will be many demonstrations.

Tryouts for the senior plays have been going on for several days now. The name of the play is "Shadow of a Dream," and the final cast will be announced in the near future.

Fred Wannamaker, a mainstay on the senior football team and a member of the Student Council, moved to Cobourg last week.

On Friday night last week, several members of the Student Council executive attended the Brighton Commencement Exercises on the invitation of the Brighton executive. They were treated to an informal party and dancing after the ceremonies. This should better inter-school relations in this area.

Teachers and students played a hard-fought game of volleyball at noon last Wednesday.

Nead Help With Speling? Reed Booklett

A 60-page booklet that may be much in demand for spelling bees has been prepared by the Ontario Department of Education. It lists nearly 300 words misspelled on grade 13 English composition departmental exams.

The words include accommodate, alleviate, barrenness, bustle, Canadian, cereal, despair, dying, emanate, embarrassed foreboding, forty, genuinely, government, hazardous, heroes, illiterate, immaculately, judgment, leisurely, lunatic, manoeuvre, peasantry, pestilence, plateau, presumptuous, remembrance, repetitive, sentiment, tomato, tomorrow, torpedo, tragedy, transferred, tremendous, unanimous, vacuum, valuable, vegetable, vengeance, villain, weird, yield.

The booklet in the form of a memorandum, is being sent to secondary school principals by Education Minister Roberts. The department says many students who wrote Grade 13 English literature exams had an inadequate vocabulary.

"Words such as discrepancy, though not in daily use, should unquestionably be in the vocabulary of a grade 13 student. Not to have command of such words leads to imprecise writing," the department added.

It recommends wider and more attentive reading and habitual use of a dictionary. "Many candidates substituted colloquialisms and cliches for thoughtful and precise language," the department said.

See Close Vote In New Zealand

WELLINGTON (AP) — New Zealand will decide in a general election Saturday whether to retain its labor government.

The Labor party has held office for the last three years with the narrowest possible working majority. In a Parliament of 80 seats, Labor has 41 and its only effective opposition, the private enterprise National party, has 29.

Betting is that the poll again will be close.

New Zealand had 14 years of socialism from 1935 to 1949. Then it had a National government for eight years. At the last triennial election in 1957, Labor scraped home again.

New Zealand's Labor party is similar to the British Socialists. In fact, it had its beginning among immigrants from the British Isles. Even today, there's a hard-core of its cabinet that's political background to the Socialist days in the United Kingdom 50 years or more ago.

The Communists are putting up 19 candidates. It is a token gesture, for in 1957, Communists won only 0.15 per cent of the total vote.

In this election campaign, Labor has forsaken its 1957 platform and now promises slight tax reductions within the next three years, higher pensions for returned servicemen, some increase in social security free medical payments and the promise of decimal coinage in 1964.

National retaliated with a policy based largely on incentives and encouragement of private enterprise and private ownership.

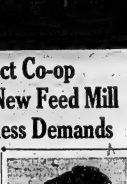
Foxboro District Co-op Opens Smart New Feed Mill To Meet Business Demands

The Foxboro District Co-operative Association, which in 1944 started out in an old feed mill, now has built a new mill for manufacturing feed.

Co-op manager Orville Mussell says that since its incorporation on Oct. 14, 1944, the Association has enjoyed a steady growth in sales in each department. More than $28,000 in deferred patronage loans has been allocated to its members in the past 16 years.

The new feed mill measures 30 feet by 40 feet and is 54 feet high. It is equipped to receive 4 d elv grain in bulk or in bags. The mill is equipped with a horizontal mixer, much superior to the old vertical type.



Mr. Mussell said this is the only horizontal mixer in the Belleville area.

Another mixer will mix liquid molasses in customers' grain or in the Co-op's own prepared feeds. This, said Mr. Mussell, is the only molasses mixer of its kind in the area.

"This is the most modern and up to date mill in the Belleville area," he said.

"Our store has been completely modernized to give us an effective up to date merchandised system."

In addition to serving farm trade, the Co-op also caters to urban business, selling petroleum and propane products in and around Belleville. It also sells appliances, hardware, electrical fixtures, seeds, fertilizer and fencing.

ORVILLE MUSSELL, Manager

"The Co-op is a one - stop shopping centre for your farm and home needs," said Mr. Mussell.

The Association has 270 members and nine directors, three each from Thurlow, Sidney and Tyendinaga townships.

In 1954, the Co-op added a show room and office and three years later it went into petroleum by delivering gasoline to farmers and furnace and stove oil to urban and rural customers. In 1958, the Co-op started to sell propane gas.

65,000 Farmers Own, Control Ontario Co-ops

Sixty-five thousand Ontario farmers are members of, and own and control, 250 local farm supply and marketing co-ops.

These local co-ops sell to farmers annually about $32 million in farm supplies mainly feed, seed, fertilizer, hardware and petroleum products. They also sell for their farmer members annually about $90 million of dairy products, eggs and poultry products, grains and seeds, fruits, vegetables and livestock.

These 65,000 farmers own their local co-ops by reason of the $10 million put up by them to finance the local operations. The local farmers' shares also represent $7 million in plants, mills warehouses and stores.

In turn these 250 local co-ops own and control the central provincial co-operative—United Co-operatives of Ontario. This central co-op, in its last balance sheet, reported total assets of more than $13 million.

Total volume of business reported by United Co-operatives for the year ending June 30, 1959, was about $64 million.

Ownership and control of local co-ops is exercised by farmer members at their local annual meeting. It is estimated that at least 15,000 farm people attend annual co-op meetings in Ontario.

Each year in December, local co-ops send delegates to the UCO annual meeting. At present at least 700 voting delegates is usual at these meetings. In other words, control of Ontario co-ops works right down the line from the farmer, to the local, to the central co-op wholesale. Mr. Ontario Farmer is the boss!

Your Diamond Unique in All The World

As the owner of a diamond, you are the possessor of a rare treasure.

Nowhere in the world is there another diamond exactly like the sparkling gem which you are wearing or giving to your betrothed.

Your diamond is the culmination of a process which began millions of years ago, deep inside the earth. Under great heat and pressure, a deposit of carbon became completely crystallized, and a diamond was born. As the years passed, some other tremendous force pushed this crystal up toward the surface of the earth.

In all probability, your diamond came from the vast diamond fields of South Africa, the world's chief source of diamonds. Here miners have gone down into the earth, bringing up ore to be washed and searched for the precious crystals.

When your diamond was discovered it bore little resemblance to the resplendent jewel you now own. The diamond as produced by Nature is simply a crystalline rock, covered with an oily film. But where Nature stopped, man took over — to cut, polish and set your diamond, converting it into a gem of rare beauty.

The objective of diamond cutting is simple — to fashion the stone so that it will reflect the greatest amount of light. But the job itself is complex, indeed, so complex that diamond cutters are among the world's most highly skilled craftsmen.

The great difficulty of diamond cutting stems from the nature of the stone itself. The diamond is the hardest substance known to man, and nothing in the world will cut it except another diamond.

After an expert determines the shape into which a diamond should be cut to attain maximum brilliance and beauty, the actual cutting begins. It is a slow, painstaking process. Working with great precision, the diamond cutter grinds the stone with a disc coated with abrasive diamond dust.

When the diamond has been ground to the desired shape, the facets are cut — that is, the stone is cut at various angles to produce maximum refraction of light.

Canada's diamond buyers, often your own jeweller, make frequent trips to the world's leading diamond centres, such as Antwerp, Tel Aviv and London. There they mingle with other buyers from all over the world, inspecting lots of diamonds offered for sale. Each stone is carefully scrutinized by these expert buyers, to be certain that its color, cut and polish are of the quality desired.

Your jeweller has the diamonds of his choice mounted in settings exclusive to his store. The settings are designed with an eye not only to beauty, but to the safety of each stone.

After your diamond was set by an expert — placed to insure maximum brilliance and safety — the completed ring was inspected to insure that it measured up to your jeweller's high standard of perfection.

Rings, Birthstones Symbols Of Romance and Tradition

Rings came into being as the one sure way of keeping on hand personal seals of office, title and ownership of property. Wearing a ring plainly meant achievement, property ownership, distinction. Modern rings, while still implying achievement and distinction, have acquired additional meaning. A ring can mean close identification with a family or a group, such as a fraternal, military or religious organization, thus becoming a symbol of comradeship and belonging. Always, as gifts, rings are symbols and proof of someone's warm affection.

Birthstone rings, as a distinct class among stone rings, had their origin in the ancient lore of gems. Each gem had its own attributes and its own relationship to recurrent movements of planets and their influence on men.

Those early beliefs have persisted over the years. So, too, have beliefs that birthstones are symbols of good fortune, and that there is a personal meaning and bond between the giver of the ring and the wearer.

OTHER VALUED GEMS

There are many stones, other than those that symbolize a birthday, and each of them has a high place in the cultural history of mankind, as well as a fascinating story of its own.

Among these stones are natural and synthetic Star Sapphires and Star Rubies, which may or may not be worn as birthstones; Cat's-eye and Tiger's-eye much familiar and ancient stones as Hematite, Jade and Agate. There are also the attractive, if seldom seen, Spinels, and the amazing color varieties to be found in Beryl. Finally we have rare Kunzite, Black Onyx, and various cameos of different shades worn in rings. Alone, or in combination with traditional birthstones, there gems and cameos permit an almost limitless variety in the color range available in rings and jewellery today.

BIRTHSTONE RINGS

The many individual beliefs that have grown up with respect to birthstones have, quite naturally, evoked a distinct personal interest in the color, shape, size and setting of the birthstone. Because of this fact —the fact that individual tastes in color, size and shape vary greatly — your jeweller offers a wide variety of styles, designs and settings.

If You Were Born In	Your Birthstone Is
January	Garnet
February	Amethyst
March	Aquamarine
April	Diamond
May	Emerald
June	Pearl or Alexandrite
July	Ruby
August	Peridot
September	Sapphire
October	Opal or Tourmaline
November	Topaz
December	Turquoise or Zircon

FOR MEMORABLE GIFTS

We see, then, that the ring originally conceived, as a symbol of achievement and distinction, has gradually inherited new beauties and additional meanings for the one who wears it. And, seeing this, we understand why rings today mark "memorable milestones" with individual beauty and meaning for each of us, from the charming rose baby, on through childhood and into full maturity.

High School Activities

O.S.D.

Volleyball will hold the spotlight for sports activities at the O.S.D. for the next few days. Saturday is the date for the COSSA Girls' Volleyball championships for both "A" and "B" schools. This should be a very active day judging by past tournaments held here.

The Girls' Annual Volleyball Jamboree held earlier in the month for teams in both "A" and "B" schools of the Bay of Quinte District was quite a success.

The boys will be having their volleyball jamboree next Wednesday. This will be for all secondary schools in the district. Here's wishing success to the teams in both events.

Last Wednesday was the occasion for the Senior Party, during which dancing was allowed for the first times and the event was well attended.

Every Sunday afternoon from 2.30 to 4.00 o'clock most students are to be found enjoying skating at the Belleville Arena despite the arena's distance from the school.

Monday afternoons are hockey times for intermediate and senior boys under coaching of Mr. Bryant.

Congratulations to our junior football team for its performance this fall. It was the best for some time. The season's record stood at three wins and two losses. Both losses were to St. Mike's, which took the league title.

This term has seen the introduction of a new vocational guidance course in upholstering. Mr. W. W. Foster is the instructor and under him a number of the senior boys have been busy fixing up various pieces of furniture about the school as well as some other projects of their own.

The course is quite practical and includes repairs to wood framework, refinishing wood, rebuilding seats and springs, applying padding and tailoring the fabric to cover the piece.

This brings to seven the number of vocational courses we have in senior school. The others are carpentry, drafting, metal working, printing, horticulture and woodworking.

POLITICAL DICTIONARY — Almost all the legal and administrative terms in use in Canada appear in Hector Carbonneau's French-English dictionary. Mr. Carbonneau, 71, retired federal government translator, looks over the 2,700-page manuscript he has worked on for the last 25 years. Although not yet adopted as official, parts are being copied for various government translation services. (CP Photo).

2,700-Page Dictionary Took 35 Years of Carbonneau's Career in Govt. Service

By GUY RONDEAU
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Hector Carbonneau, former chief of the general translation service for the House of Commons, looked at the newly finished manuscript and called it "the labor of my life."

He wasn't kidding.

For the last 35 of his 42 years in government service, Mr. Carbonneau, 71, has been working on a voluminous French and English dictionary covering principally political and administrative terms.

In preparing the manuscript, covering some 2,700 pages, he has consulted no less than 800 authors and hopes that the result will be a first-class working instrument for the professional translator. Already it is being copied in part for various translation services of the federal administration.

He would like to see the government adopt his dictionary as official.

Appearing in the dictionary are almost all administrative terms in use in Canada, legal and legislative terms not found in use current at the United Nations.

It offers translations of current expressions that generally lend themselves to confusion. For example, it says "budget estimates" should never be translated as "estimes" but as "le budget des depenses; previsions budgetaires." "Government House," frequently translated as "Maison du Gouvernement," should be "La Residence du Gouverneur-General."

RECENTLY RETIRED

Mr. Carbonneau, enjoying good health, retired in October. He was to have retired six years ago but kept his post at the request of his superiors.

He entered the government service in 1911 with the division of tax statistics and worked occasionally in the bureau of translators. In 1922 he became a full-time translator with the customs and excise branch of the department of national revenue.

He was promoted to chief of the House of Commons translation service in 1930.

"I have always been interested in linguistics," Mr. Carbonneau says.

He has often carried out lengthy research into various texts and collected to discover what old dialectical forms still live in the language of French-Canada. Putting in more than 30 years' work on this "sideline" too, he has been able to build up on file cards a collection of 56,000 such forms.

Yet another dictionary which he has prepared is one dealing with "Acadianisms." That brings him pretty close to home. He was born in the Magdalen Islands, a centre of Acadian life.

WROTE NOVEL

He is also the author of an unpublished novel, Gabriel et Genevieve, which deals with Acadian mores and customs. He hopes it will see print soon.

The first chapter he entered in a competition several years ago, sponsored by the Cercle National Francais de Paris and it won first prize. Before heeding the novel to a publisher, however, he wants to do it "a certain amount of retouching."

Mr. Carbonneau has written a number of short stories and essays for various Canadian French-language publications.

On the subject of the French culture in the ranks of the federal administration, Mr. Carbonneau makes this interesting observation: "The language is not mistreated as much as certain people would like to have it believed."

"The rights of the French language are recognized, he says, but it would be a more desirable state of affairs if the key men in the different departments were all bilingual.

For the translators he leaves behind as he quits, the government service, he has some words of support to offer. These men, he says, whose work sometimes has to reach the level of the "prodigious," are not paid well enough.

He thinks that women are becoming more and more interested in translation and they adapt themselves to this work "admirably well."

Artist Richard Brown Says Pope John Patient Sitter

By JULES LOH

NEW YORK (AP)—The Pope is a patient sitter.

Artist Richard Brown was having a particularly vexing period getting started on a painting of the Pope and his frustration showed.

"You expect too much," Pope John XXIII reassured him.

"It took God six days to create the world. Don't try to judge your work on the second day."

Sure enough, after six sittings —plus hours of private work in the Vatican studio provided him —Brown completed the seven-by-five-foot portrait.

FIRST FROM LIFE

Then he returned to the United States with the portrait—one of the first of the Pope in North America painted from life.

Brown's enthusiasm does not stem from the portrait, but from the rare experience of painting it.

"There were hundreds of Catholics in Rome—many of them priests—who did not get an audience with the Pope," he said. "And there I was, an insignificant Protestant from Madison, Conn., given the run of the place."

Brown, 41, a Yale graduate and former instructor at Columbia and Syracuse, is not insignificant in American art circles.

His portrait of Mrs. Herbert Hoover hangs in the White House, and elsewhere displayed are portraits of Hoover and a number of high-ranking priests of his own Episcopal Church.

TOOK FLYER

While casting about last spring for a new subject, Brown took a flyer and addressed a letter to Pope John. He enclosed a few photo samples of his work—and promptly gave up any notion he would be accepted.

Later he was advised he could meet with the Pope for three 30-minute sittings.

Plainly, the Pope was pleased with Brown's work.

The specified limit of three sittings was stretched to six, more than doubling the time artist. Frequently he walked with the Pope in the Vatican Gardens to study him more closely.

"This man some people call old has the step of an athlete and the most agile mind imaginable," Brown said. "Physically he is tireless, and he has a remarkable sense and store of humor.

"He talks learnedly—and enthusiastically—on any subject. He invited scholars of many fields to the sittings, and while I worked they discussed history, art, philosophy."

The painting shows the Pontiff on one of the many thrones in the Vatican, wearing cream-colored robes with silken sash, red cape, and a gem-studded platinum cross on a gold neck chain.

When the portrait was finished the Pope inspected it, Brown said, and cried "Bravo, bravo."

Brown wants to hang the picture and its 17th century Venetian frame in some Roman Catholic institution. "I think it would be only fitting," he said.

Tariff Question Debated In Heated Fashion Before Development Conference

TORONTO (CP) — Differing opinions about the problems of Canadian manufacturers in today's competitive trading world brought sharp clashes between speakers at one of yesterday's sessions of the Ontario industrial development conference.

"No one came out for "high tariffs" and no one for "free trade," and the suggestions of both sides appeared to observers to have much common ground, but their arrows of criticism resulted in robust exchanges.

H. I. Macdonald, of the University of Toronto's department of economics, stated:

"In too many instances, Canada's business has grown smug and self-satisfied since 1945."

Robert Story, vice-president of Radio Valve Co. Ltd., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd., replied:

"I object to being called smug and self-satisfied. And I object to being told we have to give our profit away. The only trouble with profit is that we can't make any. With present profits, how are you going to find money to put into research?"

"Prof. Macdonald said his assertions charge applied not only to Canadian management, but to Canadian labor, and pointed out all Canadians as consumers for accepting the prices they pay.

R. D. L. Kinsman, president of the Canadian Exporters' Association and vice-president of Massey-Harris-Ferguson International Ltd., a sales arm of Aluminium Limited, said Prof. Macdonald is indulging in "class against Canadian industry complacency, and declared: "We haven't been doing any selling."

Prof. Macdonald said Mr. Kinsman rejected higher tariffs as a solution to Canada's industrial trading problems, but indicated that special tariffs were part of industrial consultation. In the main, they suggested other remedies, including tax concessions.

Dr. D. W. Slater of Queen's University's department of economics, chairman of the session, said the question for Canada is not one of "tripling tariffs or of free trade."

National interests had to be taken into consideration in tariff matters, but only where this was relevant to the situation. Tariff arguments were often used where they weren't relevant.

Mr. Story said Japan is set up to mass - produce the types of electronic tubes Canada makes, and Japanese imports were threatening the industry's existence.

"The tube business," he added, "is the heart of the electronic business. If we destroy knowhow in the component field, we destroy the whole thing."

He said even Canadian taxation favors the Japanese tube because of the low "fair-market-value" placed upon it.

He suggested a quota, tied to Canadian production. If business were built up, the trading partner would benefit, if it went down, the loss would be shared by.

Col. C. E. Reynolds, chairman of the Ontario Northland Transportation Commission, said the development of Moosonee on James Bay as a port is "about to become a reality."

He hoped money would be appropriated this winter to start dredging next spring.

In a luncheon address, Premier Frost said that at all costs, Canada must avoid creating a "have-not" province.

Two million million Canadians," he added, "can't hold a healthy client in a land-bound world unless we have surveyed our country chance to develop our country."

He said:

"We talk too much about industry's fear of expansion, complacency, and declared: "We haven't been doing any selling."

Rescue Dog From Coal Mine After Eight Eventful Days

By James Tucker in the London Spectator

Ynscorrwg colliery, closed in the 1930s and sealed off in 1946, stands a few yards from a council estate and children's swings in the village of Glyncorrwg, near Port Talbot, Glamorgan. A concrete platform lies across the top of the shaft with a small opening to one side, covered by a grating, through which for the past few months lorries have been dumping rubbish. When the shaft was closed it was 700 feet deep.

A sheepdog called Jock, presumably after scraps, fell through the grating and had been heard barking from the mine. Last Saturday, the eighth day of Jock's captivity, a small crowd of men stood about the concrete table in the rain speaking ill of the RSCPA for not attempting to get the dog out.

In particular, two heavy and athletic-looking officials of the Cambe Defence League, superintendent Robert Horsfall and Chief Inspector Frank Pettit, paced and fretted and went to ring London. They had travelled down to the village from the League head-quarters overnight.

SITE THREATENED

Their chairman, Mr. Bernard Wortman, had threatened to sue the RSPCA under the Malicious Damage Act for trying to kill the dog by dropping poisoned meat as it earlier in the week. In addition, he had announced that the League would, if necessary, spend 100,000 pounds in trying to get Jock up.

By midday on Saturday things had become comparatively calm. Earlier Superintendent Horsfall had gone to the local council offices and demanded the key to the wire gate guarding the pit mouth. He was referred to the police. The police refused the key and warned the superintendent that if he broke in he would be prosecuted.

On their journeys he was accompanied, and chauffeured, by pressmen, who were all for flop-erintendent Horsfall on an otherwise dull Saturday in the silly season.

One of the most common arguments heard around the pit was that if it had been a human being down there the concrete table would have been ripped off days ago and rescue attempts made. This was not said by dogsy fanatics in tweed skirts, but by miners standing by to go down on the end of a rope. It seemed an odd sort of reversal of the legend about what the British will do for their animals, but not for their fellow-men.

Mr. Ron Williams, of Ton Pentre, who had come over by train on two days in case he was needed to descend the shaft, said: "If it was my dog, I'd have gone down regardless of the police, the NCB, and the RSPCA".

At 1.30 p.m., in two fiercely revving vans, the RSPCA arrived, with uniformed and plainclothes men. Senior Inspector Frank Wood said that equipment — crane, boatswain's chair, steel cable, lights, a compressor and a drill — was on its way, a crowd gathered as he spoke to reporters.

Yes, he said, he had heard the criticisms of the Society. He smiling and said it was always happening. He agreed that there had been a change of policy since the attempts to poison Jock after only a few days.

This was not due to pressure or threats from the Cambe Defence League or anyone else, but followed talks with the NCB (the poor old NCB, inheriting a dud pit whose only potentiality was to take refuse and trap careless animals), in which permission had been granted for the descent.

Senior Inspector Wood agreed that he had done no more than look over the edge of the shaft so far, through the rubbish opening. He said it was dark.

The pit was tested for gas — although the dog had lived in it for eight days. The drill and compressor arrived and Senior Inspector Wood said the rest of the equipment, for lowering a man into the shaft, would be there at 4 p.m.

Shortly after 3 p.m. a square was cut in the concrete sealing platform and Bill Lloyd, of Birmingham, a member of the South Wales Caving Association, went down on a rope ladder to reconnoitre.

Shortly afterwards he brought the dog up, alive, alert and shaking, from a dissling raft of rubbish 100 feet down. He, too, said the shaft was dark.

Pearl Necklace Gift Desired By All Women

The gift of pearls carries a special connotation in that pearls grow more beautiful in contact with the wearer. Because its gentle color and smooth shape, the pearl is also the symbol of modesty and purity, says jewellery designer Marianne Cotler, in her recent book "Jewels and the Woman."

No wonder women love pearl and prize it, as a gift, as the compliment it carries as well as for its beauty! It should be the right of every woman to own at least one strand of beautiful, carefully selected and lovingly matched cultured pearls.

Her first pearl necklace — unless the recipient has expressed definite preference to the contrary — should probably be a single strand just long enough to fill the hollow of the throat. This length can be worn — and you may be sure it will be — with a cashmere sweater, with a tailored suit and soft blouse, with a high-necked dress, with a low-cut dress — in short with practically everything in a woman's wardrobe. The single-strand pearl necklace is equally at home at the opera and the super-market, with mink and with wash-and-wear.

After the first necklace may be added chokers, one-stranders, two-stranders, three- or four-stranders and really long lengths.

The pearl necklace is a perfect "starter" to which other gifts or pearls may be added throughout the years. Pearl bracelets, rings, brooches and clips are just a few of the possibilities. Pearl earrings are a special favorite of clever women who know how they add lustre to the great complexion.

Pearls enhance all metals and all other jewels — rubies, emeralds, topazes as well as diamonds. Thus the gift of pearls will go with all the other jewels a woman may come to own.

Great jewel connoisseurs through the ages have loved to combine pearls with other gems in the same piece of jewellery. Wealthy Roman matrons prized pearls and emeralds. Potentates of the East, the home of the pearl, were partial to rubies and pearls. The French have always loved delicate jewellery fashioned of gold, pearls, and diamonds.

Today pearls are combined with all precious gems in jewellery: from pearl button earrings or a modest clip for $20 or less, to brooches and tiaras of unmistakable grandeur.

While most of us think of pearls in the more familiar creamy white color, the connoisseur includes those that glow with a pink or bluish-gray iridescence. Rarest are the black pearls — truly gems of exotic beauty!

THIS GRAND CHALLENGE CUP AIMS LABATT'S AS BREWERS OF

BEST BEER IN THE COMMONWEALTH

Most Canadians think that Labatt's is just about the best beer you can get anywhere. But it's also nice to know that independent brewing experts rate it as highly as we do. In a brewing contest held recently in London, England, among 120 competitors from all over the Commonwealth, the Brewers' Guardian Challenge Cup was awarded to Labatt's as brewers of the beer judged to be finest in all classes competing . . . the best beer in the Commonwealth. This is the latest of 23 occasions on which Labatt's quality has brought top honours to Canada in International Competition, including the Prix d'Excellence won at the World Beer Contest in Belgium in 1958. So any time you call for one of the great Labatt brews — Labatt's IPA, Labatt's Pilsener Lager Beer, or Labatt's "50" Ale — remember you're drinking the Commonwealth's best beer.

Postmaster-General Known As One of Cabinet's Keenest Business, Political Minds

By ALEX MORIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—William Hamilton was unable to walk until he was four years old.

Today—in spite of the congenital deformity that left his spare movement in the upper half of his body—he gets in a 15-hour day and covers some 50,000 miles a year directing one of Canada's biggest governmental businesses.

As postmaster - general, Mr. Hamilton is recognized as one of the federal cabinet's sharpest business and political minds.

At 41, he is the youngest member of the cabinet. When he was first elected to the House, in 1949, to Montreal Notre - Dame - de-Grace, he was the first Progressive Conservative in 18 years to win a Montreal seat. In 1956 he was elected with the biggest plurality ever received by a Conservative in Quebec province.

Mr. Hamilton, postmaster-general since his party came to power in 1957, says his early connection with social matters was "more a matter of accident than design."

WAS PENSAL CRITIC

"When I first came to the House, I was told to stand up and criticize," he said. It happened that postal matters were under discussion at the time, so I jumped right in. From that day on I was official post office critic."

There was another reason, however. The post office is big business—one which because of its unglamorous nature, has tended to be neglected by opposition members.

For the rookie MP with a bachelor of commerce degree from Sir George Williams College, Montreal, and "not too much knowledge of politics" here was a chance to make a mark in a field for which he was equipped.

He had been head of the prices division of the Montreal branch of the wartime prices and trade board in 1946-47. When elected to Parliament, Mr. Hamilton was general manager of the Montreal Advertising and Sales Executive Club and the board of trade's correspondence on council.

He was convinced that any concern with a country-wide staff of 50,000 in 11,500 outlets handling 10,000,000 pieces of mail a day would be a likely target for a young Businessman seeking to improve its efficiency.

HIS PET PEEVE

In the switch from critic to department head, his views on improved service were unchanged except on one point—the abolition of twice-a-day mail delivery. This cut by the former Liberal government had been one of his pet peeves. But he reconsidered the question from the point of view of a man who has to balance a $190,000,000 budget.

"I still think two-a-day delivery would be the ideal in service But people get used to doing without it after a while and abolishing it so that relatively small (the second delivery costs) not be justified in the light of the extra $6,000,000 a year it would cost."

One of his favorite ways of keeping in touch with the department is to drop in unexpectedly at any of the post offices across the country.

"I waits the service we give, then after introducing myself I go through the office and talk to every employee on duty to get their beefs and ideas and to learn for myself what is going on," he says.

"No one is going to insulate me in Ottawa behind five or six layers of officials. I have visited hundreds of post offices and, on the while, I have been pleased with what I have seen although in a good many cases changes have resulted from my visits."

Of all his interests, none is greater than his effort to introduce mechanization to speed sorting of mail. The problem hasn't been solved in any country, but Mr. Hamilton believes Canada is as close to a solution as any.

SPONSORED RESEARCH

He created an engineering and development branch and made research a high priority project.

Fifteen months ago he gave the contract for development of a new concept in electro-mechanical mail sorting to Canadian Limited of Montreal. The machine is in the final stages of work prior to testing in the Montreal post office early next year.

Mr. Hamilton is one of Parliament's most active grass-roots politicians. After putting in five 15-hour days in the capital, he spends Saturdays speaking to organizations in his home town of Montreal and carrying out his own door-to-door public opinion poll.

"I just want to find out what people think," he says.

"That doesn't mean I have to agree with or abide by every wish of my constituents. When I was elected it was to use my own judgment and do what I believe is right, but if I didn't keep in touch with what people want and need, I couldn't do that job properly."

Mr. Hamilton admits that his "physical disability has probably been the mixed blessing at the root of his success.

"People like me, who can't do things like playing football or hockey, often go overboard in trying to compensate for it in other things they can do."

Mr. Hamilton married Ruth Isabel Seeman of Ottawa in 1954.

Consider Great Britain A Formidable World Power In Event of Nuclear Attack

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Just how strong is Britain's position in the Anglo-American alliance?

Opinions, both expert and public, differ sharply. Britain is an equal partner in the alliance, say some. Britain is merely an American launching pad, say others.

Another argument is that Britain has tremendous influence in Washington. And the cynical retort is that Washington calls the tune and Britain plays it flawlessly on second fiddle.

Since such factors as influence, respect and mutual admiration vary, any documented reply must rest on relative military contributions. And here on the alliance's military might is based on retaliatory destructive power. Britain's contribution must be measured in terms of its independent deterrent.

BIG NUCLEAR FORCE

In this respect, informants insist, there is no doubt that Britain still is a formidable world power in its position in the alliance is unquestionably strong.

If the West is the victim of aggression, the RAF has the responsibility for nearly 40 per cent of the initial retaliatory attack. The fact that the United States defence chiefs have decided on this tactical manoeuvre speaks for itself on the importance of Britain's position.

Once the initial blow has been struck—and the enemy has ended the fighting — the United States will unquestionably resume the heaviest share of allied tactical nuclear strength. Britain's. But until American intercontinental missiles are ready to take over the role of bombers, Britain can still provide the quickest retaliation.

Even if Britain's nuclear arsenal is small compared with that of the U.S., it still represents a staggering destructive power. Scientific experts have estimated that independent British H-bombs are capable of causing 2,500 times the damage of the Hiroshima bomb.

About 130 bombers are poised with a total of more than 200 nuclear weapons. More than half of these planes are always on standby duty, ready to roar off at a moment's notice.

Some British defence sources say that even allowing for aircraft knocked down by enemy rockets, the RAF's first wave of retaliation could cripple virtually every city in a country the size of Russia. These sources are not normally noted for overstating a case.

These figures and estimates to-vere only Britain's existing stockpiles. Within a few years these stockpiles will be much greater.

The next heavy weapon so come into use will be the Blue Steel stand-off bomb, which will be released from an aircraft 100 miles from its target. Then in 1965, the RAF is scheduled to get the American Skybolt missile, also to be fired from aircraft at even greater distances.

Small atomic weapons are going to be fixed to the Royal Navy's NATO strike fighter plane that can hedge-hop under enemy radar screens deep into enemy territory.

All these weapons are, and will be, under the complete control of Britain.

There are others, such as the existing 60 Thor-rocket sites in Britain, which are under joint American-British control. It has been estimated that the weapons over which Britain has sole control have a total power of 25,000 Hiroshima blasts.

British defence officials usually refuse to comment on relative strength in the Anglo-American alliance, but they clearly resent any suggestions—and there have been some recently in London—that Britain is not shouldering a fair share.

If the weapons of both countries were put side by side, they say, there would be little doubt that the United States would emerge as a comparative giant. But they contend that no country with the devastating power of Britain, not to mention its initial assignment in local warfare, can be classed as anything but a great world power.

Jewel Boxes Favored Gifts

All through history and legend the jewel box has figured in stories of adventure, love and romance. The treasure of the Pharaos were buried in boxes of precious metal, studded with gemstones. Called 'exaquetire' in Colonial Days, they were carried by ship and mule-back for the possessions of the 'exaquetire girls' who crossed the sea to be wives of husbands. In the story of Faust, Marguerite is presented with a beautiful box of jewellery to win her affection, and the aria 'Jewel Song' is one of the highlights of the musical version. Columbus must have been tremendously relieved when Isabella called for her jewel box.

Today, even though the priceless medals and stones are seldom used for the adornment of jewel boxes, many a young man can find a splendid case in which he may present a watch or engagement ring. Families who have jewellery to pass on to the next generation may use the jewel box to 'wrap' the heirlooms.

CAREFULLY MADE

Like many things of antiquity, though, the jewel box had to be brought up to date to keep its popularity. Manufacturers still follow the old designs of Italy with gold tooling on fine leathers, or use glamor fabrics such as lame and brocade with satin and velvet linings. Inside, however, the changes are most apparent. Trays fold back, and hinged drawers slide out, music boxes add sparkle. Men's jewellery boxes have sections for studs, links and accessories as well as rings.

New and practical are travel rolls which expand for as much as the vacationer requires to fit another; with inside zippered pockets serve the same purpose.

Both sentimental and practical, the jewel box is always a good choice for a gift.

Irish Whip Petes 3-2; Marlies Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto St. Michael's Majors moved from fourth place into a second - place tie with Niagara Falls in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A race Thursday night by defeating Peterborough Petes 3-2.

In a cellar scramble, the sixth-spot Hamilton Red Wings shoved last-place Toronto Marlboros mattled to a 3-3 tie, giving the Reds seven points and Marlboros five. Guelph leads the league with 14 points.

In Peterborough, the host Petes in third place were 1-1 points, Ars Brown's goal for the Majors was quickly answered in the first period by Wayne Carleton but St. Michael's took a 2-1 lead into the third on a goal by Bill MacMillan.

Jack Cole gave Majors a 3-2 edge in the third period.

WIN PROTEST

In Hamilton, Wings took a third stalemate. Their last move came after St. Michael's recently won a decision for replay of an Oct. 30 game in which their Wings had a disputed goal off goal by Hamilton was protested.

Majors claimed the referee erred in assessing a minor penalty after Hamilton failed to score on a penalty shot. The final 13 seconds will be replayed Sunday with the score tied 3-3.

In Thursday night's game, Guelph opened scoring with a goal by Wayne Rivers late in the first period. Frank Hurley's slapshot which bypassed goalie Andre Martineau tied the game for the first time.

Dukes took the lead as Gary Jarrett tallied, but Lyle Porter soon tied the score. The final point was tied by John Weeks of the visitors and Neil Forth for Hamilton.

Wet Field For Cup?

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Grey Cup Playoffs fought on a frozen field.

A heavy rainfall struck Vancouver shortly after midnight but the Empire Stadium turf was protected by a tarpaulin which has been down since last Tuesday.

Intermittent rain has been falling since then and in spite of the tarpaulin there is a chance expected for the game. It has not been possible to lift the covering to allow the field to dry out.

Coach Frank Clair of Ottawa Rough Riders says a wet field isn't going to help his team's offensive.

OSD Hosts COSSA Girls Volleyball

The annual COSSA girls' volleyball championships, for "A" and "B" teams, will be held at the Ontario School for the Deaf here Saturday, commencing at 11 o'clock in the morning.

Mrs. M. J. Lazarski of OSD, convener for the tournament, announced this morning that 16 teams from 11 secondary schools will be taking part in the two divisions.

Teams from the Quinte and Lake Ontario districts will be participating.

From the Quinte district, teams will be present from the host school, OSD, as well as Trenton High School, Napanee Collegiate Institute, Madoc High School, Marmora High School and Stirling High School.

The Lake Ontario district will send teams from Lindsay, St. Peter's of Peterborough, Peterborough Collegiate Institute, Bancroft High School and Whitby Collegiate Institute.

The teams participating in this championship tournament earned their way into the finals by either winning or finishing second in district tournaments in "A" and "B" groupings.

Mrs. Lazarski issued a special invitation to all area students, as well as the general public, to attend tomorrow's games.

Final games in the elimination series will be played in the evening.

O'Keefe Ale, that is

Of course no one (especially the O'Keefe Ale Sales Manager) can expect you to say OK for O'Keefe unless you have good reason to.

So, to spirit you on your way to the greater pleasure O'Keefe Ale has to offer, here are a few reasons that come to mind.

O'Keefe Ale is wet enough to be thirst-quenching—light enough to be non-filling.

O'Keefe Ale (what a glorious brew) has tang enough to be tasty without the edgy flavour of lesser ales. O'Keefe Ale is modern in mood, perfectly brewed. It's more than an ale—it's an experience.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

It doesn't seem too many years ago that I stood on the gridiron sidelines at the OSD and watched a pair of St. Michael's Academy halfbacks run practically wild.

Nearby, St. Michael's coach Jack Doran smiled his satisfaction. "Great pair of youngsters" was his terse comment.

GARY SCHREIDER

The galloping, passing backfield stars of the fine Irish team that visited Deseronto were Gary Schreider and Bobby Green.

Bobby went on to become one of the city's finest diamond athletes and at the moment is raised one of softball's topnotch southpaw hurlers in this part of Ontario.

Both were good hockey players—and good goalkeepers.

But football was Gary's real sports love. I never guessed at the time that this shy, husky youngster would reach the gridiron heights. I did not dream that I would live to see the day Gary would be named one of Canada's all-star defensive halfbacks, one of its best placement kickers.

Saturday afternoon the Ottawa Rough Riders, champions of the East, will treat the fans to what might be the misty grudges of Vancouver's Empire Stadium to do battle with the Edmonton Eskimos, the pride of the West.

Some 32,000 football fanatics are expected to view this struggle of the titans. The greater majority will be pulling for the Eskimos to win the coveted Grey Cup. The odds favorite figure the Eskys 5-1 favorites.

The Riders won't lack for support in the packed stadium. Ottawa is sending along a strong contingent of fans. Promoter Clair and his boys have a lot of friends in the west, too.

But two special pairs of eyes will be glued on the Riders in general and Gary in particular. They belong to "Stan" and "Mildred" Schreider of Toronto, who flew to Vancouver yesterday to see the game.

Ed Schreider was one of the better athletes turned out in this city. He was a fine football player and later—don't blame it on failing vision—developed into one of the best baseball umpires in the Toronto senior league.

Mrs. Schreider, naturally is one of Gary's greatest fans. Maternal pride in Gary's achievements has thus far overcome the natural worry over the hazards of the game. Should the Riders win tomorrow, there will not be a prouder lady and mother in all Canada than Doris Schreider.

But just as proud will be another lady. She is Sister Mary Avila of St. Michael's Academy. The sister is an ardent sports enthusiast, with special interest in football —and the Rough Riders.

After all Sister Mary Avila was the teacher who guided Gary Schreider through his early educational years at St. Mike's and who owns a corner in the Schreider heart. "Gary was one of my favorite Grade Eight pupils," the Sister said.

Gary never forgot this gracious lady as he followed his education and sports trails to the top. Some of her proudest possessions are an autographed photo of him in uniform, and autographs of the entire Riders club.

I talked with Sister Mary Avila yesterday. There was more than a scrolling of pride in her voice when Gary was mentioned. "He was a fine student and a fine athlete," she said, "but there was a lot of the boy about him, too.

"I recall one occasion," the sister said, "St. Michael's under Coach Jack Doran had a football game scheduled with the OSD. Gary's student activities had not been of the best so I had to tell him that sports was one career, education another. I did not permit him to play in the game.

"After that," Mary Avila smiled, "I had no study trouble with Gary. Nor did he help any feelings about my action."

The Sister has followed Gary's career along educational and sports lines since he left the academy. She perhaps plowed with inner pride as the youngster rose to football fame at St. Jerome's when they won the Catholic Collegiate. Later the shifty gridiron exploits at Queen's when he helped the Golden Gaels with Ron Stewart and Lou Bruce to intercollegiate championships.

And during his rise to fame in professional football, Gary has never had a more ardent supporter and follower than Sister Mary Avila.

She watches the Riders on television. "I was really frightened last Saturday when the outlook was bad," she confessed. "But it was wonderful to see the Riders win. I was glad, too, to see Gary regain his kicking ability."

Will the Riders win tomorrow?

"I hope so," said Sister Mary Avila.

I have never heard a more sincere statement in my life.

So with the Sister, Ed and Doris Schreider and you-know-who, that makes at least four solid fans who will be rooting for the Riders and Gary Schreider come tomorrow-afternoon.

And in case some of you fans want to get in touch with Gary Schreider some time, you had better specify which one.

There is the "Riders" Gary. There is Gary's Gary, a beaming fifteen-months old future halfback and there is four-year-old Gary, son of Uncle Tom and Aunt Betty Schreider of this city. These with attentive Mrs. Gary of Ottawa, swell that solid fan total.

Wings Hammer Habs, Take Over Top Hawks Will Leafs 2-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Who's the biggest surprise of the National Hockey League—the upstart Detroit Red Wings or the troubled Montreal Canadiens?

The Red Wings proved again Thursday night that they are at least the most enterprising as, packed with players most observers had figured would keep them chained close to the bottom of the league, they tumbled the mighty Canadiens 5-1 and took a one-point lead in the NHL standings.

While Detroit was calmly taking the Canadiens' measure, Chicago Black Hawks lifted themselves into second place with a 2-1 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs at Chicago. Toronto and Montreal now are tied for third place, two points behind Detroit.

In the other NHL game, New York Rangers finally quit the cellar by defeating Boston Bruins 5-3. It was the second win in as many nights for the Rangers over Boston as they put them one point up on the Bruins.

DETROIT GOES WILD

Red Wing coach Sid Abel proved to be the key that has lit the fuse to the Detroit fire, put the troit in front.

His careful infusion of fresh blood into the Wings and his brilliant tactical moves from the goal-tending again proved the balance in Thursday night's impressive win.

Two newcomers — Allan Johnston and Bruce Gamble—combined with veteran Alex Delvecchio to take care of Montreal's attack. Hank Bassen fended off Montreal's efforts.

Dickie Moore fired the only shot that beat Bassen—a goalie who had been given almost no chance, except in Abel's mind, of replacing veteran Glenn Sawchuk in the Detroit nets.

Bassen finished only 28 shots but many of them were tough ones. Jacques Plante, playing despite an injury to his right arm, only 16 shots to handle.

KEEPS PACE WITH MARK

Moore's goal was his 20th in 21 games and put him equal to the pace set by Maurice (Rocket) Richard when he scored his record 50 goals in one season.

Murray Balfour scored for Chicago's winning goal early in the third period. Bob Pulford passed to Bill Hay over the sprawling Johnny Bower. Ron Murphy opened the scoring for Chicago and George Armstrong tied it in the second period.

Two fist fights broke out in the third period. Bob Baun of Leafs and Ab McDonald of the Hawks exchanged blows over the boards, but the excitement died before players were involved. In the last minute of play, however, with Bower out of the Leafs nets in favor of a sixth attacker, Eric Nesterenko of the Hawks and Dropkick Murphy Hart Stanley crashed through punches.

For a moment every player on the ice crowded around, but the referees managed to separate the crowd.

BATHGATE STILL HOT

Andy Bathgate, who scored three goals Wednesday night in the Rangers' first win over Boston in Madison Square Garden home series, got another two Thursday night to spark his club to victory.

Johnny Wilson, picked up from Toronto, also scored twice for New York, his second going into an empty net after Boston goalie Milt Schmidt had pulled goalie Bruce Gamble on a sixth attacker.

Earl Ingarfield got New York's other goal, with Jimmy Bartlett, Gerry Ouellette and Leo Boivin scoring for Boston.

Bathgate's second goal, breaking a 2-2 tie at 11:35 of the third period came after he took a pass from Ken Schinkel. Bathgate outskated his pursuers, beat past Ast Eriksson at the Boston blue line to go in alone on Gamble and slapped a 30-foot drive into the net.

The brilliant backfield workhorse, who starred with Edmonton Eskimos here, said Thursday:

"I'm moving to Vancouver after the season and that'll be the end of football. It's the best way to go, after a Grey Cup and especially after winning the championship."

Ottawa's Davey West

Hopes To Wind Up In Cup Glory

By WILF GRIBBON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Davey West, the most travelled player in Canadian professional football, would like to wind up his career the same way he started it—with a Grey Cup champion.

He could do it if Ottawa Rough Riders beat Edmonton Eskimos in the East-West classic. It would be a jewel in a 16-year career that has taken West across the country by plan on eight of the nine top pro teams and with two clubs in the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

The 32-year-old wide flanker in Ottawa's backfield played for the cup - winning Toronto Argonauts in 1947, the year he broke into the pro game.

He was with Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Union when they lost 25-0 to Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the 1953 cup final, then went to Edmonton where he was a key figure as Eskimos defeated Montreal Alouettes 26-25 in 1954 and 34-19 in 1955.

DATS ARE NUMBERED

West is 5 foot — nine, 175-pounder, known that his playing days are numbered.

"I'll be finishing up. I want to play on another cup winner and I think I've established again with the Riders," he said on the eve of Saturday's grudge sports spectacle, scheduled for 1:30 p.m. PST (4:30 p.m. EST) kickoff. The game will be televised nationally by the CBC.

West and Ken Kelly don't attract the attention received by other members of Ottawa's starting backfield — knock - busting Dave Thelen and elusive Ron Stewart. But they can kill the opposition if they are given room.

Argonauts didn't pay much attention to West this season after they had won the first straight 1-0-0 during the regular 'Big Four Union season. The surprises of everyone, he caught two touchdown passes to give the Riders a victory that stopped Argos' winning streak.

It was the first of the Riders' five victories in seven games this season against Argos, including two playoff games that got them the Grey Cup for the first time since 1950.

WAS OVERLOOKED

Kelly, 32, picked up in midseason last year after he was cut by Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, was also overlooked by Argos. He tossed touchdown passes, punched out pitchouts as the Rough Riders beat Argos 33-21 in the opening engagement of their home-and-total - points final series. He cracked over for two touchdowns as Ottawa took the second game 34-26 last Sunday.

West is a professional photographer in Kitchener. In addition to the 3 others, Eskimos, Riders, Argonauts and Tiger-Cats, he has been under contract to British Columbia Lions, Calgary Stampeders and Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Kelly, a graduate in physical education from New Mexico State College, developed into a big threat in the Ottawa offense as the season wore on. He finished ninth in the Big-Four scoring race with 54 points on nine touchdowns.

Durelle Has Bout With Income Tax

CHATHAM, N.B. (CP)—Yvon Durelle, the New Brunswick fisherman who became Canadian and British Empire light-heavyweight champion, is in trouble with the income tax department.

Durelle, who retired this year from fighting, will appear in court Dec. 2 on charges of failing to pay his 1959 income tax.

A courthouse official confirmed the date of the hearing, but no details were available.

Chris Dashas of Moncton, Durelle's fight manager, estimated Yvon's earnings in 1959 from fighting and farming at about $40,000. Shaban said Durelle had been ordered to make out separate income returns for earnings in both occupations.

Durelle, now working in woods near his Rafe Ste. Anne home, said earlier: "I get $10 a cord and it takes me all day to cut a cord." His wife said Yvon had a poor summer fishing this year and had to sell a car—not much of a pleasure boat. Seven-year-old Yvon, Jr., is in hospital in Saint John, N.B., with a skin ailment.

Durelle pleaded not guilty to the charge when he appeared in court here earlier. Deputy Magistrate Eustace Fish said Thursday she did not recall the amount of tax involved in the charge.

'Know What We're Doing'

Keys, Kellogg Kocky

By GRAHAM COX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VICTORIA (CP) — Angelo Mosca is an awesome sight when he packs his 270 pounds into a football uniform.

He's a tall six - foot four tackle with Ottawa Rough-Riders the heaviest man the Riders will throw against Edmonton Eskimos in the Grey Cup classic in Vancouver Saturday.

Star tackle Kaye Vaughan is the Riders' lightest lineman at 230 pounds.

Do they frighten the Eskimos? No.

"This is an old story," Eskimo coach Eagle Keys said Thursday. "We've been outweighed in every game this season."

Eskimos will be going away six pounds a man on the team average and about 50 pounds a man on the line. The Riders' line corps averages about 225 to Edmonton's 205. The heavyweight on the Edmonton line is tackle Roger Nelson, a 225 pounder.

STOPPED WORRYING

"We've got the smallest professional club in the country," said assistant coach Bob Kelly. "So it's nothing new. I've stopped worrying about size.

"In size and formation, the Ottawa club is very similar to Calgary Stampeders. But their plays are a lot different."

Keys said Kellogg offered their observation in the closed-door atmosphere of the Eskimo training camp quarters here. The Eskis leave later today for Vancouver.

Keys sent his boys through a workout Thursday morning, then gave them the afternoon off.

Keys said he has a pretty good scouting report on Ottawa but left Quarterback Jackie Parker in the Big Four Union this year and is concentrating on defence.

"We are making some defensive changes," he said. "In fact, they may have more to worry about us than we do about them. We probably have hundreds of plays. This is our 27th game this season, including exhibitions. Our boys know what they are doing."

Mackell Says He's Through As Coach

QUEBEC (CP) — Fleming Mackell Thursday night announced his resignation as coach of the Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League following a 5-4 loss to Providence Reds, the team's seventh in a row.

He remains as a player.

Mackell, a centre who came to Quebec last spring from Boston Bruins of the Eastern Canada League, had been coaching and playing at Big Quebec.

Jack Toupin, business manager of third-place Aces, will assume coaching duties. He was coach last season when Aces first entered the league and finished last with 19 wins in 70 games.

HAVE 11 WINS

Aces have won 11 and lost 14 in 25 games so far this season.

Mackell said he asked club owner Hon. Gerald Martineau for permission to stop coaching.

"I think it is fair to the fans," Mackell said. "I'm a good player but I know I haven't played well up to now. I think it will be better for everyone, for the club, the players and the fans."

Mackell, who suffered a leg injury earlier this season, suffered another Thursday night. Ottawa's Claude Larose hit him with a high stick.

Players To Demand Bigger Cup Cut

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Professional football players in Canada are going to demand more money for league and Grey Cup playoff games, a group of players told the Canadian Press Thursday night.

"Naturally, it won't come this year, but it's in the books and don't be surprised if it happens before the 1961 season," one said in an interview. "Football is big business, we're businessmen and we want a fair shake. It's as simple as that."

The players emphasized they did not intend to form a union. They think player representatives should be allowed to discuss matters with officials that concern them.

"We might now we're concerned about playoff money," two players said. "What it amounts to is that we get a cut in salary by making the playoffs, which is a pretty ridiculous situation."

TALK IT OVER

The players said they have talked the matter over with professionals of other clubs in the eastern Big Four and Western Interprovincial Union.

"This has been on our minds for a couple of years or more but we never seemed it all star East - West games in the East," they said. "The last all - star game was played in Hamilton two years ago.

Standard pro football contracts in Canada call for $300 for league playoffs and $500 for the Grey Cup final.

"Let's put it this way," one player said. "A guy has a contract that calls for $1,000 a game over the league schedule and just because he and his teammates are good enough to make the playoffs and just about work their skin off, they automatically get a cut in salary. Figure that one out."

NOT A REBELLION

The players said they weren't starting a rebellion on the eve of the Ottawa Rough Rider-Edmonton Cup final but is expected to produce total net receipts of $700,000.

"We've taken a look at gate receipts, television money and so forth and in the past few years and all of a sudden we're getting smart," one said.

The Canadian Football League, an amalgamation of the Big Four and WIFU, has set a limit of 28 players a team to be dressed for the Cup final.

"Fifty-six fellows will be out at Empire Stadium tomorrow providing entertainment for millions of Canadians across the country and their total take is $28,000," a player said. "Sobering, that figure from about $450,000 and you can see how this game is major league."

The CFL annual meeting is scheduled for Winnipeg early in 1961 and the players hope to have representatives there when delegates from the four teams in the East and five in the West assemble to thrash out their problems.

"We've got problems, too, and

The Tracks

NEW YORK (AP) — Edward Seinfeld's Clear Road, an outsider in the betting, held organizedly and won the 13th running of the $28,400 Firenze Handicap at Aqueduct Thursday night.

Clear Road, handled by jockey Ray York, took command of Phillip and maves by a nose from Johnnie Stahl's Soldadesca, who finished 1½ lengths clear of Brookmade Stable's Big Effort. The time was 1:36 2-5.

Clear Road earned a net purse of $18,160. The fleet miss returned mutuels of $23.30, $11.40 and $12.50. Soldadesca paid $15.10 and $9.80 and Big Effort was $8.70 to show.

At Baltimore, Mrs. Stephen T. Clark, Jr.'s field Bearer gave most of 30,388 fans little to be thankful for when he took the measure of odds-on-favorite Hemmeigling in the $25,000 - added Dixie Handicap at Pimlico.

Hemmeigling finished five lengths back of Shield Bearer, who paid $42 in the straight pool. C. Maiden Kline's Myrtle Dee was third.

For his first stakes victory, Shield Bearer earned $19,070 and paid $10.60 to place and $3 to show. Hemmeigling returned $5 and $2.30 and Mystic 2nd $2.30.

TORONTO (CP) — Calais Imbroglio the 196-day Ontario racing season to a thrilling conclusion Thursday, defeating Grey Monarch by a short nose in the $10,000 Valedictory Handicap.

It was a remarkable finish after a marathon run of 1¼ miles and the two horses covered the distance in 2.37 1-5, only one-fifth of a second behind the Canadia record established by Dark Armour in 1956.

The favorite, Mooney, finished third, only two lengths behind the winner.

Calais II, the gamie little English bred horse owned by Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Boyles of Toronto and ridden by Jim Fitzsimmons, also won the 1959 Valedictory Handicap. Thursday's victory was only his third of the current campaign and raised his 1960 earnings to $20,230. The winner paid $7.30, $3.70 and $2.50.

The crowd of 11,182 raised the season's total to 1,697,075 for Ontario's three thoroughbred tracks, New Woodbine, Old Woodbine and Fort Erie, an increase of $6,652 over the previous record year of 1959.

Thursday's wagering of $727,- 544 raised the season's total for the same three tracks to $40,- 215,662, an increase of $5,352,825 over the previous record season of 1959.

The final daily double of the season paid $309.80 when Hasty Boy and One Hit won the afternoon's first two races. The Capitella of Royal Border and Bill Yates on the fifth race paid $49.60.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Grey Cup tickets? They are so easy to get as a taxi cab in this city can and that's a simple matter.

Hip, Hip, Hooray

Whoopee on the Train

CALGARY (CP) — Celebrating Edmonton fans joined fellow supporters from points east Thursday for the final linkup and the last leg of the CPR special's journey to Vancouver and the Grey Cup game.

For 300 fans from Winnipeg and Regina, Calgary proved to be a time for unpacking and point for dwindling supplies of festive staples.

For 100 fans, who joined the special after a three-hour trip from Edmonton, the Calgary stop was an opportunity to gather in the station rotunda to whoop it up on behalf of their western-champion Eskimos.

Porters on both trains said it had been a hectic trip for them.

Hip pockets were noticeably bulging on the rides from Edmonton this morning, one porter said.

The Winnipeg - Regina contingent had done its share of rabble-rousing too, said another.

"Noisy? Just all night that's all. They didn't go to bed until six o'clock this morning."

An Edmonton fa ndicated the purpose of the trip — his own purpose anyway:

"We're not going out to see who's going to win this cup, we're just going out to see by how much."

The same fan made a brief attempt to commandeer a wheelbarrow piled with blocks of ice for the special's coolers.

Shortly after the special left, a group of 25 Montreal Alouettes fans and rooters passed through and an hour after its departure, 400 Calgarians climbed aboard a 22-car Calgary-Vancouver train.

Will Play Overtime in Cup Final

VANCOUVER (CP) — Overtime will be played until a winner is decided if Saturday's Ottawa-Edmonton Grey Cup final is tied after the regulation 60 minutes, Football Commissioner L. Sydney Halker of Winnipeg said Thursday.

If fog rolls in, the game will be postponed until Sunday "or any subsequent day" until conditions are favorable, Halker said.

The subject was brought up after three days of intermittent rain. The long-range forecast is for continued unsettled weather, and possibly rain on Saturday and the forecaster said fog "is extremely unlikely."

If overtime is needed Halker said Rough Riders and Eskimos would have a 10-minute rest period after regulation time. The next would play two 10 - minute halves until the issue was decided, the teams changing ends after each 10 minutes with no rest period.

It was Moore's 20th goal in 21 games, making him the first player this season to reach that mark. The goal tied him with Boston Bruins' Richard, his retired former linemate, who had 30 goals in 30 games in 1944-45. Moore also has 16 assists for 30 points.

Tourists Viewed as Visitors Because People Are Warm, Hospitable in Irish States

By DAVE OANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Tom Sheebey, so official of the Irish tourist board, tells a story he swears is true. During a board survey of western Ireland, he asked a farmer how many tourists had visited the area during the previous year.

"None—none that I can remember," came the considered reply.

Sheebey was somewhat deflated. He and his staff had been directing tourists to the region for months.

"Well, then," Sheebey continued, "did you have any visitors?"

"Och, aye. We had hundreds—from America, Canada and even England and France."

This view of tourists is one that is general throughout the Emerald Isle. The people, shaped by their pastoral land, are warm and hospitable—and always glad to see a stranger.

During a two-week tour of both Northern Ireland and the Irish Republic, this reporter found an island with a view of exciting variety.

In an area roughly the size of New Brunswick, he has rich, green grasslands, semi-tropical vegetation, fish-filled lakes and rivers, wild heathered hills and glens and snow-capped peaks, dairy farm lands in areas such as the granite mountains of Mourne in County Down.

NEEDN'T DRINK ALONE

The people live in a part of the world where the time-tested laws of hospitality have not been forgotten. You can go into an Irish pub to quaff a stout alone if you want to. But you don't have to. No islander thinks a visitor is pushy if he strikes up a conversation.

One of the surest ways to discover their warmth is to stop and ask the way. Any visitor who does this soon has a crowd around him. It may take the group a while to reach agreement, but when it is finally achieved at least one or two of the advisers will guide the stranger for part of his journey.

Bob Friendly, general manager of the Northern Ireland tourist board, ascribes the warm attitude to the fact that people are close to the land. From either Belfast or Dublin, the island's two largest cities, it's possible to reach farming country by driving for about 15 minutes.

Wild moors and mountains can be found almost anywhere on Ireland. It's hard to find anyone, even in an industrial centre such as Belfast, who hasn't a close relation still earning his living from the Irish soil.

MANY ATTRACTIONS

Beyond the accustomed laws of hospitality, Northern Ireland offers many attractions that draw tourists in increasing numbers. There are miles of sandy beaches, scores of golf courses, dozens of lakes and streams with trout and salmon, and hundreds of hotels and guest houses where emphasis is on amicable informality.

And visitors can take advantage of any of these facilities at prices far lower than those of many comparable areas in Europe.

The Irish Isle is also a land that offers much to persons interested in history. Ireland's architectural specimens dating back more than 1,000 years.

St. Patrick, who converted the Celts to Christianity, landed during the 5th century at Saul, now a tiny village about 20 miles southeast of Belfast. His remains are said to lie in the graveyard of St. Patrick's Cathedral in Downpatrick, his grave marked by a huge granite slab inscribed with a Celtic cross and the word "Patrick."

Built in the saint's original church still exists at Armagh, a town about 40 miles southwest of Belfast, and is visited by many.

In the Wicklow hills, an hour's drive southeast of Dublin, are the remains of the monastic city of Glendalough, once one of the renowned centres of learning in Europe.

CELTIC RUINS

In the gaps that lie scattered around the shores of the lakes and streams of the glen can be traced—from its settlement by St. Kevin in the 6th century at Saul, now a village about 20 miles southeast of Belfast, to its finish when it was burned and laid it waste in 1398. One of the most striking remains is the 110-foot, round tower built roughly 1,000 years ago.

Tourist boards in both the republic and Northern Ireland are expanding up efforts to spread the word about the attractions of their travellers.

The Irish tourist board actively encourages the arts, drama and music festivals with direct subsidies. Both boards inspect and grade hotel and guest houses to improve accommodation and restaurant standards.

Frizzell estimates that roughly 350,000 tourists visited Northern Ireland in 1959 and the number is increasing each year. About 90,000 of these were North American and at least 10,000 were Canadians. These visitors spent a roughly $30,000,000 in the country last year, provided a healthy injection of new funds for the economy.

In the republic tourism's the second earner — after livestock exports — of foreign exchange. The 700,000 tourists in 1959 spent about $100,000,000. This year big increases are expected in both numbers and amount spent.

Eastern Ontario Enjoying High Prosperity Level

TORONTO (CP) — Economic diversification and development will continue in Eastern Ontario and a high level of prosperity will be enjoyed in the years ahead, the Ontario department of economics reported Thursday.

A 125-page survey, embracing the counties of the Ottawa valley and upper St. Lawrence area, indicates that the region's population has grown to 748,000 from 592,000 in the last nine years and may climb to 850,000 by 1966.

The area's labor force has expanded significantly during the postwar period and personal income has climbed almost 90 per cent since 1951.

The diversity of skills and stable employment in the textile, clothing and shoe industries, among the region's greatest assets, the report said.

In One Lethal Stroke All Soap Operas Come to End

By CYNTHIA LOWAY

NEW YORK (AP)—It's, our unhappy duty to report that this afternoon the radio network of the Columbia Broadcasting System permanently seals off the peep hole through which millions of housewives have for many years been allowed the family fortunes of the Perkinses, the Malones, the Bradens and the Hortons.

In one lethal stroke, CBS will cut the last of its daytime radio serials, more often called soap operas, in a sweeping program reorganization. But because it has had since August less to linger with the story lines, it was able to send each of the four on oblivion with nothing but tapers ahead—at long last.

Ma Perkins, dean of CBS soaps (it started in August, 1933), celebrated U.S. Thanksgiving with the entire family gathered at the Perkins house. Notes a special press release from the network, and one hereof "sees happiness abound, as Fibber McGee and Amahka and her grandson junior will be married next month."

LOOK GOOD

After 20 years, things are finally looking up for the Perkins house in Right to Happiness. Dick has been paroled from Sing Sing, his murder charge cled, Grace has told Skip he is the only man in her life and Lee's court case has wound up satisfactorily.

Young Doctor Malone, another serial 20 years old, has also been paroled from prison—after Father Dr. Jerry (originally young, but now middle-aged and feeling) would consider taking back his old job as clinic head. He has.

Finally, The Second Mrs. Burton has decided not to take her young artist-protege's hand and now can concentrate "all her energies into preparing for an ambitious Christmas Dear."

LIBERALS BLAST

government's contributions to urban slum-clearance projects.

2 Establishment of a municipal loan fund to supplement but not replace—existing methods of financing, to meet the long-term borrowing requirements of municipalities with a backing of provincial credit.

WOULD DISCRIMINATE

The Liberal critic added that the plan to make federal loans for sewage projects will discriminate against those municipalities which have neglected other projects to put emphasis on sewage disposal and treatment.

Hugh M. Horner (PC—Jasper-Edson) and Fred J. Harold Danforth (PC—Kent, Ont.) both said the housing legislation will provide a shot in the arm for home construction in small towns, which they suggested have been neglected in the past.

Mr. Horner said that for too long, under the Liberals, the required money for housing in the NHA house was too large and that many people bought a car rather than a home.

Paul Hellyer (L—Toronto Trinity), however, said the Opposition was warned by the opposition at the last session of parliament that the high housing program was hopelessly inadequate, and that he is a "prophet of Liberal gloomsters."

"We were right and the minister was wrong," Mr. Hellyer said. "Instead of the 165,000 housing units forecast at the start of the year, there would be about 110,000 units started by the end of December."

Mr. Hellyer defended the amending bill as "one of the greatest pieces of legislation ever brought in the Commons."

There hadn't been a constructive suggestion from the opposition, Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) asked the minister whether the Conservatives were going to ask Liberal during the resolution stage of the legislative stage passed Wednesday night—that was why the Conservatives were filibustering.

It merely represents the numerical advantage the Liberals enjoy in the Conservatives—300 to 265 members, Mr. Chevrier's answer.

N.Z. Leaning Toward Decmal Coin System

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND (CP)—After toying with the idea for many years, New Zealand seems about to face up to a change to decimal coinage.

Both political parties contesting Saturday's general election advocate a switch to the decimal system. Labor, the present government, advocates a change by April, 1966. The opposition National party does not specify a date but firmly supports a change.

Britain, Australia, New Zealand and a few other Commonwealth countries now are the only countries that have not adopted some form of decimal currency.

New Zealand still works on the basis of pounds, shillings and pence of the same value as those in Britain. Australia uses sterling but the Australian pound is worth 20 per cent less than those in Britain and New Zealand.

AUSSIE CHANGE

Britain shows no intention of changing to the decimal system in the next few years, but a parliamentary committee has recommended that Australia adopt decimal currency by February, 1963. The Australian government has postponed a decision until next year, but has shown itself distinctly in favor of the idea.

Advocates of a change in New Zealand say there would be great advantages in switching to the new system at the same time as Australia. They say that if New Zealand holds out, it will be isolated among decimal countries and that complications will arise in exchanges with Australia.

An expert committee has strongly recommended decimal currency to the New Zealand Parliament, reporting there would be great savings in finance and commerce by adopting a more simple system.

The committee gave striking illustrations of the advantages in education, and showed how New Zealand child now is greatly handicapped in learning arithmetic through having to devote so much time to mastering a complicated money system.

ARGUE BASES

The committee recommended a change to a decimal system based on the upper unit of 10 shillings, or half the present pound. This upper unit would be divided into 100 smaller units, each valued at 1.3 of the present pence.

Some people interested in decimal currency prefer a system based on the existing pound, others advocate a change to a unit worth eight shillings and fourpence, or 100 of the present pennies.

Meanwhile, suggestions are already being made for a name for the new currency. Dollar is not much favored. Suggestions advised include a zeal, a kiwi (distinctive New Zealand bird), and a fern (a national symbol worn by sports teams).

Sunday School Lesson

The Christian Is at War

By ROY L. SMITH

The controversy that has been waged over the question of pacifism has had the effect of obscuring the fact that the Christian is, actually, supposed to be at war all the time. In a sense it must be said that making war is his profession.

The explanation, of course, lies in the definition of war. There is that terrible, business in which nations engage and of which the world has seen all too much during the last half century. Then there is that other war, in which the forces of evil array against the forces of righteousness for dominion over this world of ours.

CHRISTIANITY NO OPIATE

Nikolai Lenin, the actual father of the Russian revolution, is frequently credited with being the author of the statement that "religion is the opiate of the people," although Karl Marx said something very much like that.

The truth is, however, that Marxism is waging a titanic struggle between two ideologies —communism and the free enterprise system. It is the one true Marxism is the doctrinal statement of the one side, and in the other the authority is drawn from the Bible's doctrines of human rights and the sanctity of the individual.

Long ago anyone ever dreamed of any such struggle as the one in which we find ourselves engaged, the Apostle Paul warned the Christians at Ephesus that there was a struggle going on in the cosmos, a war in which they were to play an active part. As a matter of fact, their participation in the conflict was to become the decisive factor.

NO PEACE OF MIND

He makes a serious mistake who assumes that the purpose of the preacher and the church is to furnish him with peace of mind. Actually, going to church on Sunday morning ought to be for the purpose of getting our marching orders for the week.

There has grown up around us a considerable cult dedicated to the proposition that it is the business of religion to furnish men with peace of mind that prophets of the movement are sincere men who are capable of being helpful. Their whole message is interpreted, aright. Some of them are extensively active in the war on evil, but their followers often seek the "peace" without accepting the responsibilities of a warrior.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for December 4th is "STRENGTH IN GOD," Psalm 46; Ephesians 6: 10-20.

There is a peace of mind that comes to the soldier. He is convinced that his cause is just and right; he is confident that the forces which are behind him will support him adequately; he is sure of his weapons. And to such a peace the Christian soldier is abundantly entitled. But he must never forget that he is at war with evil inside and outside himself.

TWO KINDS OF WEAPONS

The Roman soldier of Paul's day was equipped with two kinds of weapons; there were those put on him himself like war sandals, his breast plate, and his armor-garments; and there were those that were handed to him by an attendant (his shield, helmet and sword).

In similar fashion the Christian soldier is armed with two kinds of weapons. There are those natural talents and skills which he acquires by his own efforts and then there are those spiritual graces conferred upon him by his Lord.

No man is really armed until he is fully armed — until he is armed with both types. Many an otherwise strong man has been defeated because he was only half armed!

One of the most serious mistakes any man can make is in thinking he can go it alone as a Christian.

The guerilla warrior sometimes makes a real contribution to a righteous cause, but wars are seldom won by guerillas — almost always by organized and fully equipped armies.

We are living in a generation which is witnessing an all-out struggle between the forces of evil and the forces of good. It is a conflict in which every individual has eternal stakes, and which—even here he decided on the basis of irresponsible individual or personal efforts.

The Christians of Asia and those of Africa are in the same struggle. It is only that they are holding a different sector of the line.

Every man who wants to see the triumph of righteousness belongs in the midst of this battle.

UNDERGROUND HOME

The average life expectancy of the locust is 17 years, most of which is spent underground.

Roslin

ROSLIN — Mr. and Mrs. Milton Fargey have returned home after visiting their daughter, Marion, and family in California.

Misses Lettie and Alice Wilson have returned home after visiting friends in Thurso, New York. They enjoyed a trip through the Adirondacks.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Atherton of Picton, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. William Johnston and Mrs. Johnston, Sr.

Mrs. George Willoughby and baby daughter, have arrived home from Belleville General Hospital.

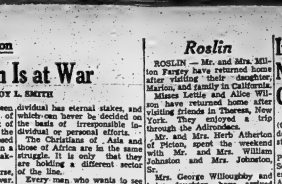
ROYAL NAME

New Brunswick was named in honor of the House of Brunswick, the family name of George III who was then reigning.

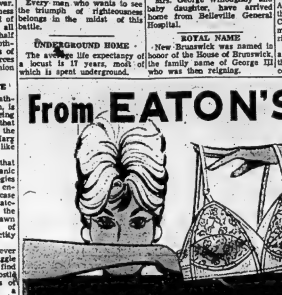
Independent Nigeria Helps Commonwealth

LONDON (CP) — Christopher Chrisi Chataway says independent Nigeria will greatly strengthen the Commonwealth.

The Conservative Member of Parliament, who was born in the Sudan and takes a special interest in African affairs, said at an Anglo-Canadian lunch here he thinks the newest member of the Commonwealth will exert an "immensely salutary" effect in Africa.



The Nigerians had a "nobility" and unemotional common sense that were rare in the emerging continent.



He said Prime Minister Sir Ou South Africa, he has opAbubakar Balewa impressed him posed nationalist racial policies more than any other African as mentioned whether it would leader he will meet.

Of Ghana, Chataway said there is enough evidence of authoritarian tendencies to cause concern, but it had to be remembered that this was a young country, perhaps unsuited to some of the typings of parliamentary democracy. Sometimes there seemed to be a despair at the sweeping gains against Ghana.

P.M. Steps Into Canada's Biggest Labor Dispute

Will Be Crucial Bid To Keep Trains Running

OTTAWA (CP) — With a national railway strike just one week away, Prime Minister Diefenbaker stens personally today into Canada's biggest labor scrap in a crucial bid to keep the trains running.

He has called both union and railway officials to Ottawa for an emergency round of talks aimed at heading off the threatened work stoppage of 111,000 railway employees across Canada—set for 8 a.m. regional Standard Time Saturday, December 3.

The 15 union "non-op" negotiating team headed by Frank Hall is to confer with the prime minister at 1 p.m. EST.

At 2 p.m. the prime minister is to meet CPR president N. R. Crump and CNR president Donald Gordon.

It can be prime minister will be Labor Minister Starr, Transport Minister Balcer and Postmaster-General Willard Hartleton—the ministers who tried unsuccessfully in Montreal last week to get the union leaders to accept the strike until after March next year.

DISCUSSES SERIOUSNESS

Phillips said Friday about the emergency conference, Mr. Diefenbaker said the meeting was "of such importance it would be catastrophic for the interests of the country as a whole."

Observers viewed his remark as a hint the government will not permit such a catastrophe to take place—that if it means legislation to keep the rail workers on their jobs.

The strike threat involves six railways, including the CPR and CNR, and almost all railway workers who do not directly handle trains. The "non-op" ranks include telegraphers and signalmen, without whom the railways would be paralyzed.

Other "non-op" jobs include clerks, freight handlers, maintenance, electricians, station employees, dining car stewards and porters.

Unconfirmed indications point to a part-time, part-time compromise offer based on the recommendations of a federal conciliation board headed by Mr. Justice J. V. H. Milvain of Calgary.

The report proposed a three-step increase aimed at preserving the relationship of "non-op" wages with the rise earned by workers in the durable goods industry. The increase was

Released on Bail

TORONTO (CP)—John Anthony Sala, 50, a Toronto aldermanic candidate, Friday was released on $10,000 bail pending a trial Dec. 20 on a charge of defrauding Toronto Hydro-Electric System of $50,000.

Sala's future was charged after Mr. Pivnick claimed he had paid $150 in July to a man who said he was a Hydro official to obtain an gain evidence for a divorce against his wife.

He said he learned later the investigator was not Hydro-employed.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Police Friday night recovered more than $2,000 worth of goods stolen in a downtown store this month. Two men have been arrested.

Huge, Colorful Grey Cup Parade Led Events Climaxed By Big Game

VANCOUVER (CP) — A huge parade, one of the biggest ever held in Canada, today led off the events to be climaxed by the Grey Cup game.

The 20th parade, set for 9:30 a.m. (12:30 p.m. EST), was to be loaded with floats, bands and pretty girls.

Taking an hour and 40 minutes to pass a given point, the parade is ing out for three miles, it had 125 units entered, including 2,500 persons.

Miss Grey Cup, Mary-Jo Powell, 19, of Edmonton, chosen Friday night, held the position of honor aboard an ugo Viking ship, its oars on either side propelled by four buxom blonde "Vikings".

The parade route, starting on midtown Georgia Street, was to take it through the heart of the city. Police estimated a crowd of 100,000 to 150,000 for the route in good weather. Bands from across Canada and the big game were represented among the entries, with one Ottawa booking up its eastern representative to march with a tulip-themed float and Edmonton having fun with the "tired old horse" tag that sports writers placed on the Eskimos before the game started.

Ottawa also had a group of 42 cheerleaders and majorettes, who arranged most of their own financing to get here Friday, marching as a unit. The Eskimos had a band of 50 riders and their palominos—the Edmonton sheriff's posse—putting on precision riding displays.

40 AMENDMENTS PASS QUICKLY IN NEW SESSION

Down Payments Lower, Loans Up

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons, trimming the frills but not the substance from its debates, achieved a possible record for legislative speed Friday when it passed the first major bulk of the current session.

Anxious to deal with the government's various anti - unemployment measures, the House marked its first full week in session by giving final approval to the new National Housing Act amendments. Liberal MPs said passage could have been speeded if Conservative backbenchers had not "filibustered."

The amendments lower down payments on NHA houses and provide long-term loans of up to 90 per cent of the cost of university student residences and up to two-thirds of the cost of municipal sewage projects). On the latter projects, Ottawa would write off one-quarter of loan amounts spent before March 31, 1963.

The Commons also is prepared to debate second reading—or approval in principle—next week of a bill that extends loans to small businesses for improvements and modernization of their equipment and premises.

START ON ANOTHER

In addition, the final half-hour of Friday's sitting saw Labor Minister Starr get a start on another bill—one increasing to 75 per cent from 50 per cent the amount of federal loans available to provinces for reconstruction of vocational training facilities.

Mr. Starr, speaking on the technical bill, briefly explained the introduction of the bill, said many MPs have been unemployed and have the skills required to get jobs. "Canada has never trained enough manpower to meet the needs of its industry," he said.

Vancouver Lets Down Hair In Grey Cup Final Whoopee

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ilt poured rain Friday night, but mal people stayed home to read a book or watch television.

But then, there didn't appear to be many normal people left in this city gone football-mad and thousands of them hooted and hollered and splashed through the liberal puddles in downtown Vancouver like kids with their first rubber boots.

It was Grey Cup eve in downtown Vancouver. Fans from Calgary, Edmonton, Winnipeg, Toronto and Ottawa were here to tell the world when they were cheering for in today's national football finals.

The weekend's major question was expected to be answered by about 4 p.m. PST (7 p.m. EST), by then Edmonton Eskimos and Ottawa Rough Riders, both of whom went to bed early, should have settled their argument over which is the best football team in Canada.

Kickoff time is 1:30 p.m. PST.

The forecast Friday night was for cloudy skies with showers continuing into the morning. The weatherman suggested he doesn't that the city would be between rain squalls at game time—the temperature predicted for game time was 40 degrees, with winds light and from the east.

Pre-game partying for fans got started as early as Tuesday. It seemed to be running behind normal Thursday night with only a handful of noisy ones in the city's downtown hotels.

But Friday afternoon, there could be no more doubt that things would be gay. With special parade and trains arriving virtually every hour, happy people in colorful outfits converged on the downtown area.

White 10-gallon hats appeared prominently in the thick of the hoopla. Others wore outfits ranging from silken ribbons in the colors of virtually every football team in the country—mainly the green and gold of Edmonton and the red, white and black of Ottawa—to cheerleaders' short skirts and clown costumes.

The parties were many and varied. In the lobby of the normally staid Hotel Vancouver, a pickup band staged an impromptu square dance.

Outside, a bubbler, short on talent but long on enthusiasm, led a parade of bobtailed revelers along one of the city's main drags.

Others used party-type noisemakers, blow horns or just plain hollers.

Queue's formed outside downtown clubs, bars and licensed restaurants as the revellers sought admission.

Police, with satellite headquarters established in the larger hotels and well-organized crews circulating through the downtown area, reported no big trouble so far.

"No one seemed to be looking for trouble—just fun.

Provincial Premiers Without Manning to Meet in Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — All 10 Canadian provinces will be represented at an interprovincial conference—the first since 1957—to be held in Quebec City Dec. 14.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker declined to attend or send a representative.

Provincial premiers, except Premier Manning of Alberta, will meet here for the two-day informal talks originally suggested by Premier Lesage of Quebec during the July federal-provincial conference in Ottawa.

Premier Manning, who will be in Ottawa for the Dec. 14 date by time of the meetings, has delcated one of his provincial ministers.

Mr. Lesage proposes the establishment of a permanent provincial governments, much like the Canadian Council of Governors in the United States.

The council would operate as a clearing house for information about taxation and legislative problems of the provinces.

"The council would permit discussion of issues of mutual interest to the provinces, separate from federal-provincial talks, but not directed against the federal government," Mr. Lesage said.

The meetings are to be closed to the public and the press. Mr. Lesage said the provinces will be breaking new grounds during the meeting and privacy of the talks was essential to the unrestrained expression of thoughts by the various premiers on the issues involved.

He said he would more at the trial.

UNEMPLOYMENT WILL BE TARGET FOR BIG DEBATE

Night Sitting For House Monday

TORONTO (CP) — Unemployment will be the target in the Ontario legislature Monday when opposition forces launch a full-scale attack against the policies of the Progressive Conservative government under Premier Frost.

Mr. Frost called a night sitting Monday so unemployment may be fully debated.

Both Liberal Leader Wintermeyer and CCF Leader MacDonald have indicated they will offer long-range plans to solve unemployment.

The government in the speech from the throne, read at the session's opening Tuesday, said it would enlarge its winter works programs, and strengthen the departments of economics, labor and development.

Both the Liberals and CCF will want the government to be more specific in its plans.

BUDGET EXPEDIENT

Friday, during the 90-minute sitting, Mr. Frost said the legislature would complete most of this session on matters of procedure.

But he promised early consideration of the select committee on hours of work, which members be limited in their speech-making.

"Members are not always professional speech makers and need more than a few minutes across," he said.

He replied to a suggestion by Kenneth Bryden (CCF—Woodbine) that the government issue Christmas bonuses for the last few days following Christmas Day and New Year's holidays.

Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender told the legislature there would be some further action taken as a result of a departmental investigation into the use of Easterner's financial affairs. He did not specify the nature of the action.

Mayor Phillips Did Not Be Expected Hit

TORONTO (CP) — Nathan Phillips, the self - styled "mayor of all the people," appeared to be one of the few people at a luncheon Thursday.

Mayor Phillips, arrived late at the luncheon of the Ontario Civil Service Association and, smiling broadly, began with, "Let's see, where's everybody in this?"

He grabbed a menu, read the name on the cover, and was greeted by a man who was standing. During the speech he attributed that he had just come from the Ontario Legislature conference luncheon in the same room.

"The Ontario government must be in pretty good shape if they can afford paying for two luncheons in one day," he said.

The laughter he expected didn't come. The audience had paid for their own lunch-eon.

THIEVES GET $11,000

MONTREAL (CP) — Thieves armed men Friday held up the head office of the Mercantile Bank of Canada on Beaver Hall near the Montreal financial district and escaped with an estimated $11,000.

To Stand Trial Without Bail

MONTREAL (CP) — Santos Colonna, 36, Friday was ordered to trial without bail on a charge of public mischief in the wrecking of a midtown Montreal night club.

Judge Omer Legrande said: "It is extraordinary that not one of the club employees saw anything or was aware of anything. The authorities did their duty but didn't succeed in enlightening the court on certain circumstances."

No date has yet been set for the trial.

Political Truce Brightens Hope For Congo Peace

Tshombe, Central Govt. Reach an Agreement

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — One of the most troublesome feuds of the bloc-ridden Congo—the secession of mineral-rich Katanga province—may be on the way to a solution.

An announcement from Elisabethville in Katanga Friday night said three leading ministers from the central government in Leopoldville had reached an agreement with Moise Tshombe, president of the breakaway province.

A communique said a two-hour meeting was held in a cordial atmosphere and resulted "in a perfect identity of views" on a program of action in the "internal affairs of the former Belgian Congo."

As a result, said one of the Katanga participants at the meeting, a roundtable conference on the future political structure of the Congo probably will be held in Elisabethville next month.

Tshombe set up Katanga as an independent state with his capital at Elisabethville in July 1960. The Congo got its independence from Belgium June 30 that year. In the action, he said, because Patrice Lumumba, then Congo premier, was using disruptive Communist tactics to create disorder throughout the new country.

RICH IN MINERALS

Katanga, with its riches of uranium, copper and other minerals, is the industrial heartland of The Congo and is the center of operations of a giant Belgian mining combine.

Congo President Joseph Kasavubu has sided with Tshombe against Lumumba and favors a decentralized federal government structure.

Kasavubu is under pressure from the Asian and African bloc contributing to the UN Congo force to suspend a UN conciliation commission seeking an agreement among all Congo elements —including Lumumba. At least seven of the 15 commission members favor Lumumba.

During a sojourn in Paris Friday Kasavubu said a roundtable conference, such as is envisaged in the Elisabethville agreement with Tshombe, would be a meeting of the Congo's 26 provinces. Other reports should include Lumumba and all anti-Leopoldville.

CROWNED TROOPS

Col. Joseph Mobutu, the Congo's army chief of staff, has crowned himself king of the Congo, at least being at least in putting a check on his troops who threatened to go on a rampage of revenge against UN personnel for the death of Lumumba, a second-in-command, Lt.-Col. Joseph Kokolo.

Mobutu was killed in a battle at the Ghana Embassy Monday when UN and Ghanaian troops were protecting Nath aniel Welbeck, ambassador to Ghana and a key charge d'affaires who had been ordered out of the country by Mobutu.

Canadian signalmen housed in the Ghana Embassy have been cautiously let their guard down around the quarters—ensuring the permission to return to their quarters and mess outside the UN HQ. C o a n d a n signalmen guards were maintained around the school building.

Troops and officers shed their firearms except while on guard duty and while traveling in the city.

Edmonton Dark-Haired Beauty Is Named Miss Grey Cup of 1960

VANCOUVER (C) — Mary-Jo Powell, 19, Edmonton beauty from Edmonton, is Miss Grey Cup of 1960.

Miss Edmonton Eskimos, she won over eight other entries in the contest, part of celebrations marking the Grey Cup football classic. Western gals have won the honor seven times in the last 10 years.

Mary-Jo, a five-foot-eight-girl, was to be seated on the "royal bench" at Empire Stadium today when her Eskimos meet the Ottawa Rough Riders for the cup.

She shrieked when the announcement was made Friday night at a dance attended by 4,000 persons but left little time composing herself for a flood of congratulations.

Leora (Lee) Oakenfold, 20, Miss Saskatchewan Roughrider, placed second and Patricia Little, Miss Sauve, 20,

Miner's Life Still Hanging In the Balance

TORONTO (CP) — Miner Alan Rose, 22, was in fair condition Friday night after a poor day at Toronto General Hospital.

Rose's life "still hangs in the balance," said Workmen's compensation board representative, Jack Hodgson, but the artificial kidney machine used earlier Friday was removed and Rose is now conscious and can expect to use the machine again if blood irregularities take effect.

Rescued Tuesday after being pinned for 60 hours beneath collapsed timbers in a gold mine shaft at Timmins, Rose took a serious turn for the worse Thursday and was flown here. A few hours later he was joined by his wife Shirley, 24, flown here with two - year-old son Mark from Manchester, England.

Alan came to Canada seven weeks ago after reading a newspaper advertisement for mine workers.

They were reunited for a half hour Thursday night. There were no tears, no kisses, no reproach.

Shirley asked about his legs and he told her once and was brought up from the Hollinger Gold Mine.

"They're numb - like," Rose said. "They feel like they're dangling."

"One's broke in two places and the other in one. I think that my kidneys are the worst. I don't know what's happened to them but they've come out."

Shirley reassured him: "The doctors take them out. They'll link you up to an artificial kidney that does the work and yours get going again."

Two More Clubs Lose Charters

TORONTO (CP)—Two more Toronto clubs have lost their provincial charters because of illegal gambling, Provincial Secretary Varcoe announced Friday.

Twenty clubs have had their charters cancelled this year for the same reason.

The Divion Club's charter was cancelled on two counts. Police showed the club was operating illegally having its head office in Toronto, but it operated through a Hamilton address.

The two members of the club were convicted of keeping common gaming house at the club and of being found in it.

Charter of the Jordan Chess and Bridge Club was cancelled because of illegal gambling recently of keeping a common betting house.

FBI Arrests Kidnapper Rich Sportsman

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A wealthy sportsman held 24 hours by kidnappers was reported under guard today as authorities sought a convicted murderer they said helped kidnap him.

Anthony Alessio, 41, was released unharmed after $200,000 ransom was paid his kidnappers. Alessio's family had been warned he would be killed if police were called.

FBI agents arrested a man and two women as Alessio's kidnapper and said another man still is being sought.

Agents recovered $77,000 of the $200,000 ransom paid for the release of Alessio, who with his six brothers operates the California race track at Tijuana, Mexico.

Ninety minutes after an unidentified man collected the ransom—one of the highest ever paid in the United States — the 210-pound Alessio was discovered handcuffed but unharmed in a San Diego motel.

Word of the kidnaping Tuesday night was kept quiet by the FBI and San Diego police until Friday night at first to protect the victim and then to prevent tipping their hand to the kidnappers. Alessio was freed late Wednesday night.

Arrested in Los Angeles soon afterward were Robert Kenneth Gorman, 39, an escapee from the men's prison at Chino, Calif., where he was serving five years to life for robbery; his wife, Ruby Elaine, 36; and Mrs. Selma Clark Marrone, 25, of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Marrone's husband, Frank M., a former bartender free on bond pending appeal of a conviction for murder in Alaska, is being sought.

Catholic Priest Facing Charge Of Abduction

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A country-wide search for a Phoenix hospital chaplain and a 17-year-old girl he is accused of abducting ended Friday in a shabby, two-room motel cabin in Phoenix.

Rev. Lawrence Dudink, 47, a Roman Catholic priest with a history of mental illness, and Rosalie Anne O'Connell were picked up after a Navy man spotted the chaplain's car in front of the cabin.

Authorities said the couple, missing since Nov. 8, had lived in Phoenix for about two weeks. The girl, a high school junior from Milan, refused to discuss her disappearance.

Father Dudink was pastor of St. Mary's Hospital in Superior, Wis., charged with kidnaping from the girl "by deceit." She was undergoing treatment for a nervous disorder at the hospital.

Edward Boyle, FBI agent, said the couple apparently were very close to the small, out-of-the-way motel. He said the chaplain left him he now low on money and planned to seek employment.

The priest cashed a check for in Flagstaff on the 15th," Boyle said, "and that's not him in Arizona. We had been spot-checking motels in Phoenix for several days."

Father Dudink was arraigned before a U.S. commissioner on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution and failed in bail of $5,000 bond. The girl, unharmed, was placed in the custody of juvenile authorities.

Superior authorities were expected to arrive today to return the priest to Wisconsin. The state's statute under which he is charged carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison.

Hypnosis Bill To Be Introduced

TORONTO (CP) — The hypnosis bill to be introduced in the Ontario legislature next week by Health Minister Dymond is expected to stop the misuse of hypnosis, both by the professional and the entertainment world.

The bill does not prohibit use of hypnosis by stage entertainers but Dr. Dymond said in an interview Friday that the proper public opinion will bring this about later.

The bill does, however, bar entertainers from using a person under 18 as the subject of hypnosis.

It would give medical and dental associations the power to discipline any member who uses hypnosis without first proving his competence.

"THE PRESENCE OF A DOCTOR IS THE FIRST PART OF A CURE"
*A French proverb (author unknown)

When using home remedies or patent medicines it is important to understand their benefits and limitations. Taken at the first sign of a headache, stomach-distress or muscular pain, etc., relief sometimes comes quickly from an uncomplicated condition.

But, if any of the symptoms return, then self-treatment though giving temporary relief, may be masking an accumulating problem that may eventually endanger your very life. To cure, a physician's diagnosis of the cause is essential. One should be consulted as soon as possible.

County Municipal Elections

Veteran of 14 years in Thurlow township council, four of them as reeve, Alfred T. Wickett has resigned from municipal politics and will not contest the reeveship this year.

Mr. Wickett announced his intention at yesterday's nominating meeting at Carrington which saw Harry Pound receive acclamation as reeve. Councillor Hall received acclamation as deputy reeve, but there is an outside possibility of a contest for council and for school trustees and for township public school areas.

In Sidney township Reeve Harleigh Hamilton received acclamation for another term of office, while Deputy Reeve Ross also acclaimed when one other nominee for the position, councillor Jack M. Bush, withdrew.

However, as is the case in Thurlow township, there is an outside possibility of an election for township council with four nominated for the three positions open.

All of this year's council were nominated: Alvin G. Hart, Jack D. Blair and Ernest J. Kelly, while the fourth nominee was Clarence Graham.

The nomination meeting was a quiet affair with only 31 ratepayers present when the proceedings were opened by Clerk Byron Hardier.

In Thurlow four of yesterday's nominees had their names qualified by early Saturday morning. They were incumbents Horace Young and Carl Thompson and Manley Mitchell and Stanley Bradshaw.

In the Centre Thurlow township school area, Dennis Julian and Gordon Martin received acclamation as did Gordon Ray and Norman Howard for the South Thurlow area board.

There is an outside chance for an election in the North Thurlow area with A. E. Stanley, Allin Goodrich, Jack Skelly and Garnet Denyes having been nominated. They have until sine o'clock this evening to qualify.

In Huntingdon township there will be a contest for the reeveship between incumbent Elmer Wilson and Russell 'Sills. For the four seats on council Ken-neth Holland, Goldie McInroy, Elmer Rollins, Don McFadden, Edward Fenning, Wesley Farrell and Roy Post have been nominated.

TWEED (Special) — There will be no election in either Tweed or Sungerford Township this December. All openings for township council offices have been filled by acclamation.

Reeve Douglas Spencer of Sungerford will begin his new term with a further 12-month term. Village councillors filling out the term will be Dr. A. G. Allen, Emerson Hodging, Guy Hughes and Gerald Thompson. Auditor Curry of the Tweed News, will continue as Sungerford Township auditor.

In Sidney township Reeve Harleigh Hamilton received acclamation for another term of office, while Deputy Reeve Ross also acclaimed when one other nominee for the position, councillor Jack M. Bush, withdrew.

Toronto invited onlookers to the game with a cosmic hayseed-type insert digging machine, carrying the label "Will dig you in Toronto in 1961" and pulling a rubber cat.

Also in the parads were the other eight contestants for the Miss Grey Cup title and some of Canada's brightest athletes of 1960—Vancouver's Harry Jerome, who tied the world record of 10 seconds in the 100-metre dash and the University of B.C. eight-oared crew which won the silver medal in the Rome Olympics.

Thirty-four bands also entered, including playing on the 15 minutes of its Tiger-Cats who missed the Eastern playoffs this year after three years as Big Four champions, and Ottawa Rough Riders, a barber's chair, put a mirror in its paw and bandages on its head. Its caption was "Getting groomed for '61."

ACT AMENDMENTS

Debate on the NHA amendments lasted about three days, with a flash of temper not too frequent but peppery sorties into the humorous.

Works Minister Walker said the $50,000,000 for CMHC for university residences will be reserved for 38 degree-granting institutions which operate under provincial or royal charters and which belong to the National Conference of Canadian Universities and Colleges.

Eligible are the institutions are: Universities of Toronto, Alberta, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Ottawa, Queen's, St. Michael's, Trinity, Victoria, Western Ontario, Ontario Agricultural College, Royal Military College, Waterloo Lutheran University, Assumption, Bishop's, Dalhousie, New Brunswick, Sir George Williams, Sherbrooke, Laval, Montreal, Ottawa, Ste. Marie, Loyola, McGill, Bishop's Theological College, Royal Military College of Science, Theological College of Canada (Methodist), Waterloo Lutheran Seminary and Wycliffe College.

Walker said that by "degrees granted" the government meant "rankest kind of discrimination" that non-university institutions had been eliminated.

CALLS IT "A LAUGH"

"Most disappointing," commented Douglas Fisher (CCF-Port Arthur). He said it was "a laugh" that Nelson Institute of Nova Scotia Agricultural College and St. Francis Xavier University, Charlottetown — which he didn't cognize—but excludes others with higher standards.

Mr. Fisher said that while Canada's future lay in the great centres of higher learning, "the Walker bill" was for small-time world grabbed off Canada Council grants and other aid. Smaller, younger institutions had a compassion money.

The government's loan limitations would lead to a rush of colleges to Mount Chevrier (now Mont-morency Laurier) to give the interlopers a wide berth instead of learning that now got the federal, capital grants—where the university of Montreal and Laval are.

The bill, which now goes to the Senate, also provides:

$150,000,000 in CMHC loans for municipal sewage - treatment or anti-pollution measures, covering up to two-thirds of the project cost at cabinet-pegged rates of interest for a maximum 50 years.

Government - guaranteed housing loans increased to $14,200 from $12,000 for three-bedroom dwellings with loan life extended to 35 years from the present 25 and 30.

An increase to $50,000,000 from $25,000,000 in the funds available to assist municipalities with urban development and increases to $500,000,000 from $300,000,000 in the funds available for mortgage improvement loans; power for CMHC to co-operate with provinces and municipalities to acquire existing buildings as public housing.

In another Commons development Friday, Finance Minister Fleming repeated an earlier warning that if the six Common Market countries go ahead with draw tariff concessions granted to Canada individually, Canada will no longer consider itself bound against increasing tariffs against goods entering Canada from the six European nations.

Dist. Governor Commends Local Lions Club

TRENTON — District Governor James Clarke of Campbellford was the guest speaker at Thursday night's meeting of the Lions Club.

Mr. Clarke outlined the publicity and work performed by the 800,000 Lions in some 190 countries. He reminded his listeners that the club's motto was "We Serve" and said that the club was the largest service club in the world.

He touched on the past performance in the field of service of the Trenton club. He commended the members for their record in work with blind children, the new area and in their eye-saving work. Larimember the local club provided new eye-testing machine which was used in the town's school. More than 2,500 students were tested with this machine, which eliminates guess work on the part of the teacher or the school nurse. Over 100 pairs of free glasses and eye operations followed.

The district governor told the club that the Lions of District 44 had raised $50,000 to date, $9,000 for CARE parcels, by which Canadians in all parts of the countries are sent to children in the war - stricken countries. Thousands of pairs of glasses have been collected and sent to India and other countries.

Mr. Clarke was introduced by Lion Ken Hall, who presented and thanked by past - president Lion Ralph Wright.

The members were reminded that a new newspaper bingo will start shortly. Those interested in this way make possible the donation of the cost of a wheel chair for the town's second addition to Trenton Memorial Hospital.

The Lions Children's Party will be held again this year in Canterbury Hall on Dec. 13. Mrs. Vincent Hesley, convener, tells us the highlight of the party.

The club has borrowed a "float" from Havelock for the Santa Claus Parade, Dec. 10. The train includes an engine and three cabooses, holding from the smoke stack, box cars and a caboose.

Aziz Defends Nickel Parking On Main Streets

TRENTON — Councillor Howard Aziz, speaking to the Kiwanis Club Thursday night, defended the decision of the parking committee to charge five cents a half hour for main street parking. He said the parking meters were for the convenience of the public and that the parking areas in the town and that those who objected take advantage of a lower charge or the free one hour charge at mall and park for hours in one place.

Mr. Aziz outlined the work done during the year by the parking committee, the parking boards, the Recreation and Community Services Committee.

With further expansion in the parking facilities in the town he said that the annual cost realized from parking meters in the past has been around $18,000. With the advent of the new "Meter Maid," Mrs. Freda McGillivray, to the town's municipal employees, the committee expects to collect more than $30,000 next year.

TRENTON — Six candidates had qualified for three council seats on council by 5 p.m. Friday. Ten persons had signified that they would consent for the eight seats on the Board of Education and the two people nominated to run for one post-position on the Public Utilities Commission had qualified.

Running for council in the December 8th election will be incumbents H. G. Aziz, D. R. Fraser and R. J. (Dick) Whitley, and newcomers ex-councillor Lloyd Worrell, ex-mayor Ross Burtt and Ed Todd.

For Board of Education: T. S. McCoomb, Clarence Tripp, George Greer and L. G. Phinney, all members of last year's board and newcomers Mrs. Gabrielle Griffin, Louis Knack, James Bowen, Mrs. Phyllis Todd and Gerald Farrar, Donald J. Sutherland.

For Public Utilities Commission: Albert C. Atkinson, 1969 Kelford and Charles Milton.

Candidates will address the assembly and spectators may ask questions of the candidate following his address. The questions must be submitted to Clerk O. W. Larry, who will chair the meeting, but not moderate. The meeting will be broadcast.

Gardens' problems, he said that while it was a problem with those who referred to the building as a "white elephant," he was worried by the fact that it seemed next to impossible to think of any scheme whereby the Gardens could be made to pay its way."

Mr. Aziz outlined the work done by the Recreation Committee, which comes under his jurisdiction as councillor. Among the many activities sponsored by the committee are swimming classes, the Girls' Basketball Club, the Small Fry Stamp Club and playground activities.

Mr. Aziz commended the members of the Library Board for their initiative in the year's work. He made special reference to Mrs. Gertrude Miller, board, James Cox.

Outdoor Market On Outskirts Of City Mooted

There is talk among some district farmers of opening an outdoor market on the outskirts of the city because of parking problems on the market square.

Farmers who favor the idea appreciate the necessity of keeping traffic moving on Macannany and Market streets but, nevertheless, feel this cuts down on their business. The problem is small during the winter and spring but great in the summer and early fall when crowds pack the market square to make purchases from the new harvest.

"If we could have an open-air market on the outskirts of the city we could have plenty of parking space," said one farmer. "This problem is not as great for farmers who live within about 10 miles of Belleville, but it is quite serious to those who come greater distances relying on the trade in the city."

Five farmers were selling produce on the market today. Prices in general were unchanged. Extra fine eggs sold at 65 cents a dozen, large 60, medium 53, and small 45 cents; potatoes, 50 cents a basket or $2.25 a bushel.

Stewing chickens were 40 cents a pound, while roasters were offered at 50.

In the fruit selection, Fancy Spies were $3.50 a hamper, Grade Spies and Sweets 50, delicious 90 cents a bushel, Greenings $2.50 a basket, Macs and Spies by the basket, 85 cents.

Housing Demand Declines But Mortgage Money Plentiful

TORONTO (CP) — Decline in demand, rather than any scarcity of mortgage money, has been responsible for the increase in the house building this year, H. E. Langford, president of Chartered Trust Company, said Friday at the Ontario Industrial Development Conference.

Shortage of mortgage money "led to a shortage," he stated, but there had also been a disturbing trend in the sales of new houses between September, 1958, and September this year.

Completed but unsold houses in Canada had increased by 25 per cent, and the time between completion and sale also had increased. The number of vacant houses was not in itself alarming, he said, but the trend called for careful study. It was increasing, and this had caused a cutback in demand for mortgages.

Provisions of the proposed National Housing Act would not "foolishly stimulate housing," but great care should be taken a year from now, when there may would be applied, he told the conference, which ended Friday.

Mr. Langford said: "The colorful experience of all Canadian communities in the mortgage field has been extremely good, with only a few exceptions. The mortgage capital field is the best shape it has ever been in, and I am not going to worry on the score of providing money for new housing. We are sound in 1961 as they have been this year."

During discussion, several speakers urged a program which would help smaller and medium-size communities the growth that has been enjoyed by Toronto and other southern areas of the province.

Mayor W. A. Davey of Port Elgin said it is unfair that some areas should be "left out in the cold" while municipalities in the "hinterland" prosper.

"In Port Elgin, we have all the facilities for industry, but we are still waiting. North of a certain line, there just isn't money for development."

Alderman L. D. Callahan of Sault Ste. Marie, said his city could undertake $25,000,000 worth of needed projects. If it weren't for the "financial bondage" in which municipalities operate.

"Why should citizens of these communities have to wait for things necessary for the public good? We have the materials and the people to do the work."

T. A. Perkins, jr., of Perkins Bulkeley, president of the Ontario Regional Development Council—and the development councils had brought "a new spirit among the people," but he also urged more balanced provincial growth.

"Toronto will only grow strong as the municipalities grow strong and provide what is needed confined to 'a few giants,'" he said.

Mr. Perkins dought the lending institutions were partly to blame for the situation. "They can lend their money in the larger areas and are not too interested in going out to look at the small towns."

Mr. Perkins said the development councils, divided into seven regions and 3 subdivided into zones, now covered 98 per cent of Ontario. Since their establishment six years ago, 72 industries had come to Eastern Ontario alone.

DISCUSSES EXPORT COSTS

A. Wellington Wilson, vice-president of Aerial Steels Ltd., Welland — a company which has four subsidiary sales companies overseas but and several sales engineers in other countries—discussed export costs in industrial products, and concluded that there is little incentive to manufacturers to add to their facilities for export.

He gave the following description of required action by Canada:

"Agreement by government, management and labor that we want full employment badly enough to sacrifice our self-interests for it; agreement that we are willing to work together in a private-enterprise economy to provide a long-term climate in Canada that will encourage industrial expansion; agreement and action to implement an overall plan to make the medical profession to fight accidental poisoning of children from salicylate—one of the main ingredients of many headache tablets and other "pain killers." Dr. John U. Crichton and Dr. G. B. Elliott urged the action in an article dealing with 41 cases of salicylate poisoning in children.

Debbie Reynolds Becomes Bride Of Shoe Magnate

By JAMES BACON

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Debbie Reynolds, 26, who waited her two children by Eddie Fisher to have a family Christmas, wed multi-millionaire shoe tycoon Harry Karl, 46, Friday night.

The wedding — Karl's fourth — was no surprise. Debbie hurried home from a day of film-making, slipped into a wedding dress, and was married at a friend's home.

Monday she will be back before the cameras.

"We decided a few days ago to get married now," said the bride, "so the children can have a real family Christmas."

The honeymoon will be delayed until January when the couple will visit Miami and The Bahamas.

"But the honeymoon starts tonight," the actress told reporters. The couple left in Karl's $75,000 Rolls Royce for an undisclosed destination — presumably Karl's Palm Springs home.

Actor Tom Ewell and Debbie will move into the house she has occupied with Fisher before his departure and subsequent divorce action. Karl owns the $450,000 Beverly Hills home because it is "too big for one and too small enough for a bride with two small children."

Rev. John Wells, pastor of the non-denominational Little Brown Church of the San Fernando Valley, performed the double-ring ceremony in the bower of yellow and white flowers in the living room of Karl's home.

Debbie's ring was, as she put it, "not too well-to, but well, in moods." She wore an ankle-length, pale blue wedding dress with a silk chiffon lace.

Only relatives and close friends attended the simple, private rites.

New President

TWEED — The annual meeting of the Hungerford Township Conservative Association was held the evening of November 19th, in the Tweed municipal council chambers.

Mr. Harold Varty president presided in the chair. After a discussion Mr. Varty called for an election of officers and in his remarks he expressed the opinion that "it was time for new blood" in the organization as he had held the position for many years and asked to be relieved of his duties. Mr. Arthur Bates of Roslin was elected the new president and Mr. William "BUD" Brush was re-elected secretary-treasurer of the organization for another term.

NATO Secretary Urges Nuclear Force, U.S. to Make Major Move

PARIS (Reuter)—NATO Secretary-General Paul-Henri Spaak today urged a NATO nuclear force and the United States will make a major move to form it soon.

He spoke to 200 legislators from NATO countries before they went into closed session after he approved a key resolution urging the North Atlantic Treaty Organization over the nuclear weapons delivery systems and their users.

The legislators also called for the creation of a small NATO "brigade" with nuclear potential which would be rushed by air to danger areas.

In the economic field, the conference approved increased trade and assistance to underdeveloped countries, formation of a study institute in Western Europe and creation of a new 20-country organization to replace the Organization for European Economic Co-operation.

TO BE LAUNCHED SOON

The new body, embracing the United States and Canada as well as their European partners of OEEC, is due to come into being next month.

Spaak, just back from high-level talks in Washington, made the windup speech at a three-day conference.

"We are on the threshold of a very important event," he said. "The United States will shortly make a statement on this subject.

"I am for a NATO nuclear force. It would be most constructive and audacious. . . .

"The nuclear NATO deterrent would help make war unlikely because of fears by both East and West that nuclear warfare would end civilization.

NEED A GOOD WAR

Soviet Premier Khrushchev says we need a nuclear war to all costs," Spaak said.

He warned that the West must meet Russia's challenges pointing to Russian offers to purchase Canadian and Greek tobacco and dried raisins.

"Refusing purchase such crops at prices which upset the normal rules of the market," Spaak said.

The meeting's advisory decisions are not binding on NATO governments.

Louis Fortin, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Montmagny-L'Islet and a member of the Canadian delegation, strongly supported the nuclear "fire brigade" idea.

Manufacturers "Delighted" With New Plan

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Manufacturers' Association said today it is "delighted" with a federal government plan to help finance Canadian exports.

J. C. Whitelaw, CMA general manager, said the proposal announced by Trade Minister Hees is being studied.

"We are delighted with the proposal and assume that financial impediments are being removed and that credit will be available for export transactions even in terms of 'light' money," Mr. Whitelaw said.

He added, however, the CMA would like to be assured on these three points in question:

1. That some means have been found to provide financing at lower cost than would appear if exporters were to export credits insurance premium and interest charged bank interest rates;

2. "That the duration and other terms of credit will not be handstrung by the Berne convention which binds export credit insurers but not financing institutions," Mr. Whitelaw said;

3. "That the new procedure will provide for a minimum delay on sales on a basis which will not encumber the manufacturer-to-project's domestic credit."

At Montreal, R. D. L. Kinsman, president of the Canadian Exporters' Association, said the program "is a splendid step in the right direction." He added that the CEA would like to see that his first reaction is that it is very good and welcome."

Price of Foreign Cars May Rise

TORONTO (CP) — Executive of foreign car companies said Friday the price of imported cars may rise when the federal government's new duty valuation on foreign cars takes effect Dec. 1.

C. J. Galer, managing director of Rootes Motors (Canada) Ltd., said the increase on a car costing $2,000 will be about $175.

R. L. Baffield, vice-president and general manager of British Motors Corporation, said his company wasn't arrived at a final figure yet."

A salesman for Volkswagen Canada Ltd., whose car now sells for $1,595, said the increase may be around $100.

Paul K. Sullivan, merchandising manager of American Motors (Canada) Ltd., felt his company may be leaving itself open to dumping charges because it has not made the new increase, until its new plant at Brampton goes into production in January.

New Alternator Is a Boon to Winter Drivers

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Prospective car buyers are always attracted by new model improvements which are truly beneficial to driving pleasure and economy. The new alternator, furnished on all '61 models of the car maker, is a typical feature of interest and advantage.

The alternator replaces the conventional type generator and performs the same general function. It differs, however, in one very important respect. It will continue to charge or deliver current when the engine is idling, whereas the generator does not. Thus, the alternator does a better job of preserving battery strength.

This can be especially vital during winter. If you haven't experienced it, you probably have seen cars caught in heavy traffic during a snowfall, several of them stalled with dead batteries. This happens because the drain on the battery is great when wipers, heater, defroster and perhaps lights are in use and engine is idling. Current drawn from the battery is not being replaced by the generator.

K. R. sake: "Do all gasolines have some kind of additive which helps prevent engine knock?"

(A) They contain additives which prevent knock, such as tetrapet, anti-carbon, anti-freeze and corrosion additives.

B. M. writes: "Car tires get smaller but not cheaper, so why don't we get larger, more comfortable tires instead of the doughnut sizes they now put on cars?"

(A) Smaller wheels and tires were adopted for traction, stability and economy reasons rather than for economy. However, you may be pleased to learn that a few 1961 cars have gone to 15-inch tires.

From L. T.: "Why warn car owners against servicing and their own carburetors? Some of us are fairly skilled mechanics."

(A) Undoubtedly true, but the average car owner is not. Even carburetor idling mixture and idle speed adustments are critical enough to require a professional know-how.

Pressures May Slowly Force United States to Yield Ground

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Economic, military and political pressures are slowly forcing the United States to yield ground on her long-held policy of maintaining exclusive control over nuclear warheads.

A well-informed state department source predicts that a far-reaching change in American policy, which would establish a North Atlantic nuclear striking force under a NATO commander, may come within a year.

A lot will depend, of course, on whether President-elect Kennedy accepts the views of current state and defence department policy advisers who have come to the conclusion that a NATO-controlled nuclear force is both desirable and inevitable.

Agreement that the 15-country NATO should be armed with a separate nuclear power is reflected in the present U.S. long-range planning proposals for the alliance. This coincides with views of American NATO commander, Gen. Lauris Norstad, NATO supreme commander.

Informants say Kennedy's advisers will be consulted on whether these long - range plans should be submitted at the NATO ministerial meeting in Paris next month or whether they should be held over until the spring meeting.

MAY BE FORCED TO MOVE

Existing circumstances could be decisive force Kennedy to fall in line with present thinking. Political pressure and gold reserves may force the United States to cut the size of military manpower in Europe as an economy measure. This could have a devastating impact on Western morale unless the move is balanced by an increase in NATO nuclear strength.

The United States also wants to discourage the spread of nuclear manufacturing. The German government has given assurances that it will not produce her own stringent nuclear controls.

Along with these considerations, the United States is being constantly subjected to pressures from her allies for a greater greater access to American nuclear warheads.

The reasons for the Eisenhower administration has been that American legislation states that control over American nuclear weapons must remain under the exclusive jurisdiction of American forces. Some governmental technicians maintain the legislation is open to interpretation which could lead to a change in policy without legislative action.

President Eisenhower didn't attempt to challenge the Democratic - controlled congress on that point. The Democrats are still in control and, with a man of their own party in the White House, they may be less inclined to haggle over an administrative decision in the sensitive field of foreign relations than they have been in the past.

Minor Hockey

Browns, Bruins, Barons, Saints and Canadiens clashed top victories in the Preewee section of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association this morning.

Bob Parsons paced the Browns to a 3-0 win over the Red Wings. Parsons scored two of the goals and assisted on the other, scored by G. Goodfellow. Jim Hogle got the other assist.

The Canadiens squeezed out a tight 2-1 decision over the Maple Leafs. Scoring for the Habs was Ian Lambert. Jim McKenzie and David Clarke had the Hab goals, one assisted by Jim Hammond.

Barons blanked the Black Hawks 4-0 with Jim Hammond putting two goals, both assisted by Ivy Hoigle. Steve Anderson and Ron Brooks added a goal each.

Rangers edged Quinte by 2-1 score. Dennis Hammond and Mike Smith had a goal and assist each for the blueshirts. Doug Mason also scored. Jim Jarvis, goal for Quinte, scored. Quinte goals and Bill Naylor drew an assist.

Bruins registered a 4-0 decision over the Maple Leafs. The scorers were Bruce Hammond, Wayne McTaggart, Don Hannah, Frank Noble and Ross McDougall.

Nuclear Weapons For Armed Forces Long Way Off

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — In one way, it can be said that Prime Minister Diefenbaker is renouncing nuclear weapons for Canada's armed forces.

The prime minister told the Canadian Club here Thursday that if the government has to decide whether to acquire nuclear weapons "we shall not consider (them) until we have equality in control, joint control over them."

But equality of control is impossible under present United States law. American nuclear weapons have to remain in the custody of U.S. forces and can be fired only on authority of an American president.

This law be changed but there is no firm indication of that at present.

DEFENCE OFFICIALS GLUM

The Canadian defence department is dismayed at the government's apparently growing aversion to nuclear weapons because it feels that a nuclear warhead is required for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile to make the weapon effective.

The department has constantly emphasized that a nuclear armed Bomarc would be a defensive, weapon only. It would be fired only if North America were under heavy attack.

The government's dilemma can be summed up this way: It can't very well decide to obtain nuclear weapons while it is preaching disarmament and expressing concern about possible proliferation of nuclear weapons to countries which now don't have them.

Certainly the administration has backed away from its plan, announced in the Commons Feb. 20, 1959, to obtain nuclear weapons from the U.S.

DOCTORS URGE FIGHT

TORONTO (CP) — Two Calgary doctors, in an article in the current issue of the Canadian Medical Association Journal, urge the government, drug manufacturers and the medical profession to fight accidental poisoning of children from salicylate—one of the main ingredients of many headache tablets and other "pain killers." Dr. John U. Crichton and Dr. G. B. Elliott urged the action in an article dealing with 41 cases of salicylate poisoning in children.

Masterly Move or Gamble?

President Charles de Gaulle, seeking a way out of the Algerian impasse, may have come up with a masterly move in his decision to hold a referendum in January, not in Algeria alone but in France itself as well.

This referendum will be the first of two—the other one is to be held in Algeria alone after hostilities cease.

By widening the scope of the first referendum to include not only the residents of Algeria but Frenchmen in the homeland, de Gaulle appears to be gambling—he seems to be hoping that Frenchmen at home have become thoroughly sick of the continuing drain on their financial resources and young man-power imposed by the years of insurrection in Algeria. If he is right, he will get from France itself that backing which he will require if he is to have even the slimmest chance of convincing the colonists in Algeria that the only hope for peace is to permit all Algerians to vote on the country's future.

On the other hand, should the rightists be able to roll up an impressive vote against ever permitting Algeria to be severed from France, a split appear that all de Gaulle's efforts would be doomed to failure. Certain of backing from France itself, the colons would never accept peacefully the result of any second referendum which severed Algeria from France. As for the rebels, one could hardly expect them to agree to a referendum in which they were certain to lose, if not to ballots on voting day then to bullets afterwards.

De Gaulle, however, is a shrewd judge of his countrymen. It may be that what to some may appear a gamble or at best a calculated risk is, in his mind, certain to prove that he speaks for the great majority of Frenchmen in his call to them to support him and those who oppose him, whether of the right or of the left, are only noisy minorities.

The Sensitive Otto Eichmann

Adolf Otto Eichmann, in his memoirs being published in Life magazine, says that, at heart, "I am a very sensitive man."

The strange thing is that he is probably correct if one is to judge him by his words as well as by his deeds.

Both his deeds and his words indicate that he was not so sensitive as to shrink from herding millions of humans to the slaughter house.

Yet he says that he would have been "not only a scoundrel but a despicable pig" if he had sabotaged an order of his fuehrer.

Evidently he was too "sensitive" to do that and this "sensitivity" may not have been merely for his own hide, but may have been influenced, too, by something which he considered his honor.

Eichmann is being painted as a criminal without parallel in history. Unfortunately this is not so.

There are other twentieth century men in past ages who slaughtered and tortured for what they honestly believed to be good causes, burning heretics, putting infidel children to the sword, subjugating savages.

Eichmann is just the latest of this breed. Let us hope that he is the last.

There is nothing more soul-shocking than the fanatic's ability to find justification for any crime, if it is committed in the interest of the cause in which he believes.

Deepening the Mystery

Some explanations just deepen mysteries. Two Quebec City botanists have found an Arctic plant growing near Notre Dame de Rosaire, a South Shore community across the St. Lawrence from Quebec City. The Canadian Press reports that the plant was found "on a rocky hill dampened by extremely cold spring water." So much for regard the presence of cold water as an adequate explanation for the growth of the plant might have difficulty in explaining how this member of the primrose family arrived at this location in the first place. Has it survived here since the last Ice Age? And, if not, by what strange method was its seed transported from the Arctic to this one area where it could find a suitable habitat? Perhaps botanists can answer that riddle. The layman can only find his wonder deepened by the discovery of Arctic flora near a cold spring so far south of the polar region.

THE GLORIOUS FIGURE

Christianity turned the word last alike—recorded him first "servant" from a despised term place among the untold billions to a term of glory. Men to high that they have ever lived.
station in life today take pride We can say that this was all in referring to themselves as part of God's plan, and in sayservants. Felix Frisio in ancient ing this we would be right. But times did not include servants there is more to say. Jesus is among the citizens of his royal not content to being the Divine Son commonwealth. It was none other of God, we also the Son of Man. than Jesus who lifted up this In fact, he most often referred word "servant" from the dust and set it as a precious jewel in the crown of humanity.

How could one man have done this? Every Christian believer wonders about this at times. Jesus was born in a remote corner of the world, in a little village. He never wrote a book. He held no position of trust in society or government. He lived and died by yearning. Yet the world—Christian and non-Christ- to be.

Miracles of the Universe
Einstein and Light

By HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Ontario Minister of Energy Resources

ARTICLE 36

One important concept to a layman that he must grasp before he can understand relativity, is that nothing in the universe is standing still. All matter is in constant motion. Everybody in this universe, planets, stars, galaxies, meteors and comets are in constant motion. Nothing is at rest.

In that everything is moving, what can we use as a measurement of speed? How do we find out how fast something is "really and truly" going?

The answer is you cannot tell in this universe how fast anything is "really and truly" going.

In that everything is moving, there is nothing standing still — and since there is nothing standing still, we can never know how fast above zero we are travelling. There is no zero.

A second important concept for the layman to grasp deals with the speed of light. Then, we will return to put motion and light together and, presto, before you will understand Einstein's theory of relativity.

When you see a jet plane swish across the sky, you may think to yourself that it is going at 1,000 mph. (or even 2200 mph). Is pretty fast. But 1,000 miles per hour is nothing to a means peanuts as far as speed is concerned. We think that 60 miles move slowly — and they do. So do jet planes in relation to the speed of light. Light travels so fast that it could circle the earth 7 times in one second.

Nothing in the universe travels as fast as light. (Why? This is one of Einstein's predictions I mentioned in a preceding article and which we shall discuss in succeeding articles).

NOT ABSOLUTE LIMIT

Incidentally some scientists have insisted with me that Einstein did not set this absolute limit of speed for all time, for ever and ever. That is the universe. Professor James Coleman, an eminent American Physicist, says that he could assert this speed maximum, and in addition, Einstein reasserts it for himself. (Einstein reviewed Coleman's book on relativity and commended it.) It strikes me that the review by Einstein might have been a propitious moment for Einstein to have disassociated himself from something he said to have said, if he did not say it.

When you turn on a light bulb light leaves the bulb and travels out in all directions towards anything which will stop it.

You think that you see the light illuminating the room in the bulb. Actually you do not. It takes time for light to travel from the bulb to your eye. But light travels so fast that if you flick on the light bulb you do not have to wait for it to arrive. It is, to all intents, a switching on the light and seeing the light, are simultaneous. Actually, these two events are not really simultaneous. Herein lies a foundation stone of Einstein's theory of relativity.

The earth has to wait for the light from the Sun to arrive. The earth is 93,000,000 miles from the Sun and it takes light eight minutes to get from the Sun to earth.

The star closest to the Sun is called Alpha Centauri. Light travels so fast that it takes four years to reach the earth after leaving the star called Alpha Centauri. The galaxy closest to our galaxy is called Andromeda. Light starting out from that galaxy takes 1,500,000 years to reach our earth.

A LIGHT-YEAR

A light travels 670,000,000 miles an hour, or six trillion miles (6,000 billion). So, in order that science describes the number of miles that light will travel in one year as a "light-year". Distances in the universe are measured in light-years because the distances are too immense to measure in miles (it takes too many zeros). Actually these strifles do use "miles"—and not "light-years" because it is difficult for a layman to quickly convert a light-year to miles.

How do we know how fast light travels? It has been measured many times by very sophisticated instruments!

Light was thought to travel from a star to our eyesight by what was called a stone into a calm pool of water and waves set up to out from the point of impact in a circle. Water holds up the waves — but if light travels by waves — through what medium do the light waves travel?

It was the arguments as to the medium through which light waves travelled, that really gave rise to Einstein's Theory of Relativity.

It is known that sound travels by waves, but sound will not travel in a vacuum. It needs a medium — usually the atmosphere. On the moon, there is no atmosphere, so if someone beside you spoke, you would not hear him (or her).

It was believed before Einstein that light had to have a medium through which to travel, like sound. It was also thought that there was a vacuum in space. "Ether" was invented by science to explain how although outer space is filled and, therefore, "Ether" became the medium through which light waves could be supported and through which light waves would travel. But having invented "Ether", Einstein was unable to prove that it existed.

DEVELOPED THEORY

Many experiments were carried out to try to prove the existence or non-existence of "Ether". However, none of these experiments proved the existence or non-existence. Therefore, Einstein was faced with a dilemma of how to explain how light travelled.

At this stage, Einstein came upon the scene and said: "You can't prove that anything whether "Ether" exists or whether it does not exist because or relativity."

Einstein, therefore, produced his theory of Relativity in 1905 in support his point and so doing made certain predictions which are hard for us to believe, but, nevertheless, which have been established.

In the next article we shall put the fact that "everything is relative" to the test of "Ether" etc., together with "the speed of light" and we will have a simple glimpse of Einstein's Special Theory or Relativity of 1905.

To be continued.

Letters To The Editor

Urges Parking Ban During Rush Hours

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Sir: I would like to take this opportunity of congratulating our city's traffic committee on the efficient planning and operation of the new one-way street plan. It doubles the speed of traffic flow on our north and south arteries and is truly commendable.

There is just altogether an unmixed blessing however, as my husband has discovered. His daily work is west and east on Bridge Street. During the rush hour, traffic is bumper to bumper from lanes on Front Street into one lane on Bridge Street and the connection between Front and Pinnacle. This situation is quite bad every evening between 5.15 p.m. and 5.45 p.m. One evening in particular, I found that it took almost 30 minutes to drive from the foot of the hill on Bridge Street West to the Hotel Quinte.

I would suggest that to alleviate this situation, all parking on the south side of Bridge Street between Front and Pinnacle be prohibited during rush hours and that this restriction be rigidly enforced. This would free another traffic lane for eastbound vehicles and thereby relieve the congestion.

Radar Reflector Report Is Corrected

Editor,
Ontario-Intelligencer.

Your article Civilian Search-and-Rescue Radar Reflector at Trenton RCAF which appeared in the issue on November 4 was very much appreciated. However, there were a couple of points which I feel should be made.

Firstly, in regards to the radar reflector mentioned in the article, I was quoted as saying that it was detected at 100 miles by radar at a distance of a mile and a half or so when held up ten feet above the water. This should have read thirty six to forty miles from the water, as ten feet would be the maximum height the average yacht would be able to display such a reflector. This is due to the curvature of the earth, various heights and distances, and the results will be made known to yacht owners and Power Squadron members.

Television, Good or Evil

Editor's Note: The following editorial appeared in Health Magazine, official publication of the Health League of Canada.

Much has been said in magazines, on television panels and elsewhere about the effects of television programs on the youthful mind, and there is no doubt that since television penetrates or intrudes itself into the living rooms of most North American homes, it can be a great force for good or evil. It is far more this fact is merely to prove present guilty of irresponsibility.

When one sits in a single night through four successive westerns, replete with gunplay, hangings and murders, for adults it is merely a matter of a couple or hours wasted which could have been used for more advantageous reading a good book or doing something to advance the interest of the community. A continuous diet of this television drivel does little to small-horse the intellectual indolence which is too often characteristic of the human when not under modern society.

But when children are exposed to a continuous glorification of violence, exaggeration and gunplay, it becomes a serious matter; and vice, even worse than violence sometimes come to a bad end, too often men may come to be regarded as commonplace as to be considered of little significence one way or the other.

One may share with Alexander Pope the observation that it may be, indeed, first endured, then pitied, then embraced — at least by some whose mental stability is less than it ought to be. How is one to protect from the chaff, the junk from the useful in television programs is indeed a serious problem.

It is considered very smart to show children's reactions to these programs, but is a silly or dangerous thing to do, because there is a responsibility on some fellow adult to see that these silly bad programs are not foisted on the public. After all, parents are not supposed to have the wisdom of a Solon. The moving picture industry and television, perhaps. It seemed to be a useful device in the motion picture industry some years ago and since the motion picture industry only acted when forced to act by public opinion, we may it be in this television. The cynical action of some television specialists toward the question may well call for public attention to a problem which needs constructive action.

HOW TO INTRODUCE SOLID FOODS TO A BABY

Sometimes it helps to keep the baby well out of sight until a spoonful or so of the baby food has been eaten. (But don't make an issue of it. Your goal isn't to force your child to eat solid food but to get those feedings your goal is to help her make the easy and natural transition to solid foods.

And illness don't sell Nature the time she's busy. Other ways to let baby "eat what she wants", that's exactly what he means. Because babies, not having had their accurate little appetites distorted by a lot of adult foolishness, will tend to eat what they need — neither more nor less.

Don't, I adjure you, worry about feeding baby for her because in this case she isn't eating any solid foods so you say!

And as to "under-feeding" you don't worry about that, either. If she is getting too little she will be hungry — and she'll be hungry enough at feeding time to take aboard a helping of the solid food she needs and relish it.

Don't put on a "basic" schedule or how much of this, that, and the other you "should" feed baby during these times. First find an easy-going, calm way of feeding baby and how much foods. After that, Nature will guide things very well.

It has to say this, Mrs. G. F., but you are taking the job of motherhood a little too seriously. Take it easy.

He always took time from the multiple duties and travels to write simpler inspirational letters to his young family. And often with humorous illustrations.

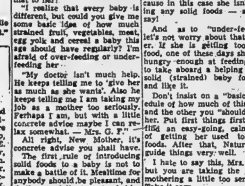
THE PACKSACK

BY GREGORY CLARK



A few days ago I had occasion to drive eighty miles over the route I had not travelled for forty years. But forty years ago there was no highway. I went instead of being gravel, hardly a road, through forest, cedar swamp; for I had a lease on a trout stream. I was young then. I drew me every weekend over the familiar ground.

With some emotion I prepared to drive those eighty miles over my youthful days. But except for the fact that the later twenty miles of the road is now paved instead of being gravel, hardly changed.

The village of Tweed, for example, is no different from what it was forty years ago. Since the motor car has come into general use the village still had a quiet and familiar look.

The fields, the farms were so little changed that I had to search memory for some small detail of alteration. The streams were crossed were smaller, muddier, more clogged with logs and had been heaved into them off the bridges than were there forty years ago, but the general impression was one of astonishment that in forty years what little the change was.

We change only is isolated spots like big cities and towns.

A Lift for Living

Putting to Use What We Have

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

In the twelfth chapter of Proverbs is this bit of wisdom: "The slothful man roasteth not that which he took in hunting, but the precious substance of man is to be diligent." This calls to my mind a hunting camp.

Most men are fond of hunting. In fact there is such a thrill in the chase that even a lazy man likes to hunt. But the dressing and roasting of the animals caught is not so engaging. Hence the sportsman, having made his kill or catch, leaves the drudgery to the paid guides. The zest of the chase ends with the catching. As in the old proverb, "The slothful man roasteth not that which he took in hunting."

This homely principle may be seen in almost every sphere of living. We are better at hunting than we are in developing what we catch.

Take the matter of health. What eager health hunters we are. What time and trouble we spend in seeking out climates and cures which will add to our physical powers. But how fully do we use these physical senses for whose health we are so concerned?

LIKE ARTIST PAGANINI

Contrast the full, rich life enjoyed by the crippled slave Epictetus with the meager satisfactions some of us get out of our ample environment and our healthy senses. When I compare how much listless Esther gets through her three senses with what I do with my five healthy ones, she seems to me like the artist Paganini making exquisite melody on one or two remaining strings of a damaged violin, while I seem like a vulgar trap drummer surrounded by all sorts of instruments which I hit only occasionally.

When we think how much life we waste with our healthy senses, we merit Jesus' rebuking question, "Having eyes, see ye not? Having ears, hear ye not?"

Or turn to the realm of our material possessions. There is a certain satisfaction in accumulating possessions and beautiful properties, in building a home, in collecting a books of art. But we do not really own a thing when we have put the title of property ownership upon it. We spiritually possess only when it becomes a food for our minds and souls.

An American statesman tells of visiting Herman Goering in Berlin at that colossal pace which the latter had built outside of Berlin. Goering had collected treasures from all the plunder-ed corners of Europe. Specimens of finest art stood alongside the cheapest chromos. The vulgarity of the place and the lack of discrimination showed that the owner did not appreciate the values of what he had collected.

We may adorn our walls with exquisite pictures and line our shelves with rare editions. But if it is the books and art we merely purchase which enrich our souls, and many are the hunters of wealth and art who do not roast that which they take in hunting.

Or carry our proverb over into the realm of invention and discovery. Man with his God-given endowments of curiosity and creatively is ever dazzling the world with new inventions.

CAUSTIC COMMENT

Some years ago I heard a radio authority picturing the prospects of television, frequency modulation and other features we now enjoy. Yet as I listened I could not but remember what Henry Thoreau cynically said when he learned of the laying of the Atlantic cable. Thoreau's caustic comment was, "Yes, it's wonderful, but probably the first news that comes over will be that Princess Adelaide has the whooping cough."

Alas, our means of communication do sometimes seem to improve faster than what we have to say over them. We perfect our devices but we do not develop them to furnish food for our souls.

Or turn to the sphere of friendship and family relations. We speak of winning a friend or a wife. And to go out and capture the heart of another is just about the most exciting game there is. And yet how we waste the love we win through courtship.

Some years ago I spent a night in a little hotel at Nazareth. I was pitying myself that I had to stay even for a night in a place so primitive. Then I was shamed by the thought that Jesus lived 30 years in that town when it was far less improved. When I think how much Jesus made out of so little and how little I make out of so much, my heart is unspeakably humbled.

If we keep on hunting for more things without the diligence to develop what we have, our restless acquisitiveness will wreck our own peace of mind and the stability of society.

Nursing Talk Given to BGH Alumnae

A large number of B.G.H. alumnae members were present at the November meeting to hear Miss Reeser, member of the graduating class of 1940, give an extremely interesting talk on "Nursing in Nigeria." Many of Miss Reeser's classmates were present for a reunion, which included a tour of the hospital.

During the business meeting, final preparations were made for the "Stardust Ball" being held this Friday evening. Mrs. Dorothy Taylor was named convener of the annual buffet lunch.

There was a short discussion re: revision of the association's by-laws, which is now under way.

Plans were also made for the December 15 meeting which will be in the form of a Christmas pot-luck supper.

Showy Hats Are Trademark Of New Senator

OTTAWA (CP) — "Senator Josie's hats" were a conversation piece at a luncheon and tea of the Conservative Parliamentary Wives' Association.

Canada's seventh and newest woman senator, Mrs. Harry Quart of Lesser City, goes in for flamboyant hats.

At the luncheon, Mrs. Quart, whose name is Josie Jamesina Josie to her friends, wore a hat that was her own creation — a gold fur felt with a gold sable decpiece adapted as a headband.

It provided an attractive contrast to a purple tweed suit in a mixture of color that expresses Senator Quart's artistic instincts. She's an amateur painter.

"There is the President Kennedy haircut and now we've got Senator Josie hats," was the comment at the luncheon.

Mrs. Quart, before establishment when Canada's first woman senator, Cairine Wilson, decided against wearing a hat on her appointment in 1930, Mrs. Quart won't display her headwear in the Senate. "I guess I'll just have to get used to it," she said.

Plainfield WMS, W.A. Elects 1960-1 Officers

Mrs. Jack Salmon was hostess to the recent Plainfield W.M.S. and W.A. meeting. Mrs. Grant Kerr, president, opened this meeting with a poem, "Still Going On," read by Mrs. Annas McMorris Clark, and led in prayer in loving memory of Mrs. Annie May Hall.

The worship service followed. Mrs. Willis Sills assisted, reading the Scripture lesson, Ephesians 4th. Paul said: "Finally, my brethren, be strong in the Lord and in the power of His might."

The treasurer, Mrs. Bessie Hazard, reported $248.26 was raised so far this year. The autumn thank offering was $44.45.

Mrs. Harry McCreary gave an excellent reading on Christian Stewardship. She said that "Many women are finding sacrificial stewardship is the real way of giving, as we understand the need we give more. Real Christian fellowship is sharing."

The Rev. J. A. Nicholls took charge of the election of officers for 1961 as follows:

President, Mrs. Violet Elliott; 1st vice president, Mrs. Clarence Marshall; recording secretary, Mrs. Grant Kerr; treasurer, Mrs. Bessie Hazard; W.A. treasurer, Mrs. Clarence Hall; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ethel Bradshaw; "Associate Helpers" secretary, Mrs. Charlie Treverton; "Missionary Monthly" secretary, Mrs. Jack Salmon; Community Friendship secretary, Mrs. Charlie Treverton; Christian Stewardship secretary, Mrs. Harry McCreary; Community Citizenship secretary, Mrs. Blanch Emerson; pianist, Mrs. Don Bowers; assistant pianist, Mrs. Willis Sills; Mission Band leader, Mrs. Willis Sills; Junior Band leader, Mrs. Ray Sullivan; supply secretary, Mrs. Harold Treverton; group leaders, Mrs. Don Bowers, Mrs. Jack Salmon and Mrs. Fred Stilts.

After the meeting closed Mrs. Salmon and her helpers served lunch, and a pleasant social half hour was spent.

Octogenarians Celebrate Birthdays

A birthday supper and social evening was celebrated at the home of Mrs. Keitha Alde in honor of her mother, Mr. Marlin Miller, who celebrated his 80th birthday.

A cake decorated with 80 candles centered the table.

The following guests attended: Mr. and Mrs. George Elliott, Mrs. Bertha Brisco, Mrs. Ella Losey, Mrs. Rita Belcour, all of Belleville; and Mrs. William Logue, Roxboro; Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Joyce, Mrs. Joyce, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wannsmither of Stirling; Mrs. Evelyn Vanamaker, Laverne and Bonnie of Halloway; Mr. and Mrs. Bristol, of Springbrook and Mrs. Pearl Budden.

Mr. Miller received many beautiful cards and gifts.

Mrs. Letitia Bruce of Belleville celebrated her 80th birthday on November 25. Many happy returns of the day and many more are wished both.

Woolknit Shirtwaist

By ALICE ALDEN

Chances are that one of the new wool knits shown this season will take a real wardrobe wonder. And, if it's a shirtwaist, so much the better for all concerned.

This one has three box pleats tucked smartly into each side of the slim skirt. A low Peter-Pan collar, deep-dish dolman sleeves, and a leather belt complete the pretty yet practical picture.

Comes in delicious colors as well as basic black.

Dancers Cherish Fond Memories Of Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Rosario and Roberto Iglesias of Barcelona, Spain, cherish some fond memories of Montreal. Monday they were married early last morning.

And Esperanza, twin sister of Rosario, still recalling the ceremony with chuckles.

The girls' identical looks had the officiating priest so confused that he looked from one to another, and asked:

"Well, which one am I going to marry?"

He did, however, marry the right one, and Rosario and Roberto — stars of the Roberto-Iglesias Spanish Dancers, who played a return engagement here since the wedding said they are living "happily ever after."

Esperanza Galan is a soloist with the Los Chavales company which tours Europe and North America and "winters" in Barcelona.

The 22-year-old twins, who were classed professionally when the age of 14, are both less than five feet tall and weigh just under 100 pounds.

Although off-stage they do look alike, Esperanza says, they both wear their long hair parted in the middle and bound back in the traditional Spanish style.

Mrs. I. Baird To Speak Here

Mrs Irene Baird, senior information officer with the department of Northern Affairs and National Resources, will address the Women's Canadian Club on Wednesday evening at Queen Alexandra School. The topic will be "The Eskimo Takes a Look at Us."

Before joining the Public Service of Canada in 1942, Mrs. Baird had worked as a newspaperwoman on two Vancouver papers, done free lance writing, and published three novels. Her present work includes press, radio, TV and writing. In 1957 she was "honored" by the government on the royal visit of Her Majesty, the Queen and during the visits of the President Eisenhower and Princess Margaret.

From 1953 to 1958 she was officer in charge of the Northern Affairs Arctic exhibits at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

Mrs. Baird has also visited the Arctic in 1955 and in 1958, and from these personal contacts with the Eskimos will bring to the club a fund of first-hand information.

Mother of 3 Wins Chance To Hunt Moose

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—An attractive New Brunswick mother of three will have a chance to hunt for moose in the province's first open season in 34 years.

Mrs. Gladys Kingston, 32, wife of the CPR agent at Harvey, a lone hunter, is one of 400 persons who received a licence in a government-sponsored lottery.

"She's a crack shot and if she comes across one of those big fellows she's going to do one of two things," said her husband Norman. "She'll either kill him quick or run for the nearest tree herself. She has never come face to face with a moose before."

The season, arranged because of the large number of moose in the province, opens Nov. 28 and is set up five days from Nov. 28. Limit is one.

Silurd Tells His Story

By ALMA MASON

Yesterday, from where I sat, they looked lonely, grey and ugly and menacing. Small irritations piled up in my mind and on the out island where a sparkle that should have been induced by the gulls' screaming blendings. While I was wallowing in self-pity, a young Hungarian couple called on to spend a few hours with me.

Silurd and Hilde are refugees. They are orphans who were deprived of homes and parents due to Communist tyranny.

While we were chatting over a cup of tea, we asked Silurd about his family. He told us he had one sister still residing in Hungary. He said the rest of his family had been murdered. A far away look came into his eyes and tears rolled down his cheeks. Then he—poured out, with constant apologies, some of his dreadful experiences.

He told us that his home had been ruthlessly invaded. He spoke of how his sisters and his mother had been attacked; of how his father and his brothers had been murdered. Silurd had witnessed the carnage and then, he hurriedly escaped.

As the blonde, blue-eyed boy poured out his horrible story, he kept repeatedly apologizing for burdening us with his difficulties. His little wife had his hand and mingled her tears with his. She, too, had suffered.

I felt an acute and scarring stab of conscience as I said, "Before you came in today I was piling up a lot of trivial troubles into a pretty gigantic and sordid heap. You have certainly scattered that heap and made me feel greatly ashamed."

Silurd and Hilde are not bitter. They walk in fear of the future — yoking in years but old in the dangerous fight for freedom. They have emerged as gold from the fires of war—eyed with tolerance and tenderness. The branches of their youthful years were pruned with a most deadly and a sharper sword than they have been or perhaps will ever be.

Their few troubles are trivial. They were pitifully insignificant. In fact, they really were not troubles at all.

HELP WANTED

EHANOR, England (CP)—Dr. P. Warman, the medical officer for this Derbyshire town, has suggested that 2 p.m. tea breaks be given to old people "who are alone. They could hang the cards on their windows if they needed assistance.

Nursing Leaders Want to Improve Nursing Schools

OTTAWA (CP) — Some 30 nursing leaders from across Canada completed a five-day meeting here Friday at which they made plans for a voluntary, self-study program of nursing school standards.

The decision to a meeting called by the Canadian Nurses Association reached agreement on methods to advise Canadian nursing schools on how to evaluate their present programs and improve them.

Besides improving school standards now are set by provincial governments which are responsible for licensing each institution for health services.

The association also wants to establish its own nursing school standards as an additional seal of approval.

The current shortage of qualified nurses has been largely answered by the association as a major problem facing nursing schools.

It is believed that a bachelor of science in nursing should be a minimum teaching requirement, with an MA—held by only one person in 100 of nursing teachers—desirable.

Canada has 53,000 nurses—but 20,000 more registered nurses are a drain on an already short commodity.

Odd Fellows Hosts to Wives And Rebekahs

TWEED — On Tuesday evening, Odd Fellows Lodge No. 290 I.O.O.F. entertained their wives and sister Rebekahs and their husbands and out of town members residing in the village on social evening. About 60 were present.

A memorable film was shown by Bro. Jas Keenan. The title was "Trees in Medicine" and events and circumstances in this film could be adapted to our own country.

It dealt with the red deer, its life and harvesting and showed the benefits of conservation. This was greatly enjoyed by all. Bro. Keenan was thanked.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. Brum Humphries of Belleville was guest speaker and he entertained at some length with his address on "Keys and Doors". The theme of "Keys" was, "Keys are tools that opened up many doors in our lives", and in conclusion he said that Jesus Christ was the seen keys to all the doors in life.

Refreshments including sandwiches cake and ice cream were served.

Thompson's orchestra provided music for those who wish to dance and Bro. Jas. Keenan executed calls for the square dancing. Bro. Harry and Mrs. Kennedy of Thomasburg lodge were a couple of welcome guests.

Bro. Wilbur Bateman won the door prize and Bro. C. Deehan and Jean won the spotlight prize.

For Enjoyable Stay in Europe Pay a Little Extra for Hotel

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

When we hear all this talk about saving money on a trip to Europe, we sometimes think the hotel keepers and restaurants are too much. Most people who go have a respectable leeway in their budget, and we wonder whether all the stewing over pfennigs isn't much like the game of playing the game according to the rules of our frugal traditions.

In no area of planning a tour is the game more useless than in choosing hotels. Nothing can add more to the pleasure of your visit than staying at fine hotels, and nothing detract more than having to put up at dreary second-raters.

Europeans who have travelled extensively on this continent know that with the exception of a few elegant, distinctive resorts, accommodations are rated and operated from pretty much the same pattern — neat, well-plumbed and efficient with their best, cold and disinterested at their worst, with all the qualities encompassed in a pretty narrow range.

GOVERNMENT GRADED

In Europe things exist in an entirely different spectrum. They are graded by the government according to their facilities, from flea bags on up through the formidable and expensive palaces of deluxe.

Rates at deluxe houses are usually range from $15 to $25 a day for two persons including continental breakfast and service. The service charge covers doorman, baggage, maid service and room service tip (and they really do), meaning that if you had to shell out those charges yourself the room would cost perhaps $5 a day less.

That $15 figure is about $5 a day more than the average fantastic visitor thinks he wants to be comfortable and we're likely to be unsatisfactory by our standards of comfort.

Thus on our 3 hour 17-day excursions so popular right now, the difference in a family travel budget would be about $75, considering that you usually only spend on the plane and you're home on the 17th day.

For that $75 difference you can have a major experience of your trip in terms of what you anything else you do.

Even mediocre big city hotels in this part of the world charge as much, as European deluxe hotels, but there are compelling ends, in America, innkeeping is a profession, and on the continent it's considered just as the deluxe class hotel. Guests checking into a deluxe hotel for the first time are usually overwhelmed by how seriously they help take their job.

EXCELLENT SERVICE

Without servility, the doorman smiles, bows and tips his hat; the maid immaculately uniformed personal look that only a woman can give; the valet puts your hand parcels or just standing attention awaiting your pleasure; a receptionist at the desk greets you warmly and personal by name; the room service waiter shows you how everything works; the chambermaid is that kind these people is working his way up to manager, and the truth is that each of them is.

Your room is a symphony of comfort and convenience. You can spend an hour exploring it. Next to the bed is a battery of buttons: one summons a maid, another a porter, the third a room service waiter. And when you press one, by golly, you'd better start moving because the door because they'll be there on winged feet by the time you open it.

The feature, you'll notice, is well established and ex-cellent even in new hotels — and full

A DEXT TO THE SEA

"There is hyronds in the salty sea . . ."—Daniel Smythe.

An unusual, massive international naval pageant took place in Portugal this late-summer.

To honor the memory of Prince Henry, the famed navigator. To recreate the golden age of Portugal's maritime history. Many diplomats, historians, scientists, and other distinguished visitors were on hand and witnessed the impressive scene.

What a thrilling sight it must have been to see an armada composed of 10 Square-rigged ships from various North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries make this solemn, 200-mile cruise from the southern tip of Portugal (referred to by Englishmen thereabouts as Land's End) to Lisbon.

It is noted that the sea-coast of this part of the country possesses a kind of oriental flavor. In the completely rural districts, the staples of life are the same as they were under the Moors, fish, farms, fairs and fado (folk tunes). This is understandable if one recalls that the Moors took over the whole country in a two years' time, whereupon the Christians took a number of centuries to regain it. That was 450 years before they recaptured Lisbon (1147) and 500 years before they drove the Moors out of the southern part along here (1250).

Portugal has long been grateful to the sea, for it has served her handsomely, ever since Vasco da Gama set his sailors afoot from Lisbon back in 1497. They returned two years later with great triumph, having opened a sea route to India. This established a period of first rank in the commercial world for Portugal and brought untold wealth.

In gratitude, King Manuel "Ortaved a church built near the spot from which the caravels had sailed. There still stands the Church of Saint Mary of Belem (a Portuguese variant of Bethlehem) which today is a Lisbon sight-seeing "must".

Known also as Jeronimos Monastery, due to its having been inhabited by Hieronymite monks, this church is in Manueline style. A style purely Portuguese and "born of a realm upon upsurge of national wealth, optimism and an acute sense of nearness of a debt to the sea".

It has one of the most beautiful cloisters in the world. Its stonework is said to be elegant, delicate and remarkable. In summertime, it is the delightful setting for nightly performances of "Son et Lumieres", BY the use of sound, light and color, only the history of the monastery and event of the discoveries is fascinatingly evoked. The performance is then followed by "Music and Lights' in which classical music is accompanied by light effects.

Thus does so sea-loving a people proudly pay homage and to mindful of its "debt to the sea"

Bellevignette: "Lisbon", declares a Belleville friend, recalling a "night on the town" (who knows) with a tourist guide with much of the information above for which we are indebted "is one of the most picturesque and historic cities in Europe today. To have a first glance from the deck of the harbor of its beautifully designed buildings and structures in light colors arrayed like a gay mosaic upon the rising hillside, parsially screened with the growth of exotic plants and palm trees, is unforgettable."

Along with its modern stores, splendid hospitals and fine residences, there is no end, we are told, to its theatres, cinemas, restaurants, museums, libraries, churches and parks.

Victoria Ley quick-book: "With the magnificence and splendor of her venerable monuments, so impressive and varied, and the irresistible appeal of her town worn typical quarters; the charm of her colorful costumes; the abundance and variety of her local products; the amenity of her mild climate; the captivating valley, after every day-life . . . Lisbon, like a rare multicolored, gem, scintillating under a matchless sun and cloudless skies, is awaiting you.

How tantling and how about it!

QUESTION:

Your recipes are always such a help to me. Do you have any suggestions for an Autumn Bridge — 3 tables (evening), — Ethel S.

ANSWER:

On April 30th and December 3rd of 1959 I gave here a recipe for a Chicken Pie Savory. In April '59 I had served it at a bridge party, and it was a rousing success. It is a grand savory and could be served many delicious for your bridge party. Serve hot to 9 or 8 (or ice cold to 13). I recommend serving it hot, so for 3 tables of bridge you will need 2 of these. Serve celery hearts and gherkins, coffee and tiny shortbread or fruit cake.

Mrs. F. W. — My teenage daughter was out all night with a boy.

Myrna W. — He happened to be a fine boy and everything's O.K.

* * *

Mrs. F. W. — I know that basically Myrna is a good girl with high morals and that makes it all the harder for me to understand why she didn't return from her Senior Prom till the next morning!

She's 17 and we certainly wanted her to take part in all the fun that goes with being a high school senior. Her guest was Allen, a boy she's been out with only once before. She met him through one of my friends, so we weren't worried. And they were going to stick with two other couples .

Instead, she and Allen broke away from the rest after the dance. They had supper in a night club, a drink somewhere else, and sat around in Allen's car waiting for dawn so they could have breakfast together.

According to Myrna, this is a "must" for seniors. I'm going to explain to her that she was playing with fire.

Myrna W. — While I enjoyed every minute of the prom and the rest of Senior Night, I wound up telling a great deal toward my mother. She considered herself very enlightened and advanced ,and yet she didn't know a thing about boys, really. Oh, she had explained a few things to me. She made it sound so poetic and so sacred that you could almost hear violins playing when ever she got on the subject. And wherever I was out on one of my few dates alone with a boy, I'd keep on the necking and make orations about love being lofty, not animal. I echoed my mother.

But Allen opened my eyes. He's a pre-med student and he made things clear. He told me most girls know how to handle a situation of being next to a man for 12 hours He asked how come I didn't know what to do.

Well now I know, But why can't mothers prepare girls better?

The Council: No matter how much "know-how" a girl has, no matter how safe she feels in a prolonged tete-a-tete, there's her reputation to consider. Therefore consenting to other allnight activities with a certain man friend, Myrna might think of "how it looks".

And then instead of being filled with anger toward her mother for the "gaps" in her instruction, Myrna might be grateful for the discussions on the positive and realistic aspects of sexual attraction for the honest information acquired at home. This is usual. Many parents are either tongue-tied or cling on the topic.

But Myrna raises an interesting question, that of preparing young people for dates. We try to prepare them for marriage and parenthood, but we leave them hanging on a ledge during the dating and courtship years when it comes to matters physical.

"Exercise restraint" is the official advice we give young people. Hold back until marriage. But out of the other side of our mouth we're telling them to loose! Myrna and her friends are encouraged to dress and behave seductively. Allen and the boys slick up, tuck a fair-sized bill in their wallets, get hold of a car. Allen calls for Myrna. Add Lover's Lane, moonlight and honeysuckle, and music, and hour upon hours. Yet "Exercise restraint" is all the grownups offer to complete the picture.

Why do we try so hard, by our movies, plays, TV shows, fashions, books and magazines, to learn about where to go to teach young people to inflame each other, and then teach them restraint?

Mrs W. and Myrna point to an influence in the way we prepare teenagers for boy-girl relationships.

QUESTION BOX

Question — I am planning a large dance for my daughter (11) and I am stuck around Christmas time, It is to be held in a large room. A friend of mine did this last year and she tells me that a lot of people who were not invited just wandered in and joined the party. Some of them she had never seen before. Is there some way to avoid having this happen at my dance? Mrs. P. W. H.—Chicago, Ill.

Answer — Yes, there is a way. Although I am not very gracious, it has become a necessity that you have started to keep out the obnoxious "gate crashers." When you send out your invitations, enclose a small, engraved card which is to be presented at the ballroom the night of your party. Have homework with a list of the guests read by the door to take the name and the card of each guest as he enters.

On the small card, the wording would be somewhat as follows:

Please present this card . . . at The Plaza Hotel Monday, December twelfth

Question — The other afternoon I visited, and I were walking down the street when we met her husband. As we walked along, he stayed in the middle, between us. Am I wrong in thinking that he should have walked on the outside? Mrs. T.V.S. — Scranton, Pa.

Answer — No, you are right. A man should always walk nearest the curb, whether he is escorting one or two women. He may move to the middle when he has them across the street, but as soon as they arrive safely on the other side, he should resume his place on the outside.

This . . . and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

The plight of the retarded child is being assessed and is being challenged as never before. Just this week we listened to a well known and respected actor describe the treatment given his child. He has been made to advance the cause of the retarded child in the U.S.A. over the past ten years. We may read with an unbecoming nonchalance since we are unaffected, such figures as nearly one million retarded children in Japan, nearly five per cent of the school age children in France, six per cent in Uruguay, four per cent in Peru and so on.

If we are unaffected, or think we are, it is a false conviction or state of mind. Some facts we read this week are made impressionable because right here in Belleville practical steps are being taken to prove what Mr. Cesar Santelli of France told delegates from 77 countries recently: "So long as a child can be taught to read, he can be made into a useful member of society."

The Belleville and District Association for Retarded Children has been unable to receive the assistance and the co-operation of the Belleville Lions' Club. Many of us have seen or read about the work of the association in The Ontario Intelligencer, heard about it in interviews over CJBQ, had it brought to our attention when a canvasser called — but have you seen what is being accomplished right here in Belleville.

With the support of the Lions' Club the association has been able to secure a building for a school at 321 John Street.

The support of the Lions Club does not stop with financial backing but is being expressed through the medium of large doses of muscular therapy. Week after week, til fall, you could have dropped in at 321 John Street and found members of the club and the ex cation laying floors, painting, cleaning, doing carpentry work and doing repair jobs. Here we have a local effort for local parents and children with an influence that spreads far beyond Belleville and district.

When T & T first visited the building the first reaction was one of admiration for the local volunteers who tackled such a challenge. Slowly and very steadily a class room here and a class room there are being put into shape with newly laid floors, fresh paint and little desks. There remains much to be done, but the men and women who accepted the challenge have no thought of leaving off until their work is completed. Children in the city and district is completed. One problem they face is the erection of a fire escape so that the whole building can be utilized to its capacity. The fire regulations require an escape in order that the small children can use the second floor. When we talked last we got the impression that if any one knew how to come up with a cheap solution to the fire escape problem it would be very welcome indeed.

Certainly our community can have civic pride in the contribution being made locally by the Belleville and District Association for Retarded Children and their good friends in the Lions Club. Our community will be made richer and little people will hopefully be made fuller because they have teachers and a school in which to learn to read and be assisted to cope with life that has counted two or three strikes against them.

Here we see the Declaration of the Rights of the Child which passed the UN Assembly on November 20, 1959 being practised fully.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

YEAH, OTTAWA!

As the sports editor of this newspaper I have tried to present a fairly impartial picture of the Grey Cup classic.

As a private individual I'm an out-and-out dyed-in-the-wool Ottawa Rough Riders' fan, have been all season, and I don't give a tinker's dam who knows it.

I have seen and covered a few Grey Cup epics; "dfd" on occasional world series, and as the highlight of a colorful newspaper career, covered a world hockey championship in Europe.

But never since the day I saw my first hockey game on the Bloomfield mill-pond when they were spring skates, and used hickory limbs for hockey sticks, have I seen so many "experts" promulgate their opinions via the printed word.

You pick up the metropolitan sheets and the sports pages are stacked with stories by their sports staffs, with special feature writers from both the Riders and Eskimos inking their opinions.

A lot of western gut is being rammed down eastern throats by player-writers, ex-football coaches and whatnot.

A former pro-football coach and newspaperman now turned columnist, has been stuffing eastern ears with what the Eskimos are going to do, and the Riders said after which goes to prove that to be a music teacher you do not necessarily have to play a piano.

Jackie Parker, Canada's outstanding football player, has been rolling out with gobs of column copy extolling the virtues of the Eskimos but warily inviting sympathy because of illness-stricken players.

And around this village some of the die-hard Argonaut fans are still yakking something about the best club in the East being left at home. It is not the fault of the Riders that the Argos were "S.S.S." (suckers for Simpson's sleeper).

Was it the Pirates' fault that the Yankee pitcher threw a curve ball at Bill Mazeroski? Better team, my eye. It's the final score that counts.

It seems to me I heard that roar after the Eskimos squeaked out that 4-2 victory over the Blue Bombers in the final seconds of that third fateful game.

There are some who dig up the statistics and on these bases their opinions of the outcome of today's game. Figures, to me, represent so much cracker-barrel fodder. Except those you will see when the candidates for the "Miss Grey Cup" crowns line up for inspection.

One thing has been certain, the Eskimos' public relations department has not been asleep on the job. From Coach Eagle Keys down to the water boy they have been loosing copy covering every angle.

But by now that is water under the bridge.

This is it.

Even as of now the teams might be in the clutches of a mighty slow heater.

So go back to the television fifty-yard line and root for the team you like best.

Me? I'm going to the six cent chair and yell my little six pen-nickin' heart out for the Rough Riders. That's my privilege and I'm going to exercise it.

And I think they'll win by a touchdown—or make it eight points. That's what my pool ticket calls for.

Eskimos Last-Minute 6-Point Favorites

Both Sides Claim Injuries

By GRAHAM COX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Time ran out for someone today—either Ottawa Rough Riders or Edmonton Eskimos—as the 1960 edition of the 51-year - old Grey Cup game opened in Vancouver's Empire Stadium.

There didn't appear to be much to choose between the two teams, with both the eastern and western champions having suffered their share of injuries. But the oddmakers gave the Exhs a 6½-point edge.

Though rain was falling early today, the wet weather office predicted a storm centre moving up from the Oregon coast would hold off until after the final whistle. The stadium tarpaulin covered the field all week but officials expected the field to be in fair shape, but possibly soft.

The opening kickoff was set for 1:30 p.m. PST (4:30 p.m. EST) with national television coverage by the CBC.

BRIGHT SKIES 'FREEZING'

Probably the most severely impaired player was Johnny Bright, 27, a six-foot, 200-pound fullback. He picked up a charley-horse against the Alouettes in Ottawa camp, but practised only a little. Bright was the high scorer of the Western Interprovincial Football Union playoffs. His "legs" injury, with ruptured blood vessels in the thigh muscle, was expected to be "frozen" with a local anaesthetic.

Other injured Exhs were quarterback Jackie Parker, limping slightly as a result of being winded in game against Winnipeg, and defensive halfback Bill Smith, his broken left hand in a cast.

In the Ottawa camp, fullback Dave Thelen was reported hampered by an ankle injury, guard Kaye Vaughan was expected to go into the game slowed by a broken toe and end Bill Swiskuk had an injured leg.

The Eskimos reported seven players—Parker, Bright, Rollie Miles, Steve Bendiak, Owen Krueger, Glen Fracas and Ted Tully —who have been in three national finals, and fullback Normie Kwong, in six Grey Cups. The game was expected to draw record total receipts of $489,000.

EXHS HAS PROBLEM

Before the game, Eagle coach Frank Clair admitted he was worried about how to stop Parker, whose ability to run, pass and improvise on the field has created a problem for opposing coaches since he joined the Eskimos in 1954 from Mississippi State college.

Eskimos coach Eagle Keys said: "I think they probably have more to worry about than we have. We probably have hundreds of plays we can use."

The West has won the Cup five times in the last six years, including consecutive Edmonton victories in 1954-55-56.

The East last won in 1957 when Hamilton defeated Winnipeg 32-7. It was the first time Ottawa and Edmonton had met in the playoffs. Ottawa, in its second straight appearances, won four Eastern championships to the seventh final with a 3-2 split.

This was the 46th Cup game to be played since the $50 trophy was presented by the late Earl Grey in 1909. No games were played during the war years 1916-17 and in the previous 50 games since 1921, when the final became an East-West affair, the East won 23 times and the West nine.

Three Teams Tied for Top In Junior A

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Niagara Falls Flyers and Toronto St. Michael's Majors moved into a three-way tie with Guelph Royals for first-place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series Friday night. The Flyers beat Peterborough Petes 5-2, the Majors edged Guelph 6-5. All three clubs have 14 points.

The Majors took an early first period lead on goals by Pat Keenan and Dave Draper, then Guelph's Borden Smith scored to make it 2-1 as period ended.

Guelph edged ahead 3-2 with markers by Bob Cunningham and Rod Gilbert, before Bruce Draper tied for the Majors when he scored at 16:31 of the second period.

In the third frame, a three-goal effort by Andre Champagne, Bill Cole and Arnold Brown gave St. Michael's the edge it needed to win the game. Mike McMahon scored for Guelph, while Bob Cunningham added his second marker of the night.

BROWN SCORED WINNER

Arnold Brown scored what proved to be the winning goal for the Majors at 13:30 of the third frame.

Doug Senior scored his team's only two goals Friday night, as Peterborough Petes lost to Niagara Falls Flyers.

Both goals first period saw assist by Senior and Niagara Falls' Howie Dietrich. Bob Avery put the Flyers in front in the second frame with his marker at 6:36 but Peterborough tie it up early in the third period.

The Flyers' game saw singles by Billy Knibbs, Jeannot Gilbert and Dan Mergan, the latter two scoring just 21 seconds apart.

Tonight Guelph visits St. Catharines for a game against the Teepees. Saturday St. Michael's entertains Hamilton and Toronto Marlboros host Peterborough at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Army, Navy Clash Today

NEW YORK (CP) — College football fires its last major wallops of 1960 today when Army and Navy clash in Philadelphia.

In the south third-ranked Mississippi, covering a national title puts its 8-0-1 record on the block against Mississippi State, while Auburn fights Tennessee.

Navy No. 7, eighth-ranked Auburn and Ole Miss are the only to games on the Associated Press top ten to see action.

The Cadets, for a fifth victory, bow bids from the Cotton and Orange bowls, which will be considered only if it wins. Army has a 6-2-1 record.

Ole Miss is due for the Sugar Bowl for the second straight year, has an 8-0-1 record. Mississippi state has a-3-5-1 mark. A Mississippi victory assures it of a Sugar Bowl appearance — and a spectacular show. Auburn might bring it the national title.

Maroons Defeat Russ

MOSCOW (CP) — Chatham Maroons got their Russian rabbit-ears hockey tour off to a bright start Friday with a 5-3 victory over a representative Soviet team.

The Ontario club moved to a 2-0 lead in the first period and never headed.

The Russian players would not match the pay-off pass patterns of the Canadians.

Rightwinger Jack Sloddard got Maroons first goal in the sixth minute of play, meeting a pass from defenceman Ivan Tennant past Russian goalie Nikolai Puchkov. A minute later, left winger George Aitken pulled the Russian defence to one side and flicked a pass to linemate Fred Pierlich who drove that one home to make it 2-0.

HAD 3-0 EDGE

Ernie Dick made it a three-goal edge two minutes later when he grabbed a loose puck in the Soviet end, neatly feinted Puchkov out of position and flipped the puck into the net.

The Soviets threatened several times late in the period. Veteran Alexandrov, Russian forward, had three near misses as Maroons goalie Gerry Desjardins Hurley. Their pressure paid off when Valentin Sanyurin slid scored just 80 seconds before the end of the period.

The second period provided duller hockey for the 12,000 fans in Moscow's Sports Palace and the Soviet television audience.

Maroons played a sharp backchecking game and were able to prevent the Russians from getting a smooth rush working. In the halfway mark, leftwinger Joe Blake took a Stoddard pass and glided the puck past Puchkov to make it 4-1 for the Canadians.

LONG SHOT WORKED

In the third period, Maroons moved into a 5-1 lead when Lou Bendo banged in a long shot.

Nikolai Sologubov counted the second Russian goal a few seconds later on a breakaway.

The Russians pulled within two goals of Maroons late in the period when forward Nikolai Soetnov scored out of a scramble around Maroons net but were unable to get closer.

Fraser Beaten In Tennis

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) Bob Howe added a tennis all-Australian Davis Cup combination. Neale Fraser's stomach upset Friday while three Americans swept into the third round of the 10-day championships.

Fraser, Australia's Davis Cup ace who has been playing despite a stomach ailment, lost to countryman Howe, 4-6, 6-8, 7-5, 6-3, 7-5.

Earl Buchholz, main U.S. Davis Cup hope along with Barry MacKay, beat Robin Tobin of Melbourne, 7-5, 7-5, 7-5. MacKay whipped Australian Brebner, 6-3, 7-5, 6-2, 6-3 and Bernard Bartzen spilled Neil Gibson of Sydney, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3.

Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli, ace of the squad that will play the U.S. team in the inter - zone Davis Cup finals in Perth Dec. 9-11, beat another well-known Aussie, Noel Holland, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

Player Draft, Finances

WIFU Approves Changes

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Western Interprovincial Football Union Friday approved the principle of a player draft system to both equalize the strength of the league's five teams.

The WIFU at its semi - annual meeting here also approved a change in financial arrangements aimed at helping Saskatchewan Roughriders build a winning team in the 1961 season.

The player draft proposal, put forward by British Columbia Lions, calls for each team at the end of the season to place 25 of the 34 players on its roster on a protected list, the remaining nine players to compose a player pool.

The team finishing in last place would be allowed to choose one player from each of the four teams placing higher in the standings.

R. H. Gillies, WIFU secretary, said at a press conference after a closed meeting it is expected the team placing fourth would also receive consideration in the draft system. However, this and other details of the draft operations are to be worked out by the general managers of the league clubs.

Gillies said teams would be required to place a number of imports on their nine-man free list to ensure the strength of that of Americans on the complete roster.

The financial change proposed by Saskatchewan accompanied a pledge by the Riders—who pleaded last in the league this year in the game straight season—to "shoot the bundle to field a competitive team."

Riders representatives said the team lost an amount approaching $75,000 on this year's operation. They asked the league to guarantee that if losses next season reached a similar total the other clubs would help pay the bill.

To do this they proposed the league's "gate equalization" funds be altered so that each team would contribute a larger amount to the money pool.

The Riders also asked that if Saskatchewan's lease, searched the $75,000 level and were not recovered by the "gate equalization" fund, the other four teams agree to make up the difference.

The league voted 4-0-1 in favor of the plan, with B.C. the lone dissenter.

East-West Football Unions

Agree To Partial Interlock Sked

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadian professional football has reached maturity.

This was the unanimous feeling of delegates from the West Coast city to Montreal who united to applaud the newly-adopted partial interlocking schedule between the Big Four in the East and the five - team Western Interprovincial Union.

It is a historic deal starting next season and conceivably could usher in a tremendous upsurge in spectator interest.

A committee of the general managers of the nine pro clubs will work out details and make recommendations before the two-year experiment ends. On their say-so, the partial interlocking schedule either will continue beyond the two-year period or blossom out into a full East-West schedule.

Announcement of the sweeping new change was made Friday after an afternoon - long huddle of the Canadian Football League.

PALMER IS HAPPY

"I'm extremely happy about this," enthused CFL commissioner Jim Palmer. "I'm sure after the announcement was made by CFL president Hugh Cooper of Hamilton. "This will be of tremendous benefit to football. Fans across Canada. We are meeting the public demand."

Halter said there was no basis for figuring out just how long it would take before the East and West met in a full two-league schedule. "It all depends on the success of this interlocking schedule," he said.

What effect would it have on the sudden-death East-West Grey Cup playoff? "I'm not too much concerned it will detract from the Cup spectacle," he said. And the executives agreed with the tall Winnipeg lawyer.

There will be talks on the operation of the interlocational games still to be worked out. Owing to the unbalanced number of teams in the WIFU, seven cities in the East will see only two of the Western clubs in 1961 and three the following year. Each WIFU city will be host to two Eastern clubs each year.

Won and lost records will count in Big Four and WIFU standings.

GAME GROWS UP

"Canadian football has come of age," declared Ralph Parlmanni, vice-president of the CFL.

Barry O'Brien, president of Ottawa Rough Riders, said the partial interlocking schedule is "a great thing for Canadian football."

"I think it is 110 per cent," said Bob Kramer of Regina, president of the GFUU.

"Wonderful," said George Terpenning, Ottawa general manager. "I support it 100 per cent."

"I'm very happy about it," said Frank Clair of the Rough Riders, "As far as the Western angle is concerned, it's a chance to promote ideas and bring players to the West for our business. It is also good for the players who wonder just how good others are in the other section of the country."

WORRIED AS CLUBS VICTORS

Ted Workman, president of Montreal Alouettes, termed the move "the greatest victory of my life."

It has been after this for years and even presented a brief of it in 1957.

Jim Ausley, general manager of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, said the Winnipeg club had always wanted an interlocking schedule. "We'll take it any way we can get it."

To help pay the costs of operating the partial schedule, each team will raise the price of tickets one buck per seat from 25 cents for all games, interlocking and league.

Belleville's Fry Included

Four Honored by CRU

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four veteran Canadian football personalities were honored Friday night with special plaques from the Canadian Rugby Union, recognizing their contributions to the game and growth of football in Canada.

The men, presented with the honors at the 11th annual Grey Cup dinner are Bill Fry of Toronto, Ben Sack of Hamilton, Don MacKenzie of Vancouver and Karl Slocomb of Penticton.

Sack, now 60, started football as a mascot for Hamilton Intermediates in 1913 and by 1920 was manager of the senior team. He was later the senior Tiger-Cats in Hamilton in 1928 and has been in the post ever since. He managed six Grey Cup winners.

Fry is credited with much of the work that brought about an intermediate national final between the champions of the East-West final in 1951 when St. Boniface Legionnaires of Manitoba played in Hamilton and the 1952 series when Peterborough Orions played in St. Boniface.

He was chairman of a committee that brought to the 1954 CRU meeting proposed rules and regulations for Canadian football. These were adopted and the intermediates now are operated coast-to-coast. Fry continues as secretary-manager of the CRU intermediate committee.

WAS AMATEUR STAR

Mackenzie was born in Winnipeg in 1911. For 10 years he was a star in amateur football leagues in Vancouver and he coached in pre-war years in high school football.

In 1954 he became better known as the first president of the British Columbia Lions. He served three terms and was vice-president of the Western Interprovincial Football Union before he was elected to the CRU in 1958.

In 1938 he was chairman of the Grey Cup committee.

Slocomb, 66, has been president of the CRU since Jan. 1, this year after serving as a vice-president of the CRU, president of the WIFU and president of Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Slocomb, 66, has been president of the CRU since Jan. 1, this year after serving as a vice-president of the CRU, president of the WIFU and president of Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

He began his football executive career in 1946 when he was elected to the executive committee of the Winnipeg Blue Bomber vice-president the following year and served until 1950 when he became the club's president. He moved to the executive of the CRU in 1957, was vice-president in 1958 and 1959 and then moved into the president's chair.

Hockey Hints

By Lloyd Percival

"PLAY THE MAN"

Marcel Pronovost, long a defence star with the Detroit Red Wings, is according to many players in the N.H.L. with whom I have talked, one of the toughest men to be keeping in best cleanly. It is easy to believe this if you watch the Detroit star carefully.

One of Pronovost's most effective skills is his ability to handle a one-on-one situation in which a single puck carrier comes down with only Pronovost back to stop the play. If you watch the wrong player in such a situation you will often see him make a play for the puck. This is a mistake.

Every coach in the N.H.L. instructs their players to handle this play as does the Detroit defenceman star — play the man. The theory is that if you stay in front of the man, if you stay between him and the goal, the threat will be beaten. But if you flash at the puck and don't get it the puck carrier will be gone and in on goal. Watch the man and forget about the puck.

Indians Edge Providence, Barons Win

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Springfield Indians' hold a fat seven-point lead in the American League today.

They defeated the last-place Providence Reds 3 - 2 Friday night but they had to come from behind with three minutes and six seconds left in regulation time to pull it out.

The main reason for the Indians' troubles was goaltender Ed Giacomin, who made 34 saves for the Reds after being signed to a contract just before taking the ice.

Cleveland Barons moved back into third place by beating Hershey Bears 4-2 and Rochester Americans battled Buffalo Bisons to a 4-4 overtime tie.

A brawl involving most of the players on both teams broke out in the second period of the Cleveland-Hershey game. Ralph (Red) Young of the Bears and Wayne Rivard of the Barons doing most of the slugging. But most seemed to enjoy the fracas, Hershey Buller and bystander Jim Mikol of Cleveland.

STITCHED STITCHES

Buller suffered a slash on the right forefinger that required seven stitches to close and Mikol needed four stitches to patch up the back of his left hand.

Referee Frank (Ace) Amour, Cal Sicaras and Ron Attwell scored for Cleveland. Mike Nyahay and Hec Lalande for Hershey.

Springfield's Floyd Smith scored the winning goal to stop Providence's rally. Smith shot at three games. Ian Cushenan and Ray Cote got the other Indians. Springfield markers. Zellio Toppazzini and Georges Raniere scored for Providence.

At Rochester, rookie Chico Maki scored twice for Buffalo and singles were added by Phil Maloney and Wayne Hicks. For the Americans, Dave Creighton, Duke Edmundson, Gerry Ehman and Jim Pappin were the marksmen.

Eastern "Walkers" Complete

Transcontinental Hike

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two unemployed Easterners, Canadians completed a 3,022-mile hike from Toronto to Vancouver on schedule Friday and had enough pep left to trudge the last city block of the journey three times.

Kevin Griffin, 25, a native of Cape Breton Island, and Matt Deane, 20, of Toronto started their trek Aug. 31 with the objective of seeing the Grey Cup game here today and earning some money.

But as they arrived at the city hall steps, the pair complained they were broke and had not heard anything recently about when they would receive the money promised them for making the walk.

Deane and Griffin were promised $5,000 to be split between them — and Griffin a $10,000 scholarship to enable him to study medicine for making the trip before the Grey Cup game.

CONCEIVED IN PRESCOTT

The idea of the long walk was conceived early in August when Griffin, who outpaced Britain's marathon walker, Dr. Barbara Moore, on a 10-day hike from Montreal to Toronto, passed through Prescott, Ont.

At Prescott, Dr. Malbon Seeley, a chiropodist, approached Griffin with the idea of the Toronto-Vancouver walk. The contract between Griffin and the doctor called for the walker to wear and publicize a brand of boots.

Deane joined the hike at Toronto. He started out driving a packing car, but when Griffin ran out, the pair sold the car.

After they reached the city hall Friday, two television cameramen talked them into walking the last block or twice more — to get the smiles and hand waving just right.

While walking, the two men averaged about 30 miles a day. They stopped en route for a day or so to rest and pick up funds by doing odd jobs.

Griffin wore out 10 pairs of the special boots, which have a permanent arch support. Deane went through seven pairs of ordinary boots.

Friday's final lap started at Langley, B.C., 30 miles east of Vancouver.

Griffin and Deane presented the Mayor Tom Alsbury with a handful of greetings picked up along the way.

In an interview later, they said they hadn't received tickets to the Grey Cup game. But the Vancouver Province said later the tickets were available for them any time they wanted to pick them up.

EDMONTON (CP) — Steve Mendryk, who two years ago was receiving boxes for Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, now is devoting his energy to physical fitness research.

The smooth-cheeked professor of physical education at the University of Alberta was recently recognized with publication of his research paper, Reaction Time, Movement Speed and Task Specificity Relationships at ages 12, 22 and 48. It was printed in the research quarterly of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

"There is a tremendous amount to be done in research. It's all - important," said Mendryk. "Of course, I'm not saying we should sacrifice the athletic program but let's let it be gained by athletics.

Mendryk, Edmonton - born defensive halfback, broke in with the Eskimos in 1949 and, except for a one-year absence, played with the club through 1958. He quit at 32 because "I felt I slowed down."

Proof that he practised the physical fitness he now preaches is in the fact that he played five consecutive seasons without missing a game. He was part of the great Eskimo machine that won three consecutive Grey Cups from 1954 to 1956.

He managed to complete his own education while playing football, earning a bachelor of education degree at the University of Alberta and a master's at the University of California.

Teaching physical fitness to freshmen now is only a small part of his job at the university. There is also the regular teaching load, directing the athletic program, teaching a theory and practice course in football and basketball, instructing in the prevention, care and treatment of athletic injuries to senior students, and coaching the university's Golden Bears basketball team.

All this activity has helped Mendryk, who never touches cigarettes and takes only an occasional drink, to remain just one or two pounds above his football weight of 187 pounds.

AGE PEAK 22

His research project has led him to the conclusion that the peak of reaction and motion speed is reached at about the age of 22. He also found that reaction and movement speed are about the same for the ages of 12 and 48—about 15 to 20 per cent slower than the 22-year-old.

He hesitates to make recommendations, based on his research, of what should be the best exercise for various groups. He does say, however, that if he had it all to do over, he would play far less football and basketball and far more of the "carry-over" activities such as golf and swimming, I'd be far better off.

"I've played football since I was 12 and one year I had spent more time at the sports I could enjoy the rest of my life."

It wasn't until this summer that Mendryk took up golf. Golf course for more than five times in a season. He's got the bug now and shoots between 85 and 90.

TIPS

by JOHN WETTLAUFER

Modern television sets are not only more efficient than older models, but they are more compact in design.

For example, the development of the 90 degree angle picture tube with the short neck has made possible the new slim TV set. This set requires less floor space and is more decorative in the modern living room.

A TV set may be a handsome piece of furniture, but most of us are more interested in its performance. Wherever your set fails to deliver its best, it's time to call on the expert help of CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 260 Coleman St. for fast, guaranteed repairs. Phone WO 8-5791.

Marilyn Erskine Conducting Crusade Against Slander

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Is the North American continent being polluted by curlers and flowered frocks?

That's the way she's seen on many a TV show and Marilyn Erskine is conducting a one-woman crusade against such slander. She appears Tuesday night as the spouse on the Tom Ewell Show, and she's no frump.

"I should think women would resent the way they are portrayed on some of the family shows," she says. "I do. I'm a housewife myself and my portrayal stems from the way I appear in my own home.

"After all, Tom is supposed to be a successful businessman in the show. He is earning perhaps $18,000 or more a year. It stands to reason he would want and expect his wife to be smart-looking and neat.

"But I think it's true of most housewives in any salary bracket nowadays. They are more careful about their appearance."

Marilyn had her own personal fill with this question two years ago. She had to drop 30 pounds.

"I like to eat. One day I looked at myself in the mirror and said, 'this has got to go.' After all, I was married to a very attractive man (businessman Charles Cureland), it was senseless for me to continue looking plump while he took care of his body."

The pound-shelving not only helped her health and morale, it boosted her career as well.

"After all, this is a very fastconscious town. When I was under contract to MGM, they were always after me to better do something about that rear, dear.)

"Once they even sent me to a masseuse who was a cult in those days. She would absolutely beat the fat off you. That was all right for some people, but I had tender skin. I just ended up bruised and beaten."

Marilyn did a few films at MGM, then played Ida in The Eddie Cantor Story. After that, she did no films, concentrating on TV and rearing two children. She resisted a series until the Ewell show came along. It was too good to pass up, and now she's giving a weekly boost to housewife morale.

AUSTRALIAN TV

Australia, with a population of little more than 10,000,000, had 1,250,000 television sets in 1960.

If your child is born today . . . a commendable amount of constructive imagination will soon manifest itself. This should not be curbed, but your son, or daughter, should be taught to control whatever it may be beginning to be tackled before going on to another interest, so that the great promise in this chart can be developed to the full. Give free rein and a fine education, since the future life will be filled with reflection and philosophical deeds. A wonderful horoscope.

General Tendencies: This can be one of your most amazing of days. Make sure that you do nothing to stir up dissention or to ruffle the pride of those who are touchy and sensitive. See how to rid yourself of unwanted self-pity and gain the respect of all about by an improved, objective approach at whatever arises, especially as stated for your own sign following.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — You are all set and able to take fast and radical action of all sort believing you can get rich quick or win a material boost by public, but family fortunately restrain you from acting unwisely. Be practical, study, make better plans.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Since you have much private work to do, you think you cannot go out and take advantage of friendly invitations received. However, if you plan your time and labors wisely, you can carry through on both most cleverly.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — You feel that you did not have enough money to carry through with some project, but wise budgeting can still see you through nicely, though advisers and friends are also doubtful. Be appreciative of interest, but use tact.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — You are filled with spectacular plans for getting ahead faster, but powerful and influential individuals do not seem to comprehend them right now and do not give the assistance you need. Be patient and courteous with all. Another day is better.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Rather than getting into a stew over some private concern, be out early and look into new avenues of attainment where you can be more successful. However, later be very kind to those who look to you for help. Do not lose your temper.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — It is better to follow the suggestion of a close ally instead of going after advice of a higher-up who is unfamiliar with all the facts of the matter and does not particularly care. Be convinced that you truly want — go after it.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — While partners and family do not agree at all how to best get ahead in public or business affairs, it is important you listen to everyone, but take no action now. Later, follow own inclination.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — While you must work at home or place of business, there are collations to be met at some distance. However, if you plan your time wisely, you can accomplish both in a most efficient manner today and tonight.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — While you are in the mood to enjoy yourself right now, it is imperative you keep busily occupied at regular work, if you want to increase your income and have the abundance you need and want after your next birthday.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Be careful not to irritate your associates today, or you lose out materially on all that you have accomplished in the past. Be particularly kind and devoted at your residence this evening. Save wear and tear on nerves.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — While you want so much to make those contacts in business world, a disturbed fellow - worker or an impressive or important official keeps you glued to your desk or table. Settle this situation first. P.M. drive carefully. Don't gossip.

Starting Seeds in Winter Months

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

A friend of mine tells me that every New Year's day she and her father plant some seeds. It's fun.

One year it was coleus. The seeds sprouted very quickly and they were a joy to watch for weeks.

Most of us gather seed from our favorite annuals, and occasionally fly, or perennials. I've been the berries from bushes such as Russian olive, holly, or cotoneaster. These seeds should be placed in a jar on the top shelf of the cupboard until next year. Some times we do get them planted and they reward us with fine healthy plants, others are disappointing.

Most seeds germinate best when they are still fresh. Why not try some you have on hand or send for some from a seed catalogue.

TESTING GERMINATION

When we wish to test the germination of any seeds, plant them out doors we place a piece of fabric or a thin layer of cotton batting or newspaper pile on a pie pan. This should be kept moist. Then we count a few seeds and place six to eight seeds on each half, and cover with a glass pie plate. Keep in a warm place and don't give them a chance to dry out. The perennials and lilies will take longer to germinate. Some pots out doors and sink the pot in soil in a sheltered place. It may take months for these to germinate.

If you want to plant the sprouted seedling in a pot of soil fill the container with a mix of two parts, place in soil and cover with a thin layer of soil, more for large seeds.

Annuals that will give quick results are morning glory, dwarf marigold, carter-oil bean, four o'clocks, annual chrysanthemums and dwarf celosia (cock's comb). These will produce baby annual plants and blooms within a few weeks given a sunny window and warm room.

You can save seeds from grapefruit, orange, lemon or dates and plant six to eight in a pot in the compact spot of fresh greenery.

KEEP THEM COMPACT

The sprouting morning glories and there are many branches of each family you might like to keep together in the same pot for compact. Plant six seeds to a pot. Then as they grow thinning the centre out to keep the plants from crowding. They will thrive within a few weeks in a sunny window and warm room.

P.M. STEPS INTO

based on an assumption that wages in the durable goods industry would rise at a rate of two and one-half per cent over the proposed two-year contract ending Dec. 31, 1961. This rate works out to about six-tenths of a cent per month.

On this basis—an assumption that has not passed out so far—the increase would be 12 cents an hour retroactive to Jan. 1, five cents on Sept. 1, and a final four-per-cent next May 1.

The railways rejected the conciliation board proposal, but the unions accepted it—even though it was 11 cents an hour below their original demand for a 31-cent-hourly pay boost. After a vote that overwhelmingly approved strike action, the 15-union negotiating team set Dec. 1 as today for a "peaceful withdrawal" from work.

The government is understood to be considering a settlement that would give the "non-operating" workers — the employees of the Milvain award—the same 12-cent increase that works out to about seven cents an hour, to an outside arbitrator.

Such a split settlement would apparently please part already, part compulsory determination. Since the proposals from each on railway revenues, it is considered likely that the federal treasury will have to put up any money needed for meeting the cost of the wage increase, a subsidy already under fire by the "free-hire" trucking industry.

The railways estimate the 16-cent conciliation proposal would mean $24,000,000 a year, once the contract was in full swing. The unions claim this figure should be $32,000,000 and that the CPR would save an estimated $7,000,000 in income taxes.

Other railways involved are the Algoma Central and Hudson Bay Railway, Canadian National Railway, Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway and the Midland Railway Company of Manitoba.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

FEATHERS FOR WARMTH

Just think how many hummingbirds it would take to make a bird scarf, muff or hat? There are more than 30! Yet a robin has less than 30 times as many feathers as a hummingbird. About 25,000 to a hummingbird's 900. An 850 Oriental Waxwing, a sized bird, the robin, has around 2,500 feathers, one-tenth the number of feathers a swan can boast. A small bird has a large surface for its weight than a large bird, and consequently more feathers in proportion to its size.

We are apt to think of feathers as a means of flight, but actually they are as much, or more for warmth. Only a few certain ones are used for flight. Surely you have noticed how fluffy birds look in winter. Even their very young, naked infants from out the nest, soon leave them uncovered for long even in summer weather, so sit on the nest with the down and contour feathers spread over the tiny babies as much as possible and still cover the bare skin.

THE BROODING SPOT

Some parts of the skin of most adult birds have no feathers, although you would never be aware of this unless the bird happened to hold in the hand, because feathers grow so thickly over the bare places. One example of this is the brooding spot on the lower side of the body, which must come in contact with the nest in order to hatch it. This is what must also touch the nesting to warm it. Young birds that have never seen the parent wriggle on the nest as it settles on it. This is to push aside the feathers that surround the bare, brooding spot.

Another example of the bare patch is the space in front of the eyes of herons and bitterns. Lack of feathers here is a characteristic of these birds.

EXTRA FEATHERS

Another part of this rule of birds having certain bare portions is the pennula, which has exceedingly small branches and like feathers entirely covering every part of skin. This, of course is a necessity, for a penguin when out in the water is often in ice or snow. Swimming birds have thick "down" or fluffy under feathers, sometimes an inch deep, so that when resting on the water the skin and body are dry. Certain Arctic birds, ptarmigan, have a feather to protect their feet.

Feathers are a perfect insulation, so Nature gives birds more in winter to prevent the body heat from escaping. A goldfinch with about 1400 in summer has almost 2000 in winter. For extra warmth, on a cold day birds fluff out their feathers and make air spaces in between trap the body heat.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

This Unhappy Retired Man's Wife Writes a Letter to Hubby's Boss

By THOMAS COLLINS

Mr. John W. Smith
President, The Company

Dear Mr. Smith:

You sent my 65-year-old husband home with a pension a week ago last Monday.

My impulse at the time was to phone and ask why you hadn't pinned a note to his lapel — as teachers used to do with my children — telling me what to do with him.

My impulse now, almost two weeks later, is to send him back to you.

Both impulses might sound cute. I do not intend that. In all seriousness I ask you what do you expect me to do with this dispossessed soul you have sent home? And since you have had the best hours of his days for the best years of his life why shouldn't I send him back for you, instead of me, to take care of what is left of him.

RESEARCHING THE WIVES

Business executives such as yourself, who are researching everything these days, had better start researching the custodial duties of the employees you find too old to keep. The curiosities, as you must know, are wives.

I am not a militant wife. I think I carry a heart a bit more affection than most women do for the balding, thin-faced, flat-stomached spouses you send home at 65. But I have a so-so intelligence on this matter. I also have the courage to write you what is a well-worn old wife, think.

What I think is this:-

1. You do not train, condition or otherwise prepare a 65-year-old husband for the domestic life he must live when he retires. As a business, weekend resident of home he does not know how to perform at home during the daylight hours. And however he performs, it throws out of gear the evenings and weekends he previously knew how to handle — and he does have yours? I doubt it.

2. It is your problem because you would not discard one other single thing in your business without saving it if it had merited. The old files & you pay somebody to burn them. The trash — you pay somebody to dump it. The old dray horses — you pay somebody for the use of the pasture which you can put them out to. But the husbands you discard at 65 — you dump them on their wives. I don't say you should pay wives for taking care of these supersed-ect husbands — I don't say you shouldn't, either — but it seems to me reasonable for wives to expect you to condition these husbands in some way to be the domestic animals they are going to be from now on. Is this school run on the company time perhaps?

HER PROBLEM TOO

3. You are saying by now that I am a spiteful woman, that the company gives pensions to take care of all this. If you think that you are the one who is stupid. Decently the pension is given to the husband as a rightful extension of what the company owes him for his years of service. If the husband retired to an institution and lived a single, hideously existence from then on, well and good. But a husband's retirement is not just his problem. Or his company's. It's his wife's and his home's. The pension you give, no matter how fat, is for the old horse instead of for us who must grow grass in the pasture.

4.You and the company, along with other businesses, have created an almost of the modern retired man. . .a handsome, erect fellow with a handsome, shapely wife living with his pension to live things up in the sun. Not one wife in 20,000 ever finds such an image in her crystal ing when Santa comes home at 65.

5. If you care, and if what I have been trying to say has gotten through to you, there are some things you can do: (a) You can, respectfully, instead of suggest, that all husbands cut their wives in for part of their pension, seeing to it that the wife has some sort of income for whatever her life expectancy is. (b) You can require that all husbands take rigged physical examinations, starting at age 55 in order to assure that they will live longer in retirement to give companionship to their wives. (c) You can bridge a lawyer into whatever retirement program you have in order to tell husband to make out a will, and how to write it; in order to tell them how to sell or buy a house and how to approach their income tax. (d) You can condition a husband, as I suggested earlier, for the domestic life he must lead.

These five points are enough for now from a wife who has taken over as the wet nurse of one of your retired employees. If you should come to me with anything beyond the usual mast-made platitudes I will be interested world I will tell you more. - Sincerely, Mrs. Retired Man's Wife.

Braziliana Troupe Prepares For Performances in Canada

By Paquerette Villeneuve
Canadian Press Correspondent

PARIS (CP) — Braziliana, a troupe of singers and dancers from the South American republic, leaves here soon to perform in Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto before going on a United States tour.

The group of 21, after triumphal performances in Europe, will travel to Canada by ship under the eye of director Mieciu Askansay, Vienese journalist who has lived in Brazil for 20 years.

Askansay formed the Brazilians troupe somewhat by accident. Originally the former secretary of writer Stefan Zweig operated a bookstore at Rio de Janeiro. He started exhibiting paintings in the store, including the first public showing of paintings by Vieira da Silva, now in Paris and famous.

Askansay became interested in Brazilian negro culture and the voodoo cult. He arranged for performances of voodoo songs and chants in his bookstore-gallery after the daily [illegible] of business.

At first friends were the audience for the negro performers who eventually asked Askansay if he would arrange public engagements for them.

Askansay reluctantly agreed and got involved in such details as having sets and costumes made. Djanira, well-known Brazilian woman painter, designed sets and other artists helped with the costumes.

Askansay hired the State theatre for a one-day rehearsal and in amateur-style helped carry props and baggage to the theatre.

The show proved to be a sensation and Askansay extended his lease on the theatre for four additional days. The troupe stayed at the State theatre for nine months.

The director then called the performers together and got them to decide between disbanding and becoming full-time performers and going on tour. All decided on the tour.

Askansay sold his bookstore and put his money into new costumes and sets. That was in 1956.

The next year, a London impresario hired the Brazilians troupe for a world tour. Today the group is known everywhere in Europe except Romania and Bulgaria which they will visit next year.

The present show, opening in Montreal Dec. 3, represents scenes from everyday Brazilian life including its religious aspects. Part of it is based on the spectacle of the famous Rio Carnival.

Violent Rioting In Caracas Lasts For Three Days

Troops Patrol Capital, 3 Killed, 100 Wounded

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Anti - government rioting broke out anew in several places throughout this capital today. Three persons have been killed and 100 wounded in three previous days of rioting.

Demonstrators clashed with police this morning along the Avenida Sucre which runs through Catia, a crowded workers' bouing district in the western part of the city.

Police reported groups carrying Molotov cocktails (gasoline bombs), were assembling at Plaza Carabobo on the eastern edge of the downtown business district.

The cabinet of President Romulo Betancourt was forced into emergency session to deal with the political and economic unrest which sparked the rioting. National guard troops patrolled the city.

The outburst was attributed by Betancourt to his leftist opponents. Some of them recently defected from the government coalition coalition to attack him in anti-American tones similar to the line of Premier Fidel Castro.

Despite Betancourt's two years in power trying to spread the wealth from this rich country more evenly, there are those who spread pessimism about the outlook for the future.

One man died of bullet wounds and 41 others were injured in Sunday's clashes. Witnesses said snipers opened fire on the crowds. Among those hit by bullets were six policemen and 15 civilians.

Many more were bruised by rocks or suffered from the effects of tear gas as police and national guardsmen drove off roaming bands that caused many burned automobiles and attacked three police stations in working class districts of western and southwestern Caracas.

Big schools and normal schools were closed today for the second time in a month.

Students demanding closer ties to Betancourt's government and Cuba swept the streets in the Fermin Toro High School. Site of an anti-government agitation a month ago. The school, two blocks from the presidential palace, was surrounded by national guardsmen.

The moderate government forces of Betancourt's Democratic Action party and the Christian Socialists now are opposed by the leftist Democratic Republican Union, which left the government coalition 10 days ago, as well as Communists and the Movement of the Revolutionary Left, a Marxist offshoot of Betancourt's party.

Betancourt ordered troops to quell riots here last month, and he was one reason the union quit the coalition. The administration also has accused the government of "selling out to the United States" and "betraying the people."

Elsewhere in the Caribbean, unrest was spotted in Haiti and Colombia.

In Haiti, now in its sixth day of martial law after a student revolt against President Francois Duvalier's government, the army reported it has the army general staff and the administrative council of the national palace.

In Colombia, 30,000 bank workers began a strike for "economic liberation." Their union is demanding that the government withdraw a supreme court appeal against an arbitration award that favored the workers. The strike was denounced by President Alberto Lleras Camargo, and troops were stationed around the bank.

Argue Favors Govt. Subsidy To Avoid Strike

OAKVILLE (CP)—CCF Leader Hazen Argue said Saturday the federal government should give Canadian railways a subsidy to avoid a strike of non-operating employees scheduled to start Dec. 3.

He told a New Party meeting the subsidy would be more justified than government intervention denying railway workers the right to negotiate freely with their management.

He said he agreed with the government that there should be no increases in freight rates to meet a wage increase for the employees, but added that most railway workers were denied a decent living at existing hourly rates.

Mr. Argue blamed the rigid and uncompromising attitude of the railways for the breakdown in negotiations. By starting now to lay off men, the railways were "exerting pressure and trying to see the strike take place," he said.

He added: "Compulsory arbitration, in my view, is repugnant to democratic principles and is resorted to except in a grave national emergency."

16 Cents Hour Given Workers To Avoid Strike

TORONTO (CP) — Wage increases totalling 16 cents an hour over a two-year period, awarded Saturday night by the National Union of Public Service Employees (CLC), averted a strike scheduled for today which would have crippled Toronto's garbage collection.

The union, in a dispute with the city and Metropolitan Toronto, also won a comprehensive medical plan as well as other fringe benefits and the immediate establishment of a basic $1.85 hourly rate.

The union originally had asked for 40 cents an hour, but later changed that to 31 cents and was offered the equivalent of 11 cents by the city and Metro.

TEN PROVINCIAL PREMIERS MEET TO TALK SHOP

Fiscal Policies To Be Issues

QUEBEC (CP) — All 10 Canadian governors, acting against a background of dissatisfaction with their fiscal arrangements with the federal government in Ottawa, will get together this week for the first time.

In 1867, provinces met and conferred for a week but British Columbia and Prince Edward Island didn't participate.

Then, as now provincial premiers had met in Quebec City, Canada's oldest provincial capital. Then, as now, the provincial talks occurred following years of federal - provincial wrangling.

In 1887, as today, the Quebec premier had cautiously stated the provincial talks were not directed against the central government and were not meant to bend the provinces together against Ottawa in their demands for a substantial share of the country's tax revenue.

PM WON'T ATTEND

Then, as now, the prime minister of Canada had declined to participate, and for the same official reason: To stress the strictly provincial nature of the talks.

It is likely that the premiers of Ontario will be the chairmen to the coming conference, as was the case in 1887.

There all similarity seems to end.

Quebec's Liberal Premier Jean Lesage arranged the conference to seek to lead Ottawa out of what he feels has been an isolationist spell under the late Conservative premier Maurice Duplessis and create a new era of Canadian co-operation to encourage the provinces to exchange ideas and work more closely together.

The idea of the conference was hailed by a surging reaction among the intellectual wing of Quebec Liberals to cross the

Invasion of Fans on Playing Field Gives Game Black Eye

VANCOUVER (CP) — Members of the 1960 Grey Cup battle include some of the most bitter recollections of the three national football championships staged here.

Some folks have questioned whether Vancouver has any right to stage another of the classic.

Most of the bitterness revolves around the invasion of fans on to the playing field in Empire Stadium near the end of Saturday's game in which Ottawa Rough Riders defeated Edmonton Eskimos 16-6 for football Commissioner G. Sydney Halter of Winnipeg had the game stopped with 41 seconds left to play.

"A black mark against Vancouver," Mayor Tony Alsbury said of the incident.

"The police invited it," said Halter who accused stadium security forces of standing by as cardboard dummies.

"The disgraceful exhibition I have ever seen," said Gordon Wynn, Eskimos president. He said Eskimos will think twice before agreeing that the Grey Cup game will be played here again." Wynn continued:

"No damage came from the display, but if the game had been close or the players' feelings had been running high, tempers could have flared up and we could have had a riot out there. I was quite ashamed. There was a thorough lack of crowd control."

He was ashamed by the whole thing," said General Manager Lew Hayman of Toronto Argonauts. "The game is Canada's biggest sports spectacle and it hurt football across the country."

Herb Capozzi, general manager of British Columbia Lions, said it "certainly wasn't a good thing to happen. But you must take into account the excitement generated by a Grey Cup game." He said he "would be very surprised" if the incident had any effect on the future Cup games here.

Ralph Hamer of Regina, president of the Western Interprovincial Union, said the fan invasion of the field was "very unfortunate."

"I think we've learned a lesson this time and we'll do something

Mississippi and Alabama Hard Core Against Kennedy

ATLANTA (AP) — An Associated Press survey of southern states shows an inflexible and dissatisfied Democratic electoral bloc has sufficient power to block the election of John F. Kennedy as president of the electoral college.

The hard core of resistance to Kennedy meeting into the White House lies in Mississippi and Alabama. But the indication he will get any of Mississippi's eight or six of Alabama's 11 electoral votes is slim.

Those 14 men contested the New England electors as pledged elector candidates and if they could get 15 more from other southern states to join them, they could throw the election into the House of Representatives.

Common Parliament Plan Of Ghana and State of Mali

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters) — Republican constitutional problems was posed today by the announcement by Ghana's President Nkrumah that Ghana and the French Community state of Mali will set up a common parliament.

Nkrumah announced the new move Sunday night on his return from a visit to Mali. He also said Ghana would grant a long term loan to Mali, the former French Sudan.

There is no precedent for a member of either the Commonwealth or the French Community forming common parliamentary institutions with a non-member state.

It was not immediately determined what effect the decision would have on Mali's neighbor, Guinea. Ghana and Guinea announced two years ago they were establishing the nucleus of a union of West African states.

Nkrumah's statement came more on paper than in practice, and the Commonwealth prime ministers have not formally considered its implications.

Ghana said Ghana-Mali agreement had been reached on a number of issues but the parliament plan was to be the only thing the closer to announce.

Mali, a relic to the Congo, but earlier he authorized a message to the United Nations saying he was asking nine African states, including Mali, to consider establishing an African high command to deal with such situations.

His message said the United States, Britain and France were obviously trying "to have the African states remain neutral" in the Congo. the UN announced in New

MURDER CHARGE LAID AFTER TWO FATAL STABBINGS

Separated Wife Of Accused Hurt

ATIKOKAN (CP)—Alfred McDonald, 36, was charged with murder Saturday night in connection with the fatal stabbing of Donald Mathison, 26, of Atikokan.

Mathison and Mrs. Hazel Lancaster, the accused's mother-in-law, were found dead from stab wounds Friday night. Mrs. Gail McDonald, 18, separated wife of the accused, is in serious condition in Port Arthur Hospital with 16 lacerations.

McDonald will be held in Atikokan until a preliminary hearing early next year, police said.

The stabbing occurred in Mrs. Lancaster's apartment in which her daughter said the couple's two sons, aged two and one, also were living.

McDonald, who moved to Brittania Bay, Ont., after leaving from his wife last September, arrived in Atikokan early Friday night, police said.

TENANT CALLS POLICE

Michael Parent, a tenant in the apartment block where Mrs. Lancaster lived, said he called police after cries for help sent him to the Lancaster suite.

"I found Mathison and the daughter were on a landing outside the suite and the dead youth was in the living room," Parent said.

McDonald was arrested after police made a routine traffic check on Highway 11½ miles east of Atikokan.

A police constable said he found the accused behaving in an erratic manner. When he searched the vehicle, the driver produced a rifle.

When the constable attempted to disarm the driver, the rifle discharged, he said. The officer then struck the accused over the truck into a gravel pit and ran into the bush.

After enlisting the help of other motorists, the officer was informed of the two stabbing.

The driver was captured a few minutes later trying to get back into his truck.

Rescued Miner Forging Ahead In Fight for Life

TORONTO (CP)—British hard rock miner Alan Rose, trapped underground for 49 hours last week in the Hollinger-Hendry mine, is forging ahead in his fight for life.

Doctors at Toronto General Hospital have controlled internal bleeding which on him on the verge of death Saturday and reported the 27-year-old condition is improved Sunday.

A spokesman for the Ontario Workmen's Compensation board, which handles claims for miners, said Rose's wife and shutdowns that were "much more enthusiastic" about his chances to live.

Rose, who suffered head injuries being trapped in a tunnel at the Hollinger-Hendry property, consolidated Gold Mines at Timmins, Ont., after spending a seven-day battle ever since.

He's still a sick and lucky man, the doctors said Wednesday, said. Bleeding in the intestines which had caused concern Saturday has been stopped, he said.

But a stubborn kidney, first used Friday when complications called "renal shutdowns" were found in Rose's kidneys, will probably be used again today.

Union And Rail Leaders Called Back For Talks

Aimed at Preventing Walkout on Saturday

OTTAWA (CP)—Top union and railway leaders have been called back to Ottawa today for a third round of emergency talks aimed at preventing next Saturday's national railway strike.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker and railway and union chiefs together this afternoon in what appears to be a government bid to break the multi-million-dollar deadlock in Canada's largest labor dispute.

The round - table conference is expected to start at 4 p.m., EST with the prime minister in the chair. It will include leaders of the 15 unions, backed by Labor Minister Starr, Transport Minister Balcer and Postmaster-General William Hamilton.

Frank H. Hall, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, will be chief spokesman for the 15-union "non-ops" negotiating team. R. R. Crump, CPR president, and Donald Gordon, CNR president, will represent the six railways involved.

FIRST TRY UNSUCCESSFUL

Diefenbaker's meeting is an unsuccessful effort Saturday to persuade Mediator Andrew Brewin to stay in the dispute until May 15.

The cabinet, Brewin said, regretted he was unable to accept the post as it may have in mind to avert a walkout. All 120,000 railway employees who do not actually work on trains.

Today's crucial conference gets under way amid indications the government may go to Parliament with emergency legislation to keep the trains running—if unable to bring about a compromise settlement.

Others speculate that the legislation—if it is introduced—may enforce a settlement that would give the railwaymen part of the 6 - cent - hourly pay increase and freeze the rest until next year.

The Prime Minister told the Commons last week that any strike would have "grave and terrible" results for Canada's economy. He said the government is prepare to terminate the railways are operated by laying off hundreds of workers. Railways are expected to be warned to prepare to terminate passenger service next Saturday's strike deadline at 8 a.m. regional Standard time.

WON'T ALLOW STRIKE?

More Than 27 Per Cent Of Special Levy Now Paid

With the December 1st deadline for the first instalment of the city of Belleville special tax levy still a few days away, more than 27 per cent of the total levy of $448,000 has already been paid at city hall, it was noted today by city treasurer C.J. Bender.

The 27 per cent has been paid by Friday night and since that time there has been a heavy mail and many the counter payments at city hall today were reported brisk.

This special tax levy to pay off the city's hockey debts and other floating indebtedness may be paid in one lump sum, or in five equal annual instalments due on December 1st of each year.

A large majority of the city property owners are paying the special levy in full in preference to payment by instalments and if the present trend continues the payments made in full will be considerably greater than was initially expected.

Special levy payments have been coming in steadily and the bills went out earlier in the month but with the December 1st deadline coming on Thursday, they have stepped up this week. Payments by mail have been heavy with night work necessary to process it.

Mr. Bender noted today that remittances made in full and datelined up to December 1st would be eligible for the 12 per cent discount allowed for payment of all instalments with the initial payment.

A few taxpayers making remittances by mail are forgetting to deduct the 12 per cent discount when making payment in full.

These people are entitled to refunds which will be received later in the year, possibly before Christmas.

Mr. Bender noted all tax bills were being forwarded to the property owners, but if they wish their mortgage companies to look after the payments the bills should be forwarded to them as soon as possible so the mortgage company can arrange payment and thus avoid penalties.

Minister Tells Graduates Of Importance of People

TRENTON — The Rev. Minister Sway, addressing the graduating class and students at the annual Trenton High School graduation exercises Friday, stressed the importance of the individual in the community and in the sight of God.

"Remember that in your own way, you are of equal importance to give the world, your community and your friends the best of which you are capable," he said.

Mr. Swan said that youth had three characteristics: a gift of enthusiasm, a purpose or goal in life, and an inborn sense of their own value.

He said that youth had an almost divine quality of being able to enjoy life through academic, social and athletic outlets.

Quoting the American philosopher Ralph Waldo Emerson, he said that "to be able to be alive is as almost unbearable pleasure," and added that he hoped the graduates would never lose this exquisite awareness of the challenge of life.

In reference to life's purpose, Mr. Swan said that in his own words with youthful offenders at Collins Bay prison, he frequently came across boys who had not been taught the correct values by their parents, teachers or spiritual advisers. The idea of life is a matter of "putting in time" then lead to tragedy. The good, productive life must be one dedicated in some way to the betterment of one's fellow man, or at least to conditions which affect one's fellow man.

Parents, friends and students packed the assembly hall to witness the presentation of graduation diplomas and pins. Principal W. J. Houston acted as chairman for the evening. The exercises opened with an invocation by Rev. G. A. Puttenham.

Graduates of grade 10, were presented with intermediate graduation diplomas by George Greer and Basil Brooks of the Board of Education.

Honor graduation diplomas and pins were presented to Frank Fillon and John Garrett.

Geese Guard Scotch Whisky Worth Millions

GLASGOW (AP)—A bunch of goose-stepping guards are keeping sharp watch on millions of dollars worth of scotch whisky.

Under the shadow of Dunbarton Rock, where Mary Queen of Scots hid from the English when she was a child are more than 60 years ago, lies Scotland's largest Scotch whisky distillery, owned by George Ballantine and Son Limited.

Twenty million imperial gallons of the very best whisky—enough to float the largest ocean liners—are stored in nearby bonded warehouses.

As part of the security arrangements there is a special guard of one gander—and his platoon of 13 Chinese geese.

If anyone disturbs the gander he starts a rumpus, and immediately his 13 ladies hiss the place down.

These "geese police" are the idea of Tom Scott, managing director. He remembered how his hiskey books told of the Romans who kept geese in ancient Rome from the Gauls.

"It's only the goose-guards warn of raid—but they never touch a drop of the stuff themselves.

A Financier Speaks Out

is not often that one finds important commentary major political crisis in the financial sections of a newspaper—and still less frequently that this ent appears in an advertisement in those sections. happened, though, in an issue of the New York last week, which published an advertisement ising Sir Ronald L. Prain's chairman's report to holders of the Rhodesian Selection Trust Group of anies.

hose who believe that "big business" is always onary, or even necessarily conservative, in its k might well ponder Sir Ronald's remarks on the ction report, the findings of a commission under Monckton of Brenchley on the future of the ation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland. Because it is South Africa, and because some of the repercus- to apartheid in that dominion have slopped over order and been reflected in the thinking of some se white settlers in the Rhodesias, the form of constitution given to the Federation when it ally attains complete independence may have a effect on the future of all of Africa. The com- on's report, and Sir Ronald's commentary upon it, herefore of more than local interest and importance. Here is how Sir Ronald looks at the situation:

"It is in the nature of the task with which the mission was charged that its report was unlikely to ily all parties, or possibly any party. I personally ve that the general principles underlying the chief mmendations in this report should receive firm sup- from those who, like myself, wish to see the mmance of the Federation, yet realize that it is kely to be achieved without the most sweeping rms.

"The alternative of not supporting the general ciples of the Monckton report, it seems to me, is ace the possibility of the dissolution of the Feder- n, and the end of a great experiment in human political relations. In supporting these general ciples, it does not necessarily follow that one is agreement with every one of the recommendations, in my opinion, the report is one of the few realistic uments to appear in relation to these territories, nd as it is on the recognition that in countries ere non-whites are in a majority, the day must come en a majority of the electorate will be non-white, that any attempt to preserve a permanent barrier- ist this is short-sighted and doomed to failure.

"No one is suggesting that major changes can be ieved overnight, but the only realistic course is that ge steps towards this should be taken with the mini- m of delay. In the context of Africa today a sense urgency leading to bold decisions may well be the ors which contains the least risks."

The Congo would have been better served had lead- Belgian financiers spoken like this.

Cursed! Foiled Again

Sometimes scientists amaze us. They know so

A British psychologist spent three weeks in the wegian Arctic studying the swearing habits of sea- ists. The zoologists were studying birds; the chologist was counting the times the zoologists pt under stress. Now it may be that there is nothing about watching birds in the Norwegian tic which is particularly productive of stress, uld have thought that a more fertile field for this search would be any daily newspaper around press- e, but we will let that go and get back to the facts this report.

The psychologist found that as tension and discom- rt rose, so did the "annoyance" type of swear word. mazing what these scientists can discover, isn't it? the other hand, the men swore most—in a social ay—when conditions were good. This may not prise a great many men, but perhaps it puzzled the psychologist, though the report does not specifically ate that she found this strange.

She? Oh, yes, the psychologist was a woman. ow what chance do you think a woman would have of termining accurately the swearing habits of men? es no one ever tell these scientists the simplest facts life?

LOOK AROUND YOU

As a part of a college initia- n recently, a young man had k with the result that a bit of our town dressed in a ble robe and sandals and car- ing a sign which proclaimed at the end of the world was at hand. To its originator, this ank was a failure. Apparently hardly anyone paid any at- ntion or looked at him twice. We are sophisticated people, ay of us even blase people. e this make us unaware eryant people? It is barely pos- ible that everyone who saw this ung man on Main Street im- ediately thought to himself, ike most of it!

"Just another fraternity initia- tion," as did not even glance a second time. But I doubt it. I believe that many of the passers- by who saw him were so little concerned with the world about themselves that in a sense they actually did not see him at all. We live in an age of remark- able phenomena and amazing change — yet we seem to be come less- and less observant. Our pioneer ancestors with- through trackless forests saw more of the world about them than we do. In an environment of comparative marvels, we wear self-made blinders.

You have but a short span to see the world you live in — make it count!

Einstein and Relative Motion

BY HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Ontario Minister of Energy Resources

ARTICLE II

Relativity and Einstein's Theory of Relativity are not the same thing. Relativity is a simpler concept and involves motion. That is to say "I am moving." "You are standing still," therefore "my motion is relative to you."

I am considering my state of motion to your state of motion, hence "relativity."

This sense of relativity had been known for ages and does not seem to be very spectacular, but Einstein was the first to show how spectacular it could become if you combine relative motion with the speed of light.

Sir Isaac Newton in 1687 had investigated that very mess such a thing as "zero" motion. That is to say, it could be deduced from Newton's laws dealing with time and space, that there was something somewhere in the universe that was not moving. Therefore if there is something somewhere in the universe that is not moving, how could call that thing anything but "Zero Motion." All other motion in the world could then be compared to that absolute motion.

It is clear today that there is no such thing as absolute motion. There is nothing Standing still. Therefore, when one is trying to decide how fast one is moving or even if one is moving at all, the only thing one can do is to compare one's own motion with the motion of something else.

"EARTH" MILES

Let me offer an example.

We do say that a car is travelling at 60 miles per hour. What does 60 miles per hour mean? The surface of the earth, at the Equator, is travelling at 1000 miles an hour. Therefore, the car is actually travelling at 1060 miles per hour or minus 60 miles an hour or a total of 1060 mph or 940 mph, depending upon whether the car is moving with or against the motion of the earth. If it is travelling 60 "earth" miles an hour, but not 60 miles an hour, that last 60 miles should be accordingly adjusted.).

Let us start a step further, the Earth is spinning at 100 miles an hour in its orbit and it is moving forward to circle the Sun at 66,000 miles an hour. Therefore, the car is actually going forward at the total speed of 66,000 miles an hour, plus the spin of the Earth at 1000 miles an hour, plus the motion of the car of 60 miles an hour, or the speed of the car is actually 60 plus 1000 plus 66,000 miles per hour, or 67,060 "solar" miles per hour.

This step can be carried on as far as because the Solar System and the galaxy of which the Solar System is a part, are also moving.

Therefore, it's incorrect to say that a car is travelling at 60 miles an hour unless you say, 60 miles an hour relative to the Earth. But everyone knows you mean that "earth" is your reference, so it is omitted."

(But if you were talking to a person from another planet you would have to add the reference of "the earth and the sun follow from the other planet would have a different speed perhaps for 60 miles per hour.)

Therefore, in every day life, all of us have been talking of relativity and we never knew it.

SPEED IS RELATIVE

Every speed is therefore relative to something. It is not, therefore, absolute. Amazingly enough, the same is true of motion. You may say to yourself "I know what I am moving and when I am not moving."

Actually, you could as well say, "I am standing still and the house is moving." In any event you would mean that "the house is standing still" because the earth, the house and motion embedded in the surface of the earth and the surface of the earth, the house is moving at 1000 miles an hour, so your house is moving at a speed approaching 1000 miles an hour. Then, you may be moved by saying: "My house is standing still." Relativity, it is standing still." Relativity, it is standing still." Relativity, it is standing still."

Now, there can come a day when the answer to the circumstances when you cannot tell whether you are moving or standing still.

AN ACTUAL TEST

Have you ever sat in a railway station, on a train, which is just standing there, waiting to start? You look out of the window and see the train next to you slowly and quietly moving. Then, you wonder to yourself — "Is the other train moving or am I?" So, you look down between the trains to find the platform. Because you think that the platform at least is standing still.

It is only when you compare your train to the other train, or to the platform, that you know whether you train is moving, or whether it is the other train. Try this the next time you get on a train. The next sensation leaves you subtly in doubt as to his intentions. Relatively told you whether you were moving or standing still, you, yourself could not tell. This can have tremendous implications!

A PRACTICAL TEST

You are up in a space ship. It is absolutely dark outside — nothing is in sight! Your rockets are off. There is a vacuum outside. Could you say whether you are moving? No you could not.

If another space ship came by with its lights on, could you be sure whether it was moving or whether you were moving. Is your ship moving towards it or is it overtaking you, or is one of you standing still in space? You cannot tell! You have no station platform to look at this time!

A very practical problem involved with motion and relativity is encountered every day in air travel. A pilot, in an aeroplane, travelling 200 miles an hour, sees an obstacle in front of him. He sights and flies further away than it actually is. In short, if the pilot comes in to land at 200 miles an hour, the ground will be eight feet closer to him than it was, or put the other way about, the plane will be eight feet farther above in space than the pilot thinks it is. This is because we do not perceive speed directly. We do it by moving quickly to be in the position in front of something because of the slowness with which we react. Therefore, we are the ones that react in a position in which it is not.

Now, you can see that "all motion is relative". In fact, since everything in the universe, seems to be moving relative to then, there cannot be, nor is there any absolute motion. Zero is considered as a true stationary yardstick. But Einstein's eight feet between standing still and moving at a constant speed except by comparison to "standing still."

You may say to yourself "so what?" Actually, the simple and innocuous as this first postulate appears, when it is combined with the second postulate there was made possible the atom bomb, the hydrogen bomb, and placed in man's hand, power to alter the direction of his own evolution. It is hard to imagine a more significant result.

To be continued.

Bubble Fence Foils Sharks

Montreal Star

An ingenious shark fence has been developed at the United States. Understandable concern was caused the other day when a bather was put in peril by a hauling shark.

It is said that a perforated hose pipe is laid on the bottom of the sea, and the pipe is then bent on a bit broiled bather, seeks entry to the precincts of the beach. Then by the time it bubbles rising from the pipe, trie while compressed air is being pumped.

The pipe has received positive aid in an aquarium and in the three days during which it was tested, only one shark crossed through, and he was apparently a "wild, irritable, much handled shark."

However, the authorities can be certain that if one does get through, they will have a wild, irritable, much handled swimmer on their hands.

Canadian PLACE NAMES

ALGONQUIN

Name of a tribe of Indians and also one of the great national parks in Canada, containing 2,000 square miles. The name is thought to have come from the French meaning "those on the other side," but now generally believed to be derived from the Micmac Algoomakeeg meaning, "at the place of spearing fish."

It wasn't the fault of President Eddie George and the talent lads in the Wharf Street Debating Club. They furnished the atmosphere, the setting and the characters; the stage was all set when the contestants arrived, but the show was disappointing to any of the crowd who came expecting verbal fisticuffs, sensational speeches and all the color and bustle embellishments that formerly marked the annual bun-feed as one of the outstanding functions of the electoral season.

Seriously it was a good party, and the boys handled cheerfully to Secretary 'Bus' Dunlap's duties and willingly gimlet forked over one dollar for their annual membership. Three-Week Tourist Can Be Right

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

It has become one of the liberal notions that you can't know a people or a country unless you live there for a long time — and therefore the three-week traveller to Europe is to be despised. And disregarded when he gives us his dogmatic opinions of the countries he has briefly toured.

There is some truth in that exemplary but not a lot of false food. For it is possible to visit a new country in a few weeks and see it in a way that the natives can no longer see it.

Habit dulls the edge of observation. We in this country, for instance, accept automobiles and our customs so naturally and easily that we no longer have a perspective on ourselves. A educated and intelligent three-year can grasp a better idea of what we are like, precisely because he has not been locked in the social process here.

After a while we do not notice familiar scenery. We pass it every day on our way to work or shopping, but we do not really see it. The same is true of our national habits, facets and views. The emotional and social scenery is so close to us that our power of vision almost ceases to function.

Obviously, a stupid, close-minded traveller is going to return with a stupid and close-minded view of the country he has visited — but this would be true if he spent three years there, as well as three weeks. Travel broadens only the broad; it narrows the narrow — just as money tends to make good men better and bad men worse.

But a tourist with some sense, taste and background can often capture a good deal of the overall trait of a national spirit than the oldest inhabitant. What the native takes for granted (as almost a part of nature), the tourist views with a fresh eye.

Our national obsession with "efficiency" is a case in point. As example, is scarcely noticed by ourselves; but to the foreigner it is the most striking key to understanding many of our strange ways.

Countries cannot see themselves any more clearly than individuals can. No one knows what he really looks like from the outside; he can only look at us at best a vague and changing image, as we look at a stranger, taking a fresh and careful look at us, can often see more about our personalities and deepest yearnings in a half-hour than we can ever find out ourselves after years of patient self-examination.

The three-week tourist is neither to be despised nor disregarded. He is only imperfect; but he is just as likely to be right.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

• VARICOSE VEINS MOST FREQUENTLY OCCUR IN THE LEGS

"Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter, aged 18, for several years has had a varicose vein condition centering around the base of the thumb on her right hand. It has become very tasty and painful at times. Can anything be done to be injected and thus be solved? Or what would you suggest? — M. W. K."

It is doubtful if the condition you describe is a matter of varicose veins — indeed, I cannot say so far as to say it almost certainly is not.

People, in the last few years, have become much more conscious of varicose veins. This is good. But we mustn't become too conscious of them, and think that every vein that is prominent and bloe is "varicose".

Varicose veins almost always are in the legs, in the extreme lower part of the trunk. That is because the pressure in the veins is greatest in the lower part of the body. Although, it does exist, prominent veins in the feet very, very rarely are varicose. It is natural for them to be prominent, and we can call them varicose only if they are very enlarged (here is normal.)

Anyway, in the rest of the body, varicose veins are rare varicose.

Getting down to cases, it is quite usual, and quite normal, for veins around the base of the thumb (as well as, say, on the backs of the hands) to be prominent, either in the hands or in both.

This is much more likely to be true in long-fingered individuals, and also more often true in warm weather than in cold.

Since this is normal, there is no pain. Nor is there pain even if the veins in the hands are quite large.

I hope this has been sufficient to persuade you that you don't hunt for "varicose veins" in the hands or arms.

When there's pain, something is wrong. But it might be pain in the joint of the thumb, or in any of several troubles.

And when I say "any of several troubles," you doubtless already know what I'm going to say next: "Find out what the trouble is."

Chances are that your rheumatic family doctor will be able, in a jiffy, to put down the precise trouble. If it turns out to be some unusual problem with which he is not familiar, he will soon enough refer you to a specialist.

But don't, I urge all my readers, jump to the conclusion that a prominent vein anywhere is a "varicose vein". Look for that trouble in the places where it usually occurs — namely the legs.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is the yellow, crusty substance which sometimes appears in my eyelashes a sign that the diseases or have eye trouble? — C. D."

Not at all. The fact that infection (pus) or it can be the yellow, crusty stuff is dried mucus, which has flowed in Nature's effort to ease the irritation. In the case of the treatment of it as a skin affliction — one only if they are severe enough to require approach, rather than fiddling around with glasses. You might see the local specialist.

Note to Mrs. P.: If a person over 50 (or 40, or 60) eats properly there is no need for vitamin concentrates, nor a lot of people, in these mature years, don't eat properly. There's no known advantage in "natural vitamins' over synthetic ones.

Never take a chance on disease! For better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Molner in care of the Bell Syndicate Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 156, Dundee Ill. for a copy of my booklet, "Diabetes — The Sneaky Disease". Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 30 cents in coin to cover cost of handling and postage.

THOUGHTS WITHIN US

The thought we carry around Rodin's great statue, "The Thinker" might be thinking, if we come into Rodin's thought must have inspired him to create such an outstanding work in stone.

We wonder how this great work of art has influenced the actual thoughts of everyone who has looked upon it? Has this "Thinker" helped to furnish an abundance of thoughts, made ready for each one of us?

I have never looked upon this Rodin statue without feeling words within me, moving around, revolving around me as individual inspiration. Only those thoughts within the soul are ready for immortality!

THE PACKSACK

BY GREGORY CLARK

The question what to give one's families friends for Christmas is often the most vexing of the little problems of the season. Some people seem little token gifts; nothing extravagant.

Among those who have happily solved the problem are four sisters of my acquaintance. Many years ago, they agreed that instead of buying gifts for children, and any extravagance was to be directed towards one another's family. For each other they gave each other two dollars.

This worked out fine. Each year they'd bill to her three sisters, and get $6 from them. Each sister, then, would decide, back in 1920, that she'd make a pretty gift for the women of their age to give to one another, so they spend the two dollars.

This Christmas, they are taking a real leap. Their children are now all grown up and have moved into their own homes with many token gifts are called for from their aunties — a book, a necktie, a pair of nylons. So the four sisters have agreed that their gift may be raised to $10 each, which they exchange with the greatest expressions of affection and cries of gratitude to one another.

Heated Discussions Heard At Lively Nomination Meet

CAMPBELLFORD — There was a large attendance at the Masonic Temple here last Monday night for the nomination for all offices with the exception of public school trustees and deputy reeves.

Ballots will be taken on Monday, December 5th for the following offices:

For Mayor (one to be elected)—R. J. Locke, F. M. Rutherford.

For Reeve—G. H. Free, W. R. Nicholas.

For Public Utilities Commission (two to be elected)—H. A. MacArthur, R. J. A. McGregor, G. W. Vandervoort.

For Council (six to be elected)—F. R. Dennis, S. A. Hopping, H. L. Macmillan, Reg Quiglaydire, Morley Petherick, Morley Tanner, J. D. Torrance.

Deputy Reeve—A. D. Bennett (elected by acclamation).

Public School Trustees —Cyril Johnson, H. E. Cryderman, Winston Mowbray (by acclamation).

The clerk, Eldon M. Ibey, was named chairman for the public meeting following the nomination of candidates. The meeting commenced in an orderly manner, but some heated discussions followed.

First speaker was Mayor F. M. Rutherford. He complimented the committees, who he said, had done their best. As chairman of the Road and Bridge Committee he said that the report showed expenditures of $24,170.82 on this account. The statement is to October 31st and the $35,000 budget should be sufficient by the year. Sidewalks and roads had been resurfaced to the extent of 3000 tons of blacktop. Much had been done at a low cost because of the purchase of the roller and the use of the town's own labor force. One and one-half miles of cold mulch and the same amount of oil and chips were put on local streets.

COMPLIMENTED COMMITTEES

He reported that the pulp mill will soon be in operation with 37 employees and the Campbell Brush Company had shipped their machinery from England to be set up here. He complimented Councillor Dennis on his Senior Citizens Committee and Coun. Brown on the parks. He called attention to heavy school costs which amount in all to over $125,000 or 46.378 mills. He stated that he will be a candidate having served as Mayor for two years, as Reeve two as Deputy —Reeve and several years in council.

Reeve Free, chairman of the Finance committee, spoke chiefly of his work in County Council, where he sat on the Board of Management of the Home for the Aged. He said he is on five county committees. As chairman of the Finance Committee, he said that he had stood firmly for council's authorization for payment of unauthorized bills when presented to his committee. There had been several of these which were not paid until property authority was received. He said he would stand for election as Reeve.

Coun. Bennett, chairman of the Legal committee, and sitting Deputy-reeve, said he will be a candidate.

H. A. MacArthur, chairman of the Public Utilities, gave a brief resume of the Commission's business, calling attention to the improvements in street lighting and increased purchases of Hydro power. The new sub-station built for the pulp mill was a necessity in order to carry the heavy load to that point. Without this a strain would be put on the facilities of the commission, while with it, we will enjoy adequate installations for many years to come. He declared himself a candidate for re-election.

EXPLAINS MUTUAL AID

Councillor M. E. Petherick explained the mutual aid system in operation between the various fire departments in the counties. He paid tribute to the fire brigade and their efficiency. He had instructions in fire fighting and life-saving. Their quarters at the fire hall are a credit to the brigade. Mr. Petherick stated that he will be a candidate.

Coun. Locke said that the Industrial Committee, of which he is chairman, had spent about $2400. Its members of the Lake Ontario Development Association. He said that a portion of this $675 charged to the committee, was not spent by the committee. Some cheques or cheques had been paid before they were authorized by council. He said he was for economy in the expense but the manner of it. He is in favor of and voted for the continuance of the Senior Citizens project by council, he said. He further stated that a good industry is in prospect, one which will employ up to 70 men and women. He said that the assessment on the Mayor's property occupied by Basic Co., was the enlarged premises maintained at the figure as when heretofore, namely, $3,300. This is to be appealed by the Councilors' Assessor. Each man should pay his taxes. He said he will be a candidate for Deputy-Reeve.

Coun. Brown was not present.

Coun. Macmillan, chairman of the Property Committee, said the town's lots had all been priced for sale and some sold. Council for the first time in recent years, had assisted in the upkeep of the cenotaph, as well as the Recreation and Senior Citizens expenses to the extent of $500. He said he did not enjoy his year in council, not approving of the way council operated. He expects to be a candidate for councillor for 1961.

Mr. Everett Steele, chairman of the Public School Board, said that education is costly and the board had always tried to get the best value for their money. Excellent relations exist between the staff and the Board.

Coun. Dennis, chairman of Welfare and Senior Citizens, said the former is a committee governed entirely by factors beyond council's control. The Senior Citizens Club is one of the best between Toronto and Montreal The members have undertaken to assist themselves with equipment. The project is a six-day a week proposition and should be run within the $1,000 budget figure. He will be a candidate for council.

J. O. Torrance, chairman of the Police Committee, recalled a number of problems of the year. He said he was on the Arena Board and that $648 had been spent in 1960 on structural maintenance and the board goes into the winter season with a balance of about $400. He will be a candidate for election.

Commissioner G. W. Vandervoort stated that the town council had co-operated with the P.U. Commission. Both operate rinks for the benefit of the citizens of Campbellford. We are in a better position to give power to industry than ever before. After more than a year's negotiation the Commission will soon be able to give a better supply to the consumer. He will stand for election.

G. W. Jones, speaking for the North-East Northumberland High School Area Board, said that the school is at a higher level of efficiency than ever before and the bringing of the Warkworth pupils to Campbellford had proved to be a blessing to the community. The student body had increased in numbers, but the board should have a surplus by the end of the year. The staff is excellent and well qualified and the school can accommodate an increase in pupils for some years to come.

Cyril Johnson, vice - chairman of the Public School Board, said there is harmony in the board's relations with the staffs of the schools. He thanked his proposers as did Messrs. Cryderman and Mowbray. All elected by acclamation.

Mr. Reg. Outingdyke declared himself a candidate for council.

Mr. Wm. B. Nicholas stated he will contest the Reeveship with Reeve Free. He had been eight years in council.

R. J. A. McGregor announced his intention to run for Commissioner.

S. A. Hopping said he had been on the School Board for ten years and would stand for re-election.

FIGURET

"So you're just fair-ly," said Sam, flipping the pages of his little book, "with three kids. How old are they?"

"Lay off. You're not inquiring from me," Bert laughed. "But figure it out yourself. The three ages add up to the number of this house, and multiplied together they'll make my age."

Sam thought hard. "Nope," he admitted, "I can't say for sure."

"Forget it," Bert glanced at his watch. "The eldest two will be walking back from school now, so you'll meet them."

That was all Sam needed to know, and he gave the three ages without further delay.

What were they?

Thanks for an idea, to: Bob Nash, Toronto.

Around The Tee

The whirl of bonspiels around the district has ocened and Quinte Curling Club, rinks will likely be represented at most of them.

Thirty-six rinks were on hand in Kingston on Saturday for a mixed spiel and two rinks from the local club, Mr. and Mrs. Gil Wannamaker with Mr. and Mrs. Don MacKinnon forming one rink the other composed of Mr. and Mrs. Jones with Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Wilkinson, and both rinks came home with prizes.

The top three cups were won by Kingston rinks, while the Wilkinson foursome got fourth prize and the MacKinnon rink fifth. The spiel was run on a point system and both Belleville rinks won the three games played and with each rink having to win in the extra end, in the extra end for Wilkinson, Ernie made a perfect draw to "The Button" for shot. The party reported the ice in excellent condition and the hospitality unequalled.

Although the Quinte club has only been in existence three years the players, both men and women, have vastly improved in technique and they will be hard to beat in the many spiels to come throughout the winter.

The members who intend playing in the one-day spiel at the local club next Saturday are requested to get their names on the board as soon as possible. From the names submitted the committee will draw the rinks and it is hoped by this method to arrive at a rink of equals and it will be far superior to the rest of the field. Leather goods of all kinds will be the prizes and a social evening will follow the last game, which should be over a little after nine. Sign up on the board and get into the fun.

Q.T. Finish Arts-Crafts Workshop

At Queen Elizabeth School, on November 18 and 19, over 170 men and women teachers of the Quinte district participated in workshops to complete the final portion of the Arts and Crafts course sponsored by the Belle- ville Women Teachers' Associa- tion.

Guest speaker at the luncheon was Mrs. Eleanor Brown, who spoke to the group on "Color in Everyday Living." She asked several people to choose five of their favorite colors and from this she was able to discover certain characteristics about them. Judg- ing by the laughter, she was quite accurate.

Later she showed pictures of rooms decorated in those colors. She also explained the use of color to increase efficiency.

Mrs. Brown was a teacher her- self in New York before she mo- ved to Toronto and is now a staff trainer and color consultant at the Robt. Simpson Company.

The service closed with a hymn and a time of prayer.

Nurses Press For Legislation For College

TORONTO (CP) — The 24,000- member Registered Nurses' As- sociation of Ontario will press for legislation to form a college of nurses which would control the standards for registered nurses and certified nursing as- sistants.

The decision was unanimous by 113 voting delegates at a special meeting today and was made despite the suggestion of Health Minister Dymond that reference to certified nursing assistants be deleted from the proposed draft bill. Several delegates said un- ions would attempt to infiltrate the nursing assistants if the RNAO did not include them in its legislation.

Mrs. Helen Levett of Hamil- ton, president of the Association of Certified Nursing Assistants of Ontario, said he group was "thrilled" at the idea of being included in the legislation.

Delegates approved the princi- ple that "a profession has the right to determine its own stand- ards of education and practices," and that "the control of mini- mum standards is through a gov- erning body composed of repre- sentatives elected by every mem- ber of the profession resident in Ontario — these to compromise the voting majority, representa- tives from the organized profes- sion, and the appropriate cabinet minister."

The 30 per cent of registered nurses in Ontario who are not members of the RNAO would be given voting privileges.

Dessert Souffles For The Entertaining Crowd

By Mary Moore

I sat down to have a good think. This was a desperate measure. I am inundated with requests — some amount to pleas — for "special" "different" "exotic" menus and recipes for Christmas parties.

One shining idea emerged from confusion, and I have my brother to thank for it.

He and my sister-in-law, Wyn and my two sisters went to England on a Cunard liner this past summer. They all came home raving about the souffles that were served nightly aboard the Sylvania. Wilf has been asking us to make them ever since.

Last week with all my Christmas cakes and puddings made I tackled souffles — trying ever so conscientiously to reproduce those he tasted on board ship, made a Lemon Souffle. "Too fluffy." Then we tried a Chocolate Souffle. "Just right."

Dinner Menus

By Mary Moore

MONDAY

Mixed Vegetable Juice; Broiled Beef Cakes with Mushroom Gravy; Mashed Potatoes; Buttered Green Beans; Crunch Cream; Coffee.

TUESDAY

Now these souffles have one rule that must not be broken: they must be served hot and at once. Well organized cooks do not mind this last minute service. But girls who are timid cooks and are not old hands at entertaining should avoid them.

I will give you the Chocolate Souffle. Wilf gave the nod of approval.

CHOCOLATE SOUFFLE:

3 squares of bitter chocolate, 1 1-2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoons flour, 1 cup hot milk, 5 egg yolks, 5 tablespoons sugar, 4 egg whites.

Melt chocolate over hot water. Melt butter in top of double boiler, add flour to make smooth paste. Stir in gradually hot milk and cook until thickened. Beat egg yolks, add sugar. Add a little of the hot mixture at first then stir in the remainder. Return to double boiler and cook until it thickens. Add melted chocolate and mix well. Cool. (To speed chilling set top of double boiler in a pan of water with ice cubes in it.) Meanwhile, beat egg whites to a stiff froth and add to the cooled mixture, stirring thoroughly. Butter well a glass or earthen baking dish, or individual dishes (I prefer these); pour in the mixture, filling dishes only 3-4 full, as it will rise in the dish. Bake 350°F. for 30 minutes. It will rise above the dish. Serve very hot on hot plates with thin cream (see below). Individual souffles may be baked, but on hot plates.

LEMON SOUFFLE:

Yolk 4 eggs, grated rind and juice of 1 large lemon, 4 tablespoons sugar, 4 egg whites.

Beat yolks until thick and lemon-colored, add sugar gradually, beating well after each, then add lemon juice and rind. Cut and fold in whites beaten until stiff but not dry. Bake in well-buttered pudding dish. Stand in pan of boiling water and bake 35 to 40 minutes at 350 deg. F.

SAUCE:

The Brandy Sauce I gave you for Salzburg Rocket on December 16th, 1959, is excellent with the chocolate souffle, but a simpler one is Foamy Sauce: One-half cup butter, 1 cup powdered sugar, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons wine or 1 teaspoon vanilla or rum flavoring. Cream the butter, add gradually sugar, egg well beaten, flavoring; beat while heating over hot water. The Lemon Souffle does not require a sauce.

Alpha Lambda Holds Pledge Night and Hears Talk on Art

A reception for the new pledges of Alpha Lambda Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi was held in the Prince Edward suite of the Quinte on November 21st, 1960.

Mrs. Lewis Andrews, guest speaker at the banquet, which followed the festivities, gave an enlightening address. She was introduced by Mrs. W. Simpson.

Mrs. Andrews touched briefly on art in its varied forms in every day life. "Good design is art", she stated, "but it must be based soundly on material without pretense of being something it isn't, and must also be of simple line, useful and beautiful". Secondly, the use of color in our life. Variety is home decor, requires a good snitch of common sense and thrift. Do clothes should follow the same principles as design and color, but a nicety proportion is also necessary to enhance the wearer.

"We usually think of anyone who paints as being an artist", she stated. "Many are painters but artists are few. Artists have that something that comes where We painters leave off. Today there are 8,000,000 amateur painters in U.S.A. and in Canada, though we have no figures, art has made great strides.

"Many amateurs are reaching professional levels. They are not artists, but it does show the gain in interest in painting as well in Canada in a short period. Two of our great amateur artists today are Sir Winston Churchill and Dwight D. Eisenhower".

Mrs. Andrews also discussed art as a hobby. Of the several mediums, she prefers oils, because it is less exacting and therefore can hover on making it less discouraging for the beginner. She believes everyone can paint and why not? We all learned to write, so why not learn to paint? Drawing is another way, like writing, to express ourselves. We all aren't genius, but 95 per cent of genius is 'application' and no matter how much talent we have it can and will be dormant unless worked at.

"As long as the painter doesn't think himself and gives the best of himself in the painting, it doesn't matter that he never reaches the level of the artist; he thereby gets much satisfaction and pleasure".

In mentioning the principal types of painting, Mrs. Andrews explained that representative painting is just 'like it is' while semi-abstract painting is one in which the artist starts out by putting something of himself in it, but changes and twists the form. On the other hand, abstract or non-objective painting is projected entirely within the artist's mind, printed from him, but the viewer does not recognize its form.

Referring to abstract art, Mrs. Andrews said that a great number of people will say they do not like it, but these people are accepting of anything, art included, until they really know it. Abstract art is something that will never really know, because it has a different impression and appeal to everyone. These people have created a 'mental block' in their non-acceptance of abstract art. In the 1900's French impressionists and cubism were thought revolutionary in their day. Also in Canada, the 'group of seven' who did a great many paintings of the Algoma district were not accepted at first, but whether or not we like the 'group of seven's' work they acquired prestige in art for Canada and started a new line of thought".

"One can not lay down rules on what we should look for in the art gallery, because our own experiences for colour and our attitude plays a great part; but attitude plays a great part; but it is the artist's ability to use rhythm and the pattern running through the whole thing, this should be sufficient to like the painting whether or not it has any meaning to it. It's not a reason why, when looking at art because the artist puts eyes and lines on his own. 'Beauty was in the eye of the beholder' was never more true than looking at an abstract painting. We have to delve into it, feel it and bits and see what we like about it.

FINER ART POINTS

Mrs. Andrews enumerated a few of the finer points to look for when viewing art. These are: strength, simplicity, serenity, gaiety, harmony, balance-rhythm, imagination, variety, colour, sympathy and originality; and by the same token, one must deplore weakness, artificiality, cheapness, sentimentality, vulgarity, monotony, and hard work; wardness.

"We must view with an open mind, be ready to accept the best and try to understand it".

HOSTESS

Mrs. Andrews summed up with a simple definition of art — "It is an expression, in some form, of human emotion. It is for everyone; it is for you".

Mrs. E. Hutchinson expressed the thanks and appreciation to Mrs. Andrews and presented her with a token of thanks.

PLEDGE RITUAL

The impressive pledge ritual ceremony conducted by president, Mrs. H. E. Truax followed, in which Mrs. V. Simmons and Mrs. J. Thompson were received into membership and were presented with their pledge pin and corsage of yellow roses by the emblem of Beta Sigma Phi by Mrs. J. Hayman and Mrs. N. Desmond. Congratulations and a warm welcome were extended to the new members by president, Mrs. H. L. House, social sponsor, Mrs. Robeson, director Mrs. William Tatham and by each member in turn, thus bringing a gala evening to a close.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of the discussion presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counsellors and social workers.

Alice R. — I want my nose done over. I could be beautiful.

Mr. G. R. — She's beautiful now. Why look like everyone else?

Alice R. — I can't convince my parents how important it is to me to get my nose remodelled. I'm 19 and, to them, I'm gorgeous. But to me I'm Miss Schnozzola.

My other features are good and if weren't for being all-nose I could change my hairdo and wear exciting hats. Now I'm limited to styles that, in the words of the fashion mags, lead the eye away from the face.

But the deeper reason is my self-consciousness and unhappiness. Ever since I was a child I felt nobody saw any part of me except my nose. I haven't been to a plastic surgeon yet, but rather go with my mother. But if she and my dad continue to pooh-pooh the idea and refuse to talk me out of it, I'll go alone and figure some way to swing it. It would make me a different person.

Mr. G. R. — Alice is just looking for trouble. She doesn't know enough about surgery to let well enough alone. We've seen some botched jobs come out of the plastic surgeon's office. The boys and girls wind up looking worse instead of better.

It would be different if their health were at stake. But this is just vanity, a whim. She's a good looking girl. If I must say so myself, even if she has my nose. It's the family nose and it's never been a handicap to any of us, as far as I can see. All the girls got husbands, and all the boys made their mark. Let her concentrate on her education and develop her personality. She'll be as attractive no one will notice her nose.

The Council — Mr. R. should agree to having Alice consult an accredited plastic surgeon for a professional opinion and decision.

Mr. R. — Alice's mental health, if it's a good shape, a plastic surgeon will discuss the pros and cons of a change. Otherwise he'll think that she have psychotherapy or other treatment and operation will not be cured with a new nose.

Mr. R.'s objections, while loving and typical, aren't to the surgical technique. Plastic is a field have been highly refined by the last 25 years and the success is extremely high. And the psychological effect on the one might remind Mr. R. that vanity is sometimes a wholesome motivation. It can stimulate interest and pride in putting forward the best self.

As to getting a husband, that's not what noses are for! They're to complete a face. If, as she says, Alice's nose can be cut so she pleases her whether she's old or a new one), a block will be removed and the real Alice can function.

INVITATIONS TO ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATIONS

A week or so ago I discussed the different things that symbolize certain wedding anniversaries. As a follow-up, and also in answer to many letters, mention of how to issue invitations for these celebrations would seem to be in order.

These occasions may be celebrated in many ways. For the early years, the observance is usually of an informal nature. A supper dinner party or an informal evening affair may be given by relatives or friends of the celebrating couple. Or the couple themselves may choose an afternoon or evening when they will be at home, to greet their friends when they invite.

Invitations for the informal parties may be handwritten notes. If the group is to be small, a telephone call is perfectly proper. The invitation should be written on plain, white stationery, or informal notes of paper, or cards which may bear so-called "At Home" monograms or catchy jingles. The use of the folded-over, small card also is correct for these affairs, and may bear address of those giving the party (usually written by the hostess-wife) on the outside of this card. The invitation is written on the inside, facing you as you open it.

If the invitation is being issued by relatives or friends of the couple, the wording would be somewhat as follows: "In compliment to Mary and John Doe on the occasion of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary." This is followed by the hour, the date, time and place where the party is to be held. The use of the first names of the couple is optional, as in this case. Since guests are invited to such a celebration are usually relatives and old friends, their presence is expected is not out of line.

Should the couple themselves wish to entertain, the informal procedure would be much the same except that the invitation would omit the "In compliment to" and say instead something like "Hoping you will help us in celebrating our anniversary" etc.

If they decide to issue a formal invitation for an anniversary reception (which would include close friends, it should be engraved on a card and the wording would be as follows:

1960

Mr. and Mrs. Philip John Doe
At Home

Tuesday, December sixth

Five to seven o'clock

The dates appearing at the top indicate that the couple are observing their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. No other form of formal invitation is required. You simply go. If possible, to pay your respects.

Next you will cover the formal invitation which is issued by the children of a couple when they are entertaining in honor of their parents. Also, the question, "Should a gift be taken to an anniversary celebration?"

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Question: When visiting a sick friend, is sending something to whom you have a box of candy or gift, is it proper for the husband or the wife to make the presentation? Would it make any difference if the person was better acquainted with the husband or the wife?—Mrs. S. B., Trenton, N.J.

Answer: It really doesn't make too much difference who makes the presentation of the gift. Usually the wife does, but, since it is actually from both, it may be given by either one.

Mount Pleasant-Rawdon W.A. Holds Successful Tea, Bazaar

RAWDON — On the afternoon of November 16, Mount Pleasant-Rawdon United Church Association, sponsored their annual tea and bazaar. Approximately 200 guests were in attendance from Springbrook, Stirling, Marmora, Burnbrae, Hoards, Wellman's, Bethel, Carmel, River Valley, Halloway, Marsh Hill, Peat Hamilton, English Line Stirling, St. Andrews's and St. Paul's United, Mount Pleasant.

The church was decorated with baskets of variegated chrysanthemums and other autumn blooms.

Mrs. Garth Joslin officiated at the piano and the reception-ists were Mrs. W. G. Fletcher and Mrs. Mac Sharp.

The president, Mrs. Carleton Potts, welcomed the group in the absence of Mrs. Percival Wellman, in charge of Mrs. Ross Jeffs and Mrs. Ralph Jeffs, on "Friendship and Fellowship."

Led by Mrs. William McAdam and Mrs. Ross Jeffs, Mrs. Mac-Craig Watson, Wellman's, contributed two piano selections during the afternoon, one of which was "In a Monstery Garden."

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Raymond McConnell introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. H. Jairath of Madoc. She is a graduate of Bombay University and has resided in Canada one year. By special request the guest speaker wore her Indian suit which was most colorful, which intrigued everyone.

Mrs. Jairath gave a most interesting message on "Rural Life in India." She was a good speaker and told of conditions in her homeland. India is a crowded nation and is non-segregational, as we are not yet been industrialized. The ment have few mechanical appliances and those operated are employed to help with washing and cleaning. In every village woman can afford some kind of help.

The average farmer is poor and their farm equipment antiquated with hardly any power machinery.

The speaker gave a vivid description of homes in India and told of the beating facilities. She answered many of India with that of Canada and displayed some attractively embroidered articles and ornaments. She also gave an outline of the food habits of the land and told of many old family customs.

THANKS TENDERED

Mrs. Herbert Smith, convener of the tea, thanked all the prospective thanks to all who had tilled the day a success and invited the guests to the church hall.

The pastor, the Rev. W. J. Fletcher, pronounced the benediction.

The church hall was decorated in a color scheme of green and brown crepe streamers, yellow and yellow and white chrysanthemums.

There were three special guests and the rest of the floor space was used for seat the guests. The platform was decorated with pots of chrysanthemums.

A long table was filled with a delectable variety of pies, tarts, buns, cookies rolled and drop-cookies, macaroons, angel cake, layer cakes in white and chocolate, loaf cakes, lam-ikins, and a good assortment of tasty food. Flowering geraniums were used for decoration. Those who were busy selling the food were: Mesdames Milford, Wrightman, Harry McAdam, Clarence Scott and W. G. Fletcher.

The southwest corner depicted sprons, all colors, sizes and shapes. Mrs. Ralph Jeffs, Mrs. Donald Knight and Mrs. Thomas Sarles were the saleladies.

Palmer Wins Mobile Golf

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Arnold Palmer won the Mobile open golf tournament Sunday by two strokes with a closing seven-under-par 65.

Esky Fans Give Club Warm Welcome

EDMONTON (CP) — Eskimo football fans packed into Edmonton Gardens Arena Sunday night to roar a welcome home to the Eskimos after their 18-6 Grey Cup loss to Ottawa Rough Riders Saturday in Vancouver. Police estimated more than 7,000 fans were in the stadium.

The players were introduced individually to the fans and the welcome burst into an ovation as co-captains Rollie Miles and then Jackie Parker walked onto the ice.

Apart from Normie Kwong who remained in fancouver, one other favorite was missing, Johnny Bright, full of pain-killing drugs, went straight home from the airport.

The club had arrived at the municipal airport at 4:15 p.m. Two to three hundred fans waited in near zero temperatures outside the airport building while nearly 1,000 in parked cars lined the entrance to the airport.

A cavalcade of some eight press and police cars escorted the Eskimos, riding in two buses, from the airport to the gardens.

TURNED DOWN OFFER

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo Sunday turned down an offer to meet British Empire heavyweight champion Henry Cooper for the Empire title in London Dec. 6.

"There just isn't enough time for George to prepare properly for the fight," said Chuvalo's manager Jack (Deuce) Allen.

Chuvalo last week regained the Canadian crown from Bob Clerico of Montreal. Allen said he had hopes of arranging a match for Chuvalo at Maple Leaf Gardens here in the second week of December.

Baltimore Beaten

Eagles Dump Giants

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Philadelphia Eagles inched closer to their first National Football League conference championship in 11 years Sunday when they defeated New York Giants 28-21.

Eagles need to win only one of their last three games for the eastern title. A tie in any of them would assure Philadelphia of a deadlock for the division crown.

The Giants wound up the day's operations tied with Cleveland Browns for second place, each with a 5-4-1 record. Philadelphia shows an 8-1 mark. The Browns tied St. Louis Cardinals 17-17.

In other National League action, the western division race got tighter when San Francisco whipped Baltimore Colts 30-20 and Chicago Bears polished off the wiless Dallas Cowboys 17-7. That left the Colts just a half-game ahead of the Bears.

REDSKINS LOST

Pittsburgh Steelers bounced the Washington Redskins 22-10 in a battle of the bottom two clubs in the eastern division.

In the National League, Los Angeles Chargers fattened their lead in the western division by downing Oakland Raiders 33-28 and Buffalo tied Denver 34-34. Los Angeles boasts a 7-4 record compared to 5-6 for Oakland, which now is tied with Dallas for second.

Norm Van Brocklin threw three touchdown passes in Eagles' victory over the Giants.

The Browns scored all their points in the first half against Jim Cards, Milt Plum, Browns' quarterback, completed 13 of 19 passes and extended his no-interception streak to 190.

ROOKIES BEAT COLTS

A couple of rookies beat the Colts for San Francisco in the last 50 seconds of the game. Bobby Wallers, third-string quarterback, passed to Dee Mackey for the Colt 25. As Mackey was being tackled, he lateralled to R. C. Owens for the score that wiped out a 22-20 Baltimore lead. Tom Tracy was the big man in the Eagles' victory, scoring 18 points on three field goals and a touchdown.

Jack Kemp and Paul Lowe each scored two touchdowns for the Chargers in the Los Angeles-Oakland game.

Gene Mingo's 19-yard field goal with four seconds left enabled Denver to gain its tie with Buffalo. Frank Tripucka threw three touchdown passes to Lionel Taylor in the last two periods for Denver.

WON THEIR GAMES

MONTREAL (CP) — Platteburg, N.Y., Nitti-Frets and Montreal's Yvon Coulu Institute Huskies won games Sunday in the Canadian - American Basketball League. Spurs Win Over Bruins 3-1, Villa Wins

LONDON (Reuters)—London's Tottenham Hotspur braved rain - soaked field Saturday to overpower West Bromwich Albion 3-1 and tighten its hold on the top spot in the first division of the English Soccer League.

Five league and three Football Association cup games were cancelled following a day of heavy rain.

Sheffield Wednesday lost its perfect home record, going down before visiting Aston Villa 3-1.

Tottenham now is nine points ahead of Sheffield, Everton and Wolverhampton, all tied with 26. But Sheffield has played 19 games, one fewer than the other three.

In the second round of the second-level contest for the football cup, Oxford United edged Bristwater 3-1 to become the only minor league club certain to have a chance to meet the top teams of the first and second division in the next round.

The Oxford club will be included in a draw Monday to decide which teams will be matched for the third round of the cup contest.

But two more of the eight semi-pro clubs which battled with third and fourth division teams survived and qualified for another chance to compete for the cup.

One of them, King's Lynn, battled to a 2-2 tie with the third division's Bristol City.

The other team, Bangor, held fourth-division Southport to a 1-1 draw.

Sheffield United lost ground at the top of the second vision, going down 4-2 to nearest rival, Liverpool. United had its lead cut to five points. Ipswich is third, one point behind Liverpool.

This is where he comes into the B of M statement and helps build a bright future for Canada — and himself

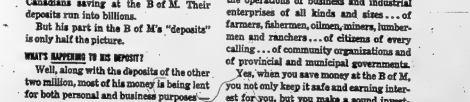
After he deducts college and living expenses from his part-time income, there's not much left for savings — yet this young man regularly deposits a small sum in his B of M savings account.

He is one of well over two million Canadians saving at the B of M. Their deposits run into billions.

But his part in the B of M's "deposits" is only half the picture.



WHAT'S HAPPENING TO HIS DEPOSIT?

Well, along with the deposits of the other two million, most of his money is being lent for both personal and business purposes — to pay medical bills, meet school expenses, buy modern appliances; build houses, buy tractors, improve farm buildings and cut lumber — to do a thousand and one things.

HOW?

Through hundreds of thousands of bank loans, the B of M is employing this young man's deposits, with many others, to finance the operations of business and industrial enterprises of all kinds and sizes . . . of farmers, fishermen, oilmen, miners, lumbermen and ranchers . . . of citizens of every calling . . . of community organizations and of provincial and municipal governments.

WORKING WITH CANADIANS IN EVERY WALK OF LIFE SINCE 1817

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

This is the day the losers pay,
And "experts" pebble "crow,"
While other cars, rain-proven wise,
Can say "I told you so."

This was a great morning for the minority of the news-room quarterback club. It was a sort of Kennedy-Day-in-California.

True they had a couple of good Mondays previously—but they had some dark ones, too. They've taken their "cuts" and had their gloats.

The minority, headed by editor Dick Payne and this reporter had had a good summer. Bucking strong Yankee hoop-pride worked by Skipper Gary Alexander and his Manhattan Merry-go-Rounds, they sailed into the world series port the victors, aided by one Bill Masterson of the Pirates.

Come football time and those "bitter baseball foemen," Senator Claude Tice and Mr. A. collaborated.

They got together thought it out.
Then one September day
Announced to all and sundry that

"Its Argos All The Way!"

Occasionally, the minority who had backed the Ottawa Rough Riders—when they could be heard—got in their victory licks, especially when Riders took that first playoff game 33-21. Then came the great Ottawa comeback to win the second game 21-20 and the right to represent the East.

So then:

The Senator and Mr. A.
Looked sadly o'er their desks,
"We know the best team has lost
"BUT NOW WE LL OVE THOSE ESKYS."

So the argumentative battle was re-opened, not so noisily perhaps, but possibly in a spirit of whistling in the graveyard or to soothe the disappointment of the defeat of favorites.

Now there's a touch of the westerner in the Senator. We understand he lived out there before they struck the black gold that flowed beneath the Alberta, foothills, but well after the days of Wild Bill Hickok and Billy the Kid.

So this, and Mr. A's quality of being a solid loyal fan, united them, perhaps half-heartedly, in the hope to offset the minority's opinion there was not a better football team in Canada than the Rough Riders.

This, as you know, was proven in Saturday's Grey Cup classic in Vancouver when a tenacious Ottawa team hurled back practically everything the Eskimos had to offer and capitalized on their own offensive ability and share of those intangible things in sport, the breaks.

On this morning:

The Senator and Mr. A.
Throbbing, with no fuss,
Came in to work and whispered low,
"Did Chatham Beat the Boss?"

Seriously, the Grey Cup battle ended in our liking. This column has no alibis to make. We think the whole thing was summed up in the terse post-game comment of that grand football player, Rollie Parker of the Eskimos.

Bravely, courageously, Canada's most outstanding gridiron athlete, weariness and thin lines of disappointment wrinkling his face told the television audience:

"We were beaten by a better club."

Riders Freeze Eskys In Cup Classic

Frenzied Mob Halts Game

By WILF GIBSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—The field invasion of nearly 2,000 spectators lingered on today following the game Saturday that gave the East the $50 Grey Cup and Canadian football supremacy.

The mob prevented a full 60-minute game. It was called off with 46 seconds remaining and the undefeated Ottawa Rough Riders were champions with a 16-6 victory over Edmonton Eskimos.

The Riders did it by stopping Edmonton's power runners cold and turning two Eskimos fumbles into 10 points.

The action of the frenzied spectators among the crowd of 36,-362 was unprecedented in the final's 52 - year history. Never before has the classic been called because of the unruliness of fans. They surged over the field, scrambled up the goalpost and broke off the crossbars. One fan dashed between Edmonton and Ottawa players, picked up the game ball and raced out of Empire Stadium.

POLICE ALMOST HELPLESS

Police were unable to do much to bring the crowd under control. Finally football commissioner G. Sydney Halter of Winnipeg ordered the game stopped.

"The police invited this," Halter said. "They did absolutely nothing. They might have been cardboard dummies standing out there."

Edmonton President Gordon Wynn said the disturbance might have a bearing on whether the game is awarded to Vancouver again.

The field invasion was apparently triggered by the collapse of Edmonton's last big scoring chance when Ottawa defensive halfback had ignited the hopes of the pro-Western crowd. He made a dazzling 76-yard run for Ottawa 34 on the kickoff after the Riders' second touchdown.

KELLED SCORING CHANCE

The Riders wiped out the scoring opportunity provided by Parker's gallop when defensive halfback Joe Poirier intercepted an Edmonton pass at the Riders' 41-yard line.

The dreams of Western supporters were shattered with the two key interceptions and those in the crowd who were best at going wild cut loose.

Ottawa's win was its first Grey Cup triumph since 1951 and its fifth in nine appearances in the final. Edmonton's loss was its fourth in seven cup games and was only the second defeat for the West in the last seven finals. The East has won 34 times, the West nine, in the 30 games that the classic became an East-West final in 1921.

Ottawa, 3½ - point underdogs, made the most of nearly every opportunity, forced the Eskimos into mistakes, held the comparable Parker in check, and came up with a tremendous defensive game to blunt the famed Edmonton ground attack.

The Esks' shock troops, led by twin fullbacks Johnny Bright and Normie Kwong, were held to a mere 49 yards, five in the first quarter and a net loss of two in the second. The Westerners never penetrated into Ottawa territory in the first quarter.

TOOK EARLY LEAD

The Rough Riders took a 3-0 lead at 3:36 of the first quarter after an Edmonton fumble, went behind 6-3 as Edmonton scored an unconverted touchdown shortly after the midway mark of the second quarter but regained the lead 9-6 with a touchdown two minutes and 35 seconds later. There was no scoring in the third quarter and at 8:36 of the final 15 minutes the Riders added their second touchdown off another Eskimo fumble.

Lineman Gilles Archambault pounced on a fumble by Rollie Miles at the Edmonton 24 to pave the way for Ottawa's first scoring chance, a 15-yard field goal by Gary Schreiber.

The Riders got out Ottawa's lead with a touchdown pass to end Jim Letcavits on a 63-yard pass-and-run play to put Edmonton ahead 16-9.

The Rough Riders belted Toronto Argonauts 38 the two-game total-points. Big Four final.

Four Riders Stop Thiefs Sleeper Play

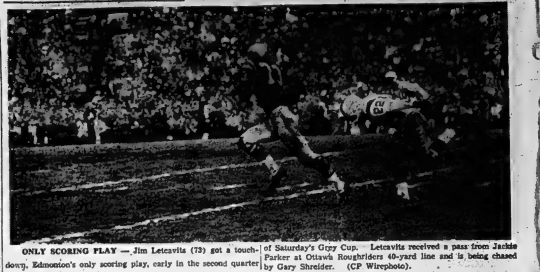
VANCOUVER (CP) — Four burley Ottawa Rough Riders, afraid of being injured before the Grey Cup game, set a trap that nearly called for help from a desk clerk Saturday to subdue a prowler.

Police said the Riders and desk clerk Warren Andrews struggled with the man for more than 10 minutes before the clerk was able to push him under a bed and sit on his head.

The players told police they called for help because they did not want to get hurt before the game on Edmonton Eskimos which Ottawa subsequently won 16-6. Involved were Kaye Vaughan, 220-pound tackle, Bill Sowalski, Gary Schreiber and George Brancato.

Vaughan said he awoke at about 7:30 a.m. in the room occupied in the downtown Georgian Towers with three others. The man had about $150 in his hand and was searching the pockets of a pair of trousers.

When the players awoke, the man threatened them with an empty bottle.



Furniture in the suite was wrecked as the players struggled to hold the man, police said. Finally Andrews was called.

ONLY SCORING PLAY — Jim Letcavits (73) got a touchdown, Edmonton's only scoring play, early in the second quarter of Saturday's Grey Cup. Letcavits received a pass from Jackie Parker at Ottawa's Roughriders 40-yard line and is being chased by Gary Shreider. (CP Wirephoto).

VANCOUVER, (CP) — Coach Frank Clair summed up Ottawa Rough Riders' Grey Cup victory Saturday this way:

"It was a combination of five hard years to build this Ottawa club, together with a strong defensive edge in this game and a couple of crucial fumbles by the Eskimos."

Clair was celebrating his third Grey Cup victory—he won with Toronto Argonauts in 1950 and 1952. He joined Ottawa in 1956. Riders last won the cup in 1951.

In the Ottawa dressing room he enthused about the rock-ribbed Riders' defence.

"They (Edmonton) had a net rushing total of minus-one yard in the first half," he hollered down. I never saw anyone stop a club that cold for 30 minutes."

HELD ESKIMOS DOWN

Statistics credited Eskimos with a net grain of three yards in the first half. For the whole game, Riders stopped the Eaks with 49 yards rushing, while carrying the ball themselves for 247 yards.

A dejected team of Eskimos blamed their own fumbles and inability to move the ball along the ground for their 16-6 loss to Ottawa.

Don Getty said: "We were very bad. It was the worst display of blocking the team has had on this year."

Getty got into the game when coach Eagle Keys switched first-string quarterback Jackie Parker to a halfback position. Ottawa defensive halfback Dick Daultt intercepted Getty's third pass by nine-out the Westerners' last chance.

Team captain Rollie Miles said to many missed fumbles and our trouble with our running attack" cost the Eskimos the game.

Keys said "Ottawa did a tremendous job and those fumbles hurt us."

The Eskimos lost all three of their fumbles, twice paving the way for 10 of Ottawa's points.

Parker said:

"Ottawa played much better ball than we did and they deserved to win the game. If it had happened that we won, it would have been the defensive team that made the difference, not the offensive team.

"We couldn't move the ball. The footing was bad, but it wasn't all that bad."

Clair credited the passing of quarterback Russ Jackson and his stand-in, Ron Lancaster, as being prepared with the help of Edmonton's Parker.

Parker and Getty completed 13 of 27 attempts for 196 yards, while Jackson and Lancaster clicked on seven of their 15 losses for 96 yards.

"But we managed to contain their passing pretty well," Clair said. "They only got away that once, and it cost us."

"That once" was in the second quarter when Eskimos end Jim Letcavits slipped behind Schreider to grab a pass from Parker and ramble for Edmonton's only touchdown.

Clair said he let the quarterbacks call most of the plays, but took personal blame for a third-down gamble for six yards that failed in the third quarter, with Riders within field goal range and leading 9-6.

"I hoped we might get a touchdown if we ran the ball. A field goal would have made the score 12-6 and Edmonton could have tied it with a touchdown and won with a convert. "The play didn't turn out — but I've called wrong plays before." Veteran end Bob Simpson, who played on Ottawa's last Grey Cup team in 1951, swigged champagne from the Grey Cup and hollered: "It's a long time between drinks."

In another corner of the room, little halfback Davey West stood quietly on a bench, waiting to be moved to a hospital to have a broken left arm treated.

West, who may retire now after his 14th season in pro football, remained on the bench after the injury, "because I wanted to see the finish."

OTTAWA (CP) — A bomb-like explosion is expected here today when Ottawa's Grey Cup-champion Rough Riders come home from Vancouver.

The city has been tingling with excitement since the team's 16-6 win over the Eskimos Saturday. Some have been pushing their enthusiasm to the brink of vandalism, racing through the streets in a wild orgy of honking, screaming and general rowdyism.

There were 1,500 banquet tickets and civic officials expect to have exhausted the supply some time today. Two presentations will be made—one by the city and another by the club.

Rock-Ribbed Defence Won It-Clair

Ball Thief Made Best Run of Game

VANCOUVER (CP)—A gally-dressed teen - ager Saturday pulled off the biggest sleeper play of Grey Cup history.

Under the noses of 24 players, six game officials and numerous police he stole the football and made a successful escape.

The theft was part of a series of unconsulted fan activities that resulted in Commissioner G. Sydney Halter calling a halt to the Ottawa-Edmonton game with 41 seconds remaining.

The youngster darted from the sidelines Saturday, between both groups of players, scooped up the ball without hesitation and raced for freedom. At the sidelines again, he threw out two good lefts to fend off other spectators interested in getting the ball and disappeared into the milling crowd.

Said one football official: "It was the best run of the day."

Howe Ties Rocket Mark

Habs Move Up To Crowd Red Wings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gordie Howe and Terry Sawchuk combined their talents Sunday night to keep Detroit Red Wings in first place in the National Hockey League.

Howe picked up two assists, tying him with Maurice (Rocket) Richard's all-time point record, and Sawchuck recorded his 2nd NHL shutout as the Red Wings defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 3-0 in the Detroit Olympia.

The win, following a 3-3 tie in Toronto Saturday night, kept the Red Wings one point ahead of Montreal Canadiens who had a perfect weekend to move within one point of the leader.

Montreal built up a 3-0 lead early in the game Saturday and hung on to defeat Chicago Black Hawks 4-2 in Montreal and crushed Boston Bruins 5-0 in Boston Sunday.

In the league's only other weekend game Chicago had to settle for a 3-3 tie against the Rangers in New York Sunday.

CHICAGO TRAILS MONTREAL

The action opened a four-point spread between the first- and fourth-place clubs, with Chicago two points behind the Canadiens and Toronto one point behind the Black Hawks.

Howe's performance gave him a total of 628 goals and 833 assists in 13 seasons of regular season and playoff play. The 33-year-old Red Wing captain also raised his regular - season point record to 1,001 — making him the first player ever to collect more than 1,000 points in regular-season play.

Howe got his first assist on Norm Glover's first-period goal and fed the puck to Norm Ullman in the third for Detroit's final counter.

Sawchuck, in addition to kicking out 25 shots to get his shutout, started the play that resulted in Detroit's second goal and was given an assist. It was scoring in Sunday night's win over Boston.

The Rangers' tie with Chicago ran their unbeaten streak to three games—one of their best showings of the season—but the game proved costly as they lost the services of Camille Henry for the next six weeks. The little left winger fell heavily in the second period, breaking his arm.

Ron Murphy and Bobby Hull gave Chicago a 2-0 lead before Bill Gadsby scored for New York. Eric Nesterenko got Chicago's third goal before Ted Hampson and Dean Prentice tied it.

PRONOVOST TIED IT

In Saturday's play, defenceman Marcel Pronovost scored with only 25 seconds left in the game and gave Detroit the tie against Toronto.

Detroit goalie Hank Bassen had been pulled for an extra forward as Detroit battled back three times from a deficit.

Rookie Bob Nevin scored two goals and former Red Wing star Ted Kelly the other for Toronto. Len Lunde and Parker MacDonald, a former Maple Leaf player, completed Detroit's scoring.

In Montreal, Dickie Moore, Don Marshall and Tom Johnson pounded in first-period goals to give the Canadiens a lead Chicago never overcame.

Chicago came back in the second period with goals by Murray Balfour and Pierre Pilote, but Hicke put the game away in the third.

Irish Lead Junior Loop

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Goaltender Jerry Cheevers of Toronto St. Michael's Majors scored his first shutout Sunday as the Majors took a three-point lead in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

St. Michael's collected three points Sunday — two from the shutout and a third from a 3-3 tie, the result of a replay of the last 12 seconds of a game previously credited as a Hamilton Red Wing win.

The Majors had protested a penalty shot in the dying moments of the earlier game. In declaring in favor of the Toronto team the league ordered the brief replay with the score at 3-3.

In other Junior A action St. Catharines Teepees edged Guelph Royals 5-4 Saturday night and Toronto Marlboros dumped Peterborough Petes 5-2 in the second half of a double bill at Toronto Sunday.

Whitby Whips Cobourg 6-3

WHITBY (CP)—Whitby Hillcrests won their second victory of the Eastern Junior B Hockey League Saturday night, defeating Cobourg Rockets 6-3.

The Barons won their third in as many nights by beating Rochester 4-2 Sunday night after defeating Buffalo 6-4 Saturday to take over second place.

Veteran Freddy Glover paced the Barons to their triumph over Rochester. He set up three goals, two by Bill Dineen, and ran his total number of points in regular season and playoff games to 1,-501.

Rookie Warren Hynes fired four goals and set up a fifth in Hershey Bears 8-2 decision over Providence Sunday night.

The Indians spoiled the night for Buffalo's largest crowd of the season, 7,316, as they ended the Bison's home winning streak at seven goals. The six Springfield goals were divided among as many players.

'The Valiant Years' Tells Story of Second World War

By CYNTHIA LOWEY

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Broadcasting Company has achieved its finest half hour with its new Winston Churchill — The Valiant Years, which made its debut Sunday night.

Based on the six volumes of Churchill's memoirs, the 26 programs will tell the story of the Second World War largely through the former prime minister's words.

The first program in the series was dramatic, thoughtfully constructed and deeply moving. Researchers must have worked endlessly selecting the old newsreel clips and still photographs of the troubled times and the prime minister.

Richard Burton, a fine British actor, was an excellent choice to read Churchill's prose — he did not try to imitate Churchill; whose own voice was used for some of his memorable speeches, but gave it richness and flavor. Gary Merrill did the narration, smoothly and concisely.

A magnificent score by Richard Rodgers welded the bits and pieces of the giant into an emotion-tapping whole.

The first program, The Gathering Storm, began the project by running through the events leading up to Britain's declaration of war. The use of charts, maps, and newsreels made it concise and interesting.

Dickie Moore of Montreal, who also got one goal and an assist, remained in the lead with 22 points on 11 goals and 11 assists, while Ullman has eight goals and 23 assists.

Geoffrion is third with 12 goals and 17 assists for 29 points, followed by lineman Jean Beliveau with nine goals and 18 assists.

Minor Hockey

Quinte, Macs, Browns, Bruins and Black Hawks chalked up wins in the bantam section of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association on Saturday morning.

Quinte blanked Rangers 4-0 with M. Flindall getting the shutout. P. Soule scored twice, D. Dickey and R. Watson once each. Pr. Casson, Dickey, J. Smith, D. Beresford and W. Salter drew assists.

Paul Smith was in the nets for the winners as Macs shut out Rangers by a 1-0 count. H. Townsend fired the game's lone goal, unassisted.

Browns had the third white-wash job of the morning, an 8-0 win over Red Wings, with B. Moorhead getting goal. B. Smith and D. Silkjka led the assists with two goals apiece while I. Pedler, C. Kirby, C. Marsden and L. Fritz had singletons. J. Meese drew two assists. B. Cretney and G. Blakely one.

Bruins squeezed by the Maple Leafs 3-2 on a basic of goals by F. Ritchie. S. White had the other Bruin goal and C. Sparrow had an assist. J. Shakell and D. Muldoon earned an assist.

Black Hawks took the Barons by a 5-2 count with K. Hannell and R. Embury each scoring a pair of goals. J. Mugford added the other. K. Knudsen had three assists and D. Halsey one. J. Mugford, Jr., Fort were the Hawks on scorers while R. Finkle and J. Pringle had assists.

Russ Swamp Maroons

By STANLEY JOHNSON

MOSCOW (AP)—A kicked Soviet team walloped Canada's Chatham Maroons 11-2 in the second of 6 seven-game exhibition hockey series Sunday.

The lop - sided victory drew cheers from a crowd of 17,000 packed into the Lenin Sports Palace.

"We just couldn't get going," said Chatham playing-coach Ted Power. "But we've been beating worse before and we've beat other teams by worse scores."

The team seemed to miss defenceman Tod Maki who flew to Winnipeg Sunday after receiving word of the death of his father, Aret.

The game was marked by only minor penalties. Chatham's Frank Babgate and Stan Long each got two minutes in the box for hard checking.

AVENGED RUSSIAN LOSS

The win avenged a Russian loss, 5-3, in the first game Friday.

Right wing Jack Stoddard fired the first Chatham goal at 12:25 of the second period. That made the score 5-1.

Lou Bendo connected at 15:43 of the final frame for the only other Canadian goal.

Boris Mayorov whacked in the puck 2½ minutes after the opening faceoff. Boris' brother, Yevgeny Mayorov, Vlamihn Alexandrov and Viacheslav Starchinov each provided two goals. The other Russian goals were scored by Viktor Tsiplakov, Viktor Yakushev, Alexander Almetov and Nikolai Snikov.

The Canadians found the net a third time at the seven-minute mark of the second period but the referee ruled that Floyd Martin had kicked the puck in.

The Canadian squad is scheduled to meet the U.S.S.R. under-23 team today.

Team Wins Game

Mayor Wins Moose

HALIFAX (CP) — St. Francis Xavier Football X - Men defeated Ottawa University Gee-Gees 22-6 Saturday to win the Atlantic Bowl for themselves and a moose for the Halifax mayor.

Mayor John W. Lloyd was waiting word today from Ottawa Mayor George Nelms on when and how the moose would be shipped to Ottawa. Gees had won Mayor Lloyd would have had to ship six lobsters to Mr. Nelms.

Ray Summerville sparked the X-Men's win before what is believed to have been the biggest crowd ever paced into the Wanderers Grounds. About 5,000 watched the game and more were turned away.

Sommerville, 22, was a one-man show in the second half as the Antigonish squad outclassed the Robert L. Stanfield Trophy with their 21½ straight win in three seasons. They represented the Atlantic Football Conference.

The Cornwall native, in tears after fumbling two passes in the first half, scored two touchdown in the fourth quarter.

BOBBLED A PUNT

Gee - Gee Don Miles kicked two field goals in the first half to give Ottawa a 6-0 lead. Sommerville set up the first when he bobbled a punt. Later in the half Sommerville got another return but it affected the score.

Don Lowery, the most successful coach in Maritime football history, gave credit to both his quarterback Jim Simpson and Ottawa native, threw a touchdown pass to halfback Joe LaMoore to tie the score at 6-6.

Temperatures were near 30 for the game, skies were sunny and the wind light.

It was the second Atlantic Bowl game plagued by AFC officials as part of a program to put more interest into the game and in an area that for years was rugby minded.

Former Child Star Makes Good in Acting as Grownup

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Much ado has been made about Hollywood's passing child film actors are supposed to lead as grownups.

Jackie Searl refuses to fit the pattern.

"I'm a happy man," he insists. "I have a wonderful family. I have a business that is amazingly successful. It's running so well that I can get back to acting again. I'm having a ball."

Any movie fan whose memory stretches back to the 1930s will remember Jackie as the mean little kid who got his comeuppance for Jackie Cooper, Mickey Rooney, Freddie Bartholomew and child stars.

But time has mellowed the face and marched the hairline far back on his head. He now is doing a thriving business as a character actor in TV films.

But he's quick to admit that he has had rougher times when Hollywood turned its back on him.

"When I got out of the army, I thought I'd resume my acting career," he recalled. "Nothing happened. I didn't know anybody and nobody remembered me. I did two pictures and then nothing came. I had to go to work at some other job.

"I did everything. I hired out as a carpenter on building projects. I worked as a machinist. I had a graveyard shift at Lockheed and made cabinets in my garage in the daytime. You name it and I'd do it."

Searl got into the business of making containers for imported sewing machines and other products and received a bonanza. He and his partner are so successful that either could sell the business for extended periods.

Bruins Swap Guy Gendron For Pronovost

BOSTON (AP) — The lastplace Boston Bruins today traded gritty little Jean Guy Gendron to Montreal Canadiens in a straight National Hockey League player exchange for centre Pronovost.

Gendron, at five-feet-nine and 180 pounds, one of the league's smallest players, is in his sixth NHL season. He's in his fifth. Both are left wingers.

Boston General Manager Lynn Patrick announced the trade, said Pronovost, 24, will join the Bruins in Chicago Wednesday. Gendron will join Canadiens immediately.

Pronovost appeared dejected when told of the trade.

"He didn't say anything", Patrick said. "Just sat there with his head down."

Gendron, on the other hand was elated. "Started - bottling champagne getting ready as I went off for a talk with Montreal Vice-President, Ken Reardon," Patrick said.

Gendron started his major league career with New York Rangers in the 1955-56 season and was traded to Detroit in 1958. Last year when he scored 34 goals and 11 assists was his best.

Pronovost, who has spent his entire NHL career with Montreal, has scored 11 goals and assists in four full seasons. He and Gendron are only one goal each this year.

Gary, Riders Take Dip To Win Bet

VANCOUVER (CP) — "We did it. We said we would and we did," howled Ottawa Rough Rider end Bobby Simpson from a neck-deep position in the icy chill of Vancouver's English Bay.

Five of the Riders fulfilled a bet made during a trip here when the team stopped at exhibition against the B.C. Lions. After the game, in mid-August, several Riders took a late night dip at the same spot.

Sunday things were somewhat different as linebacker Gary Schreiber, Jim Gibbons Adamson, guard Marv Bevan and halfback George Brancato joined Simpson in the icy waters.

Clad in their colorful underwear shorts, the quintet drew a number of interested onlookers as they plunged for about two minutes in the frigid ocean water.

"My legs are freezing," shouted Archambault while Simpson exclaimed sharply to the spectators' laughter when told him to hold it for just one more: "How much of this do you think I can stand?"

Brancato observed, after getting out of the water and partially dried off: "It's terrific-when you get out."

The bet for $10 was made by Simpson with Don Austin, Lions' publicity director before Ottawa, should the Riders win the game.

"I won't have to pay off now," he said.

The only member missing from the group was halfback Davey Enos who was a star in the Saturday game in which the Riders won the West Coast with a 16-6 win over the Edmonton Eskimos. Enos announced his retirement after 13 years in professional ball after the game.

Budget Deficit Is $10,300,000

OTTAWA (CP) — A series of monthly budgetary deficits has pushed the federal government into the red by $10,300,000 in the first seven months of the present fiscal year, Finance Minister Fleming reported Friday night.

His monthly treasury statement showed that deficits in August, September and October more than wiped out surpluses in the previous four months, resulting in the first cumulative deficit of the year.

Revenues in the seven-month period of $3,182,700,000 were outpaced by expenditures of $3,193,000,000 to produce the deficit. This compared with revenues of $2,915,800,000 and expenditures of $2,941,800,000 for a deficit of $1,000,000 in the corresponding period last year.

New Bond Issue

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Fleming announced Friday a new $20,000,000 bond issue will be floated Monday, and gave advance notice that he probably will also borrow in further moderate-sized loans early next year.

Next week's issue — a short-term one — will consist of $600,000,000 in new bonds, of which the Bank of Canada will take $400,000,000 and the remaining $200,000,000 will be sold to the public.

TWEED

CNR Worker Honored on Retirement

TWEED — William J. "Bill" Austin of Fort Hope, who has many relatives and friends in Tweed, has just completed his final service with the Canadian National Railways on Wednesday, November 2nd, after 47 years association with the company.

He plans to continue living in Fort Hope following his superannuation. Bill started his railroad service at the CNR station in Tweed, in the then located on the property where the new plant of the Sawyer Still Company is situated, on South Victoria Street.

When the railway ceased operations from Tweed to Napanee about 25 years ago, "Bill" was appointed to the staff at Fort Hope and was never transferred. His daughter, Beryl, and son, William, both married and two grandsons live in Fort Hope.

Born in Belleville, Bill's father came to Tweed in 1900 when he was stationmaster on the old Tweed - Belleville route. In 1904 he was the horse caretaker and took half a day. Harry Austin, Bill's older brother, still lives in Tweed. He is a well known Republic express messenger pensioner.

Bill completed a service of 40 years service before retiring five years ago.

Mrs. Austin is the former Lela Kincaid of Moneymore and having many relatives in the area. The Austins are frequent visitors to Tweed.

On November 5th, Mr. Austin was honored at a testimonial dinner in the St. Lawrence Hotel, Port Hope.

Over 60 were in attendance, including his brother, Harry, of Austin, Tweed; federal and provincial members of the legislature, the mayor of Port Hope; railway officials from Toronto, Kingston, Deseronto and "Bill" served during his early years with the CNR in the Tweed and Mc. L. A. McCarty of Tweed.

Mr. Austin was the recipient of an easy chair and a purse of money. Mrs. Austin during the evening was also "honored" by the wives of those attending the dinner.

Bill has a family and many members of her family, and other friends.

Likely to Invite Britain to Join / Common Market

PARIS (Reuter) — Members of seven West European governments are gathering here for a meeting which is expected to decide that Britain be invited to join the six-nation European Common Market.

The passage of a resolution to this effect is viewed as the most possible highlight of the four-day meeting of the Western European Union Consultative Assembly, which opened with a packed agenda.

The resolution calls for Britain's full membership in the existing executive bodies of the six Common Market countries. These are the European commissions of the Common Market, the Euratom nuclear pool and the coal-steel community.

The resolution also calls for Britain and the Common Market countries of France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg to "make it WOULD NEED APPROVAL

It was the case with the annual, 15-nation European Assembly conference here last week, the recommendations of the united assembly are only advisory and have no binding force on governments.

However, in the European union's six-year history, resolutions of this assembly recommendations frequently have been followed by government decisions and have influenced governments leading to closer ties between Britain and the Common Market.

The assembly's political committee has taken the lead in the movement for closer unity, together the "inner six" of the Common Market and the "outer seven" of the European Free Trade Area. The latter's members are Britain, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Austria, Switzerland and Portugal.

Arthur Maiter, a Belgian who will preside over the reconstruction to the assembly, said if Britain joined with the six within a European community it would never be and should never be at the end of the line in the talks which bind her to the Common-wealth."

CRASH KILLS FIVE

TUCKAHOE, N.J. (AP)—Five persons were killed yesterday in the Ocean City nursing home died Sunday night in a two-car crash just outside this community. They were passengers in a car driven by Mrs. Alma Young, 50, co-proprietor of the nursing home who apparently was taking the women for a drive. Mrs. Young suffered undetermined injuries as did the driver of the second car, Dan Raulf, 27, of

Grain Handlers' Strike Settled

VANCOUVER (CP) — Loading of waiting grain ships in Vancouver Harbor may start today, ending a 20-day work stoppage by 225 grain handlers.

The grain handlers voted Sunday to accept a tentative settlement reached last week by negotiating teams after the intervention of a federal government conciliator.

Ed Sims, representative of the handlers, said the men are ready to go back to work immediately but the basis of a verbal understanding of the new agreement but the five grain companies wanted the agreement signed first.

Afro-Asian Bloc Drafts Motion On Colonialism

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Afro-Asian and Arab nations, wary of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's drive to end all colonialism at once, came forward today with their own proposal for an end to foreign rule by stages.

The clash promised to highlight the General Assembly debate on colonialism opening today until a non-African representative changes their minds.

Khrushchev, in a declaration to the assembly Sept. 23, sought independence for all colonies "forthwith." This phrase is used in the Soviet resolution.

The 46-nation Afro-Asian group prepared a resolution calling for "immediate steps" to transfer power to colonies from their former rulers or not quite the same as having the colonies dictate a final foreign rule at once.

Russia also sought UN approval for an end to "leased bases" — meaning foreign military bases, especially those of Britain and the United States.

Among the "colonies" listed by Khrushchev were Okinawa, the Japanese island controlled by the U.S., and Formosa, seat of President Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalist regime.

Chiang has agreed to the debate since it will allow him to air discussion of Soviet control of the Communist nations of Eastern Europe.

Ukrainian A. Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, said the Afro-Asian resolution is unacceptable to Russia.

The debate is expected to run for a week. If the 99-nation assembly adopts anything, it probably will be some version of the Afro-Asian proposal, watered down to gain Western votes for the two-thirds majority it likely will get.

The Afro-Asian proposal calls for an end to all racial segregation and discrimination. It would also have the assembly "condemn practices the necessity of which is based on the pretext of racial and to colonialism in all its forms and manifestations."

Support Chief In Big Petition

ANCASTER (CP)—A 1,000-signature petition was delivered here in support of Police Chief Douglas Mitchell, who retired last week in protest to the police commissioner's firing of two constables who took six flags of nations from a farm field more than a year ago.

D. F. MacMurray, leader of the group circulating the petition said Sunday night his canvass had obtained 95 per cent of those approached signed on the document. He said more canvassers were out to cover the other 5 per cent of 24,000.

Chief disciplined the two constables, Terrence O'Flanagan and Graham Bradburn, at the time of the incident but the commission ruled last week that he is wrong in handling the matter himself.

FOUR ESCAPE

MONTREAL (CP)—Four convicts escaped from St. Vincent de Paul federal penitentiary Sunday. Police said the men, unarmed at the time, are believed to have fled in a stolen car.

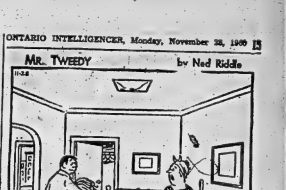
Cannibalism Being Revived In Congo Strife

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — The ancient ritual of eating your enemy is threatening a return to the Congo's dark backwoods.



Unrest among the nation and the fear that Belgian punitive measures no longer are there have caused contribute to the revival of cannibal witchcraft.

The Belgian administration and Christian missionaries never have stamped out the belief among the isolated and primitive tribes that eating your enemy will strengthen you. The heart brings courage, the brain intelligence and the legs speed, according to the witch doctors who hold that the more dreaded and hated the enemy, the more powerful the magic.

United Nations officials are convinced that one of the eight UN soldiers killed in a recent Baluba ambush in northern Katanga was eaten in a ritualistic ritual. Two Tunisians killed earlier in the fighting in southern Kasai are known to have been partly consumed in similar ceremonies.

Negro Students Picket Stores With Klansmen

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Negro college students disregarded white robed Klansmen parading in front of a downtown department store Saturday and picketed the store in protest over segregated lunch counters.

Klansmen were accompanied by men in civilian clothing who handed out Klan pamphlets criticizing "sit-ins, kneel-ins, wade-ins and all other push-ins."

The Mississippi electors have not announced whom they will support but indicated it would be a southern Democrat.

Alabama elected five electors pledged to the party nominee and six independents who can vote for anyone they choose. And they won't say who that choice will be.

WASHINGTON (AP) — With three weeks remaining before the electoral college meets, Republicans have made no positive progress toward obtaining statewide recounts of the presidential election in 11 states where they spoke of such action.

Final decisions still are pending in several states. In others, there has been no direct move to challenge the announced result.

A week ago Republican headquarters announced the dispatch of representatives into eight states for field checks. There has been no report on the findings by these investigators, sent to Illinois, Texas, Missouri, New Mexico, Nevada, South Carolina, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

A week earlier, Republican National Chairman Thurston Morton had mentioned Michigan, Delaware and Minnesota in addition to these eight states as targets, for possible recounts.

REJECT RECOUNT

A Republican demand for a statewide recount in Texas was rejected Friday by the state election board, which said it had no authority to order one. It certified the 24 Democratic electors as winners by a margin of 46,233 votes.

In Chicago, Republicans plan to lay before a grand jury this week charges of vote fraud in the predominantly Democratic city area which Kennedy carried by 318,736 votes.

Recounts have been ordered in five counties in New Jersey. The state Republican chairman, Carl Kedman, has said he does not expect the recounts to change the results materially. Now Jersey went for Kennedy 1,385,094 to 1,362,200.

In all the other states mentioned by Morton, officials have taken no steps toward obtaining recounts and in South Carolina, the deadline for petitioning for a recount has passed.

Wintry Weather Sweeps Canada, Four Persons Die

High Winds, Freezing Rain Follow Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four persons died Monday night as wintry weather swept across much of Canada.

All the deaths were in the Montreal region, where freezing rain made roads treacherous. The four lives were claimed in separate traffic accidents.

Lake Superior was whipped into a foaming sea by an intense storm moving across Ontario and Minnesota, carrying freezing rain driven by winds up to 50 miles an hour.

Fort Frances, Ont., was hit by eight inches of snow and 1½ inches fell at Fort William and the Lakehead. The weather office warned that North Bay, Sudbury and Kirkland Lake could expect the same, with accompanying temperature drops to around 15 degrees above zero.

MAY DELAY SHIPS

Cars were bogged down in Fort William and pedestrians had to slog through snow drifted high by gusting winds. Thirteen ships under Lakehead elevator spouts were expected to delay sailing because, of gale warnings.

Ontario's first major storm of the season dumped heavy snow in the northern and northwestern regions. Central eastern sections of the province got a dose of freezing rain which later changed to rain, Southern Ontario was beset by rain, fog and high winds.

Five flights due in at Toronto's Malton airport had to be diverted to London and Windsor Monday night because of the weather.

The forecast for Ontario today called for snow in the north, rain or freezing rain and then flurries in central Ontario. Colder weather with flurries in the south.

The Maritimes and Quebec faced more freezing rain today, with the disturbance moving eastward.

The Prairie provinces remained generally in a deep freeze. Regina had an overnight low of 20 below zero.

The British Columbia forecast called for rain along the coast and snow in the northwest.

The season's first full-blown snow storm, sweeping eastward across the great plains, hammered wide areas of the middle western United States today.

A blanket of snow and ice covered many sections of the eastern plains and upper Mississippi valley—up to a foot in some areas. Then the late November storm, erupting after a week of mild weather, headed for the Dakotas eastward to western lower Michigan.

Gale-force winds whipped the snow into huge drifts in some areas. Traffic was curtailed, with roads blocked in some sections. Visibility was cut to zero in Grand Forks, N.D. Snow was driven by winds of 63 miles an hour. Blizzard conditions were reported in sections of the Dakotas and Northwestern.

Power and communication lines were disrupted. Schools were closed in some northern midwest areas. Gale warnings were posted for all the Great Lakes.

MERCURY SAGS

Mercury readings dropped sharply as the stiff winds fanned arctic air across the mid-continent.

Bismarck, N.D., posted a below zero in Havre, Mont., and 15 below in Grand Forks, N.D. Snow piled in the northern and central plains states and the Canadian prairies.

The storm headed northward Wednesday.

About a foot of snow covered the ground in Duluth, Minn., while, with nearby Superior, Wis., reported wind gusts up to 70 m.p.h. Huge waves pounded the northwest shore of Lake Superior.

Water swirled knee-deep into the streets of Grand Marais, some 100 miles north along the shoreline from Duluth. Waves whipped as high as 20 feet when they hit seawalls, battering the lake front's shore down the line to the Canadian border.

BILL'S VOYAGE THROUGH HOUSE TURNS CHOPPY

Liberal Amendment Causes All Trouble

OTTAWA (CP)—Bill C-40, an act providing for government-guaranteed loans to small businesses, has had unusually smooth sailing through the Commons, except when its legislative voyage turned choppy.

The House debated long and lustily a Liberal amendment calling for recognition of credit unions and caisses populaires as approved lenders, along with chartered banks. The dispute lasted at 8:30 p.m. and was still going strong when the House adjourned at 12:30 a.m.

The question will have to remain unresolved for another day (or week). Today the Commons will be occupied with a foreign affairs debate.

The government bill to help small businesses get loans up to $25,000 for modernizing their plant and equipment has kicked up very little opposition since. Earlier Monday it received second reading—approval in principle—without dissent from any quarter.

SENATE GOVERNMENT

The amendment by Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) during a clause-by-clause study in committee of the whole House provided that, in any exchange during which opposition speakers criticized the government of disclaiming responsibility for decisions—called caisses populaires in Quebec.

Finance Minister Fleming, a member of the Senate, argued that it is hoped will help relieve unemployment through the application of making "misleading implications."

Mr. Fleming said credit unions are provincial institutions and the interest rate they charge are not regulated by Parliament. Banks, on the other hand, are under Parliament's thumb and their interest rates are regulated.

By accepting Mr. Chevrier's amendment the Commons would be committing itself to guarantee

16 Children Believed Killed When Train Hits School Bus

LAMONT, Alta (CP) — About half the 32 children on a school bus were reported by school official to have been killed today when the bus and a Canadian National Railways train collided at a level-crossing near here.

Harry Shandro, principal of the Lamont school board, said the accident filled when the bus was struck one-quarter of a mile east of the station in this town 45 miles northeast of Edmonton.

The wreckage was carried down the track into the town itself and the victims were strewn along the right-of-way.

Ted Lindsay, driver of the bus, survived.

Congolese Hunt Lumumba, Thinking Him Still in Capital

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Congolese army troops searched the streets of the capital for the second day, hunting for former premier Patrice Lumumba.

Lumumba raised the threat of civil war Sunday by escaping his house arrest and reportedly intending to make his way northeast to Stanleyville, his political stronghold.

Lumumbists there were reported organizing an anti-Western regime to restore him to power.

Some observers thought Lumumba might be trying to create international parliament in Stanleyville under protection of his loyal army to bargain for a face exchange.

Thomas Kanza, Lumumba's ambassador to the United Nations, told reporters Lumumba was flying to Accra, capital of Ghana, and New York.

This report generally was discounted as a diversion to make it impossible for the hunt for the deposed premier to find the capital.

Officials at Accra said Joseph Mobutu's provisional government were holding Lumumba's wife and children with friends in Leopoldville.

A high UN official said Lumumba's escape from the guarded villa obviously was prepared with outside assistance.

Mobutu denied his troops were the alert along the Congo River, apparently thinking Lumumba might try to reach Stanleyville by river boat.

Stanleyville is 750 miles from Leopoldville as the crow flies, much farther by the winding river.

The United Nations has been pressing Mobutu to reconvene parliament, suspended since his takeover Sept. 14, in Leopoldville.

Lumumba succeeded in getting a parliamentary quorum in Stanleyville to reconfirm him as premier, meeting the demand of the UN Congo mission in a secret session today.

Lumumba, accompanied only by a driver and a secretary, passed through his darkened station wagon through a Congolese army post outside the city limits unchallenged and dispersed.

A statement issued later in his behalf said he would attend his wife and children's funeral in Stanleyville, and then return to Leopoldville.

WASHINGTON (CP)—Senator J. William Fulbright says he feels it is important for the United States to consult with its allies before any firing of nuclear weapons on allied territory.

He doesn't think the American need to yield exclusive control over the decision is warranted.

"I think that Canada, Britain and other countries should have with the exception of France—would be satisfied with a system of joint consultation before any firings take place," the Arkansas Democrat said in an interview.

Fulbright, chairman of the U.S. Senate foreign relations committee, is reported to be among the Democrats who feel the Kennedy is looking over a transition period in the new administration.

"While I was over in Paris at the time of the Eisenhower-de Gaulle conference, I heard a lot of talk of Europe's fear that there would be American warheads on her territory, but I think France wants to be independent of prestige and dignity."

"But I didn't hear of any such request from Canadians. I know that the Canadian ambassador to Ireland in Britain is satisfied with such a consultation arrangement and he has made no complaint. I'm surprised if this did not satisfy the Canadians."

Fulbright was asked to comment on disclosures in testimony by Prime Minister Diefenbaker as saying Canada would not consider placing American nuclear weapons on Canadian territory without the consent of the Canadian government.

Asked how consultation would work in the event of an emergency, Fulbright replied:

"Well, such consultation would take place if there is time. It is only right that the President should act fast in a crisis. But if there is a real emergency, there might not be any time for consultation. The President has to act."

The Diefenbaker statement coupled with reports of opinions expressed by some Canadian writers led the Washington Post to print a long editorial Monday, expressing concern over the possible growth of neutralism in Canada.

"Whether or not to arm with nuclear weapons is assuredly a sovereign decision for Canada to make," it said, "and subject to control of such weapons, in the course."

UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEM DEBATE IN LONG SESSION

Opposition Urges Immediate Aid

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's three political parties fought a long and night battle Monday on the problem of unemployment.

Premier Frost, Liberal Leader Walter Gordon, CCF Leader Donald and other members of the legislature spoke on the country's No. 1 problem before the two - hour sitting adjourned at 10:30 p.m.

Liberal and CCF members booked and jeered at Tory members as they outlined government policies, then turned to fire salvos at each other.

The opposition said the government was obsessed with long-range unemployment plans and demanded a program to provide immediate aid.

"A man unemployed in Ontario doesn't care what you will do in four or five months," Mr. Wishart-Grenville, CCF, Grey, concurred with what we're prepared to do immediately."

WANT ABOUT WEEK

Mr. MacDonald asked for legislation to reduce the maximum work week to 40 from 44 hours.

He called the winter works program inadequate "a drop in the ocean" and urged that 75 per cent of the money for the plan be used as labor costs be paid by the federal - provincial governments as against the 50 per cent the province's winter works program, already announced, will pay for labor costs, covers only labor costs.

The Frost government should "take advantage of the National Housing Act" which provides funds up to 75 per cent for capital costs and rent rebates.

"Many of these people could

RCAF Official Forced From Car At Gunpoint

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — An RCAF officer was forced from his car at gunpoint and beaten up with rifle butts and fist by Ghanaian troops, on one of a series of incidents in the Congo, a United Nations spokesman says Monday.

Previous press reports from the Congo said Air Commodore G. C. W. Chapman, the new UN air commander, was beaten up Friday by Congolese soldiers Nov 21 but was not badly hurt.

The report said another senior RCAF officer was forced at gunpoint from his car and that the vehicle was driven away by Congolese soldiers.

A British officer was beaten up, but without injury, and had his five hours and robbed of his car by Congolese troops in another attack, troubleshooter Brigadier I. J. Rikhye, acting United Nations commander in the Congo, reported to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

Brigadier Rikhye said a British officer, Major Cowan, was shot by machine-gunners while returning to his car after a meeting.

The report said that a Swedish officer was fired on while in a United Nations vehicle and held for five hours while he was threatened with many times with guns and knives Another Swede was threatened by a soldier who levelled a rifle at him at close range.

This man escaped by racing off in his jeep, the report said Another British field officer and an Indian captain were threatened with a rifle butt and punched off at bayonet point.

There had been many other arrests of United Nations personnel, civilian and military, Brigadier Rikhye said

Stall-The-Strike Plan Advanced By PM Is Failure

'Non-op' Rail Workers Sticking by Demands

OTTAWA (CP)—Union leaders and railway presidents resume their strike crisis talks today with apparently little hope of resolving their multi-million-dollar wage, fringe and severance and vacational railway work stoppage set for next Saturday.

They were to meet for the second round of joint emergency talks called by Prime Minister Diefenbaker in a last-ditch effort to avert the strike of more than 120,000 "non-op" rail workers.

The prime minister, who stepped personally into the dispute last Saturday, is said to be sticking to his position that the union's reasonable course is a postponement of the strike deadline to next May 15—without any prejudice to the union demand for a 40-cent-an-hour pay boost.

Informants indicate he outlined this approach during his first 25-minute meeting Sunday with Frank H. Hall and his 16-union negotiating team and railway presidents Donald Gordon of the CNR and N. R. Crump of the CPR.

HINTS OF FREEZE

He is also understood to have hinted that the government could and probably would introduce emergency legislation to enforce a six-month freeze in the rail crisis.

However, if the government is contemplating such action, there was no word on when it would act in the Commons—before the strike started or after.

Because Mr. Diefenbaker has said any strike would be a disaster to catastrophe for the country's national interest, observers con-

Sugar Producers Certain Castro Regime Is Red

Harold E. Milks, chief of the Associated Press Cuba-bean service, has gone into the Cuban countryside to find out how people are taking the Castro regime. Here is his first report.

CAMAGUEY, Cuba (AP)—People in this once thriving ranching and sugar center say there's no longer have any doubt that Fidel Castro's regime is Communist.

Castro's latest representative here—army Maj. Jorge Serguera —has told Camaguey educationists they must recognize that this is a Socialist (Communist) movement and learn to accept it.

Serguera, who was prosecutor in Cuba's first war crimes trials after the overthrow of the Batista regime, said he told the gathering of Camaguey Province.

He laid down the government line to some 2,000 teachers at meetings called after clashes between pro-Castro and anti-Castro students in the city's largest high school. Eight students were hurt in one battle.

"He told us too many teachers have been educated here to recognize what is going on in Cuba," said two teachers who attended the meetings. "Then he said we must recognize and accept a Socialist government regime—and those who couldn't or wouldn't should leave their jobs."

RINGED BY WEAPONS

As Serguera spoke to the teachers, he mentioned that he ringed with his soldiers carrying submachine-guns, the teachers reported.

The opposition to Castro and his regime appears to be by even more general in Camaguey than in the neighboring Oriente province, birthplace of the revolution.

Much of the opposition is developing in the town of Camaguey many parents are advising their children to be neutral "and not risk death in useless battle."

There are rumors here of substantial opposition to the Castro regime.

Others, reports say small bands are being formed through the province as Cholera spread and burn casebeks when the Castro forces come. Camaguey, with 1,of Cuba's people, produces 25 per cent of the country's sugar.

Two Committed Refused Bail

TORONTO (CP)—Two Florida men were committed for trial Monday on charges of trying to bribe Toronto Argonaut star Ted Gerela's bodyguard.

Magistrate T. S. Elmore refused to grant bail to Joseph Dellaera, 31, and Fred Zakris, 30, both of Miami, Fla.

During the preliminary hearing, Gerela's bodyguard, 19-year-old Pius Fia., waitress said she had been "promised a ball" if she accompanied the pair to Toronto. She is being held as a material witness. The two men are charged with trying to extract the money from Mrs. Helen Glass, 30.

Sponsor's Prize Of $15,000 Not Received

VANCOUVER (CP)—An unemployed Eastern Canada man who has come from Toronto to Vancouver complained Monday that he's received his sponsor's congenial invitation to claim a prize of $15,000.

Kevin Griffin, 25, of Toronto, says he plans legal action if the petite money does not arrive soon.

The sponsor, an Ontario brewery, offered a $15,000 cash and a $10,000 university scholarship if he made the trip by Grey Cup day — Nov. 26.

Griffin, along with pacer Stalli, Deane, officially arrived here Aug. 31.

The marathon walker said he received a telegram from the sponsor's office Nov. 25 that he was on the trip, offering the sponsor's congratulations.

The telegram also regretted a sickness prevented him from making the trip.

Griffin, who intends to split the prize with Deane, said he set back and asked for his contract to be made good and the money to be wired to him by midnight Saturday.

The contract was drawn up in Toronto by a lawyer chosen by Griffin and signed by the sponsor. Griffin said he took it to a Vancouver lawyer Monday and was told it was binding.

$100,000 Loss In Toronto Fire, No One Hurt

TORONTO (CP)—More than 80 firemen battled for four hours Monday night to contain a fire that swept through a leather goods factory.

Fire Chief Leonard Leigh said the blaze fed on kapok, used in the manufacture of life preservers. The fire started in the neighboring homes. Damage was estimated at $100,000.

The fire, of unknown origin, destroyed stocks of the Consumers' Gas Company to close to an outlet inside the front door of the building. A 75-foot section of Sons Limited on Paton Road at Queens was also.

The Toronto Transit Commission shut off the electrical power in a mass of overhead wires as firemen could fight the blaze.

Another fire chief, Walter Griffin, was taken to hospital for treatment of slight facial injuries. He leaned on a aluminum ladder against a power line.

Heavy rain helped the firemen.

Congo Copies Rounded Up by Police

OTTAWA (CP)—RCAF police have rounded up all available copies of the Congo Report here because an editorial was judged to be critical of Prime Minister L. H. Murseille, Uplands station commander.

Officials said Monday the paper came out last Thursday. Just what the editorial said wasn't known but officials indicated, it dealt to some extent with information about Canada acquiring the United States F-101 Voodoo fighter to replace the CF-100 Interceptor.

The author was FO J. D. Hinton, editor, in the absence of the editor who is on leave. FO Hinton is leaving the RCAF shortly for civil life.

SEXES COMMITTEES

The government will ask the Commons to set up two special committees on House rules, reforming broadcasting and the Indian Act. It was revealed in notices tabled for the Commons order paper.

Man Only Put Santa Claus Up on Roof

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A night watchman spotted three shadowy figures atop a two-story office building Sunday and called police.

Five patrol cars and a fire truck with an aerial ladder went to the scene.

"We surrounded the building," said Lieutenant Ben Bell Jr.

"We had no way of getting on the roof other than with the fire truck ladder. We guarded all sides of the roof, surrounded the men at gunpoint, and began to think they were putting up a Santa Claus."

Bride Still 'Miss' After Reception When She, Groom Forget License

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Rena McInnis remained a radiant bride-to-be for 36 hours.

Miss McInnis was scheduled to be married Sunday afternoon at the rock nearby Komoka on Saturday night. She didn't make it.

Everything was in readiness. The 80 guests were assembled at the church. The reception was all planned, the food and the drinks waiting at a hall.

The organist was playing softly as Miss McInnis, glowing in a white waist-length pearl-decked veil, walked slowly down the aisle to join her husband-to-be, Bob Bell.

Rev. Angus MacQueen asked the bride, Mr. MacCormack for the marriage license.

In the hushed silence the groom's throaty whisper was all-too audible to the assembled guests.

"Bob! Where's that license?"

It was just one of those things. A detail, albeit an important one, that had been overlooked. Help from almost every quarter failed to turn the license up. The license just could not be obtained at that time.

The couple decided that although there could be no wedding there could be a reception anyway, for the sake of the guests.

Before the reception Reta, still carrying the "miss" before her name, returned to her parents' home. Bob returned to his home in Komoka.

When city hall opened Monday morning the couple were the first through the doors. They got their licence.

Mr. Diefenbaker in telephoned the deputy provincial secretary's office to see whether the three-day waiting period could be waived.

Officials at the office agreed. The couple was married immediately and then left on their honeymoon. They had not planned one, but decided that after their experience they needed one.

Disheartening 10-Year Fight To Go Straight Told in Court

VANCOUVER (CP)—A bushed police court Monday heard a former convict tell of his disheartening 10-year fight to go straight before he was committed to rob a Vancouver bank.

Albany Conrad, 36, blamed defence counsel said Magistrate Grace Mary McGeer for his attempt to hold up teller Lorraine Belfrage of the Bank of Montreal branch of the Imperial Oil Building here.

He was captured two blocks away after he fled empty-handed.

Conrad told Magistrate Grace Orr he decided to go straight when he was released from an eastern penitentiary in 1950 and went to work in a mine at Timmins.

"A rock fell on my back and that ended my mining career," he said. He said he next got a job in a garage in Toronto and rose from grease monkey to assistant manager.

"Then the business was sold and the new owners fired me when the insurance company refused to bond me because of my criminal record.

He went to Ottawa where he got a job as a shoe salesman with a used car firm the same way as previously, his wife left him and "I left town with $25 in club funds from a sportsmen's dinner I had promoted, because I knew it was going to be a flop and the club had not backed me up."

He was remanded to Thursday for sentence.

Rotarians Urged To Learn More About Chemistry

"Chemistry affects our lives very much," was the keynote of Douglas Walkington's address to local Rotarians at their weekly dinner meeting yesterday afternoon at the Quinte Hotel. The Canadian Industries Limited representative then launched into a very interesting and enlightening description of the various new chemical products available today and how they affect and how chemistry has in the past affected the lives of people.

Chemistry is an old science which has seen tremendous progress over the past century and a half. Its products have changed the path of history. Taking gunpowder as an example, Mr. Walkington noted that it changed the nature of warfare completely and it also helped in making Canada nation through the fur trade. It was the search for Canada railway through the Rockies that led to the founding of Columbia.

Starting at the chemical industry today the speaker noted that there are three salient spheres of action making the basic heavy chemicals necessary for industry. For instance, industry now needs 60 times the amount of sulphuric acid that it needed 40 years ago); producing chemical specialties to allow the manufacture of new products (e.g. the use of chemical fertilizers and fungicides have increased mayfold the harvesting of potatoes per acre of arable tilles); and the production of a new range of raw materials for other industries.

In fact the latter offer so many possibilities that universities should conduct "imagineering" courses to train some of these new materials suggested the speaker.

In closing Mr. Walkington urged his listeners to consider chemistry as a career or something about chemistry and its products so that these new materials and articles might be used intelligently and properly. Only then will we be able to use good when used properly and for the purpose for which it is used for, he concluded.

Arnold Campbell introduced the speaker and Jack Ireland expressed the thanks of the club members. President Bill Hurst presided.

Man Fined $500 For Bootlegging

Andrew Nugent, Hungerford township man living on the Gulf Pitch Road just outside of Tweed, was fined $500 and costs when he appeared in magistrate's court Monday following conviction on a charge of bootlegging. Mr. Nugent was charged with selling liquor to minors.

In addition to the fine Mr. Nugent had had his home searched a public place for one year, and in default of payment of the fine will spend three months in jail.

Madoc provincial police investigated and presented the case to county Crown Attorney R. C. Jackson. Mr. Nugent was defended by Arthur Fair, Q.C. of Peterborough.

sider it likely that the government will move to head off the work stoppage rather than waiting until it has shut down the two major railways and four airlines completely.

The prime minister is reported to have tried for a third time to persuade the union betting for his postponement idea. The proposal, first was advanced by his special cabinet team — Labor Minister Starr, Transport Minister Balcer and Postmaster-General William Hamilton — during the unsuccessful Montreal talks more than a week ago.

Mr. Diefenbaker renewed it Saturday when he intervened personally in the dispute — again without success.

And, it is understood, he raised the idea with union leaders again Monday when he brought the employers and union leaders together in Ottawa for what he termed "closed sessions of collective bargaining."

Earlier, the prime minister told the Commons that he proposed the delay in the strike threat to give the government time to hear from the MacPherson royal commission on transportation and for Parliament to act on its recommendations.

The commission, which has spent more than a year studying the problems of the railways, will weigh briefs presented to it by March 15 — a month after the May 15 deferment date.

Colonel Laurier (L—Montreal Laurier) urged the government to recommend settlement of the dispute on the basis of the 14-cent-hourly wage increase recommended by the conciliation board.

Colonel Leader Argue called for an interim subsidy to meet the crisis on a part-now, part-later settlement.

READY TO CLOSE DOWN

Both railways announced at 9 a.m. Saturday just four days away, the big railways are preparing to close down their operations. An embargo has been imposed on perishable goods and passengers have been told to get to their destinations before their trips before the deadline.

A blanket embargo—affecting all freight shipments—will be imposed later this week if the strike is not postponed.

Meanwhile, the trucking industry is preparing for steps into the breach. Plans are under way across Canada to mobilize private truckers to carry on if railway freight facilities are struck.

The railway dispute involves almost all railway employees who do not actually run trains. But since "non-op" ranks include telegraphers and signalmen, any strike action would prevent the railways from operating which would affect the jobs of some 50,000 other rail workers such as engineers, conductors, brakemen and trainmen.

Well-Attended Citizens' Meeting Hears Candidates For Municipal Election

TRENTON — As one ratepayer was overheard to say, "There was just enough controversy to make it interesting".

The first meeting of interested in the auditorium of the high school was well attended. The general tone of the meeting was quiet and orderly with town clerk C. W. Larry acting as chairman and keeping a tight rein on the conduct of the meeting. Various council committee chairmen, and the heads of the four departments of the Board of Education reported on their activities and progress over their departments. Candidates for election, both incumbents and newcomers to the civic scene, stated their platforms and briefly outlined their views.

Spectators were invited to direct questions at the speakers through the chairman. One former member of the board of education said he "remembered being availed themselves of this opportunity."

Paul Tripp, chairman of management, board of education for the past two years, gave a detailed report of the school year. He mentioned the growth of the town's schools, enrolment figures, summarizing the changing of equipment wiring, heating facilities, and routine maintenance.

Defending actions of the board in the "no-strike-no-lending" policy last spring, Mr. Tripp said that while some people had said that "all the good teachers would leave us as a result of the board's attitude and attitudes", the truth of the matter was that "all the good teachers had remained" and that the staff at the high school was now second to none in the province with regard to competence and ability. He said that the basic achievement level of the students last year left much to be desired from the board's viewpoint, but that the picture this year was shaping up much better. Mr. Tripp stated that if he were re-elected he hoped to see more technical and commercial courses at the high school. He said that he was not swayed by "any pressure group" and that "for honest and sincere advice" from the public he would be well advised to "vote for Paul Tripp".

HOW MUCH?

In a question period following the speeches, Mrs. Elizabeth Bedford, who served on the board until her resignation last spring, asked him, "How much did it cost the taxpayers this year's principal (E. S. McIlwain)?"

Mr. Tripp said that according to government regulations and to the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, salaries could not be discussed at a public meeting. He said that any citizen was free to get this information by attending board meetings or by contacting the board office.

He added: "We're paying a higher salary to the principal this year," Mr. Tripp said, "but we're getting better value for our dollar."

Mrs. Bedford also addressed two questions to T. S. Ketcheson, chairman of the board for the past two years. She reminded Mr. Ketcheson that several councillors had said earlier in the evening that the "right money" for this was not being spent in Trenton.

Mrs. Bedford, the principal, Mr. McIlwain and I tried to form a high school band," Mrs. Bedford said. "We was told that the town had no money to buy instruments. This year, $1,500 was spent on new instruments. How long is it since we had a band in this town?"

Mr. Ketcheson said that the way he had understood it, Mr. McIlwain had said that "there was no room for a band in the school." He said that the board had small surpluses this year in two accounts and, as Mr. Houston thought a band would raise the spirits of the students the board had thought the $1,500 was justified.

Mrs. Bedford also queried a discrepancy in the chairman's statement that with the new addition the high school would accommodate 1,200 students when the statement made by George Hutchison, chairman of the board last year's board that a new high school and the present addition to the present school "would be necessary by 1962."

"I may be wrong," said Mr. Ketcheson. "Perhaps it's 1,000 students the high school will accommodate with the new addition."

Charles C. Hilton, local plumbing contractor who has been a member of the Public Utilities Commission, said that he had not been questioning the board's estimates but that the present commission when he started in 1956 had been told by members of the commission that the hydro rate would be 2½ cents per kwh. Now the rate is 3 cents per kwh. Mr. Hilton compared the hydro rate increase from 1953 with 1959. He said that he had found that the total capital expenditures to go "from 1953 to 1959 were $1,000,000."

Following his address which dealt with the hydro, the agenda, Albert E. Atkinson, last year's mayor of the town, publicly asked Mr. Hilton how much money had been spent up to the past five years.

"I don't know. I wouldn't know," said Mr. Hilton.

"You should know," replied Mr. Atkinson to the utilities commissioner.

Mr. Atkinson assured Mr. Hilton and the audience that all the figures were "well scrutinized by the commissioners." He reiterated the statements he had made during the year to the effect that with the commissioners in control the increase in hydro rates would be kept down.

Rain and Wind Storm Disrupts Power Service

Prince Edward County apparently took the brunt of last night's rain and wind storm which struck Ontario. Sky of Quinte area dumping over a quarter of an inch of rain on this district.

Hydro at telephone service in the Rossmore and Massassaga area were reported stranded as result of limbs falling across lines.

Hydro service seemed the most seriously affected with the Belleville Utilities and Hydro reporting numerous calls of interrupted service in that area. However, the Rossimbre area is served by maintenance crews from Picton and no report of considerable outlines. What saves the place from becoming trite is the intense but pathetic psychological conflict of the bitter, almost sadistic mother and the young daughter, between whom has always stood the idealized image of the dead mother. That her vehicle did not too often descend to the level of the soap opera is a tribute to her skill in the hard work and unquestionable gifts of several of the cast.

FINE PERFORMANCE

Vera Dennington is the title role, at her best approached great acting, and even in her weakest moments never falls to convince her part. A person, who by nature is a most unsympathetic extrovert extrovert, Mrs. Thompson gives a fine image of the vindictive, defenceless and gauche Catherine with incredible conviction. Her voice, with a thoroughly pathetic creture whose personality and appearance was an admirable piece of artistry. Words were spoken in which this young lady had her audience in genuine tears of pity for her plight. Indeed, Mrs. Thompson could reach even greater heights with a more vivacious voice, somewhat lower in pitch, a slower reaction to cues, and a slightly more restrained facial carteris in her finest, heart-rending scene. The total performance was a very satisfying experience.

To Phil Flagler, whose interpretation of the callous father was a consideration of performance must go a bouquet for his finest acting role to date. He is a progretiably, unvaried hand gestures and springy step in the opening scene of Act 1 and the unvarying habit of jumping his cues, Mr. Flagler was a welcome figure on stage. His deep, resonant voice, calm stage presence and excellent timing of speech and gesture relieves, readily offset the minor weaknesses of the piece. One feels that both while standing and sitting, the general "physical" or "body" interpretation of the lines and emotion lacked realistic conviction and that Mr. Flagler's action here may be somewhat at variance with Stanley Kauffer did a first-rate job last night.

As Morris, the spoiled-in-business-but-of-the-heiress, Don Rose left much to be desired. He should have been a more thoroughly conceived man of the world, probably a scoundrel, but always to Catherine as the tender and lovable. Instead his patent artificiality and affected attempt to get us to suspect that Catherine was an easy naive and lovestarved but an attractive girl in the playwright did not intend that Catherine should be a gauche one. It was heartening, therefore, to see that the play progressed, Mr. Goldie slowly evolved into a more credible and acceptable person. His final scene, displaying self-confidence and, please, fatherly love, was a pleasure and we will bring the verve, ardor and romance that Catherine (and the audience) deserved to spot.

PROFESSIONAL ABILITY

Belleville playgoers have long been accustomed to expect an outstanding performance from Betty Wilson and her production assignment in "The Heiress." Generally Fine Acting Performers Theatre Guild Play 'The Heiress'

By LINTON READ

All in all, it was a good show! With this thoroughly entertaining presentation of the two-act drama, "The Heiress," the local theatre Guild has given us again that amateur legitimate theatre can be a rewarding experience. Despite obvious weaknesses in casting and direction, Monday night's performance provided a pleasant evening of entertainment. It was presented again tonight and tomorrow night.

The plot of "The Heiress" smacks of melodrama, the weaknesses overly-stylized, fashion-dominated, plain, spinster swept off her feet by a charmingly sophisticated but penniless young man of questionable motives. What saves the piece from becoming trite is the intense but pathetic psychological conflict of the bitter, almost sadistic mother and the young daughter, between whom has always stood the idealized image of the dead mother. That her vehicle did not too often descend to the level of the soap opera is a tribute to her skill in the hard work and unquestionable gifts of several of the cast.

COULD END STRIKE

Winter Works Program Having Its Best Year

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's winter works program, a joint function with the federal government and the municipalities, is heading for its best year, Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender told the legislature Monday night.

So far, 970 municipalities have applied for winter works and compared to 438 municipalities last winter. They will give 13,163 persons employment, compared to 6,582 for the whole of last winter.

Government winter works schemes include:

Development of camp grounds and historic areas for a total of $131,000.

Construction of 15 new parks in the Ontario Provincial Parks Development Commission scheme at a cost of $450,000.

Expenditure by the department of lands and forests of $1,000,000 for improvement of provincial parks, employing 1,900 men for six months.

Awarding of $8,000,000 worth of contracts by the Ontario Water Resources Commission to give 832 men work.

Mr. Warrender said the federal government has placed a fund of $170,000,000 at the disposal of the provinces for new sewage works as a further incentive for winter works.

Eichmann, Butcher of Jews, Says 'I Regret Nothing'

NEW YORK (AP)—Adolf Eichmann, the Gestapo officer who helped send millions of Jews to their execution in Nazi Germany's wartime concentration camps, says he has been great.

"I will not humble myself or repent in any way," he writes in his memoirs. "I could do it too easily because I am the ultimate opponent. It would be too easy to pretend that I had turned suddenly into a saint. I am not."

Saul was the persecutor of Christians. He became one after his conversion, the great weakness of Saul.

Eichmann, in the second installment of his memoirs published in the magazine Life, quotes Saul's line, says:

"I must say truthfully that if we had killed all the 10,000,000 Jews [the Gestapo boss likes rich] H i m m l e r's statistician had been ready to accept the Jews, I would say this, 1,000,000."

Life magazine, in an accompanying editorial, says that this is "it, God help us all, a fair statement. It was true of the United States of America."

lenny made at which interest rate the credit unions charged. The House, at resolution stage of the bill, had heard testimony that the rate charged by these institutions in many cases was substantially above the bank rate of six per cent.

NOT APPROPRIATE

It would be "quite inappropriate" for the bill to guarantee all loans made by credit unions. No request for such action had come from credit unions or activ populaires. Their exclusion did not imply any antipathy toward the part of the government.

Leon Crestohl (L — Montreal Cartier) charged that the government is favoring one type of lending institution over another.

Hazen Argue (CCF leader) spoke in the same vein. The people of rural Canada had been discriminated against by credit unions and was "loaded" in favor of the chartered banks, which charged "terrible" rates in communities at the loss of their business to credit unions."

The finance minister accused Mr. Argue of making "irresponsible" statements. Since the Fisheries Improvement Loans Act was enacted no one had been defaulted."

The federal member had referred the debate to say if the government really intended to assist small business, it should its opportunity to do so. Credit unions were "certainly not" meeting were small businesses.

Mr. Argue said Mr. Chevrier has got away from the issue posed by his own amendment and was discussing a matter entirely different matter. The bill would not help small business lending, not who should benefit from the bill, Mr. Argue said.

Alfred D. Hales (PC—Wellington South) was among the Conservatives who supported the bill. Mr. Hales said it would protect the "poor" forms of old Ontario communities.

United Appeal Fund $61,002 Says Treasurer

At the regular monthly meeting held on night of November 7 in the Belleville United Appeal, the treasurer reported that the 11 agencies which benefit in main the 1959 campaign would receive a total sum of $61,002 after the deduction division. The award will be about $3,700 and will bring up to 71 cent of the amount the agencies requested originally.

It was also reported that $81,000 was the objective of this year's campaign. The final total is expected to be the same as or slightly more than, the 1959 total of $63,765.92 because donations are still coming in from various sources.

By division, the following is the breakdown of the $81,002.76 collected to date by the canvassers at corporations $11,285; railway men $1,275.44; Bell Telephone employees $4,255; residential $6,443.50; payroll deduction $33,267.88; public service $1,897.80; professional $4,144.35; business $9,201.

The Board decided to acquaint each of this year's 11 participating agencies by letter of the results of the 1960 campaign and it is expected that this will meet with the Board early in January to make future plans.

Kiwanians Honor Women At Annual Banquet, Dance

About 200 Kiwanians, their wives and guests turned out last night for the annual President's Banquet and Ladies' Night, which was held in the Knights of Columbus Hall. The event was organized by Frank Hammelton, Don Rose and Staff McKenna.

Following the pronouncement by the invocation by Hamilton A. McConnell, a turkey dinner complete with all the trimmings, was served. This was followed by the introduction of the head table by toastmaster Bob Brain.

Bill Stewart and Don Kennedy led a rousing sing-song and Rev. C. W. (Tex) Coleman proposed a toast to the ladies. Mrs. Edna Hume, wife of Kiwanian George Hume, responded.

Mrs. Rita Coleman, president of the Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary, was singled out for her praise of the L.A. during the year. She received a gift from the club in appreciation for her work. The presentation was made by Secretary Syd Little.

Another lady to whom recognition was accorded was Mrs. Ruth Hall, wife of Past President George Tripp. In making the presentation on behalf of the club, treasurer Hal Wood said that Mrs. Hall has been a tower of strength behind her hard-working husband who was described as a devoted Kiwanian.

Kiwanians Roy Dulmage, Len Frazer, Bob Freestone, Newt Mackie, Tom Simpson and John Trafford distributed gifts of small cosmetic kits among the ladies.

President George Tripp, retiring, thanked all committee members during his term of office, and described it as a "great and busy year." Of the 15 projects set out for completion in 1960, all but two have been completed.

Mr. Tripp thanked his executive officers for their unfailing support and wished the incoming president-designate Bob Brain every success in 1961.

Somebody May Get Stung

British reporters evidently take themselves seriously, group of them walked out of a press conference called London by Dr. John Saine of Montreal, who has arched from an Anglish woman the technique of ating arthritis, skin diseases and nervous disorders bee venom.

A wide breach in outlook between Dr. Saine and reporters was quickly revealed. Dr. Saine said it wd more important to know what bee venom than what it was. A reporter argued that it was posed to put into patients something which so far tested analysis, added, "if think it is dangerful." Neither contention will stand up under ose examination. If the bee venom has, indeed, defied alysis, but yet has effected cures, then that is some ht. Such a scientific approach too closely resembles that of the quack, or of one of these glibngued, deceptively-dressed hucksters on TV peddling medies which, (while possibly of some value if administered under the direction of a qualified physician who knows not only exactly what they contain but how that they contain works) at the best are but a waste of money for many who attempt to diagnose their own ls and select a cure.

Encore Please

The other evening a local theatre presented two erman films complete with German dialogue and newarel. The event, we feel, was significant from the oint-of view that local residents had the opportunity f viewing the expression of a different culture via very popular medium.

There was only a handful of persons in the audnce whose knowledge of the German language was either sparse or negligible, in addition to several hundred to whom German is their native or second tongue. omments of the former, however, proved the more interesting, considering they did not understand the anguage. All comments were favorable and, in the case of one film, extremely complimentary.

The stars of the picture in point were Martka Rokk and Dieter Borsche, neither of whom, we would wager, as ever been heard of by the average Canadian or North American theatregoer. Their performance, however, certainly warrants their fame becoming more widespread and the circulation of this film throughout Canada should certainly be assisted in this respect.

The main Benefit, however, is the fact that Canadians, through the circulation of such films, will be able to get a better insight into the people of the country which produced the film. We can get a better understanding of peoples through such basic bodies and conversing with them, and taking the fullest possible advantage of all communication media.

A motion picture film is probably the most pleasant medium and we look forward to having more of them made available for the viewing by local audiences. We also look forward to more local people attending them for these films can provide an experience not normally, or easily, come by.

We Believe Him

Bruce Hutchinson, the internationally-known author who is editor of the Victoria Times, told the royal commission on publications, at its Vancouver hearings, that there is a desperate need for magazines cheaply printed yet filled with rich ideas, fine writing and exploration of ideas.

We suspect there always has been such a desperate need, not only in Canada but in every country, and that it is never likely to be completely filled until that happy day when the world is converted into Utopia.

Einstein and Simultaneity

BY HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Ontario Minister of Energy Resources

ARTICLE 13

This is the fourth of a number of articles dealing with Einstein's Theory of Relativity. Most people have heard of Albert Einstein but very few know much about the man. The writer is a layman, I think that this is unfortunate because Einstein makes the most exciting predictions for the future. In the same sense Einstein explained much of the present and he has dramatized some of our past.

Einstein's Theory of Relativity, in a general way, is not difficult to understand as it is based on reason.

At the heart of Einstein's Theory of Relativity is the matter of light.

The most significant characteristic of light so far noted is the speed at which it travels — 670,000,000 miles an hour in a vacuum — at a slower speed through a solid like glass or a liquid like water.

In other words it would take light rays 8 minutes and 20 seconds to reach us from the sun.

There once was a lady called Bright
Who could travel faster than light.
She went out one day
In a relative way
And returned on the previous night".

Einstein said "light always travels at the same speed irrespective of the motion of the source of light or of the observer". This may not seem spectacular to the layman but it opened the scientific world and, in addition to explaining many contrary to ordinary every day common sense things, there is nothing more sensible.

Let us look at what Einstein is saying. We are saying that experiences common to us on the earth's surface are subject to light.

AN ACTUAL TEST

Walk north along a road at 3 miles per hour. Walk at 3 mph. throw a stone ahead of you at a speed of 15 mph, at an overhead train. The stone will hit the bridge at a total speed of 18 mph. — (your walking speed of 3 mph, plus your thrown speed of 15 mph. — 18 mph.). This is the "gross" speed of the stone.

Now, after you have gone under the bridge, keep travelling along the road from the bridge at 3 mph. As you walk at 3 mph. throw a stone at 15 mph. back over your shoulder at the bridge. At what speed does the stone hit the bridge?

Answer — 12 mph. Your walking speed at 3 mph. away from the bridge and the stone's speed at 15 mph. Towards the bridge, leaves the stone moving towards the bridge at a net speed of 12 mph. (15-3). This is the "net" speed of the stone.

Finally, as you walk towards the bridge, the stone hits at 18 mph. moving away from you. (15 at 12 mph. So both your direction and speed affect the speed at which the stone will travel.

THE ONE SPEED

If you could have thrown light instead of a stone the result would have been the same. Sometimes, light just does not do what we expect it to do. Light has no "net" or "gross" speed — its speed does not depend on the movement of its source, forward or backward. It has one speed regardless.

If you hold a lit flashlight in your hand and you move forward towards the bridge, the light from the flashlight will hit the bridge at the same speed as it would have hit the bridge had you been standing still. Similarly, if you back away from the bridge and point the flashlight at the bridge, the light will still hit the bridge at the same speed as if you had been standing towards the bridge, or had been standing still.

This differs from the example of the stone.

Therefore, Einstein said that light always travels at the same speed and you can't help it in the way by speeding with it, or slow it up by backing away from it. Regardless of your handicap you can increase the forward speed of the stone by throwing but you cannot do so with light.

Putting this into more formal language, Einstein stated the second law of his Special Theory of Relativity in these words:

"The velocity of light in space is constant and is unaffected by either the motion of the observer or the motion of the source of the light."

Furthermore Einstein said not only is the speed of light constant, but it has a maximum speed beyond which it will not go. It is finite speed.

TWO CONCEPTS

Einstein's Special Theory of Relativity is based on the two concepts which we have now discussed, that is this and the preceding articles, namely, motion and light.

In effect, Einstein said that because of the fact that light will reflect only at a finite speed, the motion of one observer as opposed to another, will produce different measurements of time and distance as between the observers.

Suppose there is an express train racing down the track at 80 miles an hour, and suppose that one of the railway cars is the kind of Observation Car with a glass dome on top and there is a man we will call "Mr. A" sitting up in the glass dome — "A" can see the track ahead and the track behind. It is a dark night. There is also another fellow we will call "Mr. B." sitting on a high embankment not far from the track and he can see the track well ahead of the train and behind it also.

Suddenly, there is a flash of lightning in the sky which sends down two forks — one fork strikes the track ahead of the train and one fork strikes the track behind the train. ("Mr. B." sitting on a high embankment both forks of lightning and so is "Mr. B.")

Now, the question is — and "Mr. B." see the two forks of lightning strike the track. There is no question but they have good eyesight. (There's no drinking on the embankment.) The question is the train says the lightning struck the track ahead of the train a second before the lightning struck the track behind the train. ("Mr. B." sitting on the embankment says that the two forks of lightning struck at the same time.)

"Mr. B." on the other hand, says that the lightning struck the track behind the train at the same time it struck the track ahead of the train. The two forks were simultaneous," says "Mr. B."

NEITHER ONE WRONG

Neither "Mr. A" nor "Mr. B" is wrong. For people on the train "Mr. A." is correct! For people on the embankment "Mr. B" is correct.

Answer — 13 mph, your walking speed at 3 mph. away from the bridge and the stone's speed at 15 mph. Towards the bridge, leaves the stone moving towards the bridge at a net speed of 12 mph. (15-3). This is the "net" speed of the stone.

Finally, as you walk towards the bridge, the stone hits at 18 mph. moving away from you. (15 at 12 mph. So both your direction and speed affect the speed at which the stone will travel.

Syd Believes, Complex Planes Hamper Safety

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I have been reading a fascinating new book entitled "The Probable Cause," by Robert J. Serling, published by Doubleday from the United Press. Anyone who flies regularly, as I do, will be interested in the story of air safety, its achievements and its problems.

In his final chapter, Serling deals with the psychological aspect of modern commercial aviation. In addition to enormous improvements in airpower, crews are also relegated to the status of "mere machine-tenders" operators."

Based on one airline, Serling tells us, recently took an actual count of how many routine and emergency changes pilots were required on a typical flight.

One case showed 42 contacts in a three hour flight, 60 contacts in five minutes and 19 radio frequency changes in 13 minutes. Out of a total of 1,200 during a month, radio contacts alone averaged 40 per flight, and ranged in some cases went as high as 100 in a flight.

The increasing complexity of the cockpit in the modern passenger plane has thus put a large part responsible for the frightening statistic that 75 per cent of all crashes is due to U.S. scheduled airliners.

For instance, the Douglas DC-4 (which most pilots, by the way, consider a fine ship) has 96 dials, 14 switches, 46 knobs, 46 warning lights, 450 aircraft instruments, 24 fuses, 9 levers, 14 volume controls, 38 selector switches, 13 radio sets using 91 antennas, five autopilot controls and a host of additional such actual manual flight controls as steering wheel steering, trim tabs, yokes and throttles.

There is now under development, Serling explains, a device, that may reduce the cockpit confusion. This research is approaching proportions that would rebuild an utopia." The radio engineers have found a small print on an instrument panel which could be read by the pilot, on which information that is now received and interpreted mentally.

Apart from the mechanical complexity of the new planes, there is also a staggering amount of paper work required of crews. Serling repeats the standard flight crew joke that "when the weight of a pilot's paperwork equals the weight of his airplane, it's O.K. to take off." Ironically, the red tape that is considered "necessary" for safety's sake actually hampers the safety considerations in flight.

"Of course you didn't need as much allowance as I do — in those days they didn't have cute little bloodes!"

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 29, 1918

Under the heading "hunter down, ducks desert" — it is given the latest duck hunting story of the season. It seems that Ali McCarthy and Johnnie Baker were taking a bag in the Blacks and Mallards the other day down in Big Bay. Five beauties flew into the bay decoys and Ali let bang with both barrels, killing one and wounding two. One of the wounded ducks was a whopper of a whistler and the injured drake, stunned slightly, made a bee line toward Alfie, flapping his wings and squawking like mad. Ali ducked as the big whistler came at him, but managed to reach up and grab the drake around the neck. Today Ali has the whistler drake riding around with him in his automobile quite contented with his lot in domestic life.

Sales of dressed poultry at the annual fall market proved fair were down compared with figures of 1917. E. Farnsworth marketed 19 tons of dressed chickens and 2½ tons of turkey were sold. Poultry ranged from 35 cents to 39 cents; turkeys brought 21 cents for hen turkeys and 22 cents for some of the better finished.

Visions of skating parties and other sporting activities on the ice for next winter filled the minds of the younger generation this morning as a vast sheet of ice reaching from shore to shore appeared of the Bay of Quinte. Economics Of Selling

Hamilton Spectator

The economics of selling and buying are not what they seem. A certain article may be selling for say, one dollar, but it does not follow that a man who has $200 of them is worth $200,000. This disagreeable non sequitur has been discovered by Canadians in regard to their wheat crop.

"I think it was awfully nice of her," a woman was heard to exclaim recently. "I bought a pot of English ivy for fifty cents and the plant was only a couple of inches long. Now she (the neighbor) has given me yards of it from her garden. There must be at least ten dollars' worth!"

Another instance of this sort of thinking occurred when a gardener bought himself a few plants of forget-me-nots at five cents each. They seeded themselves generously and the second year quite a few came up. The third year, the garden being neglected, they spread everywhere, and about a quarter of an acre turned completely blue. At the price of five cents per forget-me-nots the crop was worth something like $80,000. He didn't sell one however and who has heard of a person finding a lease against $80,000 worth of forget-me-nots as security?

Dahlias have a way of conferring unexpected but fictitious wealth upon their owners. At five cents and more per bulb they are a respectable price. This year sunflower gardener dug up his tubers to discover that they had multiplied beyond belief and that he has bushel hampers of them. At fifty cents per bushel, his crop represented a very tidy sum.

"I had to give them all away," he said ruefully. "Just a few hundred dollars' worth each to friends and neighbors."

Nature is a deceiver.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

EXTREME FATIGUE CAN RESULT FROM BOREDOM

On my desk is this letter from a college freshman, and she's only 18 here! She "has an energy".

She writes "I can forget myself for a while, have a good time, but then I get tense."

She's been to the doctor regularly — and has given her medicocton for her thyroid, and tested her metabolism and found it normal. He has assured her that he can find anything physically wrong.

Can one see the important part of the foregoing remarks? It is the statement about being able to "forget myself for a time — but then I get tense."

There are two major causes of tiredness. One is illness of some sort. The other is the result of being active — and being up so much energy that you are just plain tired and require more sleep to recoup.

If neither of these is the case, then the answer lies in another factor — the likes "nerves," "tension," "psychosomatic discomfort" or any blamed thing you want to call it.

If you are a tired person and you remain quiet, relaxed, for five minutes in this experiment. And I mean five minutes by the clock, not five minutes by Uncle Tom's Cabin, and you are not bored stiff — you are tense.

If neither of these is the case, then the answer lies in another factor — the likes "nerves," "tension," "psychosomatic discomfort" or any blamed thing you want to call it.

If you are a tired person and you remain quiet, relaxed, for five minutes in this experiment. And I mean five minutes by the clock, not five minutes by Uncle Tom's Cabin, and you are not bored stiff — you are tense.

My first rule for young people and other oldsters, too) in this sort of situation is to urge more activity. For the sake of variety, this can be dancing, walking, chopping wood, gardening, fishing or anything. It may mean demanding mental exercise which can be hiding, acting in the play, working on the school paper, getting in an argument with the Purple Parrot Soda Fountain, or falling in what college freshmen call love.

But don't stand still or sit still mentally or physically. Be doing with other people. Be interested. Be interesting if you can. Don't if you get my simile — just sit with one hand up over your head, perfectly static and you'll be bored stiff in five minutes.

If I haven't made my meaning clear, then hold your hand up over your head, without moving, for 5 minutes. It doesn't prove it, do it for 15. By that time you'll get my point. Extreme fatigue, when there is no physical reason for it, is the result of the strain of being static. Of being bored. Of not entering into activity that is interesting enough so you don't wear yourself out being "tired."

Dear Dr. Molner: What a bout digitalis poisoning? Should it be used? Would it show on a cardiogram?—M.G.

No, digitalis poisoning as contrasted with the beneficial results of the right amount is rare — such things as nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, and slow or irregular pulse. The latter can be detected in a cardiogram.

OTHER PEOPLE

Other people are replicas of ourselves. When we take it upon ourselves to criticize somebody else, we are calling their attention to our own faults.

We must not forget that we are "other people" — to other people.

The very gall of the passerby may suggest that we have missed something. Much of correction may be a matter of inattention.

Other people's mistakes and blunders do not worry me. I am too busy figuring how I shall eliminate and forget my own.

Actually I am not a man or woman. Respectability is but a form, after all. Sex is respectable who is honest.

We must each set our own standards and not we must live up to them.

And then we might give it back on the sly.

For none of us are original. We are fragments of the four ends of the earth. We take what other people learn or can't see ourselves.

The very air is pregnant with ideas.

We must not forget that we are "other people" — to other people.

Yesterday only last night I went rather late into the dining car and after a successful run, were all chuckled at the fat red face of the lady over there on my dinner. I was observing them from my table when I saw a face I knew a good deal. Some had coffee cups half way to their lips. Others had forkfuls of Boston cream pie aloft. Those who hadn't got their plates as yet had legs. I felt I was one of the grossest injustices I had ever witnessed. And were they mad!

Desirability and Necessity For Official Plan of City Set Out by Planning Chairman

Editor's Note: Following is an explanatory article written for The Ontario Intelligencer by Alderman Dr. John Barlow, chairman of the city planning committee, regarding the desirability and necessity for the proposed official plan of the city recently received from Urban Planning Consultants.

The citizens of Belleville will shortly be asked to approve an official plan which will have far reaching effects on the city's future.

In view of the importance of this new official plan it is imperative that the citizens understand the function of such a plan and assure themselves that it is in the best interests of the city.

An official plan for a city is comparable with a plan to renovate a house. The economic structure of the city can be compared with the structural parts, the beams and the studding; the residential area with bedrooms; commercial establishments with living and recreational rooms; commercial and industrial areas with dining room, kitchen and laundry. The utilities of the city are quite similar to wiring in the house, and the citizens are the occupants of the house.

To begin the plan, estimates of future needs in residential, commercial, industrial and recreational space, as well as schools, hospitals, etc., are made. The structure of the city must be examined to see if it will meet, with a house, before additions or alterations can be made, the requirements. Utilities must also be sufficient to bear the added burden. Then plans are made for any of structural weakness with recommendations for strengthening.

Next, a study of the various areas is made as one would study the rooms of a house. The present use, the suitability for continued use, the desirability of changing the use, the size and shape of each area are all carefully recorded.

MUST MEET FUTURE NEEDS

Then the recommendations are made to preserve or change the use, to enlarge, or redecorate to meet the needs of the growing family.

This attempt to predict future needs, to assess the present, suggest changes, improve and strengthening and improving it to meet future needs forms the policy treatment of the official plan. On this all else hinges. This study provides the knowledge of all parts of the structure so that renovations can proceed logically and expensive mistakes, like re-decorating before the roof still leaks, can be avoided.

When the policy statement has been carefully prepared we are ready for the second part of the plan — the "Land Use Plan".

This designated the various areas of the city for specific future use to meet the future needs outlined in the policy statement. It resembles the prepared floor plan of the house after renovation.

This floor plan may show a dining alcove sacrificed to enlarge the kitchen, a bedroom for the family added downstairs and a recreation room in the attic, or for extra bedrooms additional rooms finished on the second.

Similarly the land use plan may show residential areas taken over for commercial and industrial use, particularly so if the buildings are deteriorated or poorly constructed. Again, overcrowding may be dispersed and opened up by designation of certain areas for future parks, etc.

The policy statement and the land use plan form the official plan of the city.

CHANGES DISCOURAGED

Changes in the official plan are discouraged. Its use must can be appreciated if the dining alcove is removed to enlarge the kitchen it is used there.

Each suggested change must be approved by local planning board, council, the public, community planning advisory and finally the minister of Municipal Affairs. The process costly changing back and forth at the whim of the planning board, council or public, although changes can be made if they can be justified. For these reasons the plan must be considered with care before it is adopted.

The zoning by-law is not a part of the official plan. It is prepared only when the plan has been finally adopted and it serves to implement the plan. It limits, more or less closely, the uses or each of the designated areas of the land use plan. This is like forbidding children to eat in the living room for fear they upset their milk or drop their jam sandwiches on the rug.

It also provides for the transition of use from the present to the future. "Any resolution, whether it is of a house or of a city, is a relatively expensive business and it would be fortunate indeed if finances would permit the complete job at one time. Even aside from the lack of money there may be a very good reason to delay some changes as long as the over-all plan is preserved. The family renovating the house should make provision in their plan for the larger kitchen, future bedroom, but they would be foolish to deprive themselves of storage space, recreation space, or work space before the need arose.

IMPLEMENTS PLAN

Also they would be foolish if they allowed the use of rooms which made them unsuitable for the intended future use.

For example, they should not install a new furnace in the section of the basement designated as a future recreation room.

Similarly, the zoning by-law may allow a reasonable extension of a non-conforming use providing such use does not prejudice the future use designated by the land use plan.

In summary, the zoning by-law implements the official plan by defining the uses permitted in the designated areas and by bridging the gap between the present and the future use in a practical manner.

At present we must concentrate on providing the best possible official plan, practicing the same care and foresight we would use in renovating our own home. When a satisfactory plan has been adopted we can proceed to implement it with the necessary zoning by-law.

SHOULD AIM HIGH

WHITBY (CP) — Walter Pitman, New Party member of Parliament for Peterborough, says the party should enter the next election with the purpose of forming the next government. Mr. Pitman, who won the seat in a recent byelection, is the only New Party member in the House. He told a party meeting Saturday the throne speech was the "greatest grab-bag of promises" presented by any party in 20 years.

Einstein

tion exactly in the middle between, where a lightning struck ahead and where the lightning struck behind. But, "Mr. A." is moving forward towards where the lightning struck ahead and away from where the lightning struck behind. Therefore, it takes less time for the light of the lightning bolt ahead to get back to "Mr. A." than it takes the light from the lightning bolt behind "Mr. A." to catch up with "Mr. A.", who keeps moving forward meanwhile. Thus, Mr. "A" will receive the light from the bolt of lightning ahead, a fraction before he will see the light from the bolt of lightning which struck behind the train.

The results that "Mr. A." obtained involved two concepts, namely, the motion and the maximum speed of light.

"Mr. B.", you see, however, is not influenced by any motion because he is sitting still. He has to contend only with the maximum speed of light. He is at the same distance away from where the lightning struck the track ahead of him as he is from where the lightning struck the track behind the train. Therefore, the light from each bolt of lightning will travel the same distance to reach "Mr. B.'s" eyes. Therefore, he will see both bolts of lightning at exactly the same time, and therefore, he will say that the bolts are "simultaneous."

NO "SIMULTANEITY"

"Mr. A." as you will have noted, did not receive the light from both bolts of lightning at exactly the same time due to his motion towards one bolt and away from the other.

Thus, Einstein said that when you combine relative constant motion between two observers, with the fact, that light has a maximum speed, beyond which it will not go, it is clear that 2 observers will not receive at the same event in the same way, nor can they describe it as having taken place at the same time, or perhaps even at the same spot.

Neither observer will be wrong and both will be right from their own point of view. Hence "Relativity".

Another way of putting Einstein's Special Theory of Relativity is to say that there is no "simultaneity" and since there is no simultaneity, what events results are obtained by various observers, they are all relative to that observer's own reality.

You may well say: "As interesting as this is, what possible uses would the information have?". The fact is that many important scientific equations involve "time" and since two observers may not agree on how much "time" there is involved, there may be tremendous differences in results obtained. When this is applied to the atom for example, the Special Theory of Relativity explains how much energy can be obtained when a given mass of uranium is destroyed.

Thus, the lack of "simultaneity", which is the Special Theory of Relativity explains how much energy can be obtained when a given mass of uranium is destroyed.

Thus, the lack of "simultaneity", which is the special Theory of Relativity, is the foundation and the parent of the atomic and hydrogen bombs.

The theory makes many other predictions, and offers many other explanations, some of which I pointed out in the first article, and some of which we will discuss in the next.

To be continued.

Editors of French Language Magazines to Be Own Masters

By ALEXANDER FARRELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — Assurances that the editors of two new French-language magazines will be masters in their own houses, although the houses are owned by the Maclean-Hunter firm of Toronto, were given the royal commission on publications Monday.

The commission, sitting for one day in Quebec City, heard the assurances in briefs and testimony by Fernande Saint-Martin and Pierre de Bellefeuille, editors-in-chief of Châtelaine, La Revue Moderne and Le Magazine Maclean will appear in February.

Both said they have full freedom to decide the editorial content of their magazines and that the content will mainly be the work of French - language writers.

Commission chairman M. Gratian O'Leary, president of the Ottawa Journal, brought up the subject when he asked Mrs. Saint-Martin if she had a written contract giving her editorial freedom. The answer was "No."

HEAR FRENCH SITUATION

The commission also thrust the spotlight on competition from France and on the proposed creation of women's magazines in French-speaking Canada.

Both Mrs. Saint - Martin and Mr. Bellefeuille said competition from France is likely to grow stronger and can be met only if next election with the purpose of forming the next government. Mr. Pitman, who won the seat in a recent byelection, is the only New Party member in the House. He told a party meeting Saturday the throne speech was the "greatest grab-bag of promises" presented by any party in 20 years.

Mrs. Saint-Martin said Châtelaine-La Revue Moderne and its chief domestic rival, La Revue Populaire, have approximately equal circulations of 80,000 and are well ahead of the top French magazines at present. Some of the Paris magazines, however, were reported to be planning Canadian sections or editions.

The commission heard briefs earlier in the day from the provincial government.

The government brief, presented by cabinet Secretary Jean-Chrysostome Bonvanet, rejected the idea of tariffs on the importation of quality magazines.

The brief said it is desirable that native quality magazines flourish but this would be helped by interrupting the free flow across international borders of periodicals devoted to ideas and values."

UNEMPLOYMENT

be withdrawn from the unemployed ranks . . . and provided with training so that they might return later with a definite skills," Mr. MacDonald said.

WERN, ONE TAKE NOTE

Albert Wren (L. sal—Kenora) and Mr. Frost leaped in a 30-minute debate that ended in adjournment of the legislature.

Mr. Wren was interrupted by the premier when he attempted to tell the House that recent polls indicated the electoral trend was moving away from the Conservatives.

"We're not discussing the popularity of any government in this place," Mr. Frost retorted. "We're discussing unemployment."

Mr. Wintermeyer's proposal was urged as immediate expansion of provincial work projects that would require heavy demands for manual labor.

He said one person out of four unemployed in Ontario is under 19 years of age and a total of 40 per cent is under 25.

We are not properly training the young people . . . they are not prepared for automation."

WANTS PUBLIC WORKS

Mr. Wintermeyer also called for the establishment of an economic council between the province and municipalities to know its own needs.

Mr. Frost urged unemployment be placed in its proper perspective in the discussion of shortages and immediate unemployment proposals.

While five per cent of Ontario's labor force was unemployed as of October, everyone may say that four per cent is a fair average of unemployment in a normal economy, the premier said.

The 130,000 unemployed represented a resolution by Harold Sutton, an equal dollar exchange rate with United States, discussion and an end of the "cheap dollar" era, continuous flow of foreign capital, lower tariffs, and the development of human resources through education and as an antidote to the current pessimistic thinking.

The legislature was debating a resolution by Harold Sutton, PC—Toronto York - Scarborough who urged the department of lands and forests be expanded to employ the 130,000 unemployed male worker for a period of three years.

He said men between the ages of 18 and 21 should be given preflow across international borders ference in the Toronto-Hamilton of periodicals devoted to ideas area and Sudbury districts during the winter months to learn a trade.

Justice Rules Chatham City Must Provide Schools' Cost

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. Justice P. K. Smith Monday ordered the Chatham school board's appeal rejected requiring that the city be required to provide the board's cost of $1,818,566.52 for schools this year.

City council had rejected the board's estimates and asked the board to include a credit of $187,000 in tuition fees owed the board by the suburban district high school board for suburban pupils attending city schools.

Mr. Justice Smily ruled that the board is not required to include these fees in its estimates because, under a 1953 agreement, between the two boards, it does not receive them until one year after the educational services have been rendered—or until 1961.

The agreement provided that the suburban board pay the city board a per diem rate for the tuition of the suburban pupils.

BREAK NOT JUSTIFIED

"It is contended," Mr. Justice Smily wrote, "that the agreement between the two boards of education does not justify delay in payment of the tuition cost by the suburban board.

"The city board could not compel the suburban board to pay in the previous year, that is, the year in which the pupils received the tuition. That being so, the city board has no right, and on the others not more than 30 per cent, of the total mark will be allotted to the objective questions, a list of the multiple choice variety.

Deputy Education Minister C. W. Booth said: "Pupils should be reminded that the candidate who knows the work should have no more difficulty in answering objective questions than he would in answering the essay type questions."

FIND SAFE ROBBED

Special Range Of Fashions For Men Shown

By PEGGY MASON

PARIS (Reuters)—It is not only women who go in for style-clothes in Paris today.

Pierre Cardin, one of France's top dressmakers, has created, alongside his collection for women, a special range of fashions for men, including such novelties as printed shirts, sleeveless muddy blouses, flared raincoats cut like artists' smocks, and open hats made of bright woollen plaids.

This successful, 37 - year - old haute couture designer sees no reason why women should have the monopoly on extreme silhouettes and colorful costumes. Most men, he claims, have a subconscious longing for fantasy, though they are so inhibited by tradition that the only really daring thing that men usually permit themselves is a pair of bright-colored pajamas.

MALE MODELS

His new and greatly enlarged boutique, called "Adam," features the most avant garde collection of men's attire in Paris. In an elegant decor set off by empire, style furniture, a talented and young male mannequins present new printed wool shirts for casual wear, and rainbow - colored, handknitted sports sweaters decorated with bold, zigzag-striped insets.

Abraham Lincoln hats with stovepipe crowns and lowering opera hats are shown in vivid plaids and checked tweeds. An apache scarf, styled like its original counterpart from the Marseille waterfront, comes in long-haired mouton fur, and for sporting cars and country weekends Cardin offers flared middy blouses in soft glove suede, matched with hard-to-get suede hats copied from deer stalker caps.

Almost every other top-ranking Paris couture house includes a small selection of items for men in the boutique line. Balenciaga, Balmain and others sell a limited assortment of exclusive neckties.

RAWDON — Brenda Williams presided for the November meeting of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon Sunbeam Mission Band held at the church with eight adults and 25 members in attendance. Betty McAdam was pianist.

Mrs. Harry McAdam based her meditation on Psalm 103 and enlisted the last study story from the book, "New Magic," by Ernest Booth.

This story was based on Liberia and gave a message about "The Bridge of Vines."

Liberia has always been an independent country of Africa. Tribal people lived in that land and freed slaves from America journeyed there during the first half of the 19th century. Today, the two groups of people are learning to live with each other. The tribal folk are being educated in the schools and some have government jobs. Mrs. Booth and her husband have been missionaries in Africa for many years.

Mrs. Rose Jeffs offered prayer and Brenda Williams gave her report.

Readings were given by Karen Summers and Larry Jeffs. Nancy Johnson contributed a piano solo and Jimmy and Janet Boyd rendered a vocal duet.

The next meeting on December 11th will be prepared by Brenda Williams and Fred McAdam.

The service closed with "Will Your Anchor Hold in the Storms of Life."

"FACED THE MUSIC"

The expression "face the music" may have been used first by actors who were nervously preparing to face the glare of lights and literally face the music.

MORE ON WEDDING PLANS

After the "who pays for what" problem is settled (we discussed this last week), the next step in planning a wedding is very important. It is the compiling of the guest list. It can be a pleasant task, or a nightmare, depending upon how you go about it.

Whatever the circumstances, whether the wedding is to be large or small, there are those who should receive invitations or announcements. When making up this list, much care should be taken to make sure that no person who should receive an invitation is forgotten. Nothing is more embarrassing, after the ceremony, than to discover that cousin Willie was overlooked. Result: hurt feelings that no amount of apology will erase.

Compiling this list requires the co-operation of the families of the bride and the bridegroom. The family of the bride first must decide what type of wedding it is to be, and then arrive at a rough idea of the total number of guests that can be handled. Then the mother of the bridegroom should be told the approximate number that her family may invite.

Much confusion and duplication can be avoided if the following plan is adhered to, and very little equipment is necessary to facilitate matters! One set of alphabetical index cards measuring three by five inches. One set of plain white cards and another set of any color. The bride - elect uses the white cards, the coloured ones are for his family.

As names come to mind, fill in a card before you forget. Never scribble the name on a piece of paper or on the back of an envelope. All will be lost, including the name, if you do!

The last name is placed first on the card to facilitate filing. For example: "Dow, Mr. and Mrs. Paul." The address is placed on the line below the name. Place a red check in the corner for those to be invited both to the church and the reception. Those to be asked to the church only are not marked. In this way, when the time comes to make arrangements for those who have accepted, it is easy to separate those who will attend the reception and to plan for refreshments for this number).

The family of the bridegroom follows the same idea. When both lists are complete, they are filed together alphabetically thereby avoiding all chance of duplication.

Now you are ready for the addressing job. With all the information on the cards, it is simple. As acknowledgements come in, mark "accept" or "regret" on the cards to which they apply. Then you will be ready for the next step in wedding plans!

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Question: My wife and I are having quite an argument about a habit of hers that I think is very bad. When we are guests at the homes of friends, she will accept cigarets, candy or what have you, and put them in her purse or pocket to take home with her. Don't you think this is wrong?—Mr. F. B. C., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Answer: I most certainly do! It is wrong. It is downright rude, and it is more or less of an insult to her hosts. When a friend is offering you hospitality, you don't just put it away to take home for future consumption. It is perfectly proper to courteously refuse something that is presented, but if you accept a cigaret, for example, you should smoke it then and there. This is a child-ish habit that should be corrected.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, advice and minor, encountered by guidance counsellors and social workers

Theresa F. — He's wonderful company, but wants me to pay his bills.

Alexander B. — At our age we want companions not meal tickets.

Theresa F. — I'm a widow of 65, with grown children. Two are married and the third away at school, so I live alone. For the past three years I've been dating a widower of 58 who is a librarian, like myself. We work in different branch libraries, and his salary is much higher than mine since he has worked much longer more steadily.

We go on drives together, swim and relax, and get along famously until we get on the subject of marriage. Then we're at loggerheads over money.

I overlook his "tightness" on dates where we take turns paying for everything — even the late papers! But Al wants me to agree to a 50-50 marriage budget, from rent down, and he won't budge on one bit romantic. I tell him he might just as well take in a roomer if all he wants is to split his expenses.

He feels I have much more money than he has, due to my husband's estate. The truth is that there isn't much and what there is has been going fast on my children. I certainly won't ask him to spend anything on them. But I'd like to see some solicitude on his part for me, some protectiveness offered toward a wife. His main affection is his bank account. Why should I compete?

Alexander B. — While I'm extremely fond of Terry and would like to marry her, I can't let myself go out on the same limb I shivered on 12 years ago when my wife died. Her long illness took my savings and I had to borrow on my pension to see my son through college. It was a nightmare. Now at last I'm all paid up and feeling more secure, with a good pension due in a few years and a modest bank balance.

I feel Terry and I are happy and sensible enough for plain talk. Second marriages are more for companionship than love, anyway. If we each want to avoid loneliness, if she wants a lifeline escort and I want a steady pal, can't we work out some fair financial arrangement to make this possible?

From what I've heard, she's in a more secure position than I am. If she quit working she'd still have some income from her husband's money. But she even asked me to change the beneficiary of my pension from my son to her, as a condition to marrying me! Her children were helped by their father; why not my son?

How can such a pleasant woman be so mercenary? My idea is that by keeping things 50-50 in our home, we'll never get into money arguments.

The Council — If these two ever take a bridal cruise, the first piece of furniture they'll see in their new home will be a tabulating machine.

From Alexander's fallacious idea of second marriages as a age or previous matrimonial bliss. And to her, Dutch-treating all right on lunch dates with the girls or with casual friends, but with a suitor, better an ice cream cone he pays for than a steak dinner where you split the check. Better for love, that is.

Without love, of course, there is no trust. And without trust there's suspicion and exasperation with self-preservation. Love can. What can I do for you? These two, particularly Alexander, ask. What can you do for me?

The only hope for a union between these otherwise compatible people is to decide whether they love each other enough to lay their financial cards on the table and, perhaps with the aid of a neutral friend, set up a program to give them each peace of mind without demeaning Theresa as a wife. Alexander's plan she'd feel like a roommate.

They might agree to live with Al's salary so far as regular household expenses go. When he retires, Theresa should have a choice as to whether to continue working. Her earnings can be earmarked for the "cushions" of their life together, such as extra help, clothes, travel treats. But if Al wants her to quit and travel with him, he might make the reassuring gesture of assigning part of his pension to her as his contribution to her future security.

Part of Theresa's money, of course, will be used to help the children. Al's nest egg must not be threatened by their demands. But in return for a devoted wife Al must assume the duties of a husband, one of which is to cherish and protect.

If Al doesn't see the light Theresa would do well to drop him and his 50-50 ultimatum. She'd do better with a man with 20-20 vision in this area.

W.I. Hears Talk on Caké Decorating

CARMEL — The Carmel W.I. held its November meeting at the home of Mrs. Amos Whitmore.

The president, Mrs. Urch, opened the meeting in the usual manner. There were present 19 members and three visitors.

Roll-call was answered by a letter of thanks from the Latcher family in appreciation of a mattress, for actions taken by their son.

Mrs. Whitmore reported from a meeting held in connection with the 1961 Flowing Match. She also gave a splendid report on the area convention.

The Christmas meeting will be held on the evening of December 13th, at the home of Mrs. Percy Reynolds. Mrs. Brintnell reported for the historical research.

PROGRAM

Mrs. Jack Clarke, home economics convener was in charge of the program. Mrs. Walter Chisholm of Roslin, was guest speaker for the occasion. She spoke of her hobby of cake decorating which she has found interesting. Her demonstration of a cake was decorated to represent a beautiful girl ready for a party. Club Activities

WOOLLY-WOOFLETTES

BETHEL-ZION — The fourth meeting of the Bethel-Zion Woolly Woofletes was held at the Bethel-Zion hall with all members and both leaders in attendance.

The next meeting will be an all-day work meeting, also to be held at the hall.

During the discussion period, skirt linings and directions for making a skirt were studied. A lining may come to the top of the skirt facing or any size inches below fullest part of the hips. It helps to prevent stretching in the skirt. Stay-stitching along bias edges, to prevent stretching, was also discussed.

Demonstrations for next few meets were stay-stitching, checking a pattern for alterations, making pattern adjustments and the laying of the altered pattern on the material, according to the instruction sheet.

The home assignments were: keep record book up to date; do a sample of stay-stitching; have material ready for work meeting.

Nut Cookies That Keep — And Don't Keep

By Mary Moore

This was intended for amateurs but the cookies are so good I would advise the cooks experts to join.

I have made two kinds of nut cookies. Both are economical. The first calls for black walnuts but English walnuts or pecans may be used. They keep very well — in fact improve on storing if a cut apple is added to the closed tin. The second is a small batch, specially made, of dainty wafers — rich yellow in color with an attractive gold edge when baked exactly 8 minutes. Lovely for a dainty afternoon tea, and designed especially for small households.

WALNUT MACAROON COOKIES:

2 eggs, 3 teaspoons water, 2 cups pulp, 3 tablespoons well-packed light brown sugar, 1 cup chopped black walnuts (or English walnuts or pecans), 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 2-4 teaspoon almond extract, 4 cups sifted plain flour.

Beat whole eggs with water until thick, add sugar gradually beating all the while, then nuts and flour sifted with soda and salt. Add almond extract. Drop by small teaspoonfuls on ungreased cookie sheet 2" apart. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes. With spatula remove from pan at once. If they become hard on standing return pan to oven for a moment to heat them again and quickly remove remainder. Wash spatula sheet in cold water. Dry and fill pan again and bake. Repeat until all dough is baked. This makes 150 2" cookies. They have interesting crinkly tops. When cold store in covered cookie tin between layers of wax paper in cool place.

BRAZIL WAFERS:

(Small batch — 36 2 1-2" wafers)

2 tablespoons butter, 1-4 cup sugar, 1 beaten egg, 1-2 cup sifted flour, 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 2 level tablespoons milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 cup finely chopped Brazil nuts.

Cream butter, beat in sugar until light and creamy, then beat in beaten egg. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together and add alternately with milk and vanilla. Stir in nuts. This is a thin batter. Drop 1 teaspoon onto buttered cookie sheet 3" apart. Bake in moderate oven, 375 deg. Fahr. for 8 minutes or until edges are a delicate golden brown. Remove at once to cooling rack. These should not be kept longer than one week or they will lose their crispness.

reventing Wildlife Extinction

here is an old saying having do with the futility of locking barn door after the horse been stolen. The rule ap- to a great many forms of ess activity. More particular- it applies all too often to the nagement — or mismanage- — of our fish and wildlife, only in the United States but over the world.

Too late are steps taken to pre- e species which is faced extinction. The result is that ery birds, animals, fish and ects, which once were fami- r to our forefathers are un- own to the youth of today.

Down in the Florida Keys, st offshore from Plantation y, is an area known as "The wpens." Many years ago mas- e or "sea cows which had an netted were held here in ong pens, pending slaughter d butchering. I have talked to on who eaten manatee- mething like beef, they said d quite palatable.

VANISHED MAMMALS

Other endangered mammals the sea otter, the fish eli- e black-footed ferret, the kit r, the Key deer, the Caribbean ok sea, etc. Even the grizly bear, once quite common. w numbers only about 800 imals.

On Martha's Vineyard, off the w England coast, there once ed a bird called the heath en. Before the island became popular summer place, there ve a great many of these birds. radually their numbers gave ay to the advance of civiliza- n. I recall talking to the Con- fissioner when the total heath- en population was 17. He assur- me that the little flock was ite safe and well cared for.

But he overlooked the fact last summer residents have the uracious practice of leaving ruse cats behind when they ose their cottages and return the mainland. After all, cats st hungry just as we do and ey are clever hunters. Now the eath hen is extinct.

Time was when our skies were arkened by the flights of the assenger pigeon. Those birds ere here by the million. But ey were stupid birds, unwary d easily captured or killed. credible as it now seems, the arket hunters, by netting, hooting and nest-pounding, reduced this bird to complete extinction.

There has been much publicity ven to the struggles of the hooping crane to gain In number. In 1938 only 14 of these agnificent birds remained. Today the last published count was 0, six of them in zoos. Let us hope that they do not join the anks of the heath hen, passenger pigeon, Carolina parakeet, reat auk and Labrador duck.

Two others may very well be nclged in this list — the Eskimo curlew and the ivory-illed woodpecker. Of the latter, he last bird seen was in 1952. No reports since then.

For some years the trumpeter wan, the largest of the world's water fowl, and the American oodduck were dangerously low n number. Both of these, having been given adequate manage- ment and protection, have staged remarkable recoveries.

There is a considerable list of birds which show dwindling populations. Among these are the cal extinction of the greyling in United States waters.

While the inroads that human occupation is making each year into our wild lands has a serious effect on the population numbers of many of our native species (witness the prairie chicken and our ducks) some species seem to thrive on improved and cultivated land. The outstanding of these are the ringneck pheasant and the mourning dove. These two birds take naturally to cornfields as a duck does to water. Inevitably human occupation and use makes its inroads into land which once was wilderness. What with the back-to-the-country trend and the building of homes well outside the city limits of the metropolitan areas, and the construction of modern superhighways, more than one million acres of land per year are daily being withdrawn, permanently, from public use.

This means, of course, that natural habitat of our native species is shrinking constantly. Some of these species can adapt themselves to civilization; others can not. Thus, these latter must confine themselves to our National and State parks. Meanwhile every possible aid and protection is being given threatened species. As to the eventual outcome, only time can tell the story.

Now Have Chemical Able To Kill Spruce Budworms Without Hurting Fisheries

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Success is billing an insect scourge of Canadian forests without knocking out salmon fisheries at the same time has been achieved, federal scientists believe.

"We are very heartened indeed," reports Dr. James J. Fettes of the agriculture department's chemical control section.

The two-year test was the spraying of 2,800,000 acres of New Brunswick timber and another 30,000 acres in British Columbia last summer. The spruce budworm, which gobbles up foliage and kills millions of dollars worth of timber annually, died in the required numbers but fish survived.

Dr. Fettes said in an interview that the big aerial spraying operation seems to confirm test-plot conclusions based on a few acres. Analysis of the summer's work showed that milder doses of DDT were effective against budworms if the concentration of droplets per square centimetre was high enough.

PREFERS BALSAM

The spruce budworm, larva of a small moth, is misnamed in that it prefers the foliage of balsam. Defoliated trees die in its wake and must be salvaged quickly if the timber is to be saved. Young growth is wiped out.

Aerial spraying of DDT in an oil base was carried out extensively in East and West but the fatal impact on young fish and the insects they needed for food prompted a serious review which began in 1957.

Fisheries, wildlife, forestry and agriculture scientists were included in the committee on forest - spraying operations here, equipped with some preliminary studies on a DDT-oil solution done at the defence research board station at Suffield, Alta.

Sports fishermen were the complainants in New Brunswick. In B.C., the danger concerned a big industry.

THREAT TO YOUNG

The Pacific salmon's regular cycle of fresh-water spawning and migration to the seas varying annually, even, meant that one source could be wiped out entirely if the DDT hit a big crop of fingerlings. On the Atlantic, the salmon population is spread evenly between fresh and salt waters.

ATTACK INSECTS—Two planes sweep low over a forest with a chemical spray that has proven successful in killing the spruce budworm without affecting fish in rivers and lakes. Tests have been carried out on 3,630,000 acres of forest in New Brunswick and British Columbia against the insect that has killed millions of dollars worth of timber annually. (CP Photo).

It was confirmed that the lighter dosage did the trick just as well as the heavier solution, says Dr. Fettes. Wildlife experts using trapped and wild fish determined that some died but not as many as previously. In B.C., the mixture was lighter still at one-quarter pound of DDT per gallon per acre with "little or no effect on fish."

AL to Force Showdown

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The American League, anticipating a negative National League reply to its nine-team inter-league play proposal, plans to reaffirm its original decision to place a franchise in Los Angeles and expand to 10 teams in 1961.

This move was indicated today by Cleveland vice-president Nate Dolin and vice - president Hank Greenberg of the Chicago White Sox, who insist the time has come when the American League must stop procrastinating and force a showdown with Los Angeles Dodger owner Walter O'Malley.

It was O'Malley's steadfast opposition to a rival major league club in Los Angeles that forced the American League to back down last week and offer the nine-team inter-league competition as a compromise.

"We announced last week that if the National League did not agree to inter-league play, we would go to 10 teams and open shop in Los Angeles in 1961," said Dolin. "I see no reason why we should waiver on this decision."

"The American League has declared its earnest intention to negotiate a reasonable settlement with O'Malley for expenses he had to assume in his three-year operation in Los Angeles. I feel confident commissioner Ford Frick and the two league presidents, in their meeting in New York tomorrow, will decide on a plan that will enable us to operate in Los Angeles next year."

READY TO GIVE UP

Greenberg, a staunch advocate of inter-league play, has just about given up the idea he has been nourishing for five years.

"Since coming here to the minor "league convention," he openly said. "I have been made aware, to my disappointment, that our league will receive very little support from the National League to have an interlocking playing schedule in 1961.

"Speaking for myself and not for the American League, I can foresee that he will have 10 clubs in our league in 1961."

The American League will not make known its decision before Dec. 8, the deadline for the National League to give its answer to inter-league play in 1961.

SOUTHPAW RETIRES

One rumor was quickly squelched Monday during the annual player draft when the league selected 22 players at a cost of $475,000 and the higher echelon followed by drafting 35 players from leagues of lower classifications for $345,000.

That was the report that the American League would put out for one year in placing a new team in Washington and revert to an eight-team league in 1961.

"The American League has not added to postpone one single iota the nation's capital," said Ed Doherty, the general manager of the Senators. "And we at this time entertained such a thought. When the opening day of the 1961 season comes around, our Washington team will be out there on the field ready to take on the opposition."

As proof of his intention, Doherty selected two minor league players, at a cost of $50,000 each, in a special out-of-turn draft following the regular draft of the eight established clubs. Those pitchers John Gabler, a New York Yankee farmhand at Richmond last year; and Ray Herbert, a Dodger chattel at Spokane, became the first members of the newly-created Washington Senators.

Moore Wins Over Turman

DALLAS (AP) — Archie Moore, world light heavyweight champion now unrecognized by the National Boxing Association, pounded out a unanimous 10-round decision over young Tommy Mason Monday night.

Moore, weighing in at a trim 169½ pounds, blackened Turman's left eye and give him a bloody lip. Turman, 186-pound Tyler, Tex., heavyweight on the canvas.

Neither man was in any trouble and Moore won the fight without much work to the clinches.

Moore punished Turman with a body attack and kept him on the move with stinging lefts to the head.

Moore, who admits to being 43 finished strong.

CHOSE SITE LATER

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle Monday postponed until next Tuesday a meeting to determine sites for possible playoffs in the National Football League's eastern and western division races. Only Dallas has been mathematically eliminated in the western race, which could end in a fiveway tie. In the eastern race, Philadelphia Eagles have a comfortable lead, but both Cleveland and New York could tie for the title.

Bay of Quinte Basketball

The league-leading Crawford Metals rolled to their seventh victory in Bay of Quinte basketball league action last night by trouncing Picton Prospects 69-32.

In the other half of the doubleheader, Belleville Teachers and Northern Electric battled to a 56-56 deadlock.

Crawford's victory may be a costly one. Teddy Batchelor, the coop's top scorer, will be lost to the club for an indefinite period. Batchelor suffered a foot injury in the game's first quarter, landing on the side of his foot after coming down from a rebound.

Bert Faulkner, the other half of the leaders' one-two scoring punch, had his second straight high scoring game. He hooped 41 points, bettering his own league mark of 37. Batchelor hit for 17 despite his injury. Crawford's led 20-2 at one point and 38-34 at half time.

Hopkins paced the Picton scorers with 21 points while Fawcett had 10.

In the other game Northern Electric overcame a half-time 26-16 deficit to grab the tie with the Teachers.

Doug Soule led the Northern scorers with 18 points while Chuck Kingston collected 16.

Max Wooley was tops for the Teachers with 19 while John Perry hit for 14.

Teachers and Northern are tied in the league standing with five points apiece.

Crawford Metals (69): Rogers 2, Bennett 6, Walmsley 1, Faulkner 41, T. Batchelor 17, Spiegle, Worden. Absent—Cox.

Ottawa Lets Hair Down For Champions

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

It's all over. The Grey Cup is nestling snugly on the mantel in Ottawa. . . Its disbursching time in Vancouver and cracker-barrel lims wherever football aficionados gather.

In the coast metropolis, the innkeepers are estimating the damage—and counting the profits. Everything that wasn't nailed is now back in place and the hangover mists are rapidly disappearing.

The taverns, the bistros and the inns did a roaring business. The soda-bicarb boys didn't finish exactly in the red either.

The Rockies have snapped back to their original majestic grandeur and staid Victoria has resumed its English accent.

Somewhere a youngster who committed grand larceny before the astounded eyes of 34 football players, officials and 25,000 plus spec-tators-in-fact has it cuddling the football that was the bare for two stout-hearted teams of football hounds during the most of the afternoon. .

It was the best piece of broken-field running of the season. A teen-age sleeper that for its very audacity deserved the prize it won.

The bets are still being collected. Let's see. Twenty from Bill, ten each from Ed and Joe, fifteen from Sam, five from Tommy and twenty-five each from Irvine, Jack and Ian. And in case the income tax boys are interested these make the sum total of $1.10.

HUNTING

Lands and Forest Department officials at Tweed have announced that the deer kill this season was slightly more successful than last year in the district.

Their 1959 information from the checking stations operated by the department at Eldorado and Killadar showed hunter success to be 25.9 per cent. This year it was 37.6 per cent.

A total of 3,718 hunters passed through the Tweed checking stations. Those brought 321 bucks, 258 does and 214 fawns, a total of 793 deer at the stations for examination.

While complete returns of the moose kill are not yet available, Lands and Forest officials at Tweed said today indications point to a 100 per cent increase over the kill of two years ago. In that season thirty moose were reported, but Bob Biddle estimates that some sixty of the kings of the forest and his family have been brought down this year.

RUMMAGE

Don't look now, but plans are afoot to lay the foundation of a Central Ontario Baseball League for 1961.

Ken Soden, manager and sponsor of the Kenmore, Belleville's 1960 Ontario Junior "A" champions, with the all-out blessing of Ontario Baseball Association first vice-president Jack Carson is getting the machinery in action.

Everything is in the tentative stage but present plans call for a meeting in January or February with reps from Peterborough, Oshawa, Belleville, Cobourg-Port Hope, Lindsay and possibly Kingston.

Peterborough, Belleville, Oshawa and Cobourg-Port Hope are definitely interested. Lindsay has been playing in an intermediate district series of Sunderland, etc.

There is talk of restricting the age limit to 23 since some of last year's junior players will be over-age. However, some favor raising the limit to 27 or 28.

These are suggestions, but right now the indications point to the organization of such a league.

Some 20,000 Greet Heroes

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Some 20,000 horn - blowing, placard - waving, teeth - chattering fans welcomed home their Grey Cup champion Ottawa Rough Riders Monday night.

One placard read: "We can't be held responsible for dead Eskimos."

The festivities which started here Saturday night without the Riders conclude here tonight with a civic dinner for the team which decimated Edmonton Eskimos 16-6. Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Liberal leader Lester Pearson and CCF Leader Argue are among those who have accepted invitations.

The traffic snarl caused by Riders' homecoming motorcade down main - steam Bank Street was made worse by freezing rain which coated city streets just enough to cause numerous minor collisions.

Collisions between police and fans were apparently rare in contrast with the 64 arrests for drunkenness and disorderly conduct after Saturday night's spontaneous celebration.

HORSES TURNED AWAY

Three riders on horseback were dissuaded from entering a tavern and forced to ride the motorcade instead.

Fans weren't deterred by sleet, sub-freezing temperatures, winds which gusted to 40 miles an hour or the hour-late arrival of Riders from Vancouver by air.

Spectators packed Bank Street five and six deep to throw cheers and confetti at the grinning Riders, shiving in light coats atop some 30 convertibles. Many dressed forward to shake hands with the players.

The parade wound up at Lansdowne Park, where Riders Grey Cup championship ended the last summer's heat.

Some 5,000 fans had waited there nearly three hours in the biting cold to hear each player say a few words.

But the wind carried away the words, they were lost from their seats on the north side and police formed a cordon around the microphone and officials while the crowd shouted "hold that line."

ENDED IN CONFUSION

The ceremony ended in complete and chilled confusion but nobody seemed to care.

Women rushed up to coach Frank Clair and hugged him. Pretty girls posed with handsome quarterback Russ Jackson.

There was no greeting for Riders at the airport. The reason was that thousands of fans flocked to the airport the previous weekend when Riders knocked out Toronto Argonauts and it was hours before the traffic jam was sorted out.

Riders travelled in buses to downtown Ottawa where the parade began at the southwest corner of Parliament Hill.

Six bands and bare - legged girls with batons accompanied the Riders along the cheer-strewn route.

Some fans were already looking forward to next year, "Grey Cup champs 1961" one placard read.

Should Build Fence

VANCOUVER (CP)—The manager of Vancouver's Empire Stadium said Monday a meeting will be held to discuss the possibility of erecting a fence to prevent wild demonstrations such as followed Saturday's Grey Cup game.

Dave Dauphinee said a fourfoot high, portable chain - link fence could be installed around the field. He said this possibility would be discussed by directors of the Pacific National Exhibition, owners of the stadium.

Alston Back With Dodgers

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Walter Alston agreed Monday night to a new one-year contract to manage Los Angeles Dodgers.

It will be his eighth one-year term. Alston has won three National League baseball pennants and two world series.

E. J. Bavasi, Dodgers vice-president and general manager, announced Alston's rehiring at a club organization meeting. Bavasi also said Clay Bryant, Montreal manager for the last three years, would succeed Bobby Bragan as one of Alston's coaches. Bragan recently resigned to join the new Houston baseball organization as personnel director.

Minnesota Wins U.S. Grid Crown

NEW YORK (AP)—Minnesota, comeback team of the year, won the United States college football championship today in the final Associated Press poll of the 1960 season.

The Golden Gophers, in last place in the Big Ten last year and co - champions this season, edged Mississippi's Southeastern Conference champions for the crown, which battled Minnesota neck-and-neck down to the wire and drew even in the Big Ten League race. It was a close third.

The difference on the ballots of 48 sports writers and sportscasters forming the AP regional boards was 1½ first-place votes and 23½ points. One voter, unable to decide between the Big Ten co-champions, split his vote between Minnesota and Iowa.

That gave Minnesota 17 first-place votes and 433½ points on the basis of 10 for each first place, nine for second, eight for third and so on down to one. Mississippi, conducting a successful season last Saturday with a 35-6 victory over Mississippi State, drew 18 votes for first place and 411 points, Iowa with 12½ first, had 404½ points.

Minnesota finished the 1960 season with eight wins and one loss, a 23-14 setback at the hands of Purdue. Mississippi ended it with nine victories and a 6-6 tie against Louisiana State. Iowa had eight wins and one defeat.

It was the first time since 1940, that a once-beaten team finished on top. Notre Dame captured the title then despite a last-second 19-14 loss to the mighty Great Lakes Navy team.

The 1960 triumph over Army last Saturday vaulted the midwestern team from seventh place in the semi-final ballot to fourth in the final. Missouri, Washington, Arkansas, Ohio State, Alabama and Duke round out the top 10 in that order.

Minnesota and Washington (9-1) meet in the Rose Bowl game Jan. 2.) Mississippi will be in the Sugar Bowl against Rice (8-1), Navy (8-1) and Duke (9-1) clash in the Orange Bowl; Alabama (8-2) and Duke (7-2) meet in the Cotton Bowl. Oklahoma (9-1) and Texas (7-2) play in the Dec. 17 Bluebonnet Bowl.

MOSCOW (CP)—Chatham Maroons lost their second game in a row of their Russian exhibition tour Monday, this time to a Soviet team made up of players all under 20 years old.

Most of the players on the Canadian squad are between 22 and 31 years of age.

The loss gave the Canadian senior amateur champions a one-two won-lost record with four games still to play in Russia. Two exhibitions are scheduled in Sweden.

The Maroons, last year's Allen Cup champions, bowed 3-1 to a picked Russian squad of young stars in a hard-fought game that was decided late in the second period. The Canadians came from behind to tie the score 1-1 shortly before the winning Soviet goal was scored.

Previously, the Maroons had split games with a select Soviet team of seniors including many players who had seen action in world and Olympic hockey tournaments. The nucleus of the Soviet squad that will go to the world championships in Switzerland next March will be chosen from Soviet selects.

The Maroons easily defeated them last Friday 5-3 but Sunday they showed a complete reversal of form as the Russians virtually skated the Canadians off the ice 11-2.

As the world championships come shape up, 11 countries including Canada, the United States, Czechoslovakia and Britain will take the runner-up prizes spot with a 4-1 record behind the Americans' 5-0 mark. Russia was third with a 3-2 record.

The Canadians squared the count six minutes after Ragulin's opener. Bill Forhan, a high-scoring right winger formerly of Quebec Aces, guiding the equaliser.

From the faceoff following that goal, the Russians mounted a successful scoring attack and Valerian Nikitin gave them a 2-1 lead just 29 seconds after Forhan's goal. His driving shot caught the corner of the net.

The third period provided excitement for the 12,000 spectators at Moscow's Sports Palace. It was scoreless until the last two minutes, when the Maroons, trying for a tie, pulled their goalie in favor of a sixth attacker.

Booster Bus Trip Is Called Off

Jim "Snipe" Matthews, president of the Belleville Hockey Booster Club, announced this morning that the proposed bus trip to Peterborough this Thursday night has been cancelled.

The Boosters had intended to run a bus load of fans to the St. Catharines-Peterborough Junior "A" game in Peterborough. Matthews said this morning that lack of interest shown caused the cancellation. Only 15 persons had contacted him about tickets.

At least 35 were needed to make the trip possible.

Dickie Moore Tops NHL Points Race

Riders' Ron Stewart

Gets Girl, Car, Picked Star Of Game

MONTREAL (CP) — Dickie Moore, who has been scoring goals with remarkable regularity, counsied two more along with an assist last week and took over sole leadership in the National Hockey League scoring derby.

The Montreal Canadiens left-winger now has 21 goals—eight best in the league—and 11 assists for a total of 32 points. Teammate Bernie Geoffrion, tallied to get a point and slipped to third place with his 29 points.

Norm Ullman of Detroit Red Wings took over second place on the strength of one goal and two assists, raising his total to 30. Ullman currently is the league's assist specialist with a pace-setting 23.

Jean Beliveau of Montreal counted only one assist last week but hung on to fourth place. He has 27 points, one more than Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers and Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks.

Bathgate came up with a big five-goal splurge and an assist and moved from an eighth-place tie to a fifth-place tie. Hull, alone in fifth spot a week ago, scored one goal and two assists.

Bracketed at 24 points are Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings, Andy Hebenton of New York.

Red Kelly of Toronto Maple Leafs climbed to ninth place with 23 points.

Five players follow with 22 points each—Frank Mahovlich of Toronto, Alex Delvecchio of Detroit, Henri Richard of Montreal, Bill Hay of Chicago and Vic Stasiuk of Boston Bruins.

BRAVES BUY BROWN

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee Braves Monday bought catcher Dick Brown, 25, from Chicago White Sox and assigned outfielder Eddie Haas to their Louisville farm in the American Association.

Petes Boddy Tops Junior Scoring Race

TORONTO (CP) — While his Peterborough Petes have good winless in their last five games, captain Wayne Boddy has taken a four-point lead in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A scoring race.

Official statistics including Sunday's games show the sturdy right winger, with 13 goals in 15 games, tied for the lead in that department with Rod Gilbert of Guelph Royals. Boddy has also collected 12 assists for a total of 38 points. Teammate Reg Mulholland is also tied with Boddy with 15 assists, tops in the league.

Boddy has scored one point or more in each game he has played this season.

Murray Hall of St. Catharines Teepees holds second place with 12 goals and 13 assists while Gilbert and teammate Bob Cunningham share third spot with 25 points each.

Doug Senior, in fifth place, holds a one - point edge over teammate Mulholland, who has only scored four more goals to give him 19 points. Larry Keenan of Toronto St. Michael's College Majors, Howard Kellough and Ray Cullen of St. Catharines all have 18 points.

While Wayne Rutledge of Niagara Falls Flyers leads the netminders with a 2.45 goals-against-average, Jerry Cheevers of St. Michael's is closing in fast. Cheevers recorded the league's first shutout Sunday and now sports a 2.52 average.

TORONTO (CP)—Ron Stewart, the little giant of the Ottawa Rough Riders backfield, was picked by football writers and sportscasters as the outstanding player of the Grey Cup game which he also contributed to today.

The 45 selectors were asked to name the three outstanding players in order and points were awarded on a 3-2-1 point basis. The five-foot-seven-inch Stewart was given 91 points and today was presented with a sports car by the company sponsoring the award.

Russ Jackson, the Rough Riders' brilliant Canadian quarterback who directed them to a 29-14 win over Edmonton Eskimos was second, with 41 points and end Jim Letcavits of Eskimos third with 38.

The 26-year-old Stewart, who last week was named as the outstanding Canadian player in the country was a constant threat with his wide running from scrimmage and on punt runbacks and kickoffs.

WAS GOOD GAINER

The 170-pound backfielder was the season's leading ground gainer with 19 carries for 100 yards and was less than teammate Dave Thelen who came close in the voting with 36 points.

For Stewart, Saturday was a big day. After the game he became engaged to Charleen Tenney, 22, of Prince George, B.C., and the couple plans to marry in about a year after he finishes his law course.

This has been a great season for the little halfback, called the greatest college football player in his days with Queen's University, Kingston. He joined Rough Riders of the Big Four Union in 1958 and his pro career looks a peak this season.

He established a single game league rushing record of 287 yards in a game against Montreal Quorties in October, and won the 1960 Jeff Russel memorial award as the most valuable player in the Big Four, finished second to Thelen in ground-gaining with 1,000 yards and third in the scoring race with 96 points on 16 touchdowns—all by rushing. The games at Galt Dec. 6 and Jan. 6 are non-scoring.

The scheduled game at Windsor Dec. 4 will still be played, but will count for two points instead of four as originally arranged.

Turns Down Braves Bid

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Cleveland sand man Jimmy Dykes said Monday that the Indians have turned down the latest bid by the Milwaukee Braves for second baseman Johnny Temple.

"The Braves offered us a guy who can't hit, Chuck Cottier, and a guy who can't run and didn't hit this year, Wes Covington, for Temple," Dykes said. "I guess we never go for anything like that."

Phil Vitale Is Teepees New Coach

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Rudy Pilous, owner-manager of St. Catharines Teepees of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, announced today 30-year-old Phil Vitale of Toronto has been signed as coach of the defending Memorial Cup champions.

Vitale succeeds Max Kaminsky, who resigned last week because of ill health.

Vitale played junior hockey with Toronto Marlboros and Toronto St. Michael's Majors and also saw service as a defence man with a number of professional teams.

In 1956 he coached Stratford Indians of the OHA Senior A series and last year led Brantford to the OHA Senior B championship.

Vancouver Rowdies Root Of Trouble

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police arrests during the Grey Cup weekend here proved what many suspected all along — that rowdies, not visitors, caused most of the trouble.

Of 133 persons arrested for drunkenness, causing a disturbance, damaging property and impaired driving, only five were from outside Vancouver; three were from the United States, one from Vancouver Island and one from Montreal.

The arrest total was double the figure for the previous weekend. More than 100 appeared in court Monday on drunk charges. Most were regulars but about 30 were young men picked up by police during celebrations in the entertainment district. Most received suspended sentences.

Hockey Hints

"TAKE TO FREEZE THEM"

Andy Bathgate, of the New York Rangers is recognized as one of the best puck manipulators in modern hockey. Not only can he stickhandle, shift and deke effectively but he can also give and take a pass with finesse. But perhaps his most effective trick in his box of magic is his fake shot.

Most defensive players in the N.H.L. excel at getting down to stop a shot, often blocking a shot which might very well have scored. Bathgate gets few of his shots blocked—because of his fake shot. Here's why. The Ranger star can fake his shot so well that he often gets the opposing checker on his knees to block it and then goes around him. As a result, the defensive players are more hesitant to go for Bathgate's shot.

Another great advantage of having a good fake shot is that when you make the fake the defensive player cannot help but freeze and stiffen in anticipation of being hit, even if just for a moment. This gives you a chance to move quickly past. To fake a shot do as Bathgate does and bring your stick back, then draw the puck back a little and actually start the initial part of the shot. Then, instead of shooting draw the puck to either side and shift around the checker. Practise until even you aren't sure if you are going to shoot. Peterborough Canucks scored two overtime goals against a tiring Belleville team to defeat the Lambert-Bollins 6-4 in an OHA Eastern Ontario Junior "B" league game in the Lakehead City last night.

Canucks are now the loop's only undefeated team, with two wins in as many starts, while Belleville has two wins and one defeat. The Lambert-Bollins next start will be at home against Cobourg Wednesday night at 8.30.

Coach Eddy Plata had only a 13-man lineup last night with regulars Moe Hunter, Gary and Ron Hull and Don Forsythe missing from the lineup.

As it was the boys gave a good account of themselves, especially in the end of the first period and 3-0 early in the second. Belleville caught fire however to bag four straight goals for a 4-3 lead after forty minutes. Peterborough scored the only goal of the third period to force the extra heat.

Gene Naud banged the winning marker after 2.44 of overtime on a play with Dalliday. At 8.05 Peterborough had scored on a play assisted by Naud, for the final 6-4 score.

The L-R's missed a number of golden opportunities around the net, especially in the second and third periods, with Don Kinsey and McGuire's shots scoring wide of open corners time after time.

The game was cleanly played, only ten minors in all with Peterborough's Forsythe, but there were several solid body checks handed out. Bryan Watson, the Canucks thumping defenceman, caught Gary Goyer with a beauty at 17.00 of the second period. Goyer did not return to action. Pat Lesslie threw some solid checks on Belleville's behalf.

Gary Dalliday was top scorer for the Canucks with three goals and one assist. Ron Naud and Stewart each had one and one while Watts had the other goal and Grant Heffernan drew two assists.

Pete Weston topped the losers with a goal and two assists and linemate Paul McGill scored twice and helped on another. Larry Mavety and Bucky Ethier added goals and Gery Reid an assist.

Stewart put one over Moon's left shoulder to open the game scoring at 1.35 and Dalliday got his first for a 3-0 score at 14.33. Belleville had their man in the sin bin when Watts made it 3-0.

Weston got Belleville's first at 8.06 and three minutes later, with the Canucks shorthanded, Mavety's blueline shot went in off Goddard's foot. McGill fired the tying goal and Ethier put the winners one up for the only time in the game at 14.40. Dalliday did it 4-4 at 3.46 of the third and he goalies played well thereafter through to the finish.

Plus and Minus

New Statistics For NHL

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Hockey League and Clarke-Hodgson have released a new set of statistics aimed at putting into better perspective the offensive and defensive contributions of every player in the league.

The statistics, based on games up to Nov. 13, document many of the biggest stars are running into minus figures—or even goals scored against them while they are on the ice than they are scoring themselves.

Each player was credited with an automatic plus each time his team scored a goal while he was on the ice. Conversely, each player was given an automatic minus each time the opposing team scored while he was on the ice. Figures include only goals scored with both teams were at full strength.

On this basis, defenceman Albert (Junior) Langlois of Montreal Canadiens had a plus 17 for the best record in the league. He was on the ice for 31 Montreal goals and only 14 by opposing teams.

Defenceman Bill Gadsby of New York Rangers had a minus 14, lowest in the league. He was on the ice for only eight goals scored by Rangers and 22 by the opposition.

The figures do not take into consideration assignments of players to certain duties. Some players perform on a forward line that nearly always opposes top scoring lines of other clubs. Some players are also assigned to checking roles and others are sent on the ice in offensive roles.

Ralph Backstrom and Jean-Guy Talbot of Montreal had minus 11.

President Clarence Campbell of the NHL said "no star should have a minus record unless he is assigned to special duties."

Gordie Howe, Detroit's great right-winger, had an even record. Bernie Geoffrion of Montreal had a minus one.

Among other stars who had minus records were Andy Bathgate, Andy Hebenton and Dean Prentice of New York; Norman Horvath, Johnny Bucyk, Vic Stasiuk and Don McKenney of Boston Bruins and Eddie Litzenberger and Eric Nesterenko of Chicago.

Dickie Moore of Montreal, who has scored 21 goals and leads the league in scoring with 32 points, had a plus nine.

Toronto, which has allowed the least number of goals so far, had the best overall team record, but three New York players had minus records.

Riders' Five-Year Plan

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — How many more times can the team that Frank Clair built win the Grey Cup?

With basically the same Ottawa Rough Rider club that clobbered Edmonton into submission Saturday, maybe once or twice.

When coach Clair and his assistant, Bill Sykuta, came here five years ago, they had to start practically from scratch—rebuilding a team which had fallen on hard times, both in ability and at the gate.

First Clair built a line around centre Bruno Bitkowski, guard Gaye Vaughan and ends Bob Simpson and Bill Sowalski on the premise that you have to contain the opposition or move them aside before you can beat them.

As time went on, Clair found that gradually he was able to fashion his players—that is, to use completely different offensive and defensive teams. He reasoned that field strategy — or as close as a coach can come to it with injured players—his season.

But it was a long time before Clair found the quarterback he needed with a quarterback — or quarterbacks — to run it. He brought them along slowly but surely.

Ottawa fans today would probably not care to remember how they used to laugh uproariously at halfback Ron Stewart in his first year with Riders in 1958. Stewart would sometimes trip over his own feet on an end sweep and go sprawling on his face.

Clair kept say man with guts, figuring he could teach football but now how to acquire spirit. Stewart this season established a single - game rushing record of 287 yards and won the Big Four's Jeff Russel Memorial Trophy as the player best combining spirit and ability.

When Clair's offensive and defensive teams finally in balance, he won the Grey Cup. The Ottawa backfield is still young and has years of good football ahead of it. For instance, regular defensive halfbacks Jim Conroy and Doug Daigneault were rookies this year. Canadian quarterback Russ Jackson has had only three years with Riders, American quarterback Ron Lancaster only one. Fullback Dave Thelen has been a member of the team for only three years, halfback Joe Poirier for 1½, defensive halfback Joe Poirier for 2.

But there cannot be more than a couple of years left for Bitkowski, 29, Gaughan, 30, Vaughan, 29, Sowalski, 29, Tom Jones, 28, Fred Robinson, 28 Sam Scoccia, 30, Ted Smale, 28, and Joe Sinac, 28. Flanker Dave West, 32, has announced his retirement.

Now that he has a championship team assembled, Clair must start rebuilding again pretty soon.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers are through with football for 1960 but the proprietors of their home stadium are left with a nagging worry.

G. Sydney Halter, Canadian football commissioner, has written a road Winnipeg Enterprises Corporation that Blue Bombers might not be permitted to play in Winnipeg Stadium next season unless the field is improved.

"It is a long-overdue warning," Halter told Free Press Sports Editor Maurice Smith. "In no other country city with a major football club is that team compelled to play on such a poor field as the Winnipeg Blue Bombers are. It is neither fair to them, their opponents, nor their fans."

The problem goes back to the start of the 1960 Western Interprovincial Football Union season. A driving rain the day Winnipeg met Edmonton Eskimos Aug. 29 made the field so soft that the players ruined the covering.

TOO MANY GAMES

"Sure, we tore the crown off the turf that night but no other football has been played for a couple of weeks, the field would be okay now," said Jim Austry, general manager of the Bombers. "Instead the field was used a couple of nights later."

About 57 games were played at the stadium this season in a period of 120 days, 46 of them being minutes. Only 11 of 14 football clubs Leagues such as Manitoba-Sask-atchewan Junior, Manitoba Inter-mediate and juvenile, and Winnipeg high schools played on the gridiron.

Bob Kas Vidrak, former Blue Bombers lineman who headed Winnipeg high school football, said it was the whole story.

"The new grass laid down this year wasn't deeply rooted. So now the field is nearly bald."

More than 400 boys play high school football and the stadium considers them good tenants. If they can't play on the field then the league drew 10,080 fans one night in September for a Red Feather game.

COMMITTEE FORMED

Corporation president Ralph Misener has been named chairman of a committee formed by the city to find a solution to the unabundant use of the stadium.

He said a new type of grass might be found next year. It is grown in the northern Prairies under adverse conditions and is heartier than most types. The new McMahon Stadium in Calgary and Empire Stadium in Vancouver are using this grass. Vow said Lisle Winnipeg last spring had a rough summer with rain for two months.

"Given a break at all by be in good shape next year," Misener said. Meanwhile, some fans are urging that a second stadium be built, with the University of Manitoba campus, to be used strictly

ABC Currently Is Right Up With Big Two in TV Ratings

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Television-land is locked in fierce combat—more violent than ever before.

In the good old days—well, until fairly recently—the Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Company battled in gentlemanly fashion for audiences, ratings and sponsors' coin. The smaller, younger American Broadcasting Company had to be content with the leavings.

Now, however, tough, ambitious, right-fisted ABC has shoved and pushed itself into the competitive ring and is giving up with the big two in the favor of the audiences.

One of this has made CBS and NBC happy — audience ratings now reflect a three-way split and often these days they are the best-heads of the polls.

ABC has made no bones about its unconcealed interest in getting big audiences; has done it largely by scheduling action and adventure in maximum doses—until recently — taken little time for the so-called "finer things" of life (public information shows and many specials).

Recently Robert Kintner, president of the NBC network, was so irked by ABC and its claims he took unusual action: A special slap at the rival, in the form of a public speech, to the affiliates of stations affiliated with the network. He referred to what ABC's concentrated programming and called it a "narrow-gauge network."

If ABC's formula of entertainment shows, with lots of westerns and private eyes, continues to attract increasingly large audiences (and sponsors), both CBS and NBC may be forced to join it if they can't beat it with all their fine (and expensive) public affairs shows and specials.

W. Strode, Former Football Star, Carving Out Career

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Twenty years ago a giant Negro was playing superb football for the University of California at Los Angeles.

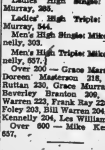
Today, the same Woody Strode is carving out a new career as an actor, and he still is a hard-nosed, fearless competitor at that.

This time he is playing for the John Ford team. The cantankerous director gave Strode his first real dramatic part in The Trial of Sgt. Rutledge. He played the title role as a former soldier accused of raping a white girl.

Woody is again working for Ford this time as a villainous Indian chief menacing James Stewart and Richard Widmark in Two Rode Together.

"Ford browbeats me, but it's great training for him," Woody remarked. "This is a great part for me, the first time I've played as Indian. If I can pull it off, it might open a whole new line for me. If not, it's back to the gridiron."

Woody has had a long, hard road since the sports jungles and then through the films of Tarzan and Hamar. Through it all, he has remained the same as when he played for UCLA, physically and temperamentally.



How does he do it?

"I've hundred pushups every morning," he said matter-of-fact. "That helps maintain his six foot, four inches at a trim 250 pounds at a time when other men of his years are worrying about middle-age spread.

After the war, Woody rambled around pro football, then drifted into professional wrestling. The sport brought him a good preparation for an acting career. His performances as a TV wrestler led to a small supporting chief in a Tarzan film.

Lana Turner Wed Fifth Time

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) Lana Turner, whose two decades of movie stardom included box-office triumph and personal tragedy, is honeymooning today with her fifth husband.

The blonde actress, still beautiful at 40, was married Sunday night in rancher-sportsman Fred May, 43, her steady escort of the last six months.

Only a few friends and relatives attended the simple ceremony in a penthouse suite atop a plush motor hotel.

The couple took off a marriage license three months ago—and it was to have expired today.

The guests included Cheryl Crane, the actress' 17-year-old daughter by her marriage to Steve Crane.

Cheryl has been a ward of superior court since she stabbed to death Johnny Stompanato, her mother's lover, in 1958.

Roy Thomson Has Purchased Belfast Paper

BELFAST (Reuters) — Canadian newspaper magnate Roy Thomson has taken control of the Belfast Telegraph, Northern Ireland's only evening newspaper, it was announced Monday night.

He has bought the newspaper from W. and G. Baird Limited, for a reported £2,000,000.

O. W. J. Henderson, a director of the Belfast News-Letter, a morning newspaper, announced during the weekend that they had made a rival offer but Monday night Thomson announced said "an effective contract for sale had been entered into several weeks previously."

The announcement, issued by the trustees of the estate of the late W. R. Baird, said a five-sixth majority of shareholders in the Belfast Telegraph held their interest to Thomson Allied Newspapers Limited.

"Contracts were entered into early this month and merely require the approval of the shareholders meeting to be held shortly."

HAS HIGH CIRCULATION

The Belfast Telegraph has a circulation of nearly 200,000 the highest in Northern Ireland. The group includes four subsidiary newspapers.

The deal marks the Thomson group's first venture in Northern Ireland. In 1953 Thomson moved into Scotland with the launch of the Scotsman, an Edinburgh daily with an international reputation. He also controls Scottish Television Limited.

Last year, he bought control of British's Kemsley newspaper group which has interests in New Zealand and Wales.

Thomson controls about 70 daily and weekly newspapers in Canada, the United States and Britain. He recently acquired newspaper interests in Nigeria and Jamaica and is seeking the right to operate a news agency in Ethiopia.

Rising Costs Of Advertising Pinch Budgets

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal-provincial tourist conference got down to discussion of advertising, publicity and tourist bureau activities abroad today.

The conference was warned of its opening session Monday by Allan Field (Calgary) that Canadian government tourist bureaus are fishing cost of advertising quite a bargain because of the advertising budgets of government transportation companies.

Mr. Field urged delegates to press for further advertising funds to offset anticipated increases in the cost of radio and tv space running to five per cent for newspapers and 11 per cent for magazines.

The conference was opened by Resources Minister Dinsdale who announced that a long-cherished plan for a national park system has been adopted by the federal council and that a national park office will be opened on the United States West Coast, probably in San Francisco. Other offices are at Chicago and New York.

Other reports at the opening session, provincial representatives praised the government's films in attracting tourists.

Walter Gordon, Ontario deputy minister of industry and commerce, announced that Ontario, which operates 20 tourist in-reception centres, will open its first "information" reception and service central and Northern Ontario.

Mr. Field said the Canadian government travel bureau will put more efforts in the opening lining next year following a trend in the U.S. magazines to publish regional editions. Radio would be used in the television advertising campaign. Newspaper ads would be bigger in an effort to dominate the newspaper page.

Nigerian Troops Kill Tribesmen

ELIZABETHVILLE (AP) — A detachment of UN Nigerian troops killed at least 10 rebel tribesmen in a bloody ambush in Katanga province, the United Nations reported today.

Four Nigerians were wounded in the clash, which occurred Monday near the central Katanga township of Kabondo - Dianda, about 300 miles north of Elisabethville.

The Nigerians were surprised by the tribesmen at a roadblock they had set up behind a dirt road.

The tribesmen appeared out of dense bush and began firing on the Nigerians with bows and arrows and rifles.

NEGROES PLAN BOYCOTT

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) An economic boycott against downtown merchants by Negroes before Christmas was announced Monday night by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Ralph M. Wimbish, NAACP president in St. Petersburg, said Mayor Edward Knight set a letter informing him of the boycott plans. Wimbish said the city biracial committee had taken no action to ease racial tension.

Troops Patrol Caracas While Riots Continue

CARACAS, Venezuela (Reuters)—Army and national guard troops patrolled streets and excluding a vehicle of the archbishop of Caracas, blocked pro-Castro slogans.

Incumbent said Venezuela was plagued of a telephone workers' strike but continued after the strike was settled.

Rioters, mainly teen - agers, stoned police, smashed windows and pavements and cars and including a vehicle of the archbishop of Caracas, blocked pro-Castro slogans.

Incumbent said Venezuela was plagued of a telephone workers' strike which could not be solved unless the rioters stopped rioting and "those who do not respect the laws and the constitution will be punished."

"We will not permit civil war."

Monday's suspension of civil liberties led to curfew and demonstrations, curfew speech and the press and give authorities complete right of search, arrest, and imprisonment. The Communist party was not banned by the suspension.

Even Non-Profit Periodicals Said in Danger

QUEBEC (CP)—Rev. Edmond Gaudeau, director of the Quebec quarterly review Culture, said Monday United States competition is threatening the life of specialized, non-profit periodicals as well as that of general-interest magazines in Canada.

In a brief to the royal commission on publications, Father Gaudeau said that nothing less than the survival of both French-Canadian and English-Canadian culture is at stake.

"In the face of the invasion by foreign publications, above all those that come to us from the United States, Canadians of French and English extraction alike are getting more and more inclined to forget their own traditions, to change their style of living and to lose sight of their ideals."

So attractive were these invaders that even non-profit periodicals, those with aims "more or less specifically cultural and devoted to ideas relevant to our own situation and destiny as a nation," were losing readers to them.

They, along with the general-interest magazines, would be the "crushed" United States competition unless ways were found of making Canadian periodicals more attractive. their death would "bring in its wake the end of our identity as a nation."

As matters stood now, the non-profit type of Canadian publication was suffering not so much from direct foreign competition — as were the popular magazines—but from a general weakening of interest in Canadian affairs and a growing preference for reading matter that is easily digested regardless of its nutritional value.

Mauretania Becomes Free

NOUAKCHOTT (Reuters) — Mauritania, virtually the last remnant of France's once-huge African colonial empire, attained independence Monday.

The traditional 101-gun salute boomed out when Premier Moktar Ould Daddah, 37-year-old Paris law school graduate, proclaimed independence in a midnight ceremony in the National Assembly.

Among those present were President Modibo Keita of France and the 23-year-old Aga Khan, spiritual leader of the Ismaili Moslems.

Mauritania, an Islamic area, has elected to remain a member of the French African Community.

The West African country has a population of some 623,000 persons, mostly nomadic Moors, Arabs and Berbers.

King Mohammed V of Morocco has demanded that Mauritania, an ancient Moroccan province, be "returned" to Morocco. The Moroccan government protested against the granting of independence and "Mauritania Day" was observed throughout Moslem areas Sunday.

The government here sent a cable to New York today asking that it be admitted as the 100th member of the United Nations. The application is being supported by France and Tunisia.

Councillors — Alex Fraser, John Reynolds, Thomas Smith and Ed. McManara.

Hydro Commissioner George Forestell resigned; there were two nominees, William MacDonald and G. H. Baker; MacDonald withdrew his name and Baker was acclaimed.

Public School Trustees — Vaughn Hubbs (chairman), Cecil Neal and Garnet Howden were re-elected by acclamation. Mr. George Shaw was nominated but withdrew his name thereby cancelling an election in the village.

Supreme Court Rejects Appeal

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada upheld Monday the deportation of the Chinese-born mother of a Canadian citizen.

The nine-man court in an unanimous judgment rejected an appeal by Mrs. Yuet Sun Louie, 36, daughter of Ottawa food merchant Harry Toy, against an Ontario appeal court decision upholding a immigration department ruling ordering her deported to Hong Kong.

The court, in effect, rejected Mrs. Louie's argument that the Canadian Bill of Rights grants her a right to remain in Canada to care for her 25-month-old Canadian-born son in his tender years.

BLAST SUNDAY MOVIES

TORONTO (CP)—The idea of Sunday movies, which will go before the voters in the Dec. 5 civic election, was criticized Sunday in many churches. Rev. W. G. Berry, associate secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Services of the United Church of Canada, said the public is being conditioned to help industry, not people. Some Baptist ministers preached the necessity of a day of rest, without issuing a directive to the congregation on how to vote.

Three Mayoralty Candidates Said Favoring Amalgamation Of Metropolitan Toronto

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Whether or not Toronto is a fatal old city lady for most of the year, as most non-Torontonians seem to think, she sometimes picks up her skirts and kicks up her heels around municipal election time. This year, she's really cavorting.

Boose and ballots are entangled, so are subways and Sunday movies, expense accounts and extravagance, a rhetoric as three contenders claw their way towards the Dec 5 balloting for the mayoralty.

Well, for an exact count, five, because there is Harry Bradley, for many years an unsuccessful candidate for Board of Control, and out in left field a Trotskyite candidate is emitting small noises.

His minor chords are completely lost in the resonant discords of the pile-planed Mayor Nathan Phillips, running for a record eight straight years while still sub - thumping controversial former mayor Allan Lamport, and in relatively unsound but still aggressive key, housewife Jean Newman, city controller.

AMALGAMATION ISSUE

They are whooping it up for the municipal unity of this city proper, with its 653,000 populace. But also centralized in the campaign is the question of whether Toronto and 12 adjacent municipalities should be firmly welded into a single city of 1,500,000.

At present, there are joined in a federation of autonomous units known as Metropolitan Toronto, with some municipal services shared and some operated independently.

While the betting seems to favor the 68-year-old Nathan Phillips, first Jewish mayor-candidate of the pyrotechnics are being supplied by the explosive Lamport, a man who is at his happiest in a rough political fight.

A mixture of amiability, effervescence and bellige rence, Mr. Lamport, 51, is in the 13th political campaign—three of them winning battles for the mayoralty and 1953-55 saw a reversal of countless side scraps in between.

RESIGNED TRANSIT JOB

A member of the commission-administering Toronto's transit system until he resigned in a huff over city hall pru, he has been in free-wheeling tussles with fellow commissioners and with Metro council chairman Fred Gardiner, himself a hard-boiled politico known bere-abouts as Big Daddy.

Things got to the point this fall where Mr. Gardiner's caustic verbal exercises at least were getting 'control over the transit commission, moved to call on the legislature to have the whole group of five fired.

Along about the same time, a provincial government judicial inquiry was censuring the commissioners—notably Mr Lamport —for being overly open-handed with personal expense accounts for travelling, entertainment and the like.

Lampy was the highest spender among the commissioners, apparently largely because he is a natural for stoking up visiting firemen.

His liquor bills have been picked down as far off as London. When there for the coronation in 1955, as mayor, he once treated a score of choice Canadian whiskey on the expense account.

BACKED BY TEUF

As the current campaign warmed up, The Telegram, supporting Nay, sniffed out the fact that the bill wound up with a solicitation that it was to be paid for as "merchandise" for entertainment.

The other afternoon paper, The Star, backing Lampy, put an addling machine to work on city hall travel and entertainment vouchers over the past 10 years and figured that the Phillips regime outspent Mr Lampert's in these categories.

To the disclosures pro and con, Mr. La m p e rt's philosophical comment:

"You can't run Toronto like a peanut stand."

With a natural affinity for hot water, Lampy once uttered a single phrase that cost the city $10,000. He labelled a taxpayers' suit for while mayor, and the city picked up the tab for the judgment.

His two main platforms are metro amalgamation and speeding up the addition of another eight miles to the subway. On the latter he claims chairman Gardiner is blocking the track through limiting borrowings.

'NATE'S CLAMSHELL'

On the other hand, Mr Phillips brands it as bigger than Mr Lamport in the mayor's No. 1 project, construction of a modernistic city hall building to replace an ancient and stingy edifice that stares down Bay Street's modern financial district like a holdover of the antimacassar and mohair sofa era.

The mayor has plans for a $28,000,000 structure, drawn up by a Finnish architect after an international contest, in which the curved towers sometimes called "Nate's clamshell" Mr. Lamport feels a referendum on the hall is unnecessary.

Newman, a city controller, and Mayor Nathan Phillips, Toronto's first Jewish mayor in office since 1954. Two other candidates, Ross Dowson and Harry Bradley, have entered the mayoralty race. (CP Photo).

Buying Season For Christmas Starting Well

NEW YORK (AP)—The Christmas buying season got off to a colorful start this week with high hopes by merchants that the dollars spent will add up to a new record.

The National Retail Merchants Association predicted that dollar volume will run ahead of the record 1959 total.

The Christmas season, as always, will tell the story of what kind of a year 1960 is for the retailing industry. The storekeepers expect a spurt between now and Dec. 25 to account for 17 to 20 per cent of the year's sales.

This week before the U.S. Thanksgiving Day wasn't too good for the stores. Dollar volume was unchanged to four per cent below the corresponding week a year ago.

The consumer suffered a blow where it hurts — in the pocketbook. Living costs rose to a new high in October. The government's "price" index advanced 0.2 per cent to 127.3 per cent of the 1947-49 average.

The increase was the largest since last April. Nearly half of it was due to higher food prices.

FOOD PRICES RISING

And food prices are still going up. Wholesale food costs rose to a new 1960 high this week for the third consecutive week.

The Thanksgiving holiday put a crimp in business activity, particularly in the retail and automobile industries where some stores were closed down for the entire weekend.

Steel output declined to 67.5 per cent of capacity from 69 per cent the previous week.

Automobile production reached 8,000,000 cars for the year as an estimated 146,000 passenger units rolled off this week. The previous week's total was 146,866.

Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. had good news for motorists, announcing a cut of 8 to 14 in the prices of passenger car tires.

Shipments of major appliances have been dropped to the lowest level of the year. Even with the Christmas season at hand, manufacturers were not optimistic about the chances of a major pickup.

New orders for machine tools in October declined for the second month in a row. The total of $35,000,000 compared with $40,150,000 in September and $45,800,000 in October 1959.

TORONTO (CP) — About 390 men will be laid off in Ontario by the CNR Nov. 30, Charles Beckerton, local chairman of the Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, said Monday.

He said 380 men in Southern Ontario and 30 in Northern Ontario had received notices.

Railway spokesmen have stated workers are being laid off because of a drop in freight traffic caused by an impending strike of non-operating workers, set for Dec. 3.

HOUSE MOVES TO BLOCK RAIL STRIKE

WHERE 14 DIED — Residents of this farming community, near Lamont, Alta., examine the rear of a school bus which was sheared off in a level-crossing collision with a Canadian National Railways freight train, killing 14 students and injuring 23. (CP Wirephoto).

Death Toll in School Bus Crash Now 17; Doctors Say 17 of 25 Injured Are Improved

LAMONT, Alta. (CP) — The death toll in the collision Tuesday of a school bus and a freight train rose to 17 early today with the death in hospital of a 15-year-old girl.

Bernadette Haydock of Chipman died of brain injuries.

Fifteen were killed outright. Another died previously in hospital.

In a statement, Dr. Morley Young, administrator of the Archer Memorial Hospital, said 17 of the 25 students injured in the crash were "definitely better."

Six of these suffered only minor injuries and would be released from hospital today or Thursday, Seven remained in serious condition.

The bus was carrying 41 students to Lamont High School from Chipman, 10 miles southeast of here. It was struck broadside as it crossed the Canadian National Railways tracks within sight of the school.

Many of the victims—14 girls and two boys between the ages of 15 and 18—died in the wreckage as the diesel-engine freight dragged the bus a quarter of a mile.

Twenty-five students and the driver Frank Budney, 31, were hurt. John Wiznick, 17, a bus-mate in the crash who did not require hospital treatment. He escaped with minor bruises. Three of his sisters died.

Doctors at first said the injuries of 15 students were "critical" to moderately fair. But at least six were "holding their own" despite severe injuries.

Hospital authorities declined to give a breakdown of injuries.

"The bodies were so mangled I couldn't recognize anyone, yet I knew them all," said research worker Mike Konoroff.

A prayer service for the dead is scheduled Friday night in the Chipman Community Hall. Most will be buried Saturday under Chipman's three churches.

RCMP and police officials launched an inquiry into the accident, the worst road tragedy in Alberta history. A coroner's jury was named but no date set for an inquest.

The temperature was several degrees below zero but the sky was clear when Budney took his bus up a short snow-covered grade to the tracks. He had just turned right after travelling west on Highway 14, which runs almost parallel to the tracks.

Motorists who used the crossing after the accident found there were no bells or warning signs to prevented a clear view of the track to the east or west.

The westbound freight, travelling at about 50 miles an hour, struck the right side of the bus. The vehicle's rear section was pulled away and flipped into a field along with the front of the rear wheels.

The whole body of the bus was bent around the leading diesel unit. It left a 50-foot skidding.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis — Arctic air covers the entire province this morning. Overnight temperatures held to the mid - 20s in most areas and are expected to rise only a few degrees during the day. Heavier snowsqualls are forecast in the snowbelt areas of Southern Ontario and considerable drifting is expected in northern Regions. This weather pattern should continue through Thursday.

LIBERAL LEADER SAYS WARRENDER SHOULD RESIGN

Bitter Debate On Throne Speech

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature takes a recess today following a day in which both government and opposition became involved in bitter debate.

Liberal Leader Wintermeyer speaking in the throne speech debate, again called for the resignation of Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender because of recent decisions in Hastings, Belleville, Toronto's York Township and Arnprior concerning infractions of municipal law.

Premier Frost defended his government by saying Mr. Wintermeyer wished to turn back the clock and had departed from "the cry of autonomy and now has taken on a party regimentation."

The premier drew angry shouts from opposition benches when he said certain members of the House had failed to uphold the dignity of the legislature. He was referring to royal commission investigations of the Hydro-Electric Commission purchase of land at Sarnia and the Niagara Parks Commission sale of land in the province.

'SHOULD RESIGN'

"It has been a tradition that if a member makes an allegation imputing dishonesty and dishonor to one of those sitting with him he should be prepared to resign his seat pending the allegations," said Mr. Frost.

Mr. Wintermeyer called for the immediate consideration of Claim Man Arrested as Soviet Spy Stopped Car to Aid FBI Trail Him

NEW YORK (CP) — A New York psychiatrist arrested Tuesday as a 20-year Soviet spy never tried to escape his shadowers during a long, 24-hour surveillance by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, says his lawyer on the contrary. The doctor even stopped his car so that trailing agents could catch up with him, the lawyer said.

Dr. Reginald Brett, Dr. Robert Soble, 60, was held in $75,000 bail for a federal court hearing today.

Dr. Soble, 60, is married to Jean Soblen, is a brother of confessed Soviet spy Jacob Soblen, testifying a seven-year prison term for espionage.

The government charged that the brothers were members of separate espionage rings that sought national defence secrets for transmission to the Soviet Union.

Two other physicians, Dr. Henry Soble and his wife, Dr. Beatrice Soble, were named co-conspirators. In 1950 they lived in Albuquerque, N.M., where Dr. Soble worked in a veterans hospital that overlooked an atomic weapons centre.

The government accused Soblen of taking photographs from his sdy.

LAMONT, Alta. (CP) — School teacher Lil Peters was driving her car behind the Lamont High School bus Tuesday as it turned off a highway and headed for level crossing.

"I thought if he doesn't stop, the train will hit the bus," she said. "But I saw he stopped and I thought everything was all right."

It wasn't.

A Canadian National Railways freight smashed into the vehicle, killing 16 students and injuring 26 other persons, including the bus driver.

"When I looked again the bus was all crushed up to the track," Mrs. Stefura said in an interview. "The train horn was blowing so loudly I thought everyone must hear it."

"The next instant everything seemed to fly up. Books and bodies. I thought everyone must be dead. Then I saw a boy move."

In her car were her own three children on their way to school in this town 45 miles northeast of Edmonton.

She picked up an injured boy and girl and took them to hospital.

Many of the dead and injured were Mrs. Stefura's pupils.

Mrs. Stefura said she was doing about 60 miles an hour when she saw the train behind her. She said it passed her and the engineer blew the whistle while some distance from the crossing.

William T. Worden, principal of the school, said that when he reached the wreckage there was "an instant air that a mass of humanity inside the bus."

Reeve Walter Mike Kretzel said: "It was as if something unreal and unbelievable was happening but there wasn't time to think of anything much except trying to help."

The injured were taken to hospital in six trucks, seven cars and trucks. Rescuers made stretchers of grain elevator doors and blankets donated by residents.

"We had a lot of difficulty separating the dead and injured," said Constable Lawrence Proctor. "The bodies were pressed together and some were jammed between twisted pieces of metal."

Despite Injuries, Sir Winston Amazes Doctors on Birthday

LONDON (CP) — Sir Winston Churchill confounded his doctors today by getting up to celebrate his 86th birthday—a sentimental event that was hailed around the world.

Announcing that his famous patient was rising from his invalid's bed, Lord Moran, one of Churchill's doctors, told reporters:

"He's getting on very well. He's getting up to decide whether he stays up for the rest of the day depends on how he feels."

Only 15 days ago Britain's wartime leader tripped over a step in his bedroom and fractured a small bone in his back.

For an 86-year-old man—who's had heart attacks, pneumonia and other ailments—his rapid recovery is just short of staggering.

Friends and admirers, the high and the humble from all over the earth flooded the statesman with greetings and gifts.

Hyde Park Gate, the quiet little dead-end street on which he lives, was jammed with traffic. Delivery remembrances rolled in on a tide of delivery trucks and bicycles.

They came from the Queen, from ministers, foreign rulers, potentates, old friends, little children—and even junk man Chris Shephard, who drove his horse and cart to Churchill's door to offer good wishes.

First callers, at his home were Clementine Churchill, 72, and seven-year-old sister and a boy of five. The girls gave a bunch of violets to Churchill's maid and the boy handed over agreeting card.

Churchill's birthday is traditionally a family affair but because of his injury he was spending it more quietly than in

Committee Plots to Put More Butter Down Canadian Necks

OTTAWA (CP) — Efforts to boost consumption of Canadian consumers' throats are being plotted by a seven-member committee set up by the government.

The Butter Advisory Committee—a group hidden behind the official slogan: "It's always better with butter."

Its formation is due to the record storage figures detailing 124 million pounds of butter in creamery product as of Nov. 1, up more than 50 million pounds from the date a year earlier although production is down about eight months of the year.

As the federal cabinet's chief butter watchman, Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton has established the base that the Butter Advisory Committee can succeed in making some inroads on the stocks, most of them held by the government under its system of price support by outright purchase.

The committee is headed by Toronto publicist T. J. Wheeler. The federal government has been tight lipping up money for the program to enlist the virtues of butter.

Serving on the committee are Dr. Margaret A. Lales of the Dairy Farmers of Canada, from Montreal; Miss Ruth Walton, a past president of the Canadian Consumers' Association; Dr. E. W. Hamilton, nutrition professor at the University of Toronto; Jean Boucher of Montreal, representing the Catholic Women's League; Mrs. Estelle Smellie of Russell, Man., long active in dairy work, and L. L. W. Wood, Ottawa, assistant to the federal govern m n t's agricultural statistics director.

The organization must face up to the butter situation next spring in deciding whether to continue to pay 54 cents a pound to buy non-grade butter from producers.

Margarine consumption has risen sharply since the price reduced butter sales. Chopping the butter price to make it more competitive is one alternative that would be regarded by the committee as a horrible example of reducing farm income. Paying 54 cents for butter that sells for a price would be a costly business too."

Sunday Sports and Movies Votes Planned in 25 Centres

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Besides electing new governments in Ontario municipalities, many Ontario municipalities will decide on bylaws that would establish Sunday sports and movies — particularly on Sundays.

Sunday sports, plays or movies will be on the ballot in at least 25 municipalities. Similar votes on the extension of municipal franchises to non-property owners, elections by general grain elevators and blankets donated by residents.

We had a lot of difficulty separating the dead and injured," said Constable Lawrence Proctor. "The bodies were pressed together and some were jammed between twisted pieces of metal."

municipalities Jan. 1, will vote on Sunday sports.

Votes on Sunday movies, such as in Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa, mean that the municipal councils are expressions of opinion by the electorate. At present municipal governments in Ontario have no authority to approve Sunday movies and plays.

All they can do is apply to the Ontario government for legislation to permit Sunday sports (in Ontario) Act, which was done by the municipal council sponsor under a municipal bylaw.

Cold Winds and Snowstorms Sweep Over Most of Ontario

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Heavy snow belted the eastern end of Lake Erie today as cold winds swept from the Arctic bringing snowflurries over most of the province.

At Erie, the popular summer resort back centre, had 10 to 12 inches of snow with 60-mile-an-hour gusty winds piled into traffic-blocking drifts.

The main blizzard, confined to a narrow strip at the end of Lake Erie, dumped Tuesday with drifts up to 3½ feet deep.

Light snowfalls were reported in other sections of the province and the weather office in Toronto said flurries would continue over all of central and Southern Ontario during the day.

Winds from the Lithuania. Most of them settled in the New York area and in Canada.

A sister, Mrs. Hesel Chasen, and a brother, Boris Soble, settled in Montreal. Jack Soble and his wife lived in Montreal for several years before leaving for New York in 1953.

Dr. Soble, if convicted, could receive the death penalty. He is a U.S. citizen. The doctor suffers from a serious illness, his lawyer said. He did not name the malady.

Ontario and Quebec was whirling eastward to strike the Maritimes with heavy snow.

It was sunny and cold over the Prairies. Only Regina, Saskatchewan, with 0.4 inches of rain, and Kenora, Ont., with 0.2 inches, escaped the snow. Vancouver was brought to the fast-moving storm centre.

Winds of gale force and cold knifed into Northern Ontario and northern Quebec with some reports of snow nearly a foot of snow.

The accidental deaths were blamed on traffic mishaps resulting from the snowy, slippery road conditions.

Accidental hit was Northern Ontario. Fort William collected eight inches of snow, Armstrong 10, Port Frances eight and Nakina 15.

Icy winds buffeted most of the area, while 30-mile-an-hour gusts knocked down telephone poles beneath the weight of ice and snow at Sault Ste. Marie and caused frequent power failures.

Metropolitan Toronto temperatures dropped 20 degrees during the day, while winds had gusts up to 30 miles an hour. Snowflurries were predicted for today, with a high 4temperature of 30 degrees.

LIBERIAN SHIP FAST AGROUND IN L. MICHIGAN

High Waves Prevent Coast Guard Rescue

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) A Liberian freighter was hopelessly grounded on a Lake Michigan island today, battered by gale winds and high waves which prevented Coast Guard rescuers from offering immediate assistance.

The Francisco Morazan ran aground off the shore of South Manitou Island during a late Tuesday night. At that time the captain, Eduardo Tristaza, told the coast guard there were 15 men and a woman aboard. Later, he told a reporter on ship-to-shore telephone there were only 14 persons aboard.

patched to the scene by Tristaza said "there is leakage in the double bottom" when asked whether the vessel was damaged but added that he thought there was no danger of sinking. He said all were safe.

The captain of the 346-foot seven-a-going freighter blamed the grounding on a sudden change in wind direction to zero and high winds. He said the vessel started to drift him on to the rocks.

"I realized I was drifted," he told several times.

The coast guard cutter Hershey, which was dispatched to the scene early today but couldn't get within over visibility. Her crew reported they also delayed because they considered the Morazan in no immediate danger.

Two other cutters were dispatched to the scene by the coast guard, Mackinaw out of Cheboygan, Mich., and the Sundew, out of Charlevoix, Mich.

Manitou Island, 20 miles off the coast guard air station at Traverse City, has no year-round people among some 300 to 500 feet on the island's southwest corner, lying almost parallel to the shoreline in 14 feet of water. He said she was pounding on rocks.

South Manitou Island is about eight miles northwest of Glen Haven, Mich., off the shore of the Leelanau Peninsula in northwest Lower Michigan.

SEAS TOO HEAVY

Chapline said the captain told him no other ships were being made to abandon the ship because the seas were too heavy to launch the ship's rubber boats to operate.

A 36-foot motor lifeboat from the coast guard station at Frankfort, Mich., tried to get to the Morazan shortly after she grounded but was turned back by heavy seas and icing.

The Morazan was among two reported airplanes and helicopters from taking off on rescue attempts.

The 2,000-ton Morazan was fully loaded with iron ore when she was on route from Chicago to Rotterdam, the Netherlands, when she went aground.

One of the worst tragedies recorded on the Great Lakes occurred in a storm similar to that which battered the Morazan. The freighter Carl M. Bradley went down in a lake storm Nov. 18, 1958, with 33 of her 35 crew members with her.

Seven-Clause Act To Shunt Crisis Ahead To May 15

Meet Between Unions, Rail Leaders Collapses

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament moved briskly Tuesday night to block a nation - wide railway strike.

With time running out before the Saturday deadline for the work stoppage, the Commons and Senate introduced in the commons a tight, seven-clause act to shunt the railway crisis ahead to May 15. Prime Minister Diefenbaker told the legislation will "prevent" the strike.

The preamble of the present bill says that the process of collective bargaining failed to produce agreement and adds:

"... The public interest requires that further efforts to reach agreement be resumed at a time more favorable than without prejudice to the rights of either party and without interruption of railway service."

In extending current collective agreements, keep the trains running and leaves the rail wage crisis in abeyance until May 15, when the government hopes to have legislation before Parliament to remove freight rate discrimination and allow the railways to meet their costs.

A long-term remedy for railway troubles is to be made at a six-man royal commission that Commons Transport Minister Hees announced March 31 after more than a year of public investigation.

Meanwhile, the railways are lifting a national embargo on shipments of livestock, poultry and perishable goods.

Railway spokesmen indicated services would be taken to revoke layoff notices, effective today, sent to several thousand employees in anticipation of a strike.

It was not known how quickly the railways would start rehiring the workers who were laid off because traffic had declined.

Princess Maggie Nearing 100 Rushes Back to Her Traplines

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP)—Maggie Lesnik, princess of the Chippewayan Indians who insists she was born in 1861 and celebrates 99 years, has gone back to her traplines.

Mountaineer rocking her frame, she checked out of hospital here Tuesday and headed for her cabin at Nighthawk Lake, 35 X miles back to her Kamiscotia Lake home.

Hospital officials said Maggie thought one day in hospital was enough but three days were just too much—"it's back to the bushes for me."

Princess Maggie, who is assigned with another Indian to trap 100 square miles, was brought to hospital here four days ago with severe rheumatic pains.

Her condition was so bad it prevented her walking the 25 miles to town, she said.

Doctors who examined her said she was in excellent physical condition despite dining on trout and whitefish when the going wouldn't frosh.

The Indian, they said, was taught in a trap set by the woman she is supposed to have given up her traplines due to advancing age.

"She's going back to the woods," said her doctor, who asked that his name not be used. her, hospital care was "strictly for the birds."

Maggie, who was born Maggie Buffalo on the shore of Nighthawk Lake, was advised some time ago to leave the traplines.

Her husband, who married a great warrior of the Nighthawk band, died many years ago and her four children, was too frail for the woods, they said.

But the 99-year-old doctor said, she had one problem on her mind—whether to get a new radio.

Why did she need a new radio?

She wrecked the old one—carving a hole in the cabinet and using it for a beaver trap.

25 Colorful Floats Will Be In Santa Parade

All is just about in readiness for Santa's arrival on Saturday.

The Santa Claus Parade Committee's executive, which held an 11th hour meeting last night, said they had received word from the North Pole that Santa Claus was planning to leave overnight Friday to arrive in Belleville in time for the annual giant parade in his honor on Saturday.

The executive said only a few details now had to be attended to before the components of the huge parade were ready to roll.

About 25 colorful floats will be in the parade which will cross over the upper bridges at 10:00 a.m. Saturday. The parade, complete with 11 bands including one clown band, and many clowns and dancers, will travel south on Front Street, swing around Donegal and head north on Pinnacle, crossing back over the upper bridge.

Some 8,000 pieces of candy will be distributed among the throngs of children expected to line the parade route.

The parade will be the climax of months of hard volunteer work on the part of many citizens and the fire department. Belleville's Santa Claus parade is recognized as the largest commercial parade of its kind in Canada.

After the parade, Santa will visit the children at Belleville General Hospital where he will be assisted by members of Teen Town.

MAJOR J. J. B. FARLEY
Kenya and Belleville

Old friends of the family here will learn with deep regret of the death in Kenya, East Africa, in mid-October of Major James Jay Boucher Farley, following a long illness.

Born in Casselton on Jan. 30, 1877, he was the only child of the A. A. Farley of the Royal Canadian Artillery and his wife, the former Gulnare Matilda Boucher, nee of Belleville. He graduated from the Royal Military College in 1893 and joined the First Battalion of the North Staffordshire Regiment in Malta. In 1898 he took part in the Dongola Expedition in the Sudan. Further service followed in India until he received his promotion to captain and joined the 36th Sikh Pioneers in Africa. He later returned to India where he commanded a company and in 1911, shortly after his marriage to Miss Edith R. Thompson, daughter of General Charles Thompson of the East India Company.

Major Farley then returned to Canada, residing in Belleville briefly, after which he took an appointment in France in 1914. He was wounded in the first battle of Ypres and served again in the Second Great War, in the Home Guard and Veterans Guard of Canada raid warden. In 1942 he moved to Kenya where he lived on a farm. Mrs. Elizabeth Breckenridge, and her husband. He has several cousins in the Belleville and the surrounding area, he being a member of the Farley family of Sidney and a direct descendant of Capt. John Walden Meyers, after whom Belleville's Meyers Creek and Meyers' Creek.

Besides his military service, Major Farley was noted for his affability in rifle shooting, sabre, fencing and polo, the latter in which he won trophies, and for his activity in cricket, being champion of Great Britain in 1922. An able artist, he sketched while in the Sudan and France and his paintings of Belleville during the Dongola Expedition were published in The Graphic at that time. His decorations included the Defence Medal for his service as an officer of the Canadian Militia during the Second Great War and he was a Commandant of the Order of the Chevalery of Sebastian.

The new president is well known throughout Canada, both in military and civil circles and is recognized as an able and experienced executive, administrator and executive. His military service began as a private and he served in France during the First World War and culminated as Lieutenant-General and Chief of the Canadian General Staff in Ottawa. In recognition of his distinguished service in the second World War he was made a Commander of the Order of the British Empire, and was twice awarded the Croix de Guerre and the Legion of Merit of the United States.

Between the two world wars General Graham practised his profession of law and was active in municipal affairs and maintained a keen interest in military matters.

Following retirement from the army in 1953 the new President undertook two important commissions for the Federal Government which brought him in contact with many leading municipal officials in all parts of the country. The first was a study of the financial organizations in all the provinces, and the second was a task of planning, organizing and conducting the tour of Canada of the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh in 1959. During the period of the tour he served as the Queen's Canadian Secretary.

Upon assuming his new appointment on January 1st General Graham will once again be leaving the practice of law to embark upon a career of public service. He will have under his direction the intricate operation in all its aspects of Canada's major stock exchange.

40 Reporters Taken on Tour Of Transport Command H.Q.

TRENTON — Air Commodore F. S. Carpenter, air officer commanding Air Transport Command, Group Capt. D. J. Williams, commanding officer of RCAF Station Trenton, and other RCAF personnel played host Tuesday to 40 newspaper men from Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal and other eastern Ontario points, as well as reporters from the Quinte area.

Part of the afternoon's activities and briefings hinged around the search and rescue phase of Air Transport Command operations.

Following a series of briefings the reporters saw equipment parachuted from a helicopter and a simulated rescue operation in which a "patient" was brought to the airfield by helicopter and transported to the "hospital" by ambulance.

The group was divided into three sections for familiarization flights aboard two Albatross aircraft, a helicopter and a Dakota for short flights.

The aircraft were taken on a flight around the district, participated in a landing on the bay and returned to the airfield. The more daring photographers in the group hopped the "high seas" and proceeded from the marine dock in a rescue launch to a point in the bay where they were picked up by a helicopter.

The group was welcomed to Air Transport Command Headquarters by Air Commodore Carpenter.

Air Commodore Carpenter pointed out the Command crest, displaying the motto "Versatile and Ready." He explained the various responsibilities of the command and said that search and rescue operations were the entire responsibility of A.T.C.

Until Oct. 31, 270 alerts had been received by the Trenton headquarters, covering the eastern rescue co-ordination division. Of some 40 alerts, 30 were false.

Sqdn. Ldr. D. Pettit, officer commanding the search and rescue operations, explained that there are four search and rescue areas in Canada: Atlantic, Eastern, Western and Pacific. Prior to the Second World War little development of these operations was done in Canada. In 1947 the RCAF was selected to do the job. The RCAF has the facilities for these operations and this is the most economical way from the point of view of the taxpayer. Added to this is the fact that the RCAF has a supply of highly trained personnel in these special duties.

Flt. Lt. "Hal" Helgason explained the mechanics of actual search and rescue operations and the co-ordination with the Composite Unit from which these operations emanate.

He advised civilian pilots to file flight plans, carry survival equipment and to "keep their planes painted a color easily spotted from the air.

H. G. Gould of the Department of ransport, who co-ordinates and assists in all search and rescue operations of a marine nature from the Trenton base, spoke briefly. He said that this year there were 750,000 pleasure craft in Canada and that next year there would be 60,000 more. He asked the press to co-operate in an educational program regarding water safety aimed at reaching all boat owners.

Group Capt. Williams introduced Sqdn. Ldr. Rene Lemieux, officer commanding 102 Composite Unit, who gave a comprehensive outline of search and rescue operations, equipment used, operations affected and methods employed.

Following a buffet lunch in the conveyance terminal, the reporters saw a static display of the various types of aircraft based up in Hangars 1 and 2. Sgt. J. Glydon demonstrated survival equipment.

Girl Guides Hold Jubilee Banquet Meeting

BATAWA — The Northumberland Division Girl Guides celebrated the Golden Jubilee birthday of Guiding at a banquet in the Recreation Hall here Monday night.

Beautifully decorated trees in the background added a Christmas touch.

Approximately 80 Guiders and guests sang grace and, after toasting the Queen, sat down to a delicious dinner. Between courses, Miss Eva Baker led in the singing of Brownie and Guide songs Mrs. Helen Ferguson did the birthday cake cutting while doing so, some of the Guiders present took places during the Jubilee Year. She asked that Guides look up to their pledge and plan accomplishments for the next 50 years.

After dessert and coffee, Mrs. Ferguson who is divisional commissioner, introduced the guests and executive members at the head table. Over his customary breakfast tea he was able to help to unfold an avalanche of cables and mail—including the unfailing affectionate messages from Queen Elizabeth and the warm greetings of the old friend, President Eisenhower.

Centrepiece of the celebration today is a 100-pound cake with a rich fruit base liberally flavored with a half bottle of rare old brandy.

Crowned by a "horn of plenty," the cake virtually is Churchill's life in a museum piece of icing.

Almost every symbol connected with his distinguished career flows out of the centrepiece horn in pink and white icing. Promising, of course, is a gigantic cigar—even to a glowing end and realistic gold band.

SUNDAY

Last spring, the Ontario government legalized concerts, recitals or other musical performances on Sunday afternoon, provided these were produced by non-profit organizations. This amendment cannot be changed by a municipal vote.

Since Sunday sports were first made legal in 1950, more than 55 municipalities, including Fort William, Port Arthur, Toronto, Kitchener and Windsor have approved them.

About 30 have voted against Sunday sports, including Sudbury which has no vote this year and rejected the question in 1950 and in 1955.

In at least two cases, voters are being asked about Sunday sports a second time — Guelph, which rejected Sunday sports in 1955, and Ottawa, which rejected it in 1952.

TO VOTE ON SPORT

Municipalities with a Sunday sports vote this year include Brantford, Eastview, Hamilton, Penetanguishene, Port Arthur, Ottawa, St. Thomas, Wallaceburg, Woodstock, Peterborough, Belleville, Peterborough and Guelph.

Votes on Sunday movies, concerts or plays are being held in Kapuskasing, Orillia, Timmins, Niagara Falls, St. Catharines, Cornwall, Bradford, Brantford, Chatham, Kitchener, Leamington, North Bay, Oakville, Toronto, Windsor and Woodstock.

Close friends of Churchill said they were extremely pleased with his recovery from his injury. Some said the degree of enforced inactivity may have provided just the rest he needed.

Old age and illness have not dulled his ardor for good living, travelling, eating and drinking.

Churchill's staff say he crams more into his waking hours than they can keep up with. They are convinced, like millions of others, there will never be another man in the world like him.

The Savor Of Our Past

Recently we came across the results of an independent survey of 23 university students at Kingston, Ontario. They were questioned as to who was Canada's first prime minister and 14 came up with the answer of Sir John A. Macdonald. Ten of them knew that the Canadian Pacific Railroad was built under his government but none had any idea as to what Canada's population was on the day Macdonald died.

These figures prove something besides the fact that the survey interviewers appear to be a frustrated emcee of a questionnaire program, which is the only place we can conceive the last part of the question being actually asked in all seriousness.

More serious, however, is the fact that 40 per cent of the university students questioned, (we presume they were all Canadians) did not know a couple of relatively basic facts concerning Canadian history. Surely this lack of knowledge cannot be credited to simple memory failure, at least we hope that such a large percentage of our university population is not so afflicted.

The fault must lie somewhere in the teaching of history. It has been said by some "experts" that Canadian history is dull; that it contains neither the glamor nor the action of American history; therefore it is assumed that it cannot be taught with some vestige of gusto and life.

We beg to differ. We doubt if Father Brebeuf found his part in our history to be dull. Nor, would we suspect, did Generals Wolfe or Brock find their brief periods in Canadian history to be boring. Neither have a number of other personalities who have come to be dry and musty, unworthy of academic study.

Stephen Leacock's history of Canada is, to say the very least, enjoyable reading. We can remember this particular man's interpretation of Canadian history being studied in grade 10.

We also remember the close attention paid by this particular class and the anticipation with which the students awaited the next lesson. History, and it was Canadian history, was fun when learned from a book in which the light-hearted flourish of Mr. Leacock's pen was able to depict events so that the reader could imagine the humorous twinkle in his eyes when he wrote.

There is, of course, the possibility of taking our history too lightly although this is not quite as harmful as taking it too seriously. The best approach, we feel, is that of coupling the Leacockian presentation together with such a text as "From Colony to Nation" by A. R. M. Lower, one of our outstanding interpretive Canadian historians.

There is, however, no reason for any Canadian educated within any school system existent within our country to be delinquent in the knowledge and appreciation of our history, especially when we have the vitality and flavor of such noteworthy authors as Professor Leacock and Professor Lower to serve it.

Wants Change In Slogans

R. D. L. Kinsman, president of the Canadian Exporters' Association, says that our slogan should be "Sell Canadian," rather than "Buy Canadian."

We are inclined to agree. In the first place, there is considerable truth to the contention that more benefit would be derived from obtaining lower tariffs on Canadian goods entering the U.S. than by increasing Canadian tariffs on goods from other countries. There needs to be added, though, that tariffs against Canadian goods are something over which Canada has no control, while tariffs which Canada imposes on imports do come under our jurisdiction.

In the second place, there is the fact that the "Sell Canadian" slogan could be applied not only abroad but in Canada, too. The effect, if the campaign were successful, would be precisely the same as that of a "Buy Canadian" appeal, yet somehow the slogan sounds much better. Moreover, we suspect that a great deal more could be done with the slogan to persuade merchants to push the sales of Canadian-made goods than is likely to result from appeals to consumers to select Canadian-made goods in preference to those imported into the country.

"Sell Canadian" is a perfect slogan—if applied in the broadest possible manner.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

—DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS—

NATURE OF FEAR

A great deal of today's popular psychological teaching condemns the impression that fear is always wrong and to be shunned at any cost. Fear is a protective device with which nature has endowed us to keep us from things which would harm us. There are wholesome fears — many of them — and we had better have such fears. Furthermore, by having them we do not sink into morbidity and depression — rather we emerge from these discreditable states.

"The Bible declares (Heb. 10:31) that, "It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God." Should this make us fear God? Only if we are doing some fearful thing. We are all sinners in nature in that we are all selfish, impulsive, and pleasure loving. Not only are we naturally sinners, but we are sinners in practice. We have all broken God's laws and are guilty before Him. We have all sinned and come short of the glory of God. We have all gone astray like lost sheep. We have all turned every one to his own way. We have all done that which is evil in the sight of God. We have all transgressed His holy law. We have all come under the condemnation of God. We have all earned the wages of sin which is death. We have all deserved to be cast into the lake of fire. We have all merited the wrath of God. We have all rightly incurred the displeasure of God. We have all provoked God to anger. We have all grieved the heart of God. We have all resisted the Holy Spirit. We have all done despite unto the Spirit of grace. We have all trodden under foot the Son of God. We have all counted the blood of the covenant an unholy thing legislation to force the resignation of officials found incapable of running their municipality.

"The municipalities are the children and agencies of this legislature," Mr. Wintermeyer said. "We have obligations to the taxpayer in these municipalities."

After repeated warnings that the Ottawa suburb of Eastview was in financial difficulties, said Mr. Wintermeyer, the department of municipal affairs failed to take any action.

"The department must bear the responsibility here . . . the minister should be responsible for his department."

LEAVE TO MINISTER

Mr. Frost said he would leave the matter of Eastview entirely in the hands of his minister.

"We must give the municipalities responsibility . . . and not treat them as children," he said. He said Eastview ran into administration difficulties because of its sudden growth into a large community "from a little French-Canadian town on the Ottawa River."

The premier said the ratepayers of Eastview would rather solve their problems at the polls on election day than have them debated in the legislature for the purposes of political speeches.

A recent department of municipal affairs report said the town's affairs had been mismanaged and municipal funds had disappeared.

DEMANDS 'UNREALISTIC'

Mr. Wintermeyer charged also that the premier had made unrealistic demands at the July and October federal - provincial fiscal conferences.

He said the government failed to enlist the support of other premiers in getting higher rates of return on direct tax fields and cost Ontario an opportunity to get badly-needed revenue from the federal government.

He said the premier's demands for an equal division of the direct tax fields or personal income tax, corporation tax and succession duties collected in Ontario were unrealistic."

The province at present has a $-11-50 fiscal arrangement with the federal government.

Mr. Wintermeyer said a 25-55-50 formula would have been a realistic approach and might have been attained.

"We're in a position now where we are not going to get a thing," he added.

He urged Mr. Frost to explain his decision to the other premiers at the two-day inter-provincial conference at Quebec City this week and "get their support."

WOULD AGREE

Mr. Frost said as equal share of direct taxes was unlikely for constitutional right, but he would be prepared to agree on a compromise formula for a five-year period.

The premier spent an hour defending his party against "cutting and hurtful" statements by the Liberal and CCF opposition.

He drew angry tirades from the opposition benches when he charged specific members with failing to uphold the dignity and honor of the legislature.

He said the retention by the Progressive Conservatives of the ridings of Timiskaming and Simcoe Centre in byelections was a "verdict of a jury of the people."

He said he deplored the methods of the opposition which make their parties and members of government.

He criticized Elmer Sopha (L —Sudbury), for acting as counsel for his party in the hearings involving the labor minister and the parks commission.

"A member should never be in the position of a prosecuting counsel against another member of this house," Mr. Frost said.

REFLECTS ON HIM

He said CCF Leader MacDonald's allegations that the Conservative party benefitted financially from the Hydro purchase of land "reflected upon me personally" as the leader of the government.

Notwithstanding these remarks no evidence was adduced to implicate any Tory real estate group or Tory politicians or Tory members of the legislature," Mr. Frost quoted the report.

He drew angry replies from Vernon Singer (L — York centre) and James Trotter (L—Toronto Parkdale) when he mentioned their names in connection with the Hydro investigation.

The report said both were innocent of any impropriety, although their names were mentioned in connection with the company involved in the purchase of the land.

"You'll hear more about this," Mr. Singer shouted. "You'll get it and how you're going to get it."

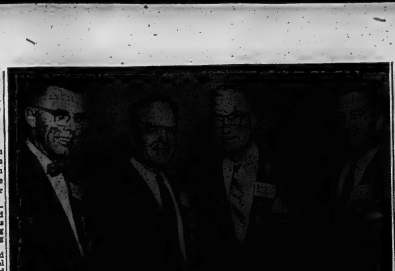
New Rectory For St. Michael's Tops Bldg. List

A permit for the construction of a new rectory and church offices for St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church, topped the November building list for Belleville.

The permit for the construction of the new rectory and church offices for $65,000 was one of 13 permits issued during the month by city building inspector Grant Dickson.

Other permits issued included those for two-roomed school additions at Prince Charles and King George Public Schools for $38,000, and $43,648, and four new residences with a value of $46,000.

Total permits for the month had a building value of $194,857.



Old Man Winter Visits District During Night

Old Man Winter got in his first visible lick of the season last night with just a trace of snow covering the ground this morning.

The snow started shortly after midnight and the flurries continued throughout the remainder of the night.

This morning the streets were a bit slippery as traffic wheels had turned the snow to slush which froze on the pavement creating a film of ice on the roadways.

But at that the Quinte district got off lightly in comparison to Western provinces where more and below zero temperatures were reported.

Present at the Quinte Secondary Home and School Association meeting last Monday evening were (left to right), Herbert Kern, local vice-president; E. R. Valcamp, local president; Douglas Walkington, president of the Home and Parent-Teacher Federation of Canada and guest speaker for the evening, and Leslie F. Reid, principal of Quinte Secondary School.

H. and S. Work at National Level Outlined by Speaker

Only 3.5 per cent of the gross national product is spent on education, Douglas Walkington, president of the Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation of Canada, told the meeting here and guests of the Quinte Secondary Home and School Association on Monday evening.

A large gathering of members and visitors was present for the associations in Kingston and the surrounding area heard the Hudson, Quebec, resident describe the various phases of home and school work at the national level. He stressed the importance of discussing the problems and needs of teenagers, especially at the secondary school level, and pointed out their responsibilities in the home increases.

Harmonious relations between staff members and parents were also emphasized by Mr. Walkington. He said any association can result. A need for more home and school co-operation in secondary schools was indicated by the speaker since only about 10 percent of the possible total number of such associations currently exist.

An interesting question and answer session was held following the address. Musical entertainment for the evening included selections by the school choir and a girls' barber shop quartet.

Plans for a forthcoming open night in January at Quinte Secondary were outlined by principal Leslie Reid. E. R. Valcamp, president of the local association, reported that a family night was to be held in March.

Mrs. Gerry Gray is the membership chairman, Mr. A. K. Cranston, that total paid membership was now up to 410.

The speaker was introduced by Herbert Kern, welcomed by principal Leslie Reid.

sooks and bodies as it was carried on a stretcher to the car.

Mrs. Lois Siefurs, a teacher at the school who was driving the car behind the bus, said she saw the bus stop at the school and then marked by a warning light or gates—and she heard the train whistle as it approached.

Some residents of this town of 600, 35 miles northeast of Edmonton, believed the bus driver was blinded by the rising sun. Hospital authorities did not permit an interview with him. They also declined to give his condition.

Keith Tompkins, at 12 the youngest student on the bus, told Winnick, a high school boy, that he could not remember the vehicle stopping.

T. A. Peters, CNR station agent, said the freight was running on time. Another railway official estimated the speed of the 71-car freight at 30 miles an hour.

TRAIN SEEMED WRECKAGE

Peters gave the first alarm after noticing the train approaching the station with the wreckage of the bus. He called the hospital for ambulances.

Dr. Donald Archer Memorial Hospital was taxed to capacity. Only a few beds were vacant when the accident occurred. Four doctors left by air. Extra medical supplies were rushed from Edmonton.

Survivors drom Chipman, a mixed-farming-log area settled largely by Ukrainian families, poured into Lamont to identify the dead and visit the injured in the mishap.

Winnick, a grade 10 student, was sitting in the rear of the bus next to the window. He escaped injured in the mishap.

"The kids were laughing and talking loudly but we were trying to figure a math problem," he said. "I had an exam to write.

"The windows were covered with frost. I remember the kids a lot of noise rattling. I couldn't see out.

"I don't remember the bus stopping and I can't remember the driver opening the door when he came to the crossing.

"I heard a loud bang. I must have been knocked out because the next thing I knew I was crawling out of the tail section of the bus. . . ."

3 CousINS KILLED

Margaret Winnick, 15, Dianne Antoniuk, 17, and Vivan Sharun, 17, Winnick's cousins, were killed.

Tompkins said front-his hospital bed that he was lifted out of his shoes and overshoes and tossed into a snow-covered field. He has no memory of the landing of the bus on the left side.

His brothers, Tom, 13, and Robert, 12, had been in the rear section. They ended up in another field.

Tompkins said he could not remember the bus stopping at the crossing.

"It was still rolling when it approached the tracks and I felt the driver step on the gas," he said.

The bus usually carries 44 students on the Chipman-Lamont trip. Two didn't make the trip.

Sudney, father of four children, has driven the route for a month. The bus is owned by Gregory Moshansky who operates under contract with the Lamont school division.

'Y' Basketball

Collins defeated the Globetrotters 59-44, Hawks downed the Lakers 81-35 and the Satellites took a 62-43 victory over the Steelers in "Y" youth basketball league games last night.

Terry McCabe of the Collins came up with the top individual performance of the night, collecting 29 points, in his club's win. Ray Taylor had 12, Don Vance 10 and Bob Doogan eight. Rick Howard led the Globetrotters with 18 points followed by Jim Brouson with 16 and Ed Purdy with 10.

Jim Muir's 24 points sparked the Bob Lott brigade. Allan Wright had 11, Graydon Scott 10, Gene Yorke 9 and David Hurst 8. Bruce Reginboro scooped 23 of the Steelers' points. Jerry Jones had 12, Moe Swan four and Rick Graham two.

Murray Swan bagged 20 points for the Hawks with teammate Larry Campbell had 19. Bob Lott hit for 14 and Rich Graham 8. Dave Hurst topped the Lakers with 14 while Larry Mills had 13 and George Campbell 8.

day the threat of a national tie-up of rail services.

These jobs linked only indirectly with the strike dispute—may turn out to be a big issue between the railways and the unions representing some 80,000 rail workers not involved in the present strike.

Two days of government - sponsored meetings in Ottawa between union representatives and president M. W. Wilson of the CNR and Donald Gordon of the CNR ended in failure late Tuesday.

"I regret to say that the discussions ended in a stalemate and that there was no possibility of any agreement," Mr. Dickenson told the Commons—interrupting normal business to announce the emergency bill.

MADE LAST MOVE

CNR President Gordon had made the last move before the railway strike hit a brick wall. He proposed a wage settlement for 1960 based on wage trends in the durable goods industry, with the total increase left up to the decision of the Supreme Court judges.

His offer was conditional on the railways being allowed to go after a new freight rate increase which the government has banned for the last 30 months while a royal commission looks into railway rate and freight rate problems.

The union negotiators rejected the idea, which they said amounted to a seven cent - an - hour average increase this year.

They have fought consistently for the rate increase recommended by a federal conciliation board—a three-year package that amounts to a 14-cent-hourly pay boost for the "non-op" workers, a wide range of rail employees who do not run trains but who are vital to railway operation.

CRITICIZES ACTION

Union spokesman Hall criticized the government's legislative intervention.

"We always obey the law—even though the law might be as ass in this case," he said.

By banning the right to strike, he said, the government has "torn up" the federal Industrial Disputes Act.

"We're back exactly where we started," he said, adding that the government's stall-the-strike legislation will leave a "legacy of disillusionment, discontent and frustration" among rail workers.

James Sprackett Retires After 45 Years on Council

James Sprackett has retired after 45 years' service on the council of Tudor and Cashel townships. For 38 of those years he was reeve and he is an exwarden of Hastings County.

At the nomination meeting held last Friday, Verse McMurray, a councillor some years ago, was elected reeve by acclamation to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Sprackett's retirement. Councillors elected by acclamation were Burton Baker, John Lalonde, Douglas Donaldson and Perry Cooney.

Limerick township Reeve Max Mawson has retired and George Park has been elected reeve by acclamation.

Mr. Sprackett, who is 73 years of age, was the Grand Old Man of Hastings County Council, his service extending over almost three full decades, having seldom been equalled in the history of Ontario county councils. He will be greatly missed by his colleagues, by whom he was valued not only for his vast store of experience in municipal matters but also for his genial personality.

Mr. Sprackett entered municipal politics in 1916, the same year in which he took over the operation of a sawmill in Gilmour from his father, Jesse, at that time also terminated eight to ten years' service on the township council. Mr. Sprackett has been on the council ever since, with the exception of three years, and says he has enjoyed the work and will miss it.

He and his wife, the former Aileen McGee, have four children, two of whom, Rose and Don, are in the sawmill business with their father at Gilmour. Ross is also following in his father's footsteps in municipal affairs, being a member of the school board. The two other children are Mrs. Ivan of Coe Hill and Oshawa and Laura, Mrs. Clayton MacKenzie, of Gilmour.

LONG SERVICE — Nearly half a century of service in public office is being terminated this year by James Sprackett (right) of Gilmour, Reeve of Tudor and Cashel township for the past 29 years. Above he is seen shaking hands with County Clerk Erie Denyes.

Mr. E. C. Sprague left today by plane for Hollywood, California.

City Couple Mark 50th Anniversary

Fitting wedding anniversaries come but once in a lifetime, and in memory of this special occasion Mr. and Mrs. William Colden of 19 Bowell Street recently celebrated theirs at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Caverley, Geddes Street, with 30 guests in attendance.

The home was beautifully decorated with pink and white streamers and white wedding bells. A three-tier pedestalled anniversary cake, topped with a golden "50" held the spotlight on a special table. Flanking the cake were white tapers in silver holders and bouquets of red roses and golden 'mums.

Mrs. Carmen Caverley received the guests at the door, assisted by Mrs. Michael Smith, both daughters of the honored couple, who welcomed them most graciously; Mrs. Colden, wearing a lovely gown of green silk with shoulder corsage of yellow tea roses, and Mr. Colden, in a tailored suit, with white carnation boutonniere.

Fifty years ago, Miss Gertrude Fisher, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fisher, of London, England, became the bride of William Colden, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Colden of Newburgh, Ont., in a quiet ceremony in Belleville.

They have seven children, five girls and two boys; Miss Winnifred Colden of Oshawa; Mrs. Michael (Gertrude) Smith, Mrs. Henry (Lucy) Clarke, and Mrs. Carmen (Dorothy) Caverley, all of Belleville, and Mrs. Lorne (Pauline) Jardine, of Tweed; William Colden of London, Ont., and Robert Colden of Belleville. There are also 12 grandchildren and one great-grandchildren.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Colden are enjoying good health. Since his retirement Mr. Colden has devoted his spare hours to gardening, especially the flowers, with Mrs. Colden as an enthusiastic helper.

Before the presentation of many lovely gifts, and beautiful bouquets, by their little granddaughter, Joyce Caverley, read an address on behalf of the friends, neices, nephews, and friends, in which she stated the great love and esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Colden are held and hoped God would spare them to enjoy many more anniversaries together.

A buffet luncheon was served including the anniversary cake.

Guests attended from Ottawa; London; Tweed and Carrying Place. Due to illness in the family, the anniversary had been postponed.

All join in extending to Mr. and Mrs. Colden best wishes for continued good health in the coming years.

The first U.S. five-cent coin was issued in 1866.

Coronation W.A. Tours Water Plant

A tour of the city water purification plant by members of the Coronation W.A. of Bridge Street Church, was most interesting and informative. Details and various steps in filtering and purification, as well as pumping and storing of the tremendous quantities of water required by this community were ably explained by staff members who conducted groups through the plant.

Mrs. Vi Greatrix extended thanks on behalf of association members to the men who acted as guides and so ably explained the various phases of operation of the plant.

The members returned to the church afterwards where the business meeting and devotional period were held and refreshments were served by the members of the group of Mrs. George Greatrix.

The Scripture was read by Mrs. S. Benton and the meditation given by Mrs. M. Siter followed by a prayer read by Mrs. F. Macfarlane. The devotional portion of the meeting closed with the singing of a hymn accompanied and led by Mrs. R. Riedel at the piano.

Mrs. Dorothy Brown, convener of the Country Store, the Coronation W.A.'s project at the annual fall bazaar, gave a report of this successful undertaking. Thanks of the group to Dorothy Brown for her great services in organizing the Country Store this year were extended by the president, Mrs. R. Kerr.

Mrs. C. Bristol, convener of this year's Hat Show, announced that March first had been tentatively set as the date for this coming year's show.

On behalf of the nominating committee, Mrs. A. Maddocks took the chair and called upon Mrs. R. Bateman to bring forth the slate of officers for the coming year which was unanimously accepted by the members present.

After the president, Mrs. R. Kerr, brought the meeting to a close, refreshments were served.

Majority of Bank Workers In United States Are Women

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Since it's generously conceded banking control about 79 per cent of U.S. wealth, it seems only fair that a majority of bank employees should be women too.

They would take a personal interest, so to speak.

Not too long ago banks wouldn't hire women. As recently as 1940, men outnumbered their comely colleagues in the banking business three to one. But word finally got around that women and wampum have a natural affinity, and now it's ladies' day to one.

The girls are in good standing in the higher circles, too. There are 160 lady bank presidents across the U.S. and one in 10 bank executives is a woman.

There's no doubt banking now is a woman's field. And it has no greater champion than Mrs. Noma Field Brice, who noted the trade when she was here recently for an American Banking Association meeting.

As assistant (personal) officer of a large Norfolk, Va., bank, the vivacious and articulate Mrs. Brice thinks women are admirably suited for banking today because they are easier sociable and have more equanimity in surprise situations (there are other surprises in a bank besides holdups).

There's a new look in banking lines — since the Second World War — and it's due to women's role in public and human relations.

A great many innovations are for feminine customers, who are getting more numerous all the time. There are kiddy corners in safety vaults, financial forums for women, women consultants for the housewife investor or borrower who wants to tell her problems only to an understanding member of her own sex.

"Independent surveys have shown," Mrs. Brice points out with pride, "that women have more patience, and a penchant for detail, deductive reasoning and analysis.

"That's why banks are making more use of women. A sympathetic, attractive girl can explain to a man, for example, just why his bank book doesn't balance and at the same time keep him from feeling stupid."

For women, banking isn't limited to teller or secretarial jobs, she says. There are women lawyers, tax experts, economists, accountants, and they are in advertising, public relations, personnel, credit investigations, general administration, office management and the field of new business development.

1930 Hat Styles Put Back In Fashion by Designers

By PEGGY MASSEN

PARIS (Reuters) — Decisive changes in Paris millinery have put 1930 hat styles back in high fashion with the Greta Garbo cloche and the Dowager Queen Mary's towering toques and turbans harking back three decades.

These are the styles which took brand new this winter while last year's Paris hat trends are outdated.

The newest silhouettes, intended for wear with short cropped hair styles, are the pert-tle cloches with softened contours and flattering, side-swept movements.

A vitally-important new trend is towards the unlined hat, shaped to the head without stiff inner construction. This idea is copied from the supple dress treatments worked without linings to achieve the fluid, easy look and the 1930 feeling in current fashion.

Garbo's famous cloches reappear in tilted effects, slanted down to the eyebrows. Crowns are high and pointed, often suggesting the astrologer's or the soothsayer's head-gear. Other crowns seem to come straight from the kitchen, reflecting the chef's puffy hats of bulbous crowns shaped like a brioche, an egg, or a mushroom.

The toque and turban emerge in a leading silhouette trends. Pierre Cardin shows heavy-crowned toques in draped, jewel-toned velvets, recalling the styles immortalized by the late Queen Mary of England. Shapes are supple, but fit well down on the head and hide most of the hair. Variations are the pretty new versions with pillbox crowns and softly-draped snoods.

Givenchy emphatically reverts to the 1930s with floppy velvet snoods and Charlottes. Nor also revives snoods and mohairs for evening wear, worked in grasser fabric by sprigs of spotted paint d'esprit.

Balenciaga brings back the old wimple hats, with saucer-shaped skull caps supporting a long chiffon scarf cascading down one side and thrown casually across the other shoulder.

Community Marks 25th Anniversary

BONARLAW — Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Jones celebrated their silver wedding anniversary on the evening of November 19th, at Springhurst L.O.L. Hall, when about 100 relatives and neighbors gathered to honor them on this happy occasion.

The hall was gayly decorated with pink and white streamers and bells. After a get-together, a supper was spent in dancing.

Mr. Keith Brown, M.P., of Peterborough, nephew of the bridegroom, acted as chairman.

The guests of honor were called to the platform and their attendants seated underneath white wedding bells and streamers, cascading from the ceiling to a table, where a three-tiered anniversary cake centred the tea cloth, banked by tall silver-ed candles, and silver candelabers.

Mr. Keith Brown told some humorous tales of his childhood.

The Rev. J. Fleming, rector of St. Mark's Anglican Church, Bonarlaw, of which they are members, was called upon and extended best wishes to Kathleen and Hugh.

A duet was rendered by Mr. George Fox and Muriel Mumby, "How Great Thou Art," accompanied by Mrs. Keith Brown at the piano.

An appropriate address was read by Mrs. Don Thompson, on behalf of the relatives and friends.

Hugh and Kathleen expressed sincere thanks to their many friends for the lovely gifts and to all who took part in making their 25th anniversary such a happy occasion.

Mr. Allan McComb also expressed his congratulations and best wishes.

Mrs. Jones is the only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sam McComb of Bonarlaw. Mr. Jones is a son of Mrs. Jones and the late James Jones of Marmora.

Mrs. Jones, Sr., who is 80 years young, was present.

They were married in St. Mark's Anglican Church by Canon W. G. Swayne; their attendants, Mr. Allan McComb and Mrs. Bruce Baker were present at the celebration.

A buffet luncheon was enjoyed.

Friends were present from Peterborough, Oshawa, Whitby, Nepanee, The Ridge, Marysville, Marmora, Stirling and Sidney.

MOIRA W.A.

MOIRA — Mrs. James VanDerwater was hostess for Moira W.A. for the November meeting with a large number in attendance. The vice-president, Mrs. Jean Thompson, presided. Mr. Dyson read C. Matthew 5:1-16 with comments by Mrs. Wesley Farrell and prayer by Mrs. Gordon Foster. Business was then discussed.

Program convener, Mrs. Foster, presented the following program: readings by Mrs. Marjorie Thompson, "Two Kinds of People," and by Mrs. Woods, "God Gave Me"; duet by Mr. and Mrs. Dyson, "Jesus Is All the World to Me"; reading by Alice Mumby, "A Sunny Smile."

Topic on "Love" was given by Mrs. Milton Vanderwater, and music by Mrs. Calvert, "Sweet Hour of Prayer," and concluded by a reading by Mrs. Mary McIlroy, "Courage."

After the meeting closed, lunch was served by the hostess and helpers.

MODERN MANNERS

QUESTION BOX

Question: In a recent column you discussed the way we should act during the Christmas shopping rush. I think you did a grand job — both from the angle of the shopper and the salesperson. But you left something out! It is the way women shoppers treat us poor unfortunate male shoppers! We get pushed around, and how! You try to be polite at the counter. You step aside to let the lady go first, she takes this courtesy for granted. She never says "thank you." I soon found that using this gentlepmanly (I hope) technique, I could spend the whole afternoon standing around endeavoring to get the saleslady to place my order. Not one woman realized or cared, that I obviously had been there first. Another grips: You try to help these women by opening doors, etc. Again, "Thank You." Usually you get a look indicating that you shouldn't have been there in the first place. Don't we men have as much right to buy gifts for Christmas as do these women? — Mr. P. G. W., New Yorkville N. Y.

Answer: I'm ashamed to say that I agree that you have a very valid "gripe" here. It's true that we women are extremely thoughtless, and selfish, in our shopping habits. You are not the first to write me about the problems of a man trying to make his own purchases, and at the same time show proper courtesy to women. Several of the men have said they have given up, and that now they just barge through and forget "their manners" simply because they receive no consideration from the ladies. Something for us to think about — and do something about — in the coming weeks, don't you think?

Question: My family and I have been very upset recently about this new idea to do with funerals, I mean the requests that, in place of flowers, donations may be made to the Children's Hospital in the name of the deceased." We feel that this is not a fitting tribute to the one who has gone, and that the old tradition of sending flowers should be followed. What do you think? — Mrs. G. B. S., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: Frankly, I don't agree with you. Isn't the thought the same, whether it be flowers that will and die within a few hours, or whether the same money is spent to help others? Doesn't the family of a man who dies of cancer, for example, feel that your tribute to him means a great deal more when the money you would have spent on flowers is sent to the Cancer Fund?

Question: Maybe I am prudish and old-fashioned, but I am really shocked at the number of women I see standing on the street corners, waiting for the bus, with a cigaret dangling out of their mouths. Also I see them walking down the street smoking. Is this considered proper today? — Mrs. K.R.B., New York, N.Y.

Answer: I am in complete agreement with you that it is unsightly to see a woman smoking on the street. It seems to me that this pleasurable pastime should be indulged in when indoors. It certainly doesn't add to a woman's appearance when she is walking on the street. "Completely out of place" is the comment that most people I have asked about this.

Cross-Canada Survey

Day of the Debutante Now Drawing to a Close; Only 8 Cities Continue Ceremony

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

As midnight struck for Cinderella, so the day of the debutante is drawing to a close in Canada. Few dare, whose long, white gilled lines stretch back more than 100 years in Canadian social history, are a vanishing breed.

True, there are centres where debutantes are on the increase, but each year there are fewer cities in which opportunities are offered for young girls to be presented formally.

Even the debutante herself is changing.

Her pedigree is shorter; she has less money; her parents are less prominent; she has less time to prepare for a formal debut.

The Canadian Press, in a cross-Canada survey, found only about eight cities where young girls are presented to official society at a glittering function.

MANY WESTERN DEBUTS

Debutantes are increasing in Calgary. Vancouver had a bumper crop this year. Victoria still is carrying on quietly and its practice has a firm hold on Edmonton.

Debutantes came into their own in Halifax five years ago and are still a cornerstone of the social year; Montreal has at least three presentation dances.

Interest still is keen in Newfoundland, possibly the keenest in the country.

The interest still is high in Regina, but there debutantes are cast by decree. And Quebec City, which once glittered, is dimming its lights.

New Brunswick hasn't observed the custom for 40 years and there are no coming-out parties in Prince Edward Island. In Ottawa the formal presentations are dying out if not dead.

TURNS THUMBS DOWN

The attitude of the military—once a key factor in the introducing of girls at various regimental balls—was summed up by Major Frank Richardson of the 49th Regiment in Sault Ste. Marie:

"We considered it at one time but didn't take to the idea too kindly. We've enough headaches without that."

Mrs. Barbara McLean, president of the Navy Court charity ball at Sault Ste Marie says:

"We never discussed using the Charity Ball as a coming-out party. Speaking for myself, it would be drawing too obvious a line, wouldn't it?

There was an attempt to stage a ball to introduce Manitoba debutantes about 15 years ago, says Jean Brown, social editor of the Winnipeg Free Press. The affair was rushed and, she recalls:

"Few of the girls' dresses fitted and the thing was generally disorganized. After that, no one seemed interested in holding another debutante ball."

This year, Toronto replaced its traditional Artillery Ball—sponsored by artillery units—with the first Garrison Ball sponsored by all militia units. A dearth of debs led to the abandonment of their presentation and Toronto newspapers hailed the new arrangement as a smashing success.

Queen Elizabeth helped to scotch formal presentations last year when she announced the practice would cease in London.

Lt.-Gov. Frank Bastedo of Saskatchewan, saying he was going to follow the rest of Canada, decreed there would be no presentation of debs at the Tralfalgar Ball in Regina, where five to 30 girls have been presented to the lieutenant-governor each year for five years.

The navy, which sponsors the ball, says there has been no wane in interest—if anything, it was greater this year until the Barbecue city. She says she thinks it will last a few more years but interest has waned because girls are still students when the ball rolls around.

Prior to joining Confederation in 1949, Newfoundland sent its debs to court in England or to the annual Buckingham Palace Garden party.

HOLD ANNUAL BALL

Now they appear at the annual Debutantes Ball, sponsored by the Beothic Chapter of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

Mrs. Hal Puddester, a member of the ball committee in St. John's, says interest is so keen that applications are coming in for next June's affair. Between 40 and 50 girls attended in each of the last five years.

But it is in Western Canada that the custom dies hardest.

In Calgary, the Highlanders' Ball, an annual affair for the last 11 years, is the foremost social event of the year. Usually about 10 girls are presented to the lieutenant-governor at the affair sponsored by the Calgary Highlanders.

Last June there were 19 who went through a month of luncheons, teas and dinner parties.

Vancouver has two debs—the Military Ball, sponsored by the militia on the Friday nearest May 8 and the Trafalgar Ball, sponsored by the Navy Officers' Association of British Columbia on the Friday nearest Trafalgar Day.

The Military Ball goes back 34 years and is the ball of the year on the Vancouver social calendar.

POPULAR FUNCTIONS

Girls apply for a year in advance to be presented at both affairs and are accepted on a first-come, first-served basis.

Mrs. Gordon Southam, chairman of this year's debutante committee for the navy ball, said there is "most definitely" a tendency for the less-wealthy to join the debs. "Money isn't a classification."

In Victoria, the traditional party is the annual ball of the United Services Institute of Vancouver Island—made up o fmilitary officers past and present. A maximum of 30 girls are presented to the lieutenant-governor.

Prior to the Second World War, debutante balls were held at Government House. Now debs are sometimes invited to the annual Christmas Ball there, but not for the last two years.

Edmonton has its Military Ball to which about 14 "suitable" young ladies are invited. They are selected by the women's committee of Western Command and other garrisons.

Quebec City is an example of the changing face of society in the old, established area.

In 1931 the Kiwanis Club began sponsoring Le Bal de Cendrillon—the Cinderella Ball—as the coming-out affair for the Upper Town demoiselles. It was held in October.

But last year's ball was the last. The club, losing money on the ball each year, had tentatively scheduled another for this year, but was forced to cancel it. Nobody came forward to take it up.

TEMPERAMENTAL PETS

Dogs, purebred or mongrel, are considered by some veterinarians as less temperamental thanmost cats.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counsellors and social workers.

Karen S. — She's living up her life in a losing battle.

Ada G. — I want to see what love can do for a retarded child.

Karen S. — My sister and brother-in-law have a daughter who is 17 and, almost from the time she was born, they realized she was retarded. But instead of giving her up or placing her in an institution, they have made heroals and wrecks of themselves trying to care for this child and make her happy.

Naturally they won't go anywhere without Jeanne and when they all come to family parties, poor Jeanne is bewildered and the other children are torn between curiosity and fear. So Ada stays home, except when she can leave the child with her husband, which isn't often.

I can't understand why she is sacrificing everything for this child who is so frail she may not even live to grow up. And even if she does grow up, she can never hope for a normal life.

We're heartbroken over what this is doing to Ada.

Ada G. — Only someone who loves Jeanne and has watched her improve in ways she was hardly viable can understand why her father and I will never give up hope. Karen only sees what we do for Jeanne, she doesn't realize what that sweet child does for us.

Shortly after Jeanne was born we knew there was something wrong. But our doctor reassured us we couldn't be sure about how badly she was retarded until she was older and could be tested.

Somehow I had faith that our baby wasn't too far below normal and that I could do more than any institution to help her develop. I was right. The tests show her to be a borderline case, not a moron by any means. She's simply slow, but she can learn many things.

It's true that Jeanne is our Number One project. But there's no one else, certainly no institution, to give our daughter the patient encouragement and affection she needs.

The Council: By "institution" we assume these sisters refer to a custodial, residential training school for retarded children, the sort, of place that's the "away" in the expression, "put her away". But that type of regime is old-fashioned and used ideally only for completely unresponsive and virtually hopeless cases. The institutions that have supersided it are the home, the special class, the special school, the special camp, all working together.

So far, so good, we'd say to Ada. But why such isolation, both for you and your daughter?

If, as you say, she is only slightly below normal, she ought to qualify for admission to a special class in a public school. The social factor in Jeanne's development has been largely neglected and it's a vital test of her readiness to leave her mother's side.

Depending upon the degree of retardation, there are now many alternatives to the former horrors of banishment to an asylum or hiding in the attic". Even when a boarding school is required for levels of teaching the home cannot provide, there are frequent returns to family living which keep the child belonging to the stream of the here and now.

We understand Ada's caution in exposing Jeanne to other children. Youngsters can be cruel to the deviant, unless briefed in advance. That's why it's high time Jeanne joined a group of similar children, either in a school or camp, to have her first socializing experiences in a setting where her own inadequacies will not stand out.

Correction, Aunt Karen. The mentally retarded can and do grow up to make good adjustments to life. With a relative or an organization keeping a watchful eye on them, they fill many useful positions in commerce and industry. A surprisingly large sprinkling I.Q.'s have been known to rise, too, thanks to skilled training.

The Experts Say

Museum Artist Tells How She Makes Christmas Cards

By EDNA BRAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Sylvia Hahn is an expert at making Christmas cards but this doesn't lessen her pleasure on receiving homemade cards from amateurs.

"They may not be technically correct, but I always save them," she says. At one time the Toronto artist sold her cards but now she makes only enough for her family's use.

Sitting amid the clutter of the Athens Room, now being assembled at the Royal Ontario Museum, Miss Hahn told how she makes her cards. She has been an artist with the museum since she graduated from art school.

Simplicity is the rule for the beginner. If a linoleum cut is being used, she suggests that one color, or two at the most, should be used.

One of the easiest and most effective ways to make cards is with spray paint and autumn leaves. Place the leaves attractively on a folded sheet of paper and spray. That's all. The paint dries almost immediately. A stencil of any object can be substituted for leaves.

For the best effect, fasten the stencil or leaves to the card with a fine pin. Prop the card perpendicularly so that any big paint blobs will fall. Spray directly in front of the card from a distance of one foot. If paint is squirted from an angle it is apt to seep behind the card and smear the back.

LINOLEUM CUTS

Cuts made from battleship linoleum are more complicated but probably more satisfying. Prepared linoleum can be bought in art shops. Other linoleum should be sanded carefully.

The pattern which is etched into the linoleum will print in reverse on the card. It is well to check the printing on the linoleum block with a mirror.

To get the most from the paper you buy, measure to see how many cards can be cut with as little waste as possible. Buy envelopes ¼-inch larger than the card size.

"Construction paper which comes in good colors as well as white is good for single - fold cards," Miss Hahn says.

The hand method makes the best prints, she says. Apply ink to the linoleum block with a roller after first testing the ink for consistency on a piece of plate glass. It takes practice to get the right amount. Solid designs require more ink than fine patterns.

Place the paper over the block. Then, using the back of a spoon handle or an ivory letter-opener, rub slowly in a circular motion. More pressure can be applied where more color is wanted.

The cards can be hung at the fold over fine string to dry. They should be left for several hours.

Christmas Party Buffet

By Mary Moore

When you tear the November page from the calendar tonight or tomorrow you enter Christmas month.

It is an exciting time but full of work for mothers.

Wives and mothers have been writing to me for two months asking for Christmas party menus. The average number they expect seems to be about 35 or 40 people.

Today I propose to give you a Christmas buffet party menu and a recipe or two. This is in response to Mrs. J. D., Mrs. E. M., Maria S, and Mrs. J. M. J.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY

Lamb Stew with Vegetables and Parsley Dumplings; Tossed Green Salad; Sliced Bananas and Cream; Brazil Wafers (see Tuesday); Coffee.

CHRISTMAS BUFFET:

(To serve 20).
Tomato Juice Cocktail
(see below)
Oven-Fried Holiday Chicken
(see below)
Christmas Corn Pudding
(see below)
Tossed Green Salad (with Green Peppers and Tomatoes)
Fruit Salad Wreath
(see tomorrow)
Orange-Glazed Date Puddings
(see tomorrow)
Coffee, Tea

If you are an ambitious hostess serve all of these items. If it is to be a modern party serve the chicken, the salad and fruit wreath and add some pints.

TOMATO JUICE COCKTAIL:

(Serves 20).

To 4 20-oz. tins tomato juice add 2 1-2 teaspoons sugar, 2 1-3 teaspoons salt, 5 teaspoons finely chopped celery, 2 1-2 teaspoons minced onion, 2 1-2 teaspoons horseradish, 1 1-4 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce, 2-3 cup lemon juice. Combine all ingredients and chill together 1 hour.

OVEN-FRIED HOLIDAY CHICKEN:

(Serves 20).

Cut up three 3 1-2 pound (ready-to-cook weight) young chickens and sprinkle with a mixture of 1 1-2 teaspoons each thyme and marjoram and let stand 1 hour. Roll in flour and brown on all sides in 1-4" hot good quality fat. As soon as brown transfer each piece to shallow baking pans. Measure 1-2 cup chopped parsley, 1 tablespoon salt, 3-4 teaspoon pepper and 1 1-2 cups hot water. Distribute all but the water over all of the browned chicken pieces. Pour hot water into frying pans to rinse out fat and brown sediment and pour hot liquid over and around chicken. Bake uncovered at 375 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes.

CHRISTMAS CORN PUDDING:

(Serves 20).

In a very large bowl mix together 6 beaten eggs, 3 No. 2 cans drained kernel corn, 3 cups 18 per cent cream, 3-4 cup finely chopped onion, 8 tablespoons chopped canned pimiento, 6 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, 1 1-2 teaspoons sugar, 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 teaspoon black pepper, 1-4 teaspoon Tabasco sauce (optional). Pour into 3 average-sized buttered casseroles. Sprinkle tops with crushed cornflakes using 1 cup in all. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 40 minutes or until just firm. Garnish top with tiny crescents of canned pimiento with a tiny sprig of parsley nestled in each curve.

See tomorrow for dessert items for Christmas buffet.

This - - - and That

By HARRIETT STEVENS

Young Canada Book Week was celebrated a few weeks ago. This brought to mind an article we had once seen which was entitled "Whatever became of reading aloud?" While this covered reading aloud in general, the special emphasis was on reading aloud to children. This, in turn, brought back the words of a Belleville woman when her children were in their early teens, the age when most parents worry over them. She said, in a rather discouraged tone, "I don't know, I've done everything I thought was good for them — I read to them at night when they were younger — - -". She evidently thought it had been wasted effort. However, these children grew into intelligent, very well-read individualists.

This one example does not make a case for reading to children, but it is still a recommended practice. We have no doubt that adult reading aloud to adult has gone into a decline; we wonder just how much reading aloud to children has decreased. We well remember being read to; we often hear said among our contemporaries, "I remember my Mother (or Father) reading that to me". Will the young people of the present time be able to say that when they are older? Let's hope so.

Stories about Franklin Roosevelt tell us that he was a great believer in reading aloud; one of the early scenes in the play, "Sunrise at Campobello", shows him organizing the family into a reading of shakespeare, assigning the parts (and keeping the best for himself). Not many people can read with the voice and verve of a Franklin Roosevelt, but the main ingredients are enthusiasm and a real interest in what you are reading.

When we were in Senior Third (Grade 6 to you, our teacher would reward us for good behaviour by reading to us on Friday afternoon. Usually this teacher was a tartar for discipline and was of the no-nonsense school. But when she took up a children's book, she became another person, holding the class breathless and amused until four o'clock. We actually hated to see Friday afternoon come to an end.

Recently in the Book Section of the New York Times, there was an article, "Father's Adventures in Reading Aloud", by Leonard Wilberley — which brought back these Friday afternoons. Here are two excerpts.

"The first person I recall reading to me was a nun — Big Sister Elizabeth we called her. She wasn't just reading to me, but to a class of perhaps forty children and she didn't pick books that were good for our mischief-little souls. She picked Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treasure Island". I can see her now standing on the bare boards of the classroom floor, with her cuff around her head like a starched cloud, describing how Billy Bones told Jim Hawkins to keep a weather eye open "for a seafaring man with one leg". She was capable of wonderful modulations of her voice . . . And when it came to that wicked old chorus of: "Fifteen men on the dead man's chest, Yo ho ho, and a bottle of rum" Big Sister Elizabeth gave it out with such gusto that one would have thought, as Stevenson put it, her voice had been "tuned and broken at the capstan bars".

And now someone has brought out a colorless version of "Treasure Island" which they say is 'suitable' for children.

The second excerpt follows: "It is important in reading aloud to anyone, and particularly to children, to choose only books you yourself have enjoyed immensely. There is a huge dross of for children on the premise that they are educational. These books deal with how a post office works or how trains get from one place to another or how the streets of a city are lighted. Nothing is to be done about the miscreants who write such books, publish them or sell them, because this is a free country. But you can guard your children against them by refusing to read them any book in which you are not deeply interested yourself. It is important to protect your children from these educational sorts of books for otherwise they will get the idea that reading is very dull".

SERVES WITHOUT PAY — Margaret MacLaren has a full-time job without pay as head of 4,000 women in the St. John Ambulance, a first aid training brigade. She took over her post in 1946 after returning from overseas where she served with the brigade during the war. Before going overseas she had acted as hostess for her father, the late Dr. Murray MacLaren, lieutenant-governor of New Brunswick from 1935 to 1940. (CP PHOTO)

Fulltime Job Without Pay Is a Privilege - M. MacLaren

By Elizabeth McGorrell
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A fulltime job without pay is a privilege to Margaret MacLaren, a gentle, silver-haired woman who is a leading force in operations of the St. John Ambulance.

During the Second World War she joined the brigade, turning from her role as hostess for her father, the late Dr. Murray MacLaren, who was lieutenant-governor of New Brunswick from 1935 to 1940.

She returned from overseas as the brigade's superintendent-in-chief, succeeding Mrs. T. W. Gilmour of Toronto.

Since 1946 her home has been in Ottawa where a part-time housekeeper eases her domestic chores, leaving her free to give fulltime leadership to the more than 4,000 women of 2,803 St. John workers in Canada who devote their spare time to public service.

Besides such hobbies as record-collecting, reading and photography, Miss MacLaren is an expert in an unusual art closely tied to her work. She can produce a frighteningly realistic copy of anything from a fractured skull to a blister, using fresh-colored plastics, artificial arteries that spurt imitation blood, cement and other materials.

AIDS TO TRAINING

"We don't make these gruesome specacles just to horrify people," says the woman who helped introduce the art to Canada. "They are serious training aids."

Miss MacLaren, who first saw casualty simulation used for first aid training in England, has helped add new ideas to the skill. A manual on techniques she helped produce under the auspices of federal Civil Defence has been acclaimed abroad.

Freed by a private income from the necessity of earning a living, Miss MacLaren works regular office hours and often at night. She says she regards her work as a fulltime volunteer is a privilege.

Others devote their spare time to "many would like to be in a position to do more."

Talking of the organization's role, she mentioned the early Metropolitan Store explosion in Windsor, Ont., where St. John first aid workers arrived within minutes.

Miss MacLaren travels from coast to coast to visit St. John members engaged in volunteer community services at hospitals, first aid posts and clinics. Associated with her is Mrs. W. F. Warner, a registered nurse who is the brigade's chief nursing officer.

Participation in St. John work is a family tradition. Both her parents were members. Her brother, Ian MacLaren of Toronto, is a past-president of the St. John Council of Ontario.

Educated in England and at Netherwood, a girls' school in New Brunswick, Miss MacLaren graduated from McGill University in 1925 and took her master's degree in English a year later while a member of the residence staff at Royal Victoria College. She then worked as a library assistant. She had been drawn to St. John work from the time she was a child and when the opportunity presented itself she joined the brigade.

One of three Canadian representatives at the recent opening of the St. John Ophthalmic Hospital in Jerusalem, she described it as a link with the order's origins in the time of the Crusades.

The hospital is one of three foundations or projects sponsored by the parent body — the Venerable Order of St. John of Jerusalem. The others are the St. John Ambulance Association which is the teaching body for first aid, home nursing and other training and the brigade of trained volunteers.

Deny Smuts Flew Military Papers to U.K.

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Men who held senior positions in South Africa at the time have denied that Premier Jan Christiaan Smuts raided his own defence headquarters in 1945 and flew military papers to Britain to keep them from the incoming Nationalist government.

A book by Brig. K. P. Hartshorn, in charge of public relations with Second World War South African forces in the Libyan desert, claims that after his election defeat in 1948, Field Marshal Smuts led the headquarters raid and took away papers which might be used as "witchhunt" material by the Nationalists. The book, Avenge Tobruk, will be published in a few days.

Harry Lawrence, who was minister of justice at the time, told reporters after reviews of the book were published that he thought it "most unlikely" that such a raid was carried out.

Exports Climb Slashing Year's Trade Deficit

OTTAWA (CP) — A continued upsurge in exports during October helped produce a Canadian trade surplus for the fourth month in a row, and slashed an accumulated trade deficit to a fraction of last year's level.

October exports exceeded imports by $29,700,000, the bureau of statistics reported Tues. This trade surplus compared with a $12,700,000 deficit in October last year.

This left the country with a trading deficit of $78,100,000 for the first 10 months of the year compared with $427,400,000 in the corresponding 1959 period. It was the most favorable trade picture since 1952 when Canada recorded an annual surplus in commodity trade.

October exports to the United States dropped nearly $40,000,000 below year-earlier levels but total exports showed a year-to-year advance of 3.1 per cent to $482,700,000 from $467,900,000 in October, 1959.

This pushed exports in the January-October period to $4,676,100,000, up 7.8 per cent from $4,150,900,000 in the comparable 1959 period.

The bureau's report showed an unusual drop in imports in October to $465,000,000, down 5.7 per cent from $480,300,000 a year earlier. The 10-month import total dipped 0.7 per cent to $4,357,200,000 from $4,388,300,000.

RAWDON

Hartings County F.A.O. Banquets In Carmel Jubilee Hall

RAWDON — On the evening of November 24th the annual banquet of Hastings County Federation of Agriculture was held in Carmel-Rawdon Jubilee Hall with a large attendance which included guests from Peterborough and Prince Edward Counties.

The ladies of Carmel Woman's Association served a turkey banquet with all the trimmings. Mr. George Carlisle president was master of ceremonies and Mrs. A. Fryar was pianist. Grace was sung followed by a toast to the Queen.

Mr. Don Leeming, secretary, introduced the head table guests which included: Warden Earl Eagler, past president, F. Harris and Mrs. Harris; 1st vice-president, R. Sills and Mrs. Sills; Mr. and Mrs. Clare Telford, Peterborough; Mrs. George Carlisle; 2nd vice-president, O. Hessman and Mrs. Hessman; Mr. and Mrs. P. Fryar; Mr. and Mrs. Ross Ketcheson and Mrs. Percy MacMullen.

PROGRAM

The entertainment included vocal selections by Messrs Donald Armstrong and Douglas Fryar, and Mrs. Patricia Merrill gave a monologue; Mr. R. Sills read the Co-Op Insurance report and the president read the treasurer's report.

Mrs. Percy Ray outlined the highlights of the recent Ontario Federation Convention held in Toronto. She suggested that the Toronto papers give a little more publicity to the organization.

Warden Earl Sager brought greetings from Hastings County.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave a resume of the work accomplished by the West Hastings District Women's Institute. The special project chosen by the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario, is coupons to assist the Women of Jamaica; gift coupons are a sort of international money order. They are used to transfer funds abroad to be used for educational equipment. This is a worthwhile cause and it is hoped that each of the seven branches will respond by February 1st. To date four branches have forwarded $55.

Institute women must become aware of the international scope of the organization as the associated County Women of the World took to Canada for leadership.

"Pennies for Friendship" is a voluntary gift to further extension work, as nearly half of the adult population of the world's illiterate and only one-half of the world's school age children have the opportunity to attend school.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. Harry Brown led the group in assembly singing, after which Mr. Ross Ketcheson introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Clare Telford of Peterborough, who based her message on the Book of Ecclesiastes and read verses on the theme: "There is nothing better for a man than that he should eat and drink and find enjoyment in his toil. The earth abides forever, and there is no new thing under the Sun."

The speaker eulogized the value of 4-H Clubs and the knowledge that is available for young people today.

She read articles from two familiar history books which gave a graphic picture of the pioneers in the days of 1825. These stories listed the past, present and future, and stressed that in years what the people produced they could not sell for cash. Today there is nothing new in salesmanship and there are many folks who are frauds.

The speaker paid tribute to those early settlers from whom Canadians have inherited their bounty. She read from current statistics that one quarter of the people of the world are wallowing in the miseries of the folks are hungry. She also read some startling facts re the business world today and said, "the label on a can of tomatoes costs more than a producer receives for the tomatoes that are in the can."

Mrs. Telford closed with a poem, "What is Your Purpose in Life?" and emphasized her theme "There is No New Thing."

Calgary Race Horse Owner Dies in Crash

PARRY SOUND (CP) — William J. Yates, well-known Calgary race horse owner, was killed Tuesday when his car left the road near this town 80 miles south of Sudbury.

Mr. Yates, 53, was apparently alone in the car. Police said it left the highway at "tremendous speed." He was travelling north on the Trans-Canada Highway at the time of the accident.

The car came to rest about 100 yards off the highway.

Police said Mr. Yates died of "multiple injuries."

His extensive stable was unique in that many of the horses carried the family name, including such top contenders as Percy Yates and Jessie Yates.

Mr. Yates was born in St. Helen's, Lancashire, England and came to Canada to work in the Crowsnest and Jumping Pound areas west of Calgary.

He bought his first filly, Queen Calulvia, in 1926, and was quite successful running her in western racing circles.

Percy Yates won the Canadian Derby in 1938. Yates Senior won the Alberta Derby a few years ago.

Mr. Yates raced a stable in Toronto this fall.

He was returning home from Toronto at the time of the accident.

Non-Op Workers Largest, Most Diversified Single Bargaining Unit in Country

MONTREAL (CP)—The 121,000-railway employees grouped under the label of "non-operating workers" is the model of a wage dispute with Canada's railways, are the largest and most diversified single labor bargaining unit in the country.

They are represented by a body of 15 different unions and these unions have divided their members in 22 job classes.

Taken together they include just about every trade, skill and occupation to be found in Canadian industry.

There are clerks, stenographers and office boys, telephone operators, janitors, machinists, masons, painters, electricians, telegraphers, moulders, carpenters and cooks, to name but a few.

In addition the non-ops include such specialty railway jobs as train dispatchers, coach cleaners, signal foremen, sectionmen, gatemen, dining-car stewards and porters.

Why are they called non-ops? The name is a straightforward description, for they do not run the way employees who do all the work on a railway except that of actually operating trains.

They can be found in railway offices and clerical work, in section - gangs repairing and maintaining the right - of - way, driving express delivery trucks, in the yards repairing railway equipment and in baggage and cars.

The porter who makes up your Pullman berth is a non-op and so is the waiter who brings your meal in the dining car.

The men who operate the trains—the locomotive engineers, conductors and brakemen—are not "non-operating."

The lowest-paid are the extra-gang laborers hired to do heavy work where needed, on the right-of-way. They are paid $1.30 hourly under the 1958 agreement that expired Jan. 1, 1960.

The highest-paid non-ops are the train dispatchers whose hourly wage is $2.60.

In between these two extremes there are such classifications as carpenters at $2.46 hourly, blacksmiths $2.15, sectionmen $1.56, machinists $2.16, janitors $1.20 and clerks and stenographers $1.77. And 81 % are classified in the average non-op hourly wage.

But though their wages vary widely, the non-ops all have the same working conditions and benefits. They work a five-day, 40-hour week, get two weeks' vacation with pay after one year of service, three weeks after 15 years and four weeks after 25 years. In addition, they have seven paid statutory holidays annually.

They are covered by a health-insurance scheme and a pension plan, to which both employee and company contribute.

Because of the wide range of jobs included in the non-op group, setting the average hourly wage as the standard for the whole group has long been one of the most knotty problems in their wage negotiations.

The present standard applied by a series of conciliation boards and in recent years accepted by the railways—has been the so-called durable-goods standard.

Using this, the non-op average wage is compared with the average paid workers employed in industries manufacturing durable goods — machinery, automobiles, electrical household appliances.

This standard is used because the industries are considered to employ a group of workers whose skills are very similar to those found among the non-ops and whose proportion of male to female employees is about the same.

The non-ops have been bargaining as a group since the mid-1930s. They have always bargained together with the running-trades, but in that year the latter split off.

Since 1947 their chief negotiator has been C. H. Hall, head of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees.

Hall, who has earned the respect of management, both for the integrity and the toughness of his negotiations, is approaching retirement and one of the stiffest problems facing the non-ops is choosing his successor.

UN Assembly Needs to Make Progress Soon

- - Green

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Green says that if the United Nations General Assembly makes no progress in the disarmament field the subject will be "dead" for months.

Canada would seek a special UN session on disarmament next spring for the purpose of manufacturing propaganda, the minister said Tuesday in an interview. In the meantime, no resumption of the stalled disarmament negotiations would be possible.

"The mad, nuclear race goes on," Mr. Green said.

"Are the people of the world like lemmings hurrying and scurrying to self-destruction?"

Disarmament is a small Army, Air Force and Navy matter, Mr. Green said, of what form of government the country should have. It is a bone problem of price of services or a strong federal structure.

All along, the UN has avoided advancing the proposals of Premier Nikita Khrushchev or U.S. his rivals; President Kasavubu of Belgian Congo, Premier Lumumba or Moise Tshombe, the Katanga province leader.

For this Hammarskjold and his assistants have been criticized. Instead of bringing Lumumba down, trying to reinstate Kasavubu, they say, it did not get tough enough with Tshombe, being in league with Belgian colonial powers.

Not only is the country still crippled by a financial and administrative breakdown, the UN has almost impoverished itself in its mission of mercy.

To a great extent, the feeling of disenchantment over the UN's failure to bring order and restore stability to the Congo results from a misleading standard of aims.

The chief purpose of the UN is to keep conflict wherever it can and to be a moderator in disputes.

Dag Hammarskjold cannot, either under the charter or the resolutions passed by the Security Council and the General Assembly, decide what form of government a country should have. Only the country should have the power to change its constitution.

A matter of deep concern to Mr. Green is the nuclear military developments — he mentioned Russian rockets and American nuclear submarines — are continuing without much disarmament negotiations being deadlocked.

Every day that goes by without an agreement more difficult to achieve, Mr. Green said three countries—Chile, Malaya and Pakistan—have agreed on a resolution sponsored by Norway-Sweden resolution in the UN to establish a committee of non-nuclear nations to get disarmament talks back on the right track.

Russia is opposed to the resolution and the United States may be, too.

Britain is in favor of it.

It was possible that the Canada-Norway-Sweden resolution would be the last hope for disarmament progress at the UN this session, expected to continue until Dec. 15.

Mr. Green had planned to devote his speech Tuesday to a major review of Canada's UN peacekeeping role but decided to postpone it to a possibility for next spring.

UN Almost Impoverished In Mercy Mission in Congo

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Nearly six months have passed since the Congo gained its independence from Belgium.

Not only is the country still crippled by a financial and administrative breakdown, the UN has almost impoverished itself in its mission of mercy.

To a great extent, the feeling of disenchantment over the UN's failure to bring order and restore stability to the Congo results from a misleading standard of aims.

Govt. Takes Steps to Seat New Member

TORONTO (CP) — The Progressive Conservative government Tuesday took steps to seat Kenneth Rowe, Conservative MP-elect, Brudenell and Leopoldville.

The principle which the legislature has respected the right of a province to decide matters of internal affairs stands in danger of being overturned by the seating in the General Assembly of a delegation loyal to Kasavubu.

United States sources looked on the pro-Kasavubu decision as "unfortunate" but it was a victory gained at the expense of Premier Lumumba aided with the Soviet bloc.

It will be difficult for UN officials in the field to maintain an air of impartiality while in the eyes of Kasavubu is looked upon by half the world body's membership as head of the illegal Congolese government.

Observers suggest that Canada gained a good deal in the eyes of new UN members, including the Congo vote while the other "white" commonwealth countries sided with the Belgians.

The view that events were too confused to reach a sound decision seemed to prejudice Canadian position. Other countries among the 19 who abstained from voting on the issue included Tunisia, Sweden, Pakistan, Ireland, Liberia and Haiti. None of these could be described as Communist or colonial powers.

Premier Frost, in commenting on a bill to amend the Legislative Assembly Act, said he would present to the legislature next week a full report on the question of a representative right to accept public monies in certain instances.

Phillip Hoffman PC-Timiskaming, who was a prospective member-elect, was blocked from taking his seat at the opening of the legislature last week when Liberal Leader Wintermeyer questioned the propriety of a retired civil servant accepting holiday and sick pay credits while sitting.

Mr. Hoffman, 59, retired as chief forester from the department of lands and forests last year. He has now been more than $3,000 piled up during his long service.

Mr. Frost said the amendments would deal with retired civil servants and school teachers who are entitled to pensions. There are no laws at present to prevent them from sitting.

Attorney - General Roberts, who introduced the amendment bill, said it deals also with certain types of contractors in which legislators may participate.

ELEVATORS BURNED

SEXSMITH, Alta. (CP) — Two Alberta wheat pool elevators, one of them one of the largest in the pool system, were destroyed by fire Tuesday night with two large annexes. Estimates of the damage were $500,000 and 176,000 bushels of wheat.

"Bumper Crop" of Beaver Predicted and Quebec Govt. Allows Quota to Be Doubled

QUEBEC (CP)—The 20th century is moving in on Canada's first industry—the beaver trade—and Quebec's government is making changes to meet changing times.

The back-toothed beaver, like most of the rodent family, multiplies rapidly under proper conditions. The provincial fish and game department predicts a "bumper crop" this season.

As a result the government, by order-in-council, has doubled the number of beaver that may be trapped outside reserves to the from 10. At the same time, white men have been permitted to trap beaver within their own property—permitted to trap on provincially-operated reserves—have let trap lines go.

There are two big factors behind the decision to liberate white trappers in. One is northward development in the government aid to Indians.

Roads and rails are coming in to the north in pushed up. The white man has come with them. There are more and more white men in regions where only Indians lived a few years ago.

In addition, a Quebec government official said, many Indians' payments and do not need to trap. "Why should they get 150 to 200 miles along a trapline when they can get unemployment insurance by staying home.

"It's a delicate question," the official added, "because on the one hand we must convince the Indian we are not trying to take anything away from him and on the other, Indian affairs come under the federal government."

MANY OUTSIDE RESERVES

There was no indication how many white men may take up trapping where Indians have stopped.

There are some 200,000 beaver on the province's 13 reserves, too far.

estimates Armand Tremblay, director of the provincial government fur service for 20 years. Some 100,000 are in two areas outside the reserves where trapping is permitted.

Between 1938 and 1940, the beaver population was so small trapping was prohibited. This season's limit is 33,000 skins on reserves. Another 25,000 probably will be caught outside. Each skin will bring about the same price as last year—$14.75.

Last season 48,942 skins were taken and the total value was $613,778. In the previous season $1,942 were taken, valued at $677,246.

The province's reserves cover roughly 327,600 square miles in an arc from northeastern Quebec above the St. Lawrence gulf to the northwest on the Ontario border.

Each reserve is divided into numbered sections and each of these is the domain of a particular Indian family. The sections—roughly 200 square miles—may be trapped over by 15 trappers each season. This season started Nov. 1 and ends April 30.

"Jest a Second"

"Since my Wincle rejoined Rotary he's been drinking less." "That's carrying celebrating too far."

Minister Calls for All-Out Sales Drive by Task Force

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade Minister Hees called today for an all-out sales drive by Canada's foreign task force of trade commissioners.

"We must have the greatest selling effort this country has ever seen," he told his trade commissioners, assembled from 40 countries in an unprecedented 2½-week export promotion conference.

Mr. Hees, in the role of a tough - talking sales manager, laid it on the line for them:

"I will be watching with interest during the months ahead the increase in sales, which takes place in each of your areas of duty. Such sales increases will have a direct bearing on your advancement in the future."

The minister's speech opened the conference which, in the next three days, will see a round of private conferences between the repatriated trade commissioners and trade department officials.

First indications are the start of nearly two weeks of individual conferences more than 8,000 are scheduled—between the commissioners in their respective areas across Canada.

Mr. Hees, pointing to "severe competition" facing Canadian manufacturers in world markets, told the commissioners to give "every possible assistance" to the visiting businessmen now launching new foreign sales campaigns.

His statements were included in a text of his speech issued to the press before delivery.

Mr. Hees referred to the current expansion in Canada's economy—up 7.6 per cent so far this year—but dropped a hint that the strong foreign demand that has made this possible may not hold up.

On top of this, conditions in world markets have shifted from post-war shortages to a situation of more adequate supply.

Canada's competitors were posing a very real challenge for both management and labor in this country to produce goods which are competitive in both quality and price." To accomplish this would require more of the "responsible attitudes" shown by management and labor in postwar Europe.

Mr. Hees said Canadian exporters should find "tremendous help" in the establishment of a new exports credit company by the chartered banks, announced last week. It will provide financing, up to five years, for capital goods exports.

He said he is confident the new arrangement will "match the export-credit facilities made available by any other country."

Dealing with conference arrangements, he said that about one-fifth of those attending conference representatives here have never exported before.

Truck Driver Blocks Escape Of Armed Men

TORONTO (CP)—Alex Stoykovich, 30, and Mark Belich, 25, were charged with armed robbery of a week - end Toronto - Dominion Bank branch after the escape of two men was blocked by a truck driver.

The two men, former residents of Lake, Ont., were arrested at gunpoint about half an hour after the Friday afternoon holdup at Eglinton and Heddington and about 30 miles south of the bank.

With about $3,800 in a shopping bag, they ran through a rear door to a car.

But Police Constable Edward Hill, 31, heard a woman screaming that the bank had been robbed. As the gunmen tried to manoeuvre out of a driveway, Hill rolled his truck across their path, leaped out and threw the keys away.

The bandits abandoned their car, got into a nearby parking lot and waved their guns at a motorist in a station wagon. The motorist hesitated when he was ordered to hand over his car, and Belich shattered his rear-view mirror, and the two men fled on foot.

Still brandishing their guns, the men tried to stop another car, but the woman driver kept going.

Finally the men took over a car at gunpoint. It would not start.

Police arrested two men without a fight in shocks away.

They were still on foot.

CRASH KILLS SIX

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A passenger train from Guadalajara crashed into a heavily loaded bus near here Monday night, killing six and injuring 15 persons, Officials blamed the bus driver for attempting to beat the train to the grade crossing.

New Methods To Lure Tourists Are Discussed

OTTAWA (CP) — Delegates to the federal-provincial tourist conference have been told they must aim to lure the country's two cold winter as being a warm and colorful land. They were urged to use the reluctance of foreign visitors.

Wilfred E. Organ, director of Manitoba's travel bureau, said Tuesday the way to bring about the transformation is to use a better advertising approach.

Suggestions for tourist-winning suggestions were:

1. Pictures of snow scenes must also include people engaged at some activity.

2. People in these winter scenes must be covered with clothing that—with their hats off, if possible—and with as many happy smiling faces as possible.

3. Advertising layouts should always include a warm interior picture with exterior shots that show roadways and people moving about. This gives the potential visitors that travel isn't a serious problem.

One of the things that might be gained from such an approach was a flood of European visitors within the next few years.

David Ogilvy, a New York agency representative, said that now is the time to extend travel promotion in Britain and Europe in anticipation of an increase in visitors that would result from Canada's Confederation centennial.

He said an easing of currency restrictions in Europe and improved air travel would combine with an American campaign to draw tourists. Unless Canada started a campaign of its own, these visitors would spend most of their money below the border.

Other speakers during the second day of a three-day conference warned that better business management procedures must be followed if persons in the tourist industry are to benefit from the government-guaranteed loans.

INJURED LEFT EARLY

LONDON (Reuters) — The Queen's 1931 New Year honors list will be published Dec. 31, believed to be the first time the New Year list has appeared in the previous year. The reason is that New Year's Day, on which the list is normally published, falls on a Sunday.

Injured, Experts Describe Scenes in Store Before Jury

WINDSOR (CP)—The injured and the experts appeared before a jury here Tuesday in a night to describe a toyland that became a "hell" for 20 persons when an explosion hit a busy department store last year.

"I called to die," I told myself, so I stayed where I was. I didn't think I could get out alive bang—the end of the world for me. I was hit on the head and bleeding."

The witness speaking was Mrs. Yvonne Groulx, a shopper in Metropolitan Store Oct. 25 when the explosion believed caused by natural gas ripped apart the building. More than 50 persons were injured. Most of the 20 dead were buried under tons of rubble in a basement toyland where upper storeys collapsed.

The inquiry into the disaster opened Tuesday in city council chambers with 61 witnesses testifying. The jury is specifically investigating the death of Anne Marie Prodeus, 26-year-old saleswoman.

Many witnesses were experts in fields of natural gas and construction but most were the injured, some using canes or helped to the witness box.

Several witnesses were unable to attend because of injuries. Their statements were read.

Mrs. Irene C. W. Mills heard the two men responsible for the bombing of the store say they relied on their sense of smell to detect leaking gas.

Charles Ingram, owner of Ingram Plumbing Limited, said he and plumber Howard Schram arranged a gas line minutes before the explosion.

"The coupling blazed for three or four minutes," Mr. Ingram said. "I checked it by smell and was satisfied there was no gas in the union. I put my head right down to it and could smell no gas. I have no idea what caused the explosion."

Mr. Ingram said he earlier smelled coal gas in the tiny basement of the store where he and Schram were working. But he did not detect natural gas.

"I can smell gas a mile away but I didn't smell any at the building," he said.

Both men were hurt in the blast. Mr. Ingram assisted Mr. Ingram to the box.

Patrick Lafleur, Windsor's building commissioner, said the installation was being made without a permit from his office and that Mr. Schram did not hold a city license as a natural gas fitter.

The licence of Jessup Plumbing was removed two days after the explosion.

Director Henry Bird of Windsor gas said Lafleur said he was "disturbed" when Fire Chief Cyclo Beaire ordered rescue operations at the scene to be halted.

"My men are trained to work around buildings," he said. "I thought the work should continue."

Mr. Beaire said he felt the building was unsafe for further rescue work.

"I was satisfied no one was left . . . I figured I was in charge."

The hearing continues.

Concern for Wounded Moose Brings Death to Man in Wilds

SPOKAN, Wash. (AP) — Concern for a wounded moose has brought death to a man in the wilds of Alaska Peninsula, 600 miles from the nearest telephone.

The story was told Tuesday by Jack Sayers, representative, and Ed Fairbanks, Alagka, from a hospital bed.

They said her husband, Ray, 57, an experienced woodsman and hunting guide, died Sept. 28 on a hunting trip 45 miles from Livengood, northern interior country of Fairbanks. They had good luck and were returning to their truck and trailer when they ran into some strangers who reported wounding a moose.

"A storm was coming up," Mrs. Sayers said. "Ray just couldn't stand the thought of a wounded animal in a blizzard, so off we went on a tracking mission."

DEEPEST PIND MOOSE

"We never found the moose. The snow piled up waist deep and we became soaked. Ray struggled until he collapsed. I stayed at his side for four days until a state snowplow accidentally found us."

Mrs. Moore's face and hands were snow-crusted and her toes frozen. She was takin 2 1-2 days by dog sled to Fairbanks and then 125 miles on a carry-all to Fairbanks hospital.

She was released after eight days but suffered a heart attack and was "returned to the hospital for observation."

When it was decided last week that surgery was needed on her toes, she was flown to Seattle and then brought to Spokane by ambulance. Portions of nine toes were removed.

Anthropologist Will Soon Publish Guide Book About Eskimos in Canada's North

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Guide points for the government's policy for the 10,000 Canadian Eskimos are expected to emerge from an extensive review begun by the northern affairs department.

New policy goals or the shifting of present ones may be indicated after completion of the history of Eskimo administration in Alaska, Greenland and Canada.

The author is Dr. Diamond Jenness, dean of Canadian anthropologists and a old hand among Canadian Indians and Eskimos. Retired since 1947 and a sprightly 74, he has already done extensive work on the Alaska phase and now is switching to the Canadian picture. Publication rights on his study have been obtained by the University of Chicago press.

So far, says Dr. Jenness, it's too soon to say whether northern track in this country about scaling the transition of the Eskimo to a new way of life patterned more closely on southern ways. But he has his doubts.

FRONTIER SIMILAR

"There is the same problem in both Alaska and Canada," he said in an interview. "Resources—fishing and hunting—were allin to begin with and little has been added.

"I wonder whether Canadian administrators may not be starting at the wrong end in providing more education and health facilities. The population goes up but there is nothing for them to do."

The first Eskimo fishing cooperatives were started in Canada last year and the Alaska record shows that co-operatives have been tried there, met always with success. Alaska reindeer herds supplied the stock for the Canadian herd in the Mackenzie River delta but the industry in both countries has not been too successful. One drawback has been inability of the Eskimo, traditionally a hunter rather than a herder, to provide the necessary care.

"The United States has done a conscientious job at times—better than we have," says the anthropologist who was born in New Zealand and first explored the Arctic in 1913 with the Canadian government expedition headed by Vilhjalmur Stefansson. His last Alaska visit was in 1926 on an archaeological junket around Bering Strait.

TB RATES HIGH

Alaska's Eskimos, totalling about 18,000, live under economically - depressed conditions comparable to Canada's, he said. Tuberculosis still runs high although the U.S. federal health service assumed responsibility for Eskimo health in 1954.

Dr. Jenness said that conditions in Greenland, generally superior, are a tribute to the "most noble job" done by Denmark at high cost. Extensive health, housing, education and cultural projects have served to maintain the Greenlandic Eskimo to the point where poverty and radio stations are facts of life in the Eskimo tongue.

"At 74, I felt I had better get on with the Canadian record," said Dr. Jenness, whose keen blue eyes and tanned face belie his age and heart trouble. "I'd like to be able to make constructive suggestions—after all anybody can criticize.

Part of Ransom Money Found On Suspect Held

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation converged on a startled Frank Marrone at a Los Angeles intersection Tuesday and arrested him in the kidnapping a week ago of wealthy sportsman Anthony Alessio.

The FBI said Marrone, 31, a convicted murderer with a long police record, was smart and offered no resistance. His first comment, agents related, was: "I knew the FBI was smart but I've never seen so many in one place."

The agents said Marrone—driving his own 1952 automobile—carried currency identified as part of the $200,000 ransom paid by the Alessio family to obtain his release.

Alessio, 42, abducted from in front of his fashionable San Diego home last Tuesday, was found unharmed later in a San Diego motel. He is executive director of the Caliente race track in Baja, California. The track is believed to be owned by the Alessio family.

The FBI arrested Marrone's wife, Selina, 23, and another couple in Hollywood last Friday. Agents recovered $77,500 of the ransom money at that time.

MAY REVIVE PROPOSAL

TORONTO (CP) — A proposal to change the name of the Canadian Temperance Federation "to avoid the ambiguity and emotional connotations which go with the word temperance," may be tabled at the annual convention which opened here Monday. Brighton Man Given 3 Months

HAMILTON (CP)—Joseph Malik, 37, of Brighton, who pleaded guilty last week to attempted breaking and entering, was sentenced Monday to three months in jail by Judge Joseph Sweet.

Malik will serve the sentence simultaneously with present sentences for fraud and breach of recognizance.

Malik tried to break into a Hamilton house in September, 1957, then skipped bail while awaiting trial, police testified.

Senior Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

After biding their time for two periods, Windsor Bulldogs burst into a spectacular grand finale against Strathroy Rockets Tuesday night, downing their rivals 4-1 and increasing their lead in the Ontario Hockey Association senior standings to three points.

Woodstock Athletics fought off a belated Galt Terriers attack to take the game 5-4, handing Terriers their first western loss.

Windsor now tops the standings with 16 points, Chatham, Stratford and Woodstock tying for second with 13. Strathroy is in third with nine and Galt brings up the rear with six.

On Windsor ice, Bulldogs nursed their 3-0 lead into the third period when Rockets managed to tie. Then Windsor went to work with goals from Len Speck, George Monlagne and Jerry Servisa to clinch it. Their other scorer was Jack Costello. Only Rocket to beat Windsor goalie Ross Childs, with 30 saves in the game to his credit, was Jack McCreight.

Strathroy goaltender Dick Pattenaude played brilliantly, kicking out 40 Windsor shots.

The Athletics, on Galt ice, played with only seven forwards for three lines, yet outskated, outhusted and outchecked the home club.

Larry Pfaff's goal in the final two minutes of the second period was the decider. Woodstock gained a 5-3 lead, enough to hold off a desperate Terrier attack in the last period which yielded them only one goal from Bill Wylie.

Woodstock's earlier scorers were Junior Barash, Carl Hatt, Jack Taylor and Jake Senda.

Larry Musselman flashed the light twice for Galt early in the second period, Ab Martin scored in the first.

The Trots

NEW YORK (AP)—Adios Day, a chestnut horse owned by Meadowland Farms, was sold for $17,000 Tuesday—top price during the second day of activity at the Old Glory harness horse sales at Madison Square Garden.

The buyer was Dr. R. A. Forbes, a Belevia, N.Y., veterinarian, who said Adios Day would be retired to stud.

The 138 horses sold brought $171,335 for a two-day total of 388 sales bringing $352,380.

Wilbert Hopkins of Leamington, Ont., bought Shadydale Babe, a Yankee Scot Yearling Filly, for $2,000.

The Tracks

NEW YORK (AP) — Bowl of Flowers, from Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's Brookmeade Stable in New York, was the unanimous choice of the Thoroughbred Racing Associations' board of selectors today as champion two-year-old filly of 1960 in the United States. She won six of eight starts and was second twice, earning $196,706.

Lions Roar Over New Gate Split

VANCOUVER (CP)—Officials of British Columbia Lions have reaffirmed a decision not to adopt a plan by the Western Interprovincial Football Union calling for an increase in gate splits to 40 from 35 per cent.

A letter has been sent to league headquarters by the Lions, stating the club will not adopt the plan set up at a stormy league meeting here Friday.

Some of the B.C. executives have threatened to quit the WIFU and join the Big Four league from Eastern Canada.

The new gate split is designed to help the weaker clubs in the WIFU, particularly Saskatchewan Roughriders.

A 40 per cent split could cost the Lions $85,000, said club officials. Lions paid $38,000 under the 35-per-cent plan in the 1960 season.

Lions and Calgary Stampeders, who have the biggest stadiums in the league, were the only clubs to pay into the pool in the 1960 season.

The Sudan is about the size of the United States east of the Mississippi River.

CO-WINNERS NAMED

NEW YORK (AP) — Unbeaten Yale and once-beaten Navy Tuesday were named co-winners of the Lambert Trophy as eastern college football champions. Each team received 35 points from the four-man selection committee, creating the first tie in the 25-year history of the trophy. Yale and Navy will be honored at a reception here Dec. 11.

SKILLFULLY MARRIED

When fully matured, the whiskies for Wiser's 101 are taken out of small oak barrels for blending, then returned to the same barrels for an additional lengthy period. This is known as the "marrying" period in which Wiser's 101 slowly reaches perfection in character, flavour and smoothness. This earlier "marrying" is what makes Wiser's 101 the smoothest 6 year old whisky you can buy.

Faith makes sense—faith in yourself, faith in the power of numbers, faith in the farmer's ability to mind his business and mind it well.

FAME makes sense

A Quebec meat-packing co-operative, with a wide farmer membership, did $32 million worth of business last year and distributed tens of thousands of dollars in patronage dividends to its shareholders. The man mostly responsible for the success of Coopérative Fédérée said recently: "Our farmers invested in their co-operative as an act of faith. It paid off!"

Faith pays off. Every worthwhile, profitable endeavour began as an act of faith.

For Empire Title

Greaves Meets Tiger

EDMONTON (CP) — Willie Greaves of Edmonton and Dick Tiger of Nigeria want no mix-up in their 15-round bout tonight for the British Empire middleweight boxing championship.

Greaves, a former empire amateur lightheker who fought out of Detroit, was declared the winner of their previous meeting in June but only after a recheck.

The June fight was declared a draw originally and the Nigerian-old Tiger, who fights out of New York, was advertised as retaining the championship he held.

But an hour later the Edmonton boxing commission announced a recheck of referee John Smith's scorecard had changed one figure and gave 25-year-old Greaves the victory and title.

BALL CHECK CLOSELY

This time, to avoid a similar error, the commission has ordered that the cards of the referee and the two judges be collected at the end of each round.

Grey Cup Aftermath

Police Defend Action

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police films taken at the Grey Cup Saturday showed most of the spectators had moved off the Empire Stadium field by the time the gun was fired to end the game at seconds early.

Officials and reporters who viewed the film Tuesday agreed that the way the crowd was moving it could have been cleared off the playing area in a short time.

Police Chief George Archer issued a statement defending the action of his police at the game between Ottawa and Edmonton, won by the East 16-6.

A police commission spokesman, Commissioner D. M. Carle said in another statement: "We believe the spectators and [illegible] considered remarks of (football commissioner Sydney) Halter."

The game was ended 41 seconds early on orders from Halter because of the crush on the field. Ottawa had possession on the Edmonton 1-yard line. Halter later said police behaved like wooden statues.

POLICE TOOK FILM

The film taken by police and shown to a committee of police commissioners and the Provincial Exhibition officials and reporters showed police officials swarming onto the field after a youth ran out and stole the ball. It showed police officials interferring with referees and other policemen attempting to clear back to the end zone.

Chief Archer said Inspector Bud Gray officers at the officers charge, "was confident that the movements of the spectators, back beyond the touchline, could be completed without violence."

Chief Archer criticized the track seating arrangements.

"The policing of the football field, in the sense that it refers to—prevention of the invasion of spectators, was rendered impossible by the additional temporary seating without compensating fencing."

He said seats for 4,000 persons were erected almost on the field and were put there without consultation with the police department as to the security risk involved.

Police dogs had not been used because officers felt it would have "precipitated an exceedingly dangerous situation."

Beavers Slap Royals 4-2

MONTREAL (CP) — Dave Balon and Mel Pearson scored two goals each Tuesday night to give Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers a 4-2 win over Montreal Royals and keep the club in third place in Eastern Professional Hockey League standings.

Walter Bradley and Lulu Denis scored for Royals, mired in the cellar with only 16 points.

Balon, 28-goal centre for the defending Twin-Siiteres Lions last season bagged both his goals in the first period while winger Pearson scored in the first and third stanzas.

Both Montreal goals came in the second period.

Royals' goalie Claude Provonost had to leave the ice a ten minute mark of the third period suffering from dizziness after being struck on the head earlier by a hockey stick. Charlie Hodge replaced him.

Pearson's second goal came at 11:40 of the third period with Joe Szura off for tripping and Hodge withdrawn in favor of an extra forward.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"I only know what I read in the papers," said the man, "but it seems to me that Melville McFarlande might have the unique honor of being the last Canadian team to win a world hockey championship."

Came the hillbilly quiz, "How come?"

"As of now," the man said, "it seems the Russians are making more or less monkeys out of the Chatham Maroons, our Allan Cup winners, and as such, supposed to be the best amateur club in Canada last year."

"They defeat a Moscow pick-up team 5-3, then go out and get themselves clobbered 11-3 by a bevy of Red Janiors and follow it up by bowing to a bunch of Soviet veterans 3-1."

"I dunno," he muttered, "mebbe they had trouble leaving their launching pads after a night out in Moscow, but then, if memory is correct, the Maroons were an in-and-out club when they played the Rouyn-Noranda club for the Eastern Canada title a year ago. They were behind aplenty and had to make a three-game comeback to cop the glory."

"So?"

"It seems to me," said the man, "the Ruskys invited the Canadian club on this all-expense paid tour, not so much to find out how good the Canadians are, but to ascertain the best material they have kicking around so they can form the Russian national team for the upcoming world tournament."

"Go on."

"They probably will select the players who show up best in the Canadian style of play. They haven't forgotten their defeats at Prague and Squaw Valley," the man said.

"But they will not be playing the Chatham Maroons in the world tournament," he was reminded.

"Spoken like a thinking man. What kind of cigarets do you smoke?"

He went on. "The Trail Smoke Eaters will represent Canada in Switzerland in the world tourney. The Smoke Eaters, you recall, were beaten in four straight games by this same team of Maroons.

"In my mind," he said a little grimly, "I believe the Smoke Eaters will be the last team to represent Canada in world tournaments."

"Now, please . . ."

"Just a moment," the man said. "I mean senior clubs as we know them. I believe senior hockey will be deader than a dodo bird in Canada next year. All signs point to it. There's a little life there out. Western Ontario clubs have stomach trouble and out west the leagues have one foot in the grave and the other on a piece of ice."

"The Smoke Eaters will do their best, but I don't think it will be good enough to cop world honors," the man said. "After the Olympics farce of last year when the Kitchener Dutchmen were kicked around player-wise like a second hand football, the CAHA decided to send a league team, and not an all-star aggregation. The only redeeming feature of it is the CAHA is paying the shot and kicking in with $9,000 expense money. So the taxpayers have nothing to worry about."

"Other world tournament teams tried to get financial help from the CAHA and the government, but no soap. Now, after the CAHA came through with expenses and spending money for the boys, another mighty squawk comes out of the west," the man said.

"For instance?"

"The Vernon Canadians are bleating at the CAHA for sponsorship, overseas trips while affiliated members of the organizations are suffering financial troubles at home."

Their coach, Odie Lowe, says: "We're sending our best (?) teams over there to teach them hockey and it's costing us money. Now our touring team is being clobbered by one-sided scores and we're paying for the humiliation."

"He wants the CAHA to spend the $40,000 received annually from the National Hockey League to stimulate and promote hockey here."

"Meanwhile," he said, "the Vernon team could hold before Christmas."

The man made ready to go.

"One more thing," he said, pointing a finger, "you will live to see the day when hockey in Canada is controlled entirely by the professional interests. And that goes for the minor hockey outfits you think so much of. The pros are starting to move in that direction already. Think it over, bub.

"Finest Team In Canada"

By STUART LAKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Led by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Ottawa's football fans put the finishing touch to their welcome home to the Grey Cup champions with a civic dinner Tuesday night.

Some 2,600 of them flocked to the Coliseum to hear Mr. Diefenbaker, civic officials and the football club's executive praise Ottawa Rough Riders "as the finest team in Canada."

Seats at the banquet were originally planned at 1,500. But when tickets were sold out on the first day, another 1,000 were issued. To find room, the additional 1,000 fans were led to the coliseum annex and they joined in the main banquet spoon for the program.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the town brought honor to the city and praised Dominion Eskimos for their sportsmanship which, he said, was typical of the great spirit which surrounded the annual game.

HAS UNITED CANADIANS

"The Grey Cup game, in my life, has done more to unite Canadians than any other event," the prime minister declared.

"This is one time when I can speak for all Parliament," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

Opposition Leader Pearson and Mrs. Pearson, CCF Leader Argue and Mrs. Argue also attended.

Coach Frank Clair, who received a standing ovation, named Riders as "the finest team we have ever coached."

The players were showered with gifts. From the city they received gold watches, the civic crest awarded only to national champions and cuff links inscribed with the civic crest. From the football club they received $100 bonds, a ring and a team picture.

VAUGHAN GOT BALL

Team president Harry O'Brien presented co - captain Kaye Vaughan with the football he fell on in the last play of the Grey Cup game giving Riders the insurance points against Eskimos.

Vaughan confessed "there were tears in my eyes for four blocks" during the welcome home staged by fans Monday night.

Among telegrams read were those from Edmonton Eskimos' general manager Joe Ryan and from Anne Heggtveit who got the red carpet treatment herself from the city after winning her Olympic gold medal in skiing.

Not forgotten was Marion Daley, Miss Ottawa Rough Rider who received a sweater set from a Toronto admirer.

The Riders' last appearance as a team before breaking up will be made today when they attend a club banquet at a restaurant owned by Bob Simpson.

Flyers Win Over Teepees By 6-3 Score

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Niagara Falls Flyers scored four goals in the first 14 minutes of the third period here Tuesday night to break up a tight Ontario Hockey Association junior A game and defeat St. Catharines Teepees 6-3.

The victory moved Flyers into second place in the seven-team standing, just one point behind Toronto St. Michael's. Teepees remain in a fourth place tie with Peterborough.

Howard Kellough of the Teepees and Bill Kaliba of Niagara Falls scored in the first period and the teams finished the second deadlocked 2-2 after goals by rookie Dennis Hull, 18 of the Flyers, and defenceman Bob Awrey of the Falls.

Wilf St. Catharines defenceman Larry Brown serving two minutes for holding, Ron Hegyott gave the Flyers their third lead at the game.

Three minutes later Howie Dritch slapped around Burns for the fourth Falls goal and Awrey and Marcel Pelletier jumped in two more within less than two minutes of each other to make victory certain.

Murray Hall, leading scorer with the Teepees this season, completed the scoring with only 51 seconds of playing time remaining.

Referee Jack Clancy called nine minor penalties, five of them on St. Catharines.

Der Maxie Says Ingie Npt Serious

TORONTO (CP)—Max Schmeling, Germany's former world heavyweight boxing champion, says Ingemar Johansson of Sweden could be the greatest heavyweight champion in history if he took the sport seriously.

Schmeling, 55, here for a television appearance, said in an interview Tuesday that Johansson was in perfect condition when he knocked out Floyd Patterson to their first fight in the second bout, in which Johansson was knocked out, he didn't train hard enough.

Trio Puts Zoom In Soaring Hawks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicago Black Hawks have twice as many points as they had at this stage last season in the National Hockey League race.

And their celebrated trio of Bobby Hull, Murray Balfour and Bill Hay have almost twice as many scoring points.

The Hawks were flounderinguntil Hull, Balfour and Hay were put together as a forward unit last December. The Hawks have never been in serious trouble since.

Tonight, the Hawks attempt to close in on the league leaders when they play host to last-place Boston Bruins in the league's only game.

The Hawks are currently three points out of first place—two behind Montreal Canadiens and three shy of first-place Detroit Red Wings.

Last season the Hawks could get only 13 points in their first 23 games and they were 10 points out of fourth place. This season they have 26 points in 23 games and have been close to first place all the way.

Hull, 21, is running slightly ahead of the pace he set last season when he won the scoring championship.

He had 24 points—21 goals and 13 assists—after 23 games. This season he has 26 points on 11 goals and 13 assists.

Hay had seven points and Balfour five after 23 games. This season, Hay has 22 and Balfour 21—including 10 goals.

The 26 points the three have collected represents the best effort turned in by a single forward line this season.

Canadiens will be at home against Toronto Maple Leafs in one of two games on Thursday night. Boston will hop from Chicago to Detroit to play the Red Wings in the other game.

Riders, Cats, Argos

Who Gets Ronnie Stewart?

TORONTO (CP)—Ron Stewart, most valuable Big Four Football player last year with Ottawa Rough Riders, could be lost to Ottawa's coach Frank Clair today if studies will require him to attend school in Toronto next year.

Playing for Ottawa would seem impossible."

This would mean either Toronto Argonauts or Hamilton Tiger-Cats would be logical choices if he is to continue in the game.

Earlier this year Rough Rider general manager George Trimble said the team would consider trading Stewart to Toronto rather than keep him out of football.

"I'll be glad to trade him—for Dick Shatio or Cookie Gilchrist," coach Frank Clair said at the time.

Stewart said he might have to consider giving up the game for a year, but doesn't want to because "I've reached the position where I'm able to earn some good football salary. . . ."

He was awarded the award, a new sports car, by 46 football writers and sportscasters who were asked to name three outstanding players in order of preference.

Points were awarded on a three-two-one basis, and Stewart won with 81 points. Russ Jackson, Rough Rider quarterback, was second with 41 points and Jim Letavicis of Edmonton Eskimos third with 25.

Stewart was the second leading Grey Cup ground-gainer with 103 yards in 18 carries.

League Wants Franchise From Dodgers

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The International League moved Tuesday to reclaim the Montreal baseball franchise from Los Angeles Dodgers.

League secretary Harry Simmons said the league voted to serve notice on Los Angeles that it is reclaiming the franchise. The reversion will become official 10 days after the official notice is served.

Several cities have been mentioned as possibilities to assume the franchise. Among them is Syracuse, which plans to send a representative to talk with league officials today.

The reversion of the franchise came, Simmons said, after Los Angeles failed to file a letter of intent to remain in Montreal in the class AAA league.

Earlier Tuesday, Simmons said all possible efforts would be made to keep the league franchise in Montreal. He said both he and retiring league president Frank Shaughnessy would work to keep it there.

Montreal's predicament arose when the parent club Dodgers, formerly of Brooklyn, moved to the West Coast and wanted to find a location for a farm club closer to their new home.

The Dodgers tried last Sunday to transfer the franchise to a group headed by Loren Cassina but the proposal was rejected.

The International League expects to name a man to succeed Shaughnessy today.

A three-man committee was to report today on its efforts to screen candidates for president.

Sugar Says He Can Regain Title

GILMAN, Calif. (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson stretched back on the bed of a bungalow at his training camp and seemed perfectly relaxed.

"I am a personified ham. I believe I can whip Fullmer."

Robinson was talking in an interview about Gene Fullmer, of West Jordan, Utah., who holds the National Boxing Association's version of the world middleweight title and their 15-round championship fight Saturday night at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

At 39 New York's Sugar Man is tired of the training routine. He has been fighting for more than 20 years. But he says he has personal pride and he believes he "can regain the 160-pound division crown for the sixth time.

Will he retire if he wins?

"I'll have a return match contract with Fullmer and then I'd like to fix things with Mr. (Paul) Pender."

Pender is recognized in New York and Massachusetts as champion. He beat Robinson twice this year by decisions.

"It takes two guys to make a fight," Robinson said. "And Fender keeps running."

Antonelli Trade Bait For Giants

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—San Francisco Giants, thwarted in efforts to trade Johnny Antonelli, their one-time pitching ace, to New York Yankees for catcher Johnny Blanchard, appear to be close to a deal that would send the veteran lefthander, to Cleveland Indians for infielder Johnny Temple and pitcher Dick Stigman.

Holding up the deal, which would be the first made at the annual baseball meetings, is Cleveland general manager Frank Lane, widening the scope of the transaction to include Giant outfielder Willie Kirkland or Felipe Alou and Indian outfielder Tito Francona.

Lane acknowledged Tuesday that these names were discussed but declined to reveal the exact nature of the deal. Nor would he say how close the two teams and Indians for infielder Johnny were to clinching a deal.

The five-club northern group will start their league schedule on Thursday, December 29. All clubs will engage in group playoffs at the completion of schedule play on Feb. 5. The winner will go on in OMHA Juvenile playdowns.

Convener Patterson announces that group schedules for district bantam and midget teams will be drawn up at a meeting set for Stirling Legion Hall, December 7, at eight o'clock.

Brass Tries to Break

Major Baseball Leagues Deadlock

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball's top brass went into an extraordinary council today to turn chaos into order.

Baseball commissioner Ford Frick met National League president Warren Giles and American League president Joe Cronin in an attempt to iron some sort of solution to the bitter inter-league feud over ways and means of adding new franchises.

Whatever the decision, Frick indicated there would be no announcement because, of necessity, Giles and Cronin must report back to their leagues before any full-scale agreement can be reached.

The main problem taken up at the session was:

How to arrive at a permanent plan to add new franchises, a plan that will permit the two leagues to work together and avoid placing them in the embarrassing situation they now find themselves.

NEAR AN ACCORD

It is a big problem, but Frick said before he entered the meeting he thought it could be done. "I think we are near accord on a package we can take back to the major league meetings (next week) that will be the result of procedure not only for 1961 and 1962, but for years to come."

The American League want to operate with nine teams and play an interlocking schedule with the National League. The National has given the idea a cool reception.

Failing that, the American wants to expand to 10 teams next season, with new franchises in Washington and Los Angeles and the old Washington Senators moving to Minneapolis-St. Paul.

WON'T BUY IT

The National League won't buy this because Walter O'Malley, owner of the National's Los Angeles Dodgers, doesn't want another team in his area next season. Since the rules state that Washington approval is required for one league to move into territory already occupied by the other, this idea also appeared doomed.

If the two leagues can't agree, Frick has said he will break the deadlock by casting his deciding vote for an amendment to the rule requiring unanimous consent that is "fair and equitable."

Lowe said, "If we're going to send clubs overseas, let the host authorities pick up the tab. Or give our national game a much-needed shot in the arm."

Juckes said CAHA policy was not to accept any tour invitations unless European countries could provide finances for team travel and other expenses as well as a surplus to allow Canadian teams to square money.

He said, "Canadian teams apply for such tours, and if accepted, they are advised what expense allowances are and are urged not to spend other expenses which will burden the team or the community from which it comes."

Won't Place Major Club In Houston

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Commissioner Ford Frick and National League president Warren Giles reacted coolly Tuesday to rumors that the American League is toying with the idea of attempting to put a team in Houston next season.

The reports have been circulating here during the minor league confession that the American League might attempt to invade the territory earmarked now for a National League franchise in 1962. American League sources here refused to comment on the report.

Giles said "the American League has no more right to go into Houston than the National League has to locate or any other American League city. . . Houston and New York are members of the National League even though they won't operate clubs until 1962."

Frick said: "Any effort by the American League to go into the Houston territory would . . . be a complete abrogation of all agreements and understanding in connection with the 'expansion program.'"

HIRED BY REDS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Jim Turner, former pitching coach of the New York Yankees, was hired in a similar capacity by Cincinnati Reds Tuesday. Turner succeeds Ellis (Cot) Deal, who Monday was named manager of the Indianapolis Club in the American Association. Turner, field manager and general manager of the Nashville club in the Southern Association this year, was pitching coach of the Yankees from 1949 to 1959.

Wants 1968 Olympics for B.C. Mainland

OTTAWA (CP) — A pitch for the 1968 winter Olympics on the lower British Columbia mainland was launched with Canadian Tourist Association.

But in making his play, he rang a bell with John Fisher, executive director of the Canadian Tourist Association.

Mr. Taylor mentioned that thousands desert the B.C. lower mainland to enjoy winter sports in United States resorts. Development of a winter sports site in his area of B.C. could reverse this trend, he argued.

INTERESTED BY EXODUS

Mr. Fisher visibly perked up his ears at talks of a Canadian "exodus" to the U.S. Wasn't it partly due, he asked Mr. Taylor, to shopping hours, liquor laws and "blue" laws?

"Yes," agreed Mr. Taylor.

Mr. Fisher said the exodus was apparent right across the country and Americans catered to it by advertising like shopping in Canadian newspapers, by staying open seven days in cities near the border, declaring holidays from parking fines for Canadian visitors and even offering free drinks to anyone who could prove himself a Canadian.

"Many American cities would go broke without this traffic," he said, urging that tourist operators ally themselves with the Retail Merchants Association for a "full - fledged attack" on this problem.

'This Ain't The Way We Heered It'

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP)—Conn Juckes of Melville, Sask., Tuesday fired back at allegations by Vernon Canadian coach Odie Lowe of the Okanagan Senior Hockey League that the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association should start subsidizing Canadian leagues rather than pay for overseas tours of Canadian teams.

Juckes, secretary-manager of the CAHA, said, "although hockey officials will sympathize with any present financial difficulties being experienced by Lowe's Vernon Canadians, he would have been less inaccurate if he had first discussed the matter with B.C. officials of the CAHA."

Lowe said, "If we're going to send clubs overseas, let the host authorities pick up the tab. Or give our national game a much-needed shot in the arm."

Juckes said CAHA policy was not to accept any tour invitations unless European countries could provide finances for team travel and other expenses as well as a surplus to allow Canadian teams to square money.

He said, "Canadian teams apply for such tours, and if accepted, they are advised what expense allowances are and are urged not to spend other expenses which will burden the team or the community from which it comes."

Will Test New Ice Skate

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — A new ice skate that could speed up hockey and make figure skating easier may soon be produced in Canada.

Developer Vaillancourt (Mouk) Vaillancourt of Sault Ste. Marie said Monday a skate manufacturer in Toronto (CCM) has agreed to test and build a production run if problems on his "tube-skate."

The company has also arranged to have National Hockey League players test the skates, probably next season.

Vaillancourt, a steel company employee who never played more than "casual hockey," designed his skate on the premise that a skate blade glided on a thin film of water created by the friction of its passage over the ice. The slicker the film, the easier the glide.

The tube-skate rides on its own film of soluble oil and water. The lubricant is contained in a plastic capsule inserted in an aperture in the toe.

STUGGERTS PLAYER TRIAL

NHL president Clarence Campbell suggested in Montreal Monday that six sets of skates, perfectly matched in weight and size, be offered for the trial to one player on each NHL team. The players would test them and report on advantages and disadvantages.

Toronto Maple Leafs tried the skate during a practice for last year's Stanley Cup playoffs, but turned it down because it was too fast and upset team timing.

Veteran winger Bert Olmstead wore the oiled blades and was impressed. The trouble was that he went too fast—passes from his teammates fell behind him where he would have been at normal speed.

Don Grosso, former NHL coo player with Detroit, Boston and Chicago, also gave the blade a whirl. He was enthusiastic.

MAKE HOCKEY FASTER

"They'll make for faster and livelier hockey," he said. "On the ice for a few strokes, then coast and concentrate on dipsy - doodling," he said.

Vaillancourt took the invention to the NHL rules committee, but full details didn't secure in time and the meeting was held little more than the shaded had been invested.

"It's fewer anything that can improve the equipment of players," said Campbell. "I have no doubt that the rules committee will be glad to give consideration to this piece of equipment when there is an opportunity to do so."

Vaillancourt said an early start in production may come through a clip-on version of the invention for use on figure skates, or any variety other than the tube type used in hockey.

Validictory Address Given At High School Commencement

The following valedictory address was delivered at the recent Rawdon-Stirling District High School Commencement by Miss Mildren Morton, winner of grade 13 Alger Shield; the Stirling-Rawdon Scholarship; the School Scholarship of $30; the Ontario Scholarship of $400; the King George High School Scholarship of $300; the Bursary Scholarship of $250; and $100 given by the Ontario Women's Institute to the student who has taken the Honour Course at Macdonald Institute, Guelph.

Miss Morton was also presented with a beautiful painting by Her Honour Judge in appreciation of her high scholastic standing.

"Mr. Good, members of the staff, ladies and gentlemen—time is inexorable, but there is no particularly obvious to us tonight. Graduation has always been an event of the future, a distant goal for which we have striven and toiled. Now, this moment encounter, we have been presented with a token which certifies the achievement of our goal. Rightly we should feel a complishment, however, is mingled with pathos when we realize that this is probably the last occasion when we will all be together. This time has come to say farewell.

"At such a moment, we should consider the developments of the past five years and determine what Stirling High School has meant to us.

"Imagine the process of education to be likened to the growth and maturation of a tree. When entering high school we were mere saplings-independent in many ways, but not prepared to endure the severe tests of life. Our roots were still shallow and immature, and we had not yet fully realized what we were doing here. The school was to be our gain by being there; hence, our foundation for future life was shaky.

"During the past five years, we have been receiving nourishment physically; Stirling High School has played an important role in our development. The diploma which we received tonight is concrete evidence of our academic knowledge. This subject matter may be likened to the trunk of the tree from the sapling.

NOT ALL BOOK LEARNING

"However, if we are to live full and complete lives, we must learn many things not found in books. These may be the branches of the tree. Extra-curricular activities give us the opportunity to explore our potentialities, develop our talents, and acquire such qualities as co-operation, leadership, independence and responsibility. The opportunities we had during our five years at high school were many, but those which are more valuable are numerous and worthwhile. The band, the choir, the dramatic productions, the field days, the school library and the variety show-all of these we have participated in, forming part of school life in Stirling. We hope that the future graduating classes will have similar opportunities as much as we have.

"Extra - curricular activities should not be thought of as luxuries; the modern generation's brain-worker may exhaust and overbalance his mind by excess study as is the case when we strain his muscles and break his back by attempting to exceed his physical strength. We should remember, however, that the branches of the tree are supported by the trunk and do it well.

SET A GOAL

"In any environment, conditions will be found unsatisfactory. One of the best ways to improve them is by setting a goal and working daily for achievement. The goal we adopt helps us to evaluate our opportunities on a long-term basis and provides incentive for action. We have learned that we have therefore the responsibility to ourselves, to our parents, to our fellow students and to our teachers from those things for which we had to work: there is nothing really worth having that can be had without work.

"Miss Teets, the topic of the most laborious of men, once wrote a letter to his son. No man can be depitied, whether by accident or misfortune, who has a love for books; studies; and the liberal and exalted acquisitions of knowledge, which he makes, are all for his own use. The value of our formal education will vary directly as the work and effort we put into it.

TIME — COMMON TO ALL

"During the winter months, the time that we, as pupils, had but we, as students, have had every day of every year to study and use it! Can we now often did we find ourselves rushing to complete assignments or wishing that we had realized how little time there was to prepare for an examination Our high school education has made us aware of the value of each minute. Time is the only commodity which we all have to be spent, but not to be regained except through the memory and through the material residues of its use.

"For those who have influenced us greatly our developments we shall ever be grateful.

"Our teachers guided and directed us through a difficult period in our lives; they encouraged our interest in many academic fields and tried to train us to think and reason and understand. I can recall several occasions when we frustrated them. They deserve to be rewarded for their tolerance, their patience and their perseverance. We would be impossible to estimate extent of their influence which they have had on us already and no doubt their influence will continue to be manifested in the years to come.

PARENTAL UNDERSTANDING

"One of the greatest assets a student can have is parents who take a sincere interest in his education. We thank them for their understanding and for making it possible for us to continue our education.

"Friends, teachers, friends, and all things of which we have spoken have a close relationship to the formation of certain basic principles of life. In the past few pages these may be called a trunk, which is the main part of the roots of the tree; they will act as stabilizers in our lives.

"Commencement has given us a chance to reminisce to perceive the opportunities which we have had and to evaluate ourselves as we are now. As late Dr. Sydney Smith, former president of the University of Toronto, once said about the waste of human resources, stating that "Life is more than learning, but living without the love of learning is no life." At high school we became acutely aware that the sum of things to be learned is boundless and that the whole of life is a process of learning. Stirling High School has offered us a firm foundation, upon which we should be leaving it as individuals having the equipment to lead successful, useful and responsible lives.

SCHOOL MEMORIES

"Five months ago, our high school days came to an end. Now we are about to graduate from our education in other schools. Wherever we go and whatever we may be, we will always have the memories of our years spent at Stirling High School, of our friends, our teachers and our experiences. For everything, we shall cherish 'you' and to our school we say, 'Farewell'."

DESERONTO

Only Election For Council In Deseronto

DESERONTO — Nomination night in Deseronto on Friday, November 25, was one of the liveliest that has been held in many years. While there was a full slate of nominees, it was evident that those of the present council have been concerned about the town government had given the matter little or no thought. It appeared that those present nominated simply to fill eight seats they thought could qualify. Of course any of last year's councillors may run for board and civic positions. However, at the close of the nominations it was apparent that the only contests for any, would be for council.

Nominated for mayor were the present incumbent, H. Sweetnam, G. Lott, Dr. D. C. McKenzie and Mrs. Ethel M. Spence. For reeve, C. Metcalfe and Alfred. For council, H. Howard, H. Alford, G. Lott, J. Cochrane, Thos. Hall, A. Marks, F. Topping, R. MacDonald, P. Knight, H. Trannae, Mrs. Ethel M. Spence, J. Walker, J. Neal, J. Spence, P. Brooks and Mrs. Ethel Walker, J. Weseman and P. Knight. For school board, G. Gill, John Hall, D. Armitage, Mrs. Thelman and J. Spence.

The present addresses to the public, Mayor Sweetnam stated that he intended to qualify, as did Reeve Metcalfe. Councillors Cochrane, Howard and Delzer stated they would again qualify. J. Spence said that of his fourteen years in Deseronto he had served 12 years in public office and felt that some of the other persons had responsibilities for which they should do their share. He felt that more interests should take cognizance of their respective abilities.

H. Alford, who had previously served as reeve, said that he would be pleased to serve the council and Albert Marks, who had served on the council previous to 1956, said that he felt that a study of municipal affairs and that he was well qualified for the position.

At the request of the meeting Alford for a few words from the members of the school board it was found that all members had quietly vacated the town hall. Mrs. Spence, the new fair representative of the public utilities and he gave a report of the public utilities from January to October 31st. Mrs. Spence's report was as follows:

For mayor—H. Sweetnam.
Reeve—C. Metcalfe.

Council—G. Lott, R. Howard, A. Cockerham, M. Delzer, J. Neal, J. Cochrane, and Albert Marks, Ron Marks and H. Alford.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Thursday, December 1, 1960

Gemgral Tendencies: The very early morning finds a smile can replace any sort of opposition with a complete and new well being. Make sure that you also organize the day early. Then through tonight all sorts of unexpected and surprising events and conditions to annoy you arise but self-control and yet understanding attitude pay you big dividends.

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—By being very charming, you can handle all practical affairs most satisfactory now. However, be sure you do not jeopardize what you have gained by extravagant expenditures. Acquire the habit of economy and learn to save. Grow!

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—A letter from a distance may bring surcease from sorrow in a.m. however, later you are in need to make radical changes or be very harsh with others which would be most foolhardy. Exercise that innate calmness, be yourself.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—Look to that very practical person for the ideas you need just at this particular time. Later, do not gamble on anything important simply because you feel frustrated . . . one way. P.M. assist the needy. Be upright and ethical.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — A good associate is your best bet for the assistance you need in a.m., while close comrades are very likely to be too preoccupied to bother with your troubles. Learn to be more independent in the future. Work.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21)—You can make use of some of that fear and worry by getting busy and putting your minds in for more attractive order. This will also keep you from getting into any misunderstanding with the set-ups. See that your credit is unsnarled!

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Some rather strange happenings may occur today, but you will get the appreciation of a good friend and this will be very helpful. Later, steer clear of that overly dynamic individual with little character or you get in trouble.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Look to close family ties for assistance you require in a.m. The remainder of the day is fine for politely listening to the ideas and advice of others, though it may be somewhat annoying.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—A morning communication will be very helpful, but later in the day you may get into quite a hassle with associate who does not agree with your ideas. Be sure you exercise great diplomacy, or you lose out.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Analyze your financial position and plan a more sensible budget. Later, use utmost caution in what ever you do so that you have no damage or spoilage. Also, any haste could bring misunderstanding with co-worker, too.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Follow your own inclinations in a.m., and by being cheerful with others, all will be fine, misunderstandings can be cleared up. Later, be very thoughtful with loved one and strive for economy that will make the future easier.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Think before you talk or act with one close to you or you can have a most unhappy argument over practical affairs and you could lose much. P.M. Strive for more harmonious relationship in the future. Retire early.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—A kind friend is most helpful during A.M. The latter part of the day and evening require that you do not lose your temper with others or there can be some most unfortunate disturbances and separations can occur.

If your child is born today . . . he, or she, will be one of those overly-dynamic individuals who thinks that fighting for whatever is wanted is the only way to get it. Disciplines early and teach how to be gentle and kind. Also, give religious training and the opportunity to indulge in sports. Then the chart is excellent for a profession in banking, real estate and the like — or for acting.

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE HELPS BREAK DOWN FATS

IN THE DIGESTIVE TRACT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fats . . . actually breaks them down. It is an established fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fats are broken down and form a smooth, easy-flowing mix.

In your digestive tract, liver bile helps break down fats the same way. Many of the foods you eat reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your gallon of bile helps break down these fats . . . for easier and more complete digestion.

Carter's Little Liver Pills' exclusive formula of vegetable ingredients relieves irregularity gently and effectively. At the same time, it actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fats in your digestive tract.

So when you feel sluggish, headachy, nervous and need a laxative, take Carter's Little Liver Pills.

Remember, Carter's not only relieves irregularity, but actually improves the flow of liver bile. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today!
